PREFACE.

This work is the result of an attempt to discover the exact time of the first settlement of New Jersey by people of the German race. It is believed that this fact has been ascertained with sufficient certainty. Between 1710 and 1713 nearly all palatines, who have left any trace of their presence, began to arrive in the State and to fulfill their important part in the upbuilding of this commonwealth.

In the course of this investigation extending, as it needs must do, in so many directions and having to do with so many records, a large amount of valuable material would naturally accumulate. This has appeared to the author to be worth preserving, even though the labor and expense and risk of so large a book would be required for that purpose.

In tracing the families of the early settlers resort has been had to the records at Newton, Belvidere, Flemington, Somerville and Morristown. Every one of the 62 books of wills at Trenton was examined separately. The church records of Stillwater, German Valley, New Germantown, Lebanon and Mount Pleasant, were carefully compiled. To gather additional data the inscriptions in 31 cemeteries from Newton to Flemington, including those of Lamington, Bedminster and Somerville, were copied. Every county, church and family history procurable was consulted, and on this account the writer feels warranted in saying that the genealogies are as complete and accurate as they can be made.

The families represented in the genealogies are more or less complete according to the circumstances of the case, but all the information has been given with regard to each family that could be found by careful and continued inquiry.

All who have ever attempted genealogical researches will readily understand how impossible it is to ever attain either perfect completeness or perfect accuracy.

The map of Washington township, the author's own handiwork, is believed to be substantially accurate. Of course, as every surveyor knows, hardly any of the early surveys will bear mapping without alterations, such as actual surveys show to be necessary.

The illustrations are in every case the best that could be procured. The work of the Central Bureau of Engraving has been surprisingly excellent. In some cases the photographs, from which the photo-engravings were made, were either very poor when originally taken, or discolored and marred by age.

Mr. E. W. Rush, of Glen Gardner, is the engraver of the following cuts: The churches of New Germantown, Fairmount, Lower Valley, Califon and Mount Olive.

In common with every one who undertakes to investigate the history of Morris county, the writer owes more than he can adequately express to the two gentlemen of Morristown who have been frequently associated in the preparation and publication of valuable historical records. Of course I refer to the Hon. E. D. Halsey and Mr. William Ogden Wheeler, of Morristown. The very large and most complete collection of material for the history not only of the county but also of the State, which they have so kindly placed at the author's command, has been of the very greatest value to the writer.

All who are at all interested in the history of the palatine emigration either into New York or New Jersey, owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Samuel Burhans, of New York City, for rendering accessible the large number of German church records, especially those belonging to the valleys of the Hudson and Mohawk.

Dr. Henry Race, of Pittstown, N. J., has most kindly granted the aid of his skill and experience in historical work. Mr. B. Van Doren Fisher, of New York, has enabled the writer to use the results of his invaluable labors, especially in the matter of family genealogies and the copying of archives.

Mr. E. Y. Taylor, of Philadelphia, formerly of German Valley, kindly loaned the field books, maps and other papers of the surveyor, John Rockhill, who lived one hundred and thirty years ago. By the aid of these certain important facts were established, which would otherwise have remained in complete obscurity.

Mr. Augustus Dellicker, of Hackettstown, allowed the use of Caleb Valentine's papers, containing maps and surveys which could be procured no where else. The late Theodore Naughtright and William S. Cary and son, Lewis, have taken the most generous interest in the writer's labors and have given him the full benefit of their extensive experience as surveyors.

Mr. Frank E. Everett, the capable editor of the Dover IRON ERA, from whose office the present work is issued, has given to this book the benefit of his excellent taste and matured judgment.

The delay in publication may be easily explained to those who understand the unexpected difficulties involved in the very nature of genealogical work.

The German edition of the Hallesche Nachrichten, (Allentown, Pa., 1883), is the principal authority for the early history of the Lutheran churches in New Jersey.

To the Presbyterian congregation, of German Valley, of which the author has the honor to be the pastor, is due unstinted praise for their intelligent co-operation in an undertaking, which, without their help and approval, could not have been prosecuted to a successful issue.

CHAPTER I.

THE CELEBRATION.

THE Centennial Celebration held at German Valley upon October 31st, 1893, was of such peculiar interest and attended with such notable success, that it may well deserve special notice in any history of the events which it was held to commemorate.

The day selected was Reformation Day, the anniversary of the nailing of the theses by Luther upon the church door at Wittenberg.

We quote from the local press the following account of the events of the day and the impression they produced upon those who were present.

The Iron Era, of Dover, had the following :

"The little village of German Valley was alive with life and energy on Tuesday when a representative of the Era arrived there, and the latch strings of every house hung out to those sturdy, intelligent and prosperous descendants of the first Teutons who came to this fertile and beautiful valley nearly two centuries ago, and who had come to celebrate the one hundred and eightieth anniversary of the arrival of the first wanderers from Fatherland. The weather was perfect. It was one of those charming October days that make the month one of the most delightful of the year. The carpeting of the valley was still green, the touch of the frost not having yet turned it to gray, and the hills were bright in their clothing of red and russet and yellow, relieving the cold dead drab of the rocks and stones. The visitors began arriving early and every available tie post in the village was needed for their teams, and the trains brought many more. It was a success. In fact it could hardly be anything else. With the evident care and labor exercised with regard to the music and the selection of speakers, one could be at no loss to explain the great pleasure afforded to the large and intelligent audiences which assembled at both afternoon and evening services.

"It was half-past three when the afternoon proceedings began in the Presbyterian Church. The church was tastefully decorated. In front of the pulpit the altar was banked with chrysanthemums and the red, white and black of the fatherland was draped gracefully over the desk. From the arch of the pulpit recess the national colors were prettily hung, and all around the room groups of the American flag were placed. From the centre of the pulpit arch a floral bell was suspended with the date 1743 in green figures, flanked on either side by the dates 1713 and 1893. Tropical plants lent the beauty of their green luxuriance in contrast to the bright colors of the bunting, and the committee who had charge of the decorations are to be commended for their taste.

"It was expected that Hon. Jonathan W. Roberts, President of the Washington Association of New Jersey, would preside, but he was detained by business from being present, and Rev. T. F. Chambers took his place. After an anthem by the choir Rev. V. F. Bolton, of Glen Gardner, invoked the divine blessing. The orator of the afternoon was Rev. E. B. England, of Chester, whose eloquence and ability are so well known to readers of the Era that the announcement that he will deliver an address carries with it a desire to hear him. His theme was "Christopher Columbus, the First Emigrant," and he spoke with his usual grace of oratory and charm of rhetoric. "The Obligations of Protestantism to Martin Luther," was the subject of a well written paper by Rev. Dr. Theo. F. White, of Summit, Chairman of the Committee on History of the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, and the ripe scholarship of the distinguished divine was shown in the preparation of this paper. An address on "Our German Forefathers" by Rev. Talbot W. Chambers,

D. D., LL. D., ended the literary part of the afternoon proceedings. It was one of those charming little talks that "come like the benediction that follows after prayer." Dr. Chambers is a man of profound learning, and yet has the happy faculty of getting in touch with his hearers. There is nothing of the pedant about him, and the simplicity of his address was as charming as its matter was interesting.

"In the evening the proceedings were in the Lutheran Church and opened with an anthem by the choir. The decorations were very neat and appropriate. The church itself is a model of neatness and its pure white wall sets off very effectively the simplest decorations. It was a happy idea to present a Bible chained to a table as a forcible suggestion of the vast changes in religious opportunity which have taken place since ancient days. It would have been a great mistake to omit from the proceedings some account of the interesting community who once formed a most unique settlement at Hope, Warren County. Dr. Race's paper upon Greenland in New Jersey, or the Moravians, was carefully prepared and most complete and reliable. This is true of all the work of this gentleman, whose kindness in so ably representing the Historical Societies of the State and Hunterdon County, was fully appreciated.

"The Rev. Dr. Hiller, professor of theology at Hartwick Seminary, in New York State, gave an extended account of the Lutheran Church in New Jersey in its threefold character, as constituted of Swedes in South Jersey, Low Dutch in Bergen County and High Dutch or Germans in Western New Jersey. His address was delivered in a forcible and lively manner and was interspersed with amusing anecdotes and interesting incidents.

"Rev. William E. Davis spoke briefly but to the point, and in a very happy way presented the relations of the Germans to the Reformed Dutch Church, to which he himself belonged.

"The last subject of a program remarkable for its completeness, was the German Reformed Church which was to be presented by Rev. T. F. Chambers. He excused himself from entering upon his theme at so late an hour.

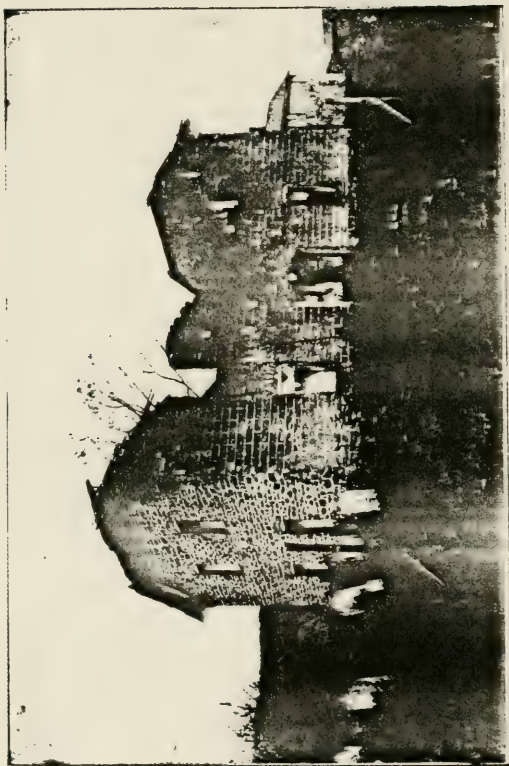

"The whole proceedings were worthy of the occasion and add new laurels to the well-earned reputation for historic zeal of Morris County. The careful preparations for the complete presentation of the history of the German part of our population demonstrate a high degree of intelligence on the part of the village of German Valley.

"The Secretary of the Committee and the Committee, under whose authority he acted, and by whom he was so heartily supported, the speakers, whose careful preparation and unquestioned ability were so fully displayed; the ladies of the decoration committee, whose refinement of taste was to be seen on all sides, and the inhabitants in general, whose cordial hospitality was enjoyed by the visitors, may all alike rejoice in the success of an occasion which will mark an era in the history of the village.

"It was a very gratifying feature of the occasion to find the two churches of the village co-operating apparently without the slightest hitch or jar in the services of the day. We were informed that the expenses of the occasion were met by private subscription and one could not but wonder how so large and representative a celebration could be conceived and successfully carried out by a rural village with limited facilities for travel and for entertainment. The Washington Association of New Jersey are a most respectable body to whom the whole county are deeply indebted for their patriotic work with reference to the admirably arranged Headquarters at our county town, but we venture to affirm that they honored themselves not less than the people of German Valley, by being so well represented upon this occasion.

"We only voice the sentiment of every visitor, when we say that for once at least one of the smallest of our country villages has "set the pace" in celebrations for the rest of the county. The tasteful decorations of the Stephens Steam Heater Company and of the store of Lyman Kice are worthy of special notice. The colored lights on Mr. Naughtright's residence produced a very pretty effect at night. We noticed the presence of the Hon. H. O. Marsh, President of the National Iron Bank, of Morristown, of the Rev. Wynant Vanderpool, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Morristown, also of G. G. Kip, Mr.

OLD UNION CHURCH OF GERMAN VALLEY.

Ford, P. H. Hoffman and W. Ogden Wheeler of the same place. Mr. Fred. H. Beach and Mr. Fred. A. Canfield, of Dover, were also present. Rev. William M. Wells and his elder Hiram Fisher, from the United First Church, of Amwell ; Rev. B. V. D. Wyckoff and Mr. Schomp from Readington ; Rev. T. E. Davis, of Bound Brook ; Rev. I. Alstyné Blauvelt, of Roselle ; Rev. J. H. Scofield, of Mt. Olive ; Rev. James R. Gibson, of Califon ; Rev. William Stout, of Flanders, and many others we noticed among the visitors. The special train from Rockaway brought many visitors among whom were Edmund D. Halsey and Rev. Dr. Stoddard."

The Morris County Journal and The Jerseyman both had very flattering notices of the Celebration, and all accounts seemed to agree in pronouncing the occasion one of great interest and a most successful commemoration of truly memorable events.

A most pleasing feature of the occasion was a very beautiful souvenir, containing photo-engravings of some of the former pastors of both churches, and also of the old Union Church, which was erected more than one hundred years ago. It also contained a brief but comprehensive account of the early emigration from Germany into New Jersey and the character of the settlers, who thus added a new element to the already cosmopolitan population of the State.

Invitations had been sent to officers of the Historical Societies, to ministers, editors and many others. These invitations were neatly printed on card board and enclosed in envelopes to match. The names of the committee being found on the reverse side.

A very interesting feature of the celebration was not on the program. This was a most appropriate and welcome address from the Hon. H. W. Miller, President of the Morristown Savings Bank. Mr. Miller was called upon on the opening of the exercises in the afternoon to make some remarks in behalf of the Washington Association of New Jersey, which had sent a delegation of six prominent citizens of Morristown to represent them on this occasion. His address was as follows :

MR. CHAIRMAN, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :

I thank you for the privilege and honor conferred upon me to express for the Washington Association of New Jersey its appreciation of your courtesy in extending to it an invitation to be present to-day at this 180th anniversary of the settlement of New Jersey by the Germans, and the Sesqui-centennial of German Valley.

We, who consider it our high privilege, as well as our sacred duty to guard and preserve the historic records and relics of the war that gave to us our glorious country, a country which is producing to-day the greatest achievements of human industry and thought, enlightening the whole globe and controlling the policies and markets of every nation, we feel that indeed we have a high duty to perform, and are encouraged and aided materially in this duty by the ceremonies so well conceived and carried out by you to-day, for the very creditable purpose you have in view. And what better object can we have to call us together, as we have been on this occasion, than that of preserving the history of those periods of our country's life when she was in her infancy struggling for existence, and when her people were overflowing with patriotic devotion for her welfare.

In coming here to-day we seem to have stepped within the boundaries of an enchanted circle, where, as in the Sargasso Sea, the winds and storms and currents are all quieted by a peaceful influence, and from whence are bred again the powers which give life and progress to the air, and energy to the world. For here in this peaceful valley, just outside of the maelstrom which swept so near its borders in the War of the Revolution, throwing off to it the heartrending and heartstirring fragments and again catching up the zeal and energy of the honest and noble spirits, dwelling in this beautiful valley and throwing them with new-born energy into the battle for liberty, we find still at this day, peacefully dwelling the same families, the same names, with the same honesty, zeal, religion and patriotism, ready to develop the same energy with equal earnestness, as in those trying times of old.

It is with great respect to you, Mr. President, and to the Committee, that I thank you in the name of the Washington Association of New Jersey for your courtesy extended to us, and I regret exceedingly the absence of our distinguished President, not only for his own sake, but because he would express the mind of the Association in far better words than I am able to do.

May I in my own behalf express my heartfelt gratitude for the privilege of addressing you in these few words, unworthy as they are, on this occasion, and on this spot, where my ancestors soon after their arrival in their new country settled and lived, and where my father, so much honored by you, was born, and where he received in his boyhood those teachings of honesty and patriotism, which he never forgot, and which by example and precept he sought to use for the benefit of his fellow countrymen.

CHAPTER II.

OUR GERMAN FOREFATHERS

BY REV. TALBOT W. CHAMBERS, D. D., LL. D.

AUL, the Apostle, in his epistle to the Ephesians, speaking of the work of the Lord Jesus in breaking down the wall of partition between Jews and Gentiles, said it was for the purpose of making "of the twain one new man," better, far better than either was before the reconciliation.

Applying this procedure on a lower scale, many have supposed that a similar result would follow from the mixed population of our own country. The ancient Athenians used with pride to call themselves autochthones, sprung from the soil of Attica and uncontaminated by the intermixture of an alien race. We can make no such boast, nor do we desire to. Our people are descended from a number of nationalities. We count among them English, Scotch and Irish, Hollanders and Walloons, Huguenots of France, and Germans from the Rhine and the Palatinat, together with a few from Scandinavia and from the shores of the Mediterranean. Each of these for a time kept separate, but commerce, trade and alliances of every sort overcame the natural influence of different languages, customs and prejudices until the fusion was made complete by the common trials and triumphs of the war of the Revolution. Hence it has been claimed that in the new world and under the influence of free institutions there has been developed a peculiar type of humanity, blending in itself the better traits of each of the races from which it was derived.

Supposing this to be true it may justly be asserted that among these elements composing the American people, a high place must be assigned that which came from Germany, a country which from the earliest period has maintained a definite and strongly marked character. We are fortunate in having from the pen of the great Roman historian, Tacitus, an account which gives authentic information of the tribes who eighteen centuries ago held the region from the marches of Brandenburg to the Rhine. They were turbulent and adventurous nomads who wandered through the interminable forests, which covered the whole region, and, while their religion was mainly one of fear and their culture very limited, they had some noble instincts, and were distinguished for their respect for woman, their reverence for all family relations, and their love of personal liberty and independence. This last mentioned characteristic made them a marked exception to the general fate of European tribes, in that they never fell a prey to the Roman arms. Northern Italy, Gaul, Switzerland, Spain and Britain were in succession brought under the sway of Rome, but Germany never. The attempt was often made but without success, and shortly before our era Varus, at the head of the flower of the Imperial soldiery, sustained a most disastrous defeat. The loss was so great that it is said the Emperor Augustus tore his hair in anguish and cried out, "Varus, Varus, give me back my legions!" The leader of the Germans in this conflict was Hermann, or, as the Romans called him, Arminius, and his fame is perpetuated by a gigantic statue erected on the battle field near the town of Detmold. Rome made further efforts at subjugation, but success, when attained, was only temporary, and soon it became settled that the Danube was the northern boundary of the Empire. The independence of foreign control thus attained by Germany was retained all through our era, the country being sub-divided into numerous smaller provinces, each having its own ruler. These were not consolidated into a homogeneous empire until the latter part of our own century.

The emigrants who came to America in the last century were mainly from the southern part of Germany, and they settled in different States or Colonies from the Mohawk to the Savannah, the largest single body settling in Eastern and Central Pennsylvania. They brought with them their ancestral traits. Their valor was shown in the war of the Revolution under the lead of such men as Steuben, Herkimer and Muhlenberg. Nor did it fail to appear in the war with Mexico, nor in the longer conflict for the preservation of the Union.

They were distinguished for their industry and thrift, being mainly engaged in agriculture, and sometimes have been undervalued as inferior to other elements of the population. But the homebred virtues by which they were distinguished, their peaceful and law-abiding character, and their orderly conduct made them a constituent part of the nation's strength and security. In intelligence and culture they fell below their neighbors, the Low Dutch or Hollanders, among whom reading and writing were as universally diffused two centuries ago as they are now any where. The reason is plain. The Low countries had the advantage of a large and varied commerce by sea, a rich development of the fine and mechanic arts, and a feudal system greatly modified by circumstances, whereas Germany was devastated by the THIRTY YEARS WAR (1618-1648), terminated only by the Peace of Westphalia. We groaned under the four year's war of the Rebellion, but for more than seven times that period huge armies swept over the plains of Germany, cities were taken by storm (Magdeburg) when every man was slain and every woman outraged, the population was more than decimated, and fertile fields turned into a wilderness. So great was the scourge that it is said that even now after the lapse of centuries its track can be distinctly traced. Inter arma leges [et literae] silent. In the struggle for existence education was neglected. And the German emigrants brought with them only those elements of culture that are inseparably bound up with the Protestant faith. How important these were is shown by the fact that a German Bible was printed in our country forty years before an English Bible was put to press.

As to religion the emigrants usually brought their ministers with them and soon erected their houses of worship. In other cases their wants were supplied through the kind offices of Holland where the classes of Amsterdam was the medium of communication with the Fatherland. Nor were they slow to avail themselves of other means of supplying their needs. I remember seeing in some of the old records of the church [Collegiate Reformed Dutch Church] I serve an account of some Germans living twenty miles north of Philadelphia, who being without a minister and having among them a lay catechist, the son of an organist at Wurms, who could instruct their young and baptize their children, sent to the Dutch of New York an earnest request to give this man orders so that he could serve their necessities. Their request was granted.

Along with religion there went a high tone of morality. The people lacked the enterprize of other communities, but they also lacked the taste for wanton speculation which so often proves an ignis fatuus leading to disaster and ruin. They cultivated contentment with the allotments of Providence. They practiced honesty not only as the best policy but as indispensable to peace of mind. They rendered obedience to the law of the land as a duty they owed to God. Their love of country was both a passion and a principle. And so they lived, a peaceful, orderly, God-fearing people, making slow but sure progress in all that belongs to civic prosperity.

Hence the propriety of recalling what they were and what they did, and the great usefulness of such a celebration as is held to-day; an observance to which the people have responded in such numbers and with such heartiness. There is great advantage as well as propriety in rescuing from oblivion or neglect the character of those from whom we trace our descent. As Lord Macaulay says, "It is a sentiment which belongs to the higher and purer part of human nature and which adds no little to the strength of states. A people which takes no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." But a higher authority than the great English historian, even the Book of Books, has said, "The glory of children are their fathers." Since we have such an ancestry, so patient and virtuous and faithful, let us strive to preserve and perpetuate their memory. Nay more. The services of this day, interesting and appropriate as they have been, will surely be but an empty formality if they do not stimulate alike the old and the young to cherish the recollection of our forefathers and to exemplify the diligence, thrift, integrity, loyalty, valor, domestic virtue and obedience to law which characterized them from first to last. The most of them came to the shores of the new world as refugees from a bitter and remorseless persecution. The Palatines and the Salzburgers stand high on the page of history as confessors of Christ who were driven from country, home and friends because they would not renounce the faith. We in this land of perfect religious liberty have no such trial to endure, and therefore the more should we venerate the brave men, women and children who set such a bright example of holy living and immutable fidelity.

CHAPTER III.

THE MORAVIANS OF NEW JERSEY

BY HENRY RACE, M. D.

MORAVIAN history in its earliest periods is somewhat obscure. It can be traced back to 1457 as one of the religious movements that followed the martyrdom of John Huss by the Council of Constance. They originated in Bohemia, and were at first called Bohemian Brethren. They were pious people who repudiated the practices of the Roman Catholic Church and worshipped God in simple fashion in quiet meetings for prayer and reading of the Scriptures, and called themselves Brethren. They were not communists, but held that the rich should give of their wealth to the poor and that Christians should live as nearly as possible like the apostolic community at Jerusalem. In 1467 they constituted themselves into a church separate from that of the government. They steadily increased, and in the early part of the sixteenth century they included four hundred congregations and a hundred and fifty thousand members in Bohemia and Moravia. The terrible persecutions which followed the unsuccessful attempt at revolution crushed the Protestantism of Bohemia and in 1627 the Evangelical Church had ceased to exist.

A few families in Moravia held religious services in secret and preserved the traditions of their fathers. In 1722 some of them, led by Christian David, left their homes and property to seek a place where they could worship God in freedom. The first company settled, by invitation of Count Zinzendorf, on his estate at Bertholdorp in Saxony. They were soon joined by others and built the town of Hernhut. Refugees came there from the villages and towns of Fulneck, Gersdorf, Gedersdorf, Klotten, Klandorf, Stechwalde, Seitendorf and Zauchtenthal, and were instrumental in the renewal of their organization. Their Episcopate had been continued, and in 1735 David Nitschman was consecrated first Bishop of the Renewed Moravian Church. Zinzendorf, with his wife and family and chaplain came to live among them, and they adopted a code of rules and ordained twelve elders to do pastoral work.

The Moravian Church has no formal creed, but holds that Scripture is the only rule of faith and practice. The Bohemian catechism, written by Bishop Luke, of Prague, in 1521, comprising 76 questions and answers, and entitled "Christian Instruction in the Faith for Little Children," corresponds generally with the fundamental tenets of the Protestant Evangelical denominations.

Their settlements were co-operative, and had for their object the support of their Ministry and Missions. The members mutually contributed their individual labor for the common cause and lived collectively as one family. The surrender of personal or private property was not required as a condition of membership.

It was from Hernhut that the Moravian Church sent out her first Evangelists and religious teachers, into the other States of Germany and the Continent, and into Great Britain and her American Colonies.

In 1735 a Moravian settlement was undertaken at Savannah in Georgia. Five years afterwards it was relinquished and most of its members migrated to Pennsylvania where more successful enterprises were inaugurated. Settlements were made at Bethlehem, Nazareth and Lititz in what, later, became Northampton County. Of these the first named was instituted by Count Zinzendorf who gave the name of Bethlehem to the place, while celebrating the vigils of Christmas Eve in the solitary log dwelling which had been erected. The Bethlehem tract consisted of 500 acres of land situated at the confluence of the Monocacy Creek with the Lehigh. It was bought April 2d, 1741, of William Allen, of Philadelphia, by Henry Antes as agent of the Moravians. It was part of a section which the Delaware Indians called Welagamika, rich soil.

In 1741 a company of immigrants, encouraged by the renowned evangelist, Rev. George Whitefield, and under the superintendence of the Moravian Bishop, Nitschman, set out from Philadelphia and found their way through the intervening forests to the new settlement. Year after year it grew.

Accessions came from the Fetter Lane Society in London, from Germany, Holland and other places on the Continent. The archives at Bethlehem show that in the first fifty years of the settlement 800 Moravians immigrated there from Europe; 614 children were born; 625 persons were buried in the church grounds; 150 white adults and 125 Indians and Negroes were baptized; and 134 persons ordained to the Ministry; namely, 5 Bishops, 27 Priests and 102 Deacons.

The head men of the denomination resided there, men of devoted piety, who had consecrated their lives to the service of their Lord and Saviour, and in obedience to His last command to His disciples they labored as Missionaries in destitute settlements in nearly all the thirteen Colonies, and among the benighted Indians. The expressive device of their Episcopal seal was a Lamb with a Banner.

Many distinguished visitors from different parts of the country were attracted to Bethlehem, some of whom were George Washington, Gen. Horatio Gates, the Marquis de LaFayette and other Generals of the Revolution; John Hancock, Samuel Adams, James Duane, Richard Henry Lee, William Duer, Henry Laurens, Benjamin Harrison, John Adams, Henry Marchant, William Williams and other members of the Continental Congress came and participated in the worship as conducted by Bishop Etwein.

In August, 1742, Count Zinzendorf made a transit through the upper valley of the Delaware, and was followed by Missionaries from Bethlehem. Soon after, the settlers in Walpack and the region drained by the Paulin's Kill in Sussex, now

Warren County, New Jersey, applied to the Moravians for a school and for the Gospel Ministry. A church and parsonage were erected for the use of the Evangelists, on the Broadhead settlement in Walpack and dedicated to the worship of God by Rev. Abraham Reincke in May, 1753. They were burned by the Indians in December, 1755, and the mission was abandoned.

In the more Southern Counties of New Jersey the Society had regular preaching stations at Maurice River, Penn's Neck, Raccoon, Cohansey, Middletown, Trenton, Maidenhead, Crosswicks, Cranberry and Princeton.

In January, 1743, Paul Daniel Bryzelius was ordained to the Ministry by Bishop David Nitschman and sent by Zinzendorf to preach the Gospel to the descendants of the early Swedish settlers at Maurice River, Piles Grove, Narraticon and Penn's Neck. His Ministerial services were not approvingly received by the Swedish Lutherans, who were in the majority, and they closed the doors of their churches against him and compelled his withdrawal.

After the Moravians had established their settlement at Bethlehem, Pa., some of their members passed, occasionally, through New Jersey for the purpose of preaching the Gospel to the Indians of New York and New England. These Missionaries, and Indian converts who accompanied them, were often entertained on these journeys by Samuel Green and his wife Anna Abigail, who lived in a log house where the village of Hope, Warren County, is now situated. The Moravian Ministers, Bruce Shaw, Joseph Powell and others, in passing, preached at their house. They were both baptized at Bethlehem by the Revs. Nathaniel Leidel and John F. Cammerhoff; they also had their children baptized and placed in the Moravian school to be educated.

During the French and Indian War they went to Bethlehem for shelter, and lived for a time at Emaus, near that place. So great was their attachment to the Moravian brethren and so paramount their religious principles, that, in 1768, Mr. Green went to Bethlehem and offered them all the land comprised in the tract on which he lived, for the purpose of establishing a settlement at that place similar to the one at Bethlehem. After consideration the brethren declined this generous offer because of regard for the interests of Mr. Green's children, who in their opinion would be wronged by their acceptance of the land as a gift. They purchased the tract for £1,000 cash, with the full consent of his two sons; Green's house and garden, firewood and hay for two cows, were reserved for him and his family during their life time.

Samuel Green was the eldest son of Samuel Green, senior, a deputy surveyor, who filled various official positions in Amwell, Hunterdon County, and removed to Sussex in, or shortly previous to 1738. He is recorded that year as a voter in Greenwich township, which at that time was in Hunterdon, now in Warren County. In the latter part of his life he settled near Johnsonsburg, formerly called the Log Jail, at one time the County Seat of Sussex.

In the Secretary of State's office at Trenton, and also in the Moravian Archives at Bethlehem, Pa., is recorded a deed of conveyance of 500 acres of land from Benjamin Harris to Edward Kemp, dated March 26th, 1718. This same tract was conveyed, December 1st, 1754, by Samuel Green, senior, to "Samuel Green, junior, heir apparent of said Edward Kemp." This implies that the wife of Samuel Green, senior, was the daughter of Edward Kemp, and her eldest son, Samuel Green, junior, by the law of primogeniture then in force, was heir apparent of Edward Kemp, he having no male issue.

He, Samuel Green, junior, was born in, or near, 1705. There is no record of his birthplace, but, presumably, it was Amwell, Hunterdon County. He married, in 1740, Anna Abigail, daughter of Marmaduke Light, of Springfield, N. J. The Light or Licht, now Lick family, of Lebanon, Pa., are Moravians. Mr. Lick, who endowed the University in California which bears his name, is of that family, and was born in Lebanon County. That Mrs. Green was related to that family is probable, but not certain.

In 1769, Peter Warbas and family, the first settlers from Bethlehem, removed to the new settlement in Sussex County, and were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Green, until their house, a log building, was erected. The next year, 1770, a flouring mill was built. In May of that year the place was visited by the brethren Christian Gregor, John Loretz and Hans Christian von Schweinitz, members of the Provincial Helpers' Conference, residing at Bethlehem, who gave the name GREENLAND to the new place.

In 1771, Frederick Leinbach became manager, and opened a store for the accommodation of the settlement. Daniel Hauser had charge of the mill and Frederick Rauchenberger was Leinbach's assistant on the farm. In 1773, Frederick Blum commenced a tannery; in 1780, a saw mill was erected; in '83, a pottery; and in '91, an oil mill on the premises of the settlement.

The church edifice, a large stone building, was erected in 1781. The following is a translation of a paper deposited under the corner stone: "In the year of our Lord Jesus Christ one thousand seven hundred eighty-one, the 2d day of April, this corner stone was laid in the name of God the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost, by the Right Reverend John Frederick Reichel, Bishop of the Brethren's Church, and, at present visitor from the Elders' Conference of the Unity, to the Brethren's congregations in America, for a house of God, wherein the gospel of Jesus Christ shall be preached in purity, the Holy Sacraments administered and the congregation inhabiting this place have their daily meetings, according to the rules, customs and usages of the Brethren's Church, of which this congregation is a small twig and new branch lately planted by the Brethren's congregation at Bethlehem, in Pennsylvania, to be a candlestick with a burning and shining light for this part of the country. This building was resolved upon and undertaken in a calamitous time, it being the sixth year of unhappy war between Great Britain and this continent.

"The watchword of the Brethren's Church on this 2d of April, 1781, was: 'The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea.'—Isaiah XI; 9.

"And the doctrinal text; 'When the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his son, made of a woman, made under the law to redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons.'

"The present Elders' Conference or Board of Directors of the Brethren's Church, appointed by the last General Synod, held at Barby, in Saxony, 1775, and residing at said Barby, consists of the following brethren :

"The present Provincial Helpers' Conference residing at Bethlehem, consists of the following brethren : Nathaniel Seidel, Episcopus Fratrum.

"The following is a list of the inhabitants and first settlers present at the dedication :

Joseph Neiser and Rosina, his wife, (pastor); Frederick and Mary Leinbach, Joseph and Dorothea Huber, Daniel and Elizabeth Hauser, Henry and Margareth Scheiner, Ephraim and Magdalena Colver, Louisa Partser, widow ; Hiram and Magdalena Demuth, Ann Abigail Green, widow ; Frederick and Catharine Blum, Henry Blum, Frederick and Ann Rauchenberger, Samuel Schulze, Stephen and Ann Niclas, Christian Loesch, Adolph and Catharine Hartmann, Thomas Bulton, Martin and Ann Mary Schenke, Philip Hortman, Jacob and Ann Mary Schneider."

The first year after the commencement of the settlement Bishop Etwein frequently preached there, both in German and English, and administered the sacraments. In 1771, Brother Jacob Schwick was appointed minister ; in '73 he was succeeded by Brother Francis Boehler ; and in '74 by Brother David Sydrick. The latter part of the year Bishop Etwein officiated ; in May, '75, Brother Joseph Neisser was appointed. From November, '79, till March, '80, Bishop Etwein again took temporary charge, preaching in English every two weeks. In '82, Brother Joseph Neisser was again appointed ; in '84, he was succeeded by Brother Meder ; in '87, by Brother Lewis F. Boehler ; in '95, by Brother Abraham Reinke ; in 1803, by Brother Lewis Stohle, and in 1807, again by Brother Meder.

On the 25th and 26th of November, 1774, the site of the settlement at Greenland was surveyed and a town laid out by the Brethren Nathaniel Seidel, John Etwein, Hans Christian von Schweinitz and the surveyor, J. W. Golgosky. On the 8th of February of the following year it was decided, by lot, to call the name of the place HOPE.

In June, 1777, Hon. William Ellery, of Rhode Island, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and a member of Congress, from '76 to '85, and Hon. William Whipple, also a signer of the Declaration, a general in the Revolution and a member of Congress in '76, passed through the town. In their diary they wrote: "In our way to the next stage we stop'd at a little Moravian settlement called Hope, consisting of five or six private houses, some mechanics' shops, a merchant's store and one of the finest and most curious mills in America. All the Moravian buildings are strong, neat and compact and very generally made of stone."

In 1778, Gen. du Chastellux, of La Fayette's staff, passed through the town. In his published journal he describes the mill at some length: "I set out the 8th a little before nine, the weather being extremely cold and the roads covered with snow and ice; but on quitting the ridge and turning towards the west, by descending from the high mountains to lower ground we found the temperature more mild and the earth entirely free. We arrived at half-past eleven at the Moravian Mill, and on stopping at Mr. Colver's, found that Mr. Poops had announced our coming, and that breakfast was prepared for us. This fresh attention on his part encouraged me to accept his offer for the evening. As soon as we had breakfasted, Mr. Colver, who had treated us with an anxiety and respect, more German than American, served us by way of conductor and led us first to see the saw mill, which is the most beautiful and the best contrived I ever saw. A single man, only, is necessary to direct the work; the same wheels which keep the saw in motion serve also to convey the trunks of trees from the spot where they are deposited to the work house, a distance of 25 or 30 toises; they are placed on a sledge, which, sliding in a groove, is drawn by a rope, which rolls and unrolls on the axis of the wheel itself. Planks are sold at six shillings, Pennsylvania currency, (about three shillings four pence, sterling,) the hundred; if you find the wood it is only half the money, and the plank in that case is sawed for one farthing per foot. This mill is near the fall of a lake (mill pond?), which furnishes it water. A deep cut is made in a rock to form a canal for conducting the waters to the corn mill, which is built within musket shot of the former; it is very handsome, and on the same plan as that of Mrs. Bowling at Petersburg, but not so large. From the mill I went to the church, which is a square building, containing the house of the minister. The place where the duty is performed, and which may properly be called the church, is on the first floor and resembles the Presbyterian meeting houses, with the difference that there is an organ and some religious pictures."—Travels in North America, 1780—'82, p. 307, et seq.

On July 25, 1782, Gen. Washington and two aides without escort, rode from Philadelphia to Bethlehem, where he passed the night. The next morning, escorted by the Moravian clergyman, John Etwein, he left Bethlehem, passing by way of Easton, and arrived at Hope in time for dinner. Etwein rode on ahead to notify the Moravians of the General's coming so that they might prepare suitable entertainment. At Hope Etwein parted from the General who continued on his journey to his headquarters at Newberg.

In 1790 the number belonging to the congregation at Hope was 147, of whom 66 were communicants; 100 lived in town, and 47 in the vicinity. From this time the membership steadily decreased. On the 26th of May, 1807, it was announced that the church authorities had decided to break up the establishment at Hope and sell the property. This measure was necessary on account of the precarious financial condition of the settlement. On Easter Sunday, April 17th, 1808, the last sermon was preached, and, with the evening service of that day, the existence of the congregation terminated. Its members removed to Bethlehem and other settlements and the property was sold to Messrs. Kraemer and Horn, of Pennsylvania.

CHAPTER IV.

THE GERMAN EMIGRATION.

IN PLACE of the historical address usual upon such occasions a small book was issued as a souvenir. This consisted of twelve pages containing a condensed account of historical reasons for the celebration, and also thirteen photo-engravings of former pastors and of three prominent speakers, who took part in the exercises of the day. The following is simply an enlargement of the same :

Formerly the usual explanation of the settlement of German Valley was that first published by Rupp in his work containing a list of thirty thousand names of German immigrants into Pennsylvania. This was as follows : "The period from 1702-1727 marks an era in the early German emigration. Between forty and fifty thousand left their native country—their hearths where soft affections dwell. The unparalleled ravages and desolations by the troops of Louis XIV, under Turenne, were the stern prelude of bloody persecutions. To escape the bloody persecutions awaiting them, German and other protestants emigrated to the English colonies in America.

"In 1705 a number of German Reformed residing between Wolfenbuettel and Halberstadt, fled to Neuwied, a town of Rhenish Prussia, where they remained some time and then went to Holland, there embarked in 1707 for New York. Their frail ship was by reason of adverse winds carried into the Delaware Bay. Determined, however, to reach the place for which they were destined, to have a home among the Dutch, they took the overland route from Philadelphia to New York. On entering the fertile, charming Valley in Nova Cæsaria, New Jersey, which is drained by the meandering Musconetcong, the Passaic and their tributaries, and having reached a goodly land, they resolved to remain in what is now known as the German Valley of Morrison (Morris) county. From this point the Germans have spread into Somerset, Bergen and Essex counties." He continues: "At Elizabethtown, where the first English settlement was made in New Jersey, 1664, there were many Germans prior to 1730. There was also a German settlement at a place known as Hall Mill, which is some thirty miles from Philadelphia."

He quotes also from Bard's Religious America, p. 81, the following:

"A well supported tradition maintains that a Polish colony, consisting of two hundred protestants, settled in the early part of the eighteenth century, in the valleys of the Passaic and Raritan rivers in New Jersey. They were led by Count Sobieski, a lineal descendant of the wide-world-known John Sobieski, King of Poland, who routed the Tartars and Turks in 1683. The name Zabriskie, still found in New Jersey and New York, seems to be corrupted from Sobieski."

This explanation of the settlement by the Germans of this part of New Jersey is evidently only partly true. Of course, there may have been emigrants from Germany who fled to England as early as 1705, and these may have sailed for New York and been turned aside to Philadelphia in the year 1708 or 1709; but no authority is given for the story, and it receives no support from any records of land transfers or of family history.

Two important and decisive historical events form the starting points for our history of the Germans in New Jersey. One is the first act of service of the first German Lutheran pastor in this State. This was on August 1, 1714, "at the house of Ari de Guinea" [Harry from Guinea, a Christian negro], "on the Raritans," at which time a child was baptized who had been born March 25. As it is very likely that the parents of this child, John Peter Appelman and Anna Magdalena, had come at least a few months previously into the State, we select the year 1713 as the most probable beginning of our history. The other event of special interest was the first religious service in German Valley.

According to the letter addressed to Michael Schlatter in 1747 by the people of Fox Hill, Lebanon and Amwell, this had taken place three or four years previously, or in 1743. Thus we feel entitled to celebrate in 1893 the one hundred and eightieth anniversary of the settlement of New Jersey by the Germans and the sesqui-centennial or the one hundred and fiftieth of that of German Valley.

We might also add another interesting date, viz., 1731, when the first German Lutheran Church in New Jersey was opened for worship. This church was located in the small hamlet now called Potterstown, about a mile east of Lebanon.

The records to which we have referred also enable us to trace the first emigrants to the very place and time of their arrival in this country, for we find on the list of baptisms, marriages and church members of the First Lutheran Church of New York a number of names, located in New Jersey, of those who came to New York in 1710. For, strange to say, the parish of Rev. Justus Falckner, the Lutheran pastor, who began his ministry in New York City in 1703, extended from Albany, in York State, to the Upper Raritan region or Hunterdon county in New Jersey. From 1703 to 1714 there are no intimations of any services rendered to any but Holland Lutherans in this State. These belong to the region of Hackensack, in Bergen county. In South Jersey there were, indeed, some families of German descent, who had come with the Swedes long before 1700, but they spoke the Swedish language, and their identity has been almost completely swallowed up in that of the predominant race.

Having found that our first settlers were among those who were sent over from London by Queen Anne in the second emigration of 1710, we have opened to us a most inviting and extensive field of research.

Without pretending to enter at any length upon the questions connected with the settlement of Newberg and of the valleys of the Mohawk and Hudson rivers, we cannot properly omit some brief account of the stream of history which, starting in the Palatinate, rose so rapidly and spread so widely when it passed through London and finally reached these shores. This most unprecedented volume of emigration from one country is the more remarkable from the appalling difficulties in the way of ocean travel. In the first place, the cost of a voyage from Rotterdam to Philadelphia was three hundred and fifty dollars in copper coin [Acrelius, Hist. of New Sweden, p. 146]. And as very many, if not most of the emigrants, were too poor to pay this sum, they were required to sell their time for three, four or five years to the captain in payment of their transportation. The poor emigrants thus became mere articles of merchandise, and were often treated accordingly. Being entirely at the mercy of heartless captains, who were not apt to learn compassion by this form of speculation in human beings, the poor emigrant rarely enjoyed on shipboard any but the most miserable accommodations and most insufficient food. Nearly all the horrors of the "middle passage" in the later times of negro slavery were fully anticipated. With the slow progress of sailing vessels often becalmed or driven out of their course the passage over was sometimes prolonged to the period of ten months, and was seldom less than three or four. Closely packed together in over-crowded vessels with the narrowest accommodations, the frequent scarcity of food and water was generally the source of diseases, which became contagious, and death was sure then to reap an abundant harvest. The surgeon of one vessel reported that there were 330 sick on board at one time.

When at last the welcome sight of land greeted the weary eyes of the weakened and emaciated traveler, he could hardly have anticipated the sad lot which often awaited him, and which in many cases turned the land of promise into one of bondage.

Children were torn from the arms of parents, never to be heard of again. Brothers and sisters were scattered often in different colonies and remained separated for years, and sometimes for life. In some cases these bond-servants soon earned their freedom, but they often succumbed to work beyond their strength or grew hopeless and despairing, and died of sheer homesickness.

But oppression and injustice were not inflicted upon individuals only, for even a whole community, as in the case of the settlers upon Livingston Manor, were cheated and robbed in the most barefaced manner, and even by the aid of those in authority. Reports of these experiences were written home to Germany and could not fail of some effect upon others who were intending to follow the example of the first emigrants. But nevertheless, the tide of emigration still flowed on without ceasing, and ship followed ship in rapid succession bringing full cargoes of human freight to New York and the Carolinas, but principally to Philadelphia.

A movement of population so general and persistent would seem to be an event whose causes were as powerful as its results were influential and lasting. Such, indeed, was the case. For nothing less than the material and political annihilation of Germany could explain as it does the voluntary expatriation almost all at one time of whole communities, moved by a common impulse such as could be only a mighty hope or a widespread despair. Indeed, as a matter of fact, the general feeling partook of both of these, but more largely of the latter. The cause of this state of mind is to be found in a course of events extending through the seventeenth century, but beginning more particularly with the Thirty Years' War in the year 1618.

Before this war Germany could compare favorably with any other European country for material prosperity, and the comfort and intelligence of its inhabitants. The peasant was "on the whole comfortable, moderately intelligent, and obtained in Protestant districts, at least, a fairly good training in school and church. He had his house neatly furnished, he had a little hoard of savings in coin, and valuable cattle in the pasture or stall. But the Thirty Years' War annihilated all this prosperity, and it took two centuries afterward to bring the village population to the state of civilization they had already reached at the beginning. It was the peasants on whom the curse of the war fell. The villages were laid in ashes, the cattle destroyed, the tilled land went to waste ; corpses lay unburied ; the village dogs ran wild like packs of wolves ; and to the ruin directly caused by the war were added the miseries of famine and pestilence. During the second half of the war a Swedish general refused to take his army from Pomerania to South Germany, because the desert country between them would cause him greater loss than the most bloody defeat. In those days the mere occupancy of a city for a week by an invading army would often work wider ruin than a modern bombardment. License and plunder were universal. When a city was besieged, the neighboring country was first ravaged, and fugitives innumerable fled within the walls, so that famine almost invariably came with them, and pestilence soon after. The horrors of the siege of Jerusalem, so often thought incredible by readers of Josephus, were re-enacted in many a city of Central Europe among the contemporaries of Milton. The besiegers of Nordlingen captured a tower on the wall ; the besieged fired it ; and when it fell into the city, famished women seized the half-burned corpses of the enemy, and carried away pieces to save their children from starvation. The woes of a stormed city, under the wild passions of the soldiery must be left to the imagination. The only pay the soldier received was the plunder he might accumulate. Making war became a trade and a class of men soon became very numerous who came from nearly every quarter of Europe to take their chances of success as soldiers of fortune under some renowned general. They cared not on which side they engaged. These men were generally the offscourings of different countries to whom a wandering life of unrestrained license and recklessness was the only life worth living. Accompanying the army was generally a miscellaneous rabble. The camp swarmed with the wives, mistresses and children of soldiers, with market women and wanderers. The Austrian and Bavarian army contained forty thousand men bearing arms and drawing soldiers' rations ; and beside a rabble of a hundred and forty thousand more, who had no rations, and could only be fed by plunder. (See History of Germany by Charlton T. Lewis, Chapter XIX).

REV. G. HEINRICH E. MÜHLENBERG, D. D.

REV. ERNEST LEWIS HAZELIUS, D. D.

Such was war in the seventeenth century. And we must remember that it was but little else than war the whole century through. Moreover whatever the cause of the war or the nations engaged in it, the battle ground for more or less of the time was always Germany. What wonder that the very temperament of the German race was changed and mirth and laughter almost ceased from among them. The first of our ancestors to arrive in this country came from regions that had learned war in all its bitterness. They themselves were born at a time when the air was filled with "war's rude alarms." Of those who came to New Jersey, having arrived in New York in 1710, the dates of birth are as early as 1656, and from that date to 1680. These therefore just escaped the Thirty-Years' War but experienced the severities hardly less terrible of the French invasions.

The war of the Spanish succession brought the French again to the Palatinate and the city of Landau was made to suffer severely. From this place several families under their pastor Joshua von Kocherthal took their departure for England and reached London in March, 1708. They made application to Queen Anne for a free passage to America. This was granted and they were sent with Lord Lovelace, who had been appointed Governor of New York. The purpose the authorities had in view was twofold, viz., to use them to protect the frontiers from the Indians and secondly to take from Norway the trade in tar, turpentine and naval stores. Before their departure they were naturalized on August 25th, 1780. Pastor Kocherthal was granted the sum of 20 pounds sterling and 500 acres of land and provision was also made for the support of the others by gifts of land, seeds, agricultural tools and furniture, and the promise of support for one year. This band settled at Newburgh on the Hudson. The names of the heads of families were Lorenz Schwisser, Heinrich Rennau, Andreas Volk, Michael Weigandt, Jacob Weber, Jacob Plettel, Johannes Fischer, Melchior Guelch, Isaac Tuerk, Peter Rose, Maria Weimar (widow), Isaak Faber, Daniel Fiere and Hermann Schuneman. Only one of these was 52 years old and the rest were between 25 and 40. The most were vintners, others were joiners, weavers, smiths, carpenters and stocking-makers. They landed in New York in October, 1708. They named their place of settlement Newberg, (sometimes called Quassaick) from the city of that name in the upper Palatinate.

Kocherthal almost immediately returned to England in the summer of 1709 to secure better provisions for the support of his company. He obtained an audience with the Queen and with her encouragement went to Germany and returned with 3,000 of his countrymen. This was more than were expected and the government were at a loss to know what to do with them. It was finally decided to undertake the production of tar and turpentine upon an extensive scale by means of these emigrants. In the meantime the arrivals of Germans, called Palatines, from the electorate whence they had come, continued. There were soon as many as 10, 12 or 30 thousand in England according to the different estimates of their number.

Public aid and private charity were severely put to it to keep this immense number from starving. Word was quickly sent to the continent to head off this tide of immigration.

Some of those encamped on the Blackheath near London were sent to Ireland, where they settled down and formed a prosperous community. Others were sent back home and others still became homeless wanderers over England. A band of 3,000 were chosen to send to America with Governor Hunter, who was to succeed the deceased Lord Lovelace as Governor of New York. This was the second emigration. Ten vessels were collected at Plymouth for their transportation. In the course of their embarking a boat load was overturned and drowned. The voyage was stormy and painful from the beginning. One vessel was driven back by a severe storm, which arose before they were out of sight of land. The whole number suffered all the way over and a fatal disease finally broke out which consigned 470 of them to a watery grave.

These vessels reached New York at various times from June 14th, 1710, till some time in August. Their passengers were in a deplorable, sickly condition. They had embarked December 29th, 1709, and their voyage had lasted six months. Seven hundred altogether had died on the way over and soon after they had landed.

The authorities would not permit them to land at the city from fear of contagious diseases, and they were temporarily lodged on Nutten (now Governor's) Island.

On the 24th of June the frigate, Herbert, with the tools, tents and arms, provided for the emigrants was cast away on Montauk Point, and the Berkeley Castle was still missing. On the 12 of July the Governor established courts of justice on Nutten Island for the government and protection of the Palatines and forbade exactions and extortions in the price of bread and provisions purchased by them. On the 20th an order of council provided for apprenticing such of the Palatine children as were orphans or whose parents were unable to support them. The boys were bound out until seventeen years old and the girls until fifteen.

Fifteen hundred adults were sent a hundred miles up the Hudson and formed the settlements on both sides of the river, of East and West Camps, Haysberg, Annsberg and Queensberg.

CHAPTER V.

THE GERMAN IMMIGRANTS.

WHO THEY WERE—WHERE THEY SETTLED, AND THEIR TRAITS OF CHARACTER.

EVEN at the risk of being tedious, it would seem necessary to give several lists of names, which may give some idea of the number of the early Germans of New Jersey. An extensive list of those who arrived before the Revolution may be compiled from several sources : First, the list of arrivals in New Amsterdam in the second emigration of 1710, compared with the records of baptisms and marriages in New Jersey by the Rev. Justus Falckner ; second, the list of those naturalized by the General Assembly from 1730 to 1772, who were described as "those born under the Emperor of Germany and other princes in amity with the Crown of Great Britain."

Next in order of time is the list of the lessees of the West Jersey Society lands in Hunterdon county in the year 1735. The land taken up by them in parcels of 100 or 200 acres amounts to only 12 thousand acres, yet they included all who occupied the society lands (nearly all of what is now Hunterdon county) except the 10,000 acre tract of Cox and Kirkbride.

Henry N. Polman.

The list of voters of Hunterdon county (including what are now Sussex, Warren and Morris counties) in 1738 affords us a few additional names.

The signers to Rev. Albert Weygand's call in 1749 include every salary payer and are seventy-eight in number, to these we may add some additional names from the subscription list toward the building of a parsonage barn in 1754, and in 1756 toward the erection of a church at Bedminster.

In 1763 the estate was settled of the old German storekeeper at German Valley, John Peter Nitzer by name, and we obtain from his books 220 names, some of which would be otherwise unknown.

The baptismal registers of German Valley, Lebanon, Alexandria, New Germantown, Spruce Run, Stillwater, all begin about 1760 and increase the number of names. The records of wills and of property transfers, gravestones and family bibles, complete our sources of information.

Those who arrived at New York in 1710 were: Johan Wm. Schneider, Johannes Lorentz, the widow Elisabeth Mueller, Hermanes Hoffman, Heinrich Schmidt, Michael Henneschid [Hendershot], John Peter ffucks [Fox], Simon Vogt, Johannes and Nicholas Jung [Young], Heironymus [Jerome] Klein, the widow A. Maria Cramer and Frantz Lucas.

Before 1720—Marcus Koenig, from the principality of Halberstadt; Laurens Ruloffson, from Copenhagen; Balthazar Pickle and Gertrude Reiter, from the Graffschaft Hartenberg; probably at the same time, John Nicholas and Frantz Wilhelm Pickel, John Peter Appleman, Jacob Risch, Michael Smit, Johan Titel, John Parleman, Daniel Shumacher, Paul Braun, Andreas and Johannes Roos [or Rose], Johann Peter Voss, Christian Streydt and wife Maria Ursula, Michael Shurts and wife Elis., Johannes Jurgen Riemer and wife Elis., Matthias Reinhold and and wife Eva, Hermen Richiman and wife Maria Elis.; Johannes, Johan Jurgen and Peter Kastner, Martin Stein and wife Johanna Maria, Jurgen Puff, Pieter Poel and wife Anna Sophia.

The other list of names will be given in full in the appendix.

As the Germans were predominantly a religious people we may locate them by their churches. In Amwell township, Hunterdon county, there was a German church in the present village of Ringoes. There was a settlement of Germans in this vicinity as early as 1721 as appears from a road survey of that date in which there is mention of "the palatins' land."

A few names of those who belonged to the stone church built here in 1749 are Woolever, Hoffman, Kase, Rockafellow, Young, Kuhl, Ballisfelt, Trimmer, Dietz, Winter, Snider, Mingus. Perhaps also, Fisher, Bearder, Fulper, Hoppock, Hann, Dilts, Risler, Boss, Bishop, Servis, Snook, Werts, Lyst, Wombock.

In Alexandria township there was a church before 1766, where at present the Presbyterian Church of Mount Pleasant is situated.

Here worshipped the German Reformed families: Huner, Horn, Schlaut, Casper, Hollenberger, Fishbach, Bitzer, Schmid, Blom, Morkel, Young, Eberts, Loesch, Appgar, Alpoek, Enders, Rockefellar, Henn, Metler, Lampen, Case, Dilts, Badenheimer, Reinschmidt, Otto, Bolsin, Klein, Schneider, Wagner, Kuhl, Geist, Alsentz, Solomon, Schrei, Zingler, Patenheimer, Rimer and others.

Near Phillipsburg there was a Lutheran Church at least as early as 1762, being mentioned as found there at that date in one of the surveys of John Rockhill.

In Stillwater, Sussex county, there was a Union church as early as the middle of the last century. Services in German were also held very early in the neighborhood of Newton, Sussex county. And these churches were attended by the following families: Schwartzwelder, Schuester, Merkel, Kien, Hafer, Schnauber, Kaiser, Savacool, Gerlach, Nolten, Goeler, Stahley, Weyker, Sipperly, Raub, Kunckel, Reuss, Ginsberg, Reiss, Waas, Adam, Main, Naedel, Sundel, Muth, Hess, Gruber, Shafer, Wintermute, Snover, Gottschall, Shiner, Dodderer, Willerich, Youngblood, Kirschbach, Knauble, Hamann, Shipman, Titman, Swick, Neubacker, Hawk, Koker and others.

At Pluckamin the Lutheran Church was supported by the

At Spruce Run we find the families, Lunger, Leininger, Hearelt, Saeger, Hoff, Heil, Skilly, Gebhard, Mohr, Eichler, Buchler, Faust, Castner, Martini, Simmens, Hipp, Benghard, Sasseman, Hess, Staenger, Boehler, Schwartz, Shultz, Miller, Gaeri, Hunold, Miltz, Felvert, Buckner, Hoffman, Baats, and others.

In the neighborhood of Lebanon settled the families of Apgar, Hofman, Hochstenbach, Scharfenstein, Becker, Rodenbaugh, Hummer, Case, Lindaberry, Deats, Schnetz, Engel, Aller, Cramer, Dilts, Kempel, Henry, Lefler, Mueller, Wilhelm, Kohl, Schumaker, Schneider, Dildein, Popencher, Seifers, Crazy, Lance, Hess, Sevitsch, Humerich, Klacs, Seelbach, Philhower, Tiger, Cregar, Hiler, Felmley, Cripps, Yauger, Scharfenstein, Shirts.

To the vicinity of German Valley belonged the Welshs, Eicks, Raricks, Strubels, Sharfensteins, Heils, Schulers, Shumans, Hafers, Flomervelts, Mahlers, Bessels, Fishers, Hagers, Youngs, Longhaars, Stelts, Meyers, Webers, Hubers, Hanns, Terryberrys, Kochs, Cripps, Paces, Trimmers, Alpocks, Weingartens, Fraces, Bunns, Creters, Heldebrants, Waldorfs, Kerns, Bitzers, Frones, Neighbors, Swackhamers, Weises, Duffords, Naughrights, Trimmers, Alpocks, Beams, Aders, Reinhardts, Abels.

At Knowlton there was a German Reformed Church before the Revolution.

The Moravians were established at Hope, Warren county, and Montague, Sussex county, before the Revolution.

The New Germantown Lutheran Church was built in 1750 to take the place of the four churches of Rockaway, at Potters-town, built in 1731, Lesleysland or Whitehouse, "The Church on the Mountain," east of Pluckamin and Fox Hill, afterwards divided into German Valley and Fox Hill.

The bulk of the German population was therefore to be found between Lambertville and Newton and the Delaware and Bound Brook.

THEIR CHARACTERISTICS.

New Jersey, was perhaps, the most cosmopolitan, so to speak, of all the original thirteen States; and though small in size it was the theatre of a large part of the Revolutionary war. The character of its people would necessarily thus have much to do with the result of that most critical struggle. How interesting, therefore, that commingling of races, which arose from the presence of the Swedes in the southern, the Hollanders in the central, and the New Englanders in the northern part of the State. To these were soon added the Palatines or Germans of Hunterdon, Warren and a part of Morris and Sussex counties, and these moreover were representative Germans for they came from nearly all parts of the Fatherland. For we trace to the extreme north the Barthels and Roelfsens; the former to Hamburg and the latter to Denmark; while from the borders of Italy the Apgars began their long journey to the sea, and Sassenberg, Pungstad, Waldorf, Wittemberg and the Palatinate all added their several streams which united at the seacoast of Holland into a mighty flood of emigration that poured its teeming life into New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the Carolinas. Nor was this the influx of an element whose character was weak or indifferent in itself. For though poor almost to starvation and made more helpless, through their foreign language; the prey of land sharks, press-gangs and all the remorseless cruelty of the "White Slavery;" with their numbers decimated by incessant sickness and privation; with families torn asunder and separated for years, these forsaken refugees finally overcame all difficulties and settled down in well earned, but hardly won, security and peace. No worse sufferings, no harsher treatment, than they had to endure, were experienced either by Puritan or Huguenot. And their final success was just as much a product and proof of their pre-eminent sturdiness of moral and intellectual character.

THE GERMAN RACE.

It is hardly necessary in the present age of the world to dwell upon the superior and innate excellence in many respects of the German race, and yet it is due to the very reality and depth of this excellence that it is unobtrusive and largely beneath the surface. Whatever, indeed, of racial vigor has brought the German Empire to the front and made it the Empire of all Europe, this may be safely attributed to the ancestry of the present subjects of Kaiser Wilhelm, from among whom our forefathers came.

While of course no complete picture can be presented of life as it existed in a frontier settlement and in connection with a hard struggle for mere existence, yet whatever knowledge does come to us from a time so remote and from surroundings so obscure, must be all the more decisive and reliable. Thus we find proof of in the anxiety they expressed at the very start for the services of catechists or teachers and for an educated ministry.

The first settlers of German Valley, in particular, are said to have been distinguished by their intelligence.

In 1760 the large sum of money, for that time, of one thousand pounds was left to the church of New Germantown for the double purpose of supporting the church and the school.

With respect to the ministry we find that, although many uneducated men secured a hearing for a time, yet their congregations soon dismissed them and willingly faced the expense and trouble of procuring fully equipped pastors from across the seas.

Muhlenberg even recommends that the German pastors should be able to speak the Latin language, in order to converse with the ministers of other churches, whose language they might not understand. And Muhlenberg himself was able to preach in Low Dutch and High Dutch as well as in English and French.

Another excellent trait of our early settlers was their high

SENSE OF HONOR.

This is shown by their persistent loyalty to the English Crown even in the American Revolution. They could not forget that when they first landed at Philadelphia, they had sworn allegiance to Great Britain, while the vast improvement of their political condition in this country over that of their native land kept many of them from really understanding the nature of the great struggle of the colonies for freedom. Very many, however, did understand the war with England and cheerfully surrendered life and property at the call of their country.

In 1747 when Michael Schlatter visited this vicinity and held service at Fox Hill in the old log church on what is now called the Aunt Katy Sutton farm, he received a pecuniary reward for his labors. This was so exceptional as to call for particular notice on the part of Father Schlatter. Moreover when the continental currency had suffered such disastrous depreciation, the members of the new Germantown vestry, who had borrowed the church funds some years previously, and then only to help the church along, refused to allow the church to suffer all the loss by depreciation of the money which had been entrusted but offered to pay back the equivalent in real value to them. Their with the exception noted above, was pre-eminent, at least in particular cases, and, indeed, nearly every family had representatives in the ranks of the continental forces.

For example, JOHN WESLEY GILBERT NEVELLING, who served the Amwell Church at the beginning of his ministry, converted all his property during the Revolutionary struggle into money which, amounting to five thousand pounds, he loaned to the Continental Congress, and having lost the certificate or receipt of the government never recovered any of the amount. He also joined the army as a chaplain, was highly esteemed by Washington and equally hated by the enemy. A large reward was offered by the British Government for his capture.

The efficient and important services of Peter Muhlenberg, the eldest son of Henry Melchior, as a general in the American army are too familiar to need more particular mention here. In their

our forefathers were generally devout, fervent and spiritual. They laid stress upon the inner life of the heart rather than upon outward forms and ceremonies. No conflict arose among them such as threatened to rend asunder the early Holland churches of this country between the evangelical party and the mere formalists. It was a general custom for Muhlenberg and his fellow ministers to conduct a regular inquiry into the personal experience of church members at each communion season. And, indeed, after every preaching service the hearers were questioned about what they had heard and a more personal application was made of the truth which had just been publicly proclaimed. This would seem to have been a fair equivalent for the modern inquiry meeting.

REV. JOHN F. DIENER.

In the midst of the ordinary difficulties by which they were surrounded, to maintain any religious interest at all would seem difficult enough, but for them to still cling to the church in the face of active opposition from wandering preachers of loose character and from unfaithful pastors, who used their calling only as a cloak for the indulgence of evil passions, should awaken our astonishment and admiration.

The early Germans were almost universally

RELIGIOUS PEOPLE.

Their history is therefore largely the history of their churches. And though the more immediate motive for their emigration from their native land may not have been to escape from religious persecution, yet the privations and restrictions of their life at home, from which they sought to escape, had been caused through their faithfulness to the truth in previous years.

The devastations and ravages of the soldiers of Turenne throughout Western Germany, in 1689 and 1692, was the remote if not the nearer occasion of the larger exodus to London in the year 1709. The destruction of 2,000 villages and the frequent traversing of the Palatinate by the French armies would leave but a small chance of subsistence for the much enduring people. When we add to these misfortunes, the conversion of their prince, John William, of Newburg, to Catholicism, we cannot wonder at the sudden flight of the vast multitude, who sought refuge in England in the above year. At that time the suburbs of London were thronged with an army of Palatines who encamped there to the number of 13 thousand and appealed to the charity of the astonished inhabitants. It was found by an official investigation that over-zealous land agents, representing the proprietors of large tracts in America, had spread throughout Germany printed notices of various kinds to encourage with various inducements a large emigration to the colonies.

RELIGIOUS DIFFERENCES.

If the vigor of a religion is shown, as it is said to be, by the number and variety of its various divisions, then our first settlers must take the lead in this respect, for in 1734 a traveller through New Jersey and Pennsylvania found among the German population all denominations and sects, "Lutherans, Reformed, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Catholics, Quakers, Tunkers, Mennonites, Sabbatherians, Seventh-day Baptists, Separatists, Boehmists, Schwenckfeldians, Tuchfeldtians, Eucthelists, Jews and Pagans &c." But the majority, at least in New Jersey, were either Lutheran or German Reformed in their form of religious belief and practice. The difference between these two concerned matters of government, worship and doctrine. Indeed they differed in origin. The Lutherans taking their name from the great Reformer, were at first Reformed Catholics, while the German Reformed were so called because they claimed to be Reformed Lutherans. The adherents of Luther retained at first some of the objectionable features of Papal forms and ceremonies. In some places they accepted baptismal regeneration, and also believed that one who partook of the Lord's Supper really received the body of Christ whether worthy or not.

The Reformed, on the other hand, were guilty of going to the opposite extreme. They often used simply wooden platters in the Sacrament. They rejected the use of the organ and of church bells, threw out everything in the shape of an altar in their worship, and even of any distinctive vestments for the preacher. One was as much too fast as the other was too slow, in reforming old abuses.

In church government the Lutherans became Episcopalian, and the Reformed, Presbyterial.

In matters of doctrine, however, was to be found the most sharply dividing line. With respect to the doctrine of predestination, especially, the German Protestants soon took opposite sides. "At first all the Reformers were Predestinarians. The Romanists had so emphasized man's good works as necessary to salvation, that the Reformers went to the other extreme, and emphasized God's grace and sovereignty as the only source of salvation. Melancthon, in the Lutheran Church, finally retired from the high predestinarian position, and carried the Lutheran Church with him. While on the other hand Calvin progressed in it, until he formulated the doctrine for the Reformed Church."

We have been speaking of a state of religious opinion as it existed two centuries ago. In the present day, however, there is practically but little difference between the evangelical wings of these two great divisions of German Protestantism.

Theoretical and formal differences still remain but do not seriously interfere with hearty co-operation and reciprocal respect and good will.

CHAPTER VI.

EARLY CHURCH HISTORY.

THE denominational strictness of our Lutheran brethren in the early period of the history of our State, was of great advantage in keeping distinct from those of other religious bodies the historical records and development of at least one large division of the German settlers. The German Reformed, on the other hand, were under the charge of the Holland Church, and became in many cases identified with the Low Dutch. In this way they failed to have a distinct and separate history. We are, therefore, almost altogether dependent upon the records of the Lutheran Church for our account of the early history of the German emigrants. Hence the early history of our section must be found in the history of that body. Some account therefore of the early development of this denomination is in place here. Strange to say, the parish of the first included all of Northern and Central New Jersey. This organization was at first kept under and almost crushed out by the illiberal opinions and methods of the Reformed Church in the city. Governor Peter Stuyvesant was especially zealous in preventing all other forms of religious opinion but the established church, and the English, after they had attained to the supremacy, were not far behind him in their intolerance of any dissent. Thus it was not until the beginning of the eighteenth century that a complete and well organized church life became possible to our Lutheran ancestors. At that time, in 1703,

REV. JAMES R. KEISER.

REV. VALENTINE F. BOLTON.

Justus Falkner became, practically, the first pastor of the Lutheran Church in the city. Other pastors had preceded him, but their labors were restricted and interrupted, so that they only sufficed to keep the flickering flame of their church's life from dying out altogether.

In the city and in Albany county, New York, and Bergen county, New Jersey, the members of the Lutheran Church were almost altogether of Holland descent. Thus, the history and the records of the churches of Hackensack, Ramseys or Saddle River, do not particularly relate to our subject.

Likewise the Lutheran Church in South Jersey, of very early origin, belongs more to the history of the Swedish settlers, of whom they were almost exclusively formed, than to that of the Germans.

With the first German emigration to New York, in 1709, came pastor JOSHUA KOCHERTHAL, whose field of labor centred in the site of the present city of Newburg. But the first installment of our ancestors came with the second emigration in 1710. They found a consecrated and devoted religious teacher already at work in their new home in the person of the above mentioned

JUSTUS FALCKNER.

This excellent man had come to this country with his brother Daniel Falckner, both of them being land agents of some of the proprietors in London. While at first actively engaged in secular pursuits Mr. Falckner felt an irresistible appeal touching his heart from the pitiable religious condition of his fellow-countrymen living around him. Having been destined to the ministry in his native land and educated with that end in view, he now sought to renew those vows, which he had laid aside, and sought consecration at the hands of the Swedish ministers near the mouth of the Delaware. Pastor Rudman had selected him for his successor in New York and he was ordained in the Swedish Church in Philadelphia, 25th November, 1703, by the Swedish ministers Rudman, Biorck and Sandel. This was the first full ordination in America of a Lutheran preacher. His ministry in New York and New Jersey continued from 1703 until his death in 1723.

A MODEL PASTOR.

Of him a recent historian says : A particularly amiable, attractive character it is, which stands before us in the person of Pastor Justus Falckner during his twenty years activity ; a man of excellent gifts, fine learning, beautiful disposition, heartily pious mind, a decidedly Lutheran standpoint, quiet and persistent industry, in short, a complete pastor. He had accepted the office in the consciousness that he could do nothing without divine help. That God himself would make him capable was his heart's desire. In the Church book he wrote on the first day of his activity, after a short communication with reference to his arrival and his entrance upon his office, the following prayer in Latin : "God the father of all good and Lord of great majesty, who has thrust me into this harvest, be with me, his least and wholly weak worker with his special grace, without which I cannot succeed under the burden of temptations, which often powerfully assail me. In thee, Lord, do I put my trust, let me not be put to shame. Make me fit for my calling. I have not run but thou hast sent me, yea, thrust me into my office. Free me from whatever taint my lost nature, always without my consent, may mingle with my service. Pardon me I humbly beseech, through our, yea my Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

Such a man, as we might expect, performed with a great deal of feeling every service. The forms of baptism and confirmation were observed with most devout and earnest prayer for the divine blessing as the records themselves abundantly attest.

The people here, both Holland and German Lutherans, were also under the care of Pastor W. Charles Berkenmeyer, who succeeded Mr. Falckner in his New York charge. Thus our forefathers enjoyed occasional preaching, probably only a few times a year, from the pastors in New York until 1734. By this time more immigrants had arrived, and were numerous enough to support a pastor of their own. But ministers were very scarce in those days, so it was necessary to send a call to the old country and have one sent out to supply this needy field. Upon the advice, therefore, of Mr. Berkenmeyer, a call was formally made out and signed by those who promised to support him with the particular amount of salary each offered to give to his pastor. This call was forwarded to the ministerium of Hamburg in the year 1734. This ecclesiastical body, corresponding to what we call a presbytery or conference, was to chose a minister that would be willing to come, and also suitable for the work, and ordain him. The money for his passage was sent with the call, and everything seemed to have been done by the congregations that could be done to show their interest in religion and their generous and intelligent character.

The ecclesiastical body in Hamburg seemed to have exercised due care and deliberation in choosing the man whose name they were to insert the place left vacant for that purpose in the call which had been forwarded to them. But by a most mysterious providence, all this care and forethought proved in vain, and served only to introduce a source of discord and dissension and an occasion of most injurious scandal for twelve long weary years.

The following account of another minister who rendered service to the Germans Lutherans in this State and of the way in which the first pastor came to be called is translated from the recently published History of Lutheranism in America by Prof. Graebner of St. Louis :

“ During the lifetime of Justus Falckner his brother

had performed ministerial work among the Raritan churches. After the death of the former, the latter had also labored among the churches along the Hudson, as the following record in the Newberg church book shows : “ In the year 1724 on the last day of September the following were baptised by me, Daniel Falckner, pastor at Millstone and in the mountains near the river Raritan in place of the deceased Kocherthal and of my deceased brother.”

The following we quote from Prof. Graebner's History of Lutheranism :

“ In New Jersey a series of small German-Lutheran congregation extended north from the Raritan river. These were visited from year to year by Justus Falckner. They were, “In the mountains," Millstone, at Uylekill [Wallkill ?], Remmerspach [Ramapo], Hanover and Rockaway. In these congregations, Daniel Falckner had settled as pastor, but had now grown old. Two daughters of his had married men belonging to his congregation, one a brewer William Dern by name, and the other a farmer by the name of John Kasner. Physically Mr. Falckner was still fit for service, his eyesight was still sharp and enabled him to continue his studies in botany. But he had a difficulty in his head, so that the congregation desired another pastor. Candidates were heard, the first of whom Caspar Stoever would have been called, if he had been able to get ordained, but the Swedish minister Cneberg, declared he had no authority to ordain. A schoolmaster by the name of Mueselbach was also rejected and probably for the same reason. A committee from the congregations then appealed to Rev. Berkenmeyer, pastor of the New York congregation of Dutch Lutherans. They begged him to visit their people and administer the communion. They said that some of the people and especially at Rockaway had withdrawn from Falckner two years previously. Berkenmeyer consented to help them if they would decide to call a minister of their own. On the 3rd of August, 1731, accordingly he was invited to come to Rockaway with two of his elders upon the 13th Sunday after Trinity. At the same time pastor Falckner was also invited to appear with his people to help to bring about a proper understanding concerning his relations to the congregations. On the 9th of September Berkenmeyer set out with his elders John LaGrange and Henry Schleydorn. They travelled to Elisabeth Point by water and there obtained three horses. They rode until evening. After a short rest they started again at two o'clock in the morning, preferring the moonlight to the heat of the sun. They desired to visit Falckner on the way, in order to hear from him what he might have to say in his own behalf. After waiting some time for Falckner to return from a fishing and botanizing tour, they were greeted by him in a friendly way and received the assurance of his willingness to resign his office and to take part in the meeting to which he was invited.

At eight o'clock in the evening [Sept. 10, 1731], they arrived at Rockaway [Whitehouse], where they found their host, John Balthazar Pickel, engaged in arranging the pulpit and seats of the new church [at Potterstown].

On Saturday, Sept. 11th, preparatory service and a dedication service were held. On the next day the communion was administered to about thirty people.

On Monday, Sept. 13th, the church officers had their meeting in Peter Kasner's house, in the congregation "In the mountains" It was decided not to have preaching either by Berkenmeyer or Falckner, and also not to hold the meeting in the church. Berkenmeyer began the speaking, after prayer had been offered, with the expression of thanks for himself and his congregation for the generous contribution toward the building of the new church in the city, which Falckner had collected from his Raritan people and also from those at Claverack. This subscription had been sent to Berkenmeyer on the 23rd June, 1727. The conference was very successful finally, although at first the people were frightened at the suggestion of sending a written call which they should all sign, to some minister in the old country, who should be willing to accept it. Falckner admitted his inability to perform the duties of a pastor and willingly resigned his claims to the privileges of that position. It does not appear whether he had received a written call or not, although it is very probable that he had only a oral agreement and depended solely upon personal friendship for himself for any recognition as pastor of the three congregations of Millstone, Pluckamin and Rockaway. To these we might add Hanover.

The call, which was to be forwarded to Germany, was duly signed and sealed. It was entrusted to Capt. Bruyn, at New York, to take to Hamburg on the 15th of September, 1731. Nothing came of it, however, until the year 1734, when Mr. Wolf was ordained on the 11th of May and started on his way to America. The salary mentioned in the call was £50, the free use of a parsonage, free light and fuel, free transportation to and fro for the purpose of administering the sacraments in other places. Money for travelling expenses to this country was also sent along with the call. A second copy of the call was sent to Hamburg by another vessel for greater security.

JOHN AUGUSTUS WOLF

was the man sent over here as the first pastor of the German people in this part of New Jersey. He was born in Loebegin, and was a cousin of a well-known and highly esteemed pastor in the old country of the same name.

He was ordained in the Church of St. Nicholas, Hamburg, the 11th of May, 1734.

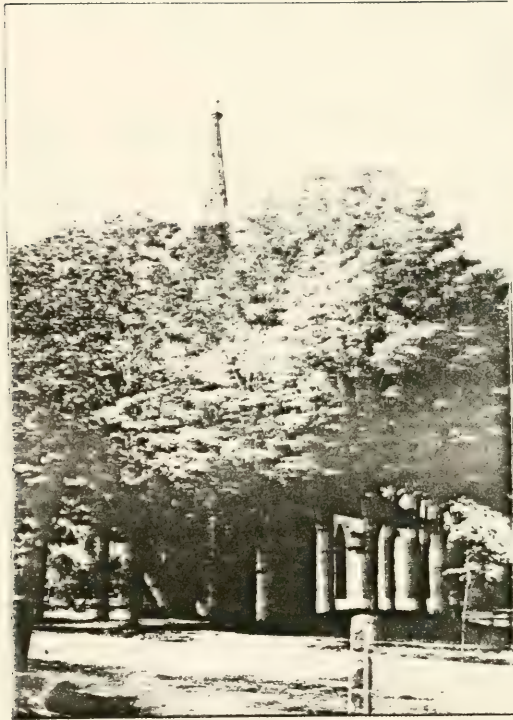

Let us now interrupt for a few moments the thread of our discourse to consider the significance of this historical event.

The call of which we have been speaking was given to Mr. Wolf by three congregations, called "On the Mountain," Rackaway [Rockaway] and Hanover. "On the Mountain" was the old church which stood about one mile east of Pluckamin. In 1756 it was replaced by a stone church built in Pluckamin, on the site now occupied by a Presbyterian Church. The second church, called Rockaway, was in Potterstown, and is spoken of in a deed given for land "next to the church lot" by Aree Van Genee in 1741 to Matthias Scharfenstein.

But the most interesting question of all is where the third church called Hanover was situated. If this was Fox Hill, then we can claim a very early date for the settlement of this neighborhood. We must remember that the year 1734, when these churches are mentioned, was four years before Morris county was formed. What is now Morris, Sussex and Warren counties were at that time only so many townships of Hunterdon. I can find only three townships which would include, in 1738, what now constitutes the three counties. These townships were Walpack, Bethlehem and Hanover. Of course, the names were very loosely applied, and the limits of these townships were not defined at all. In fact, they were not townships at all, but only convenient ways of designating particular districts of this sparsely settled section.

For this reason, Hanover township might very easily include this part of Morris and Hunterdon counties.

Still further, we do not know of any other place in Morris county where a German church could have been established. Of course, the New Germantown church was not established until fifteen years later, when a united central church was built to take the place of the four that had formerly constituted one parish. For a few years before, at least as early as 1743, there were four churches, as follows: One near Pluckamin called "On the Mountain," another at Whitehouse, called Leslysland, a third at Potterstown called Rockaway, and a fourth at Fox Hill. This last was undoubtedly the log church on Aunt Katie Sutton's farm.

Now of all these four churches the only one that could with any reason be said to be in Hanover was the last or the church on Fox Hill.

This makes the church of German Valley one of the oldest in the two counties. The Readington church had as its first regular pastor the Rev. Theodorus Jacobus Frelinghuysen, who came over from Holland just fifteen years before Pastor Wolf.

It must be remembered that nearly all churches in those days were union churches. Preaching was too rare and religious services too infrequent to permit any sincere worshipper to make any difficulty over minor differences of doctrine or ritual. Thus a few German Reformed people added their names to John Weygand's call to the New Germantown church in 1749, and when the Lutherans built their church in 1756 at Pluckamin, some of the Episcopal families living in the neighborhood offered to help in its support if they could have preaching in English for a part of the time.

The first German Reformed preacher in this section was Michael Schlatter, who came here from Philadelphia five times: once in the year 1747, twice in 1748, once in 1749 and once in 1750. Before Mr. Schlatter, there no doubt had been occasional visits by Reformed preachers from Pennsylvania to baptize the children and keep the different congregations together, but the most of the Germans, both Lutherans and Reformed, worshipped together.

To return, now, to Mr. Wolf, we find him welcomed by the people to whom he had come with great rejoicing. They had sent a great ways for him and had been at considerable extra expense on his account, and they were prepared to give him every encouragement in his work among them.

But how great must have been their disappointment to hear bad accounts of his behavior as soon as he had landed in New York. But, of course, they hoped for the best, and made every allowance for his youth and inexperience. They were not permitted, however to remain very long undeceived with regard to his true character. He had shown on his first arrival that he was self-willed and obstinate, but he had no sooner settled down on the Raritan than he appeared to have no other object in life but to get married. Muhlenberg says: "Right at the start he ran after the girls and decided to marry, but has come into discredit thereby on account of misconduct."

This was bad enough, but much can be born from a pastor who is a good preacher. Yet this was just what Mr. Wolf does not seem to have been in the opinion of his people. And strange to say their objection to him on this ground was that he used written sermons. He was considered very well educated and as one who had made great progress in liberal studies but could not get along without notes. This, however, Muhlenberg says, the congregation could bear with, especially as he had given out that he had lost his memory upon the sea. But it seemed as though these afflicted churches were to drink their cup of sorrow to the very dregs. For worse soon followed.

Thus began one of the most bitter and prolonged church quarrels that one has ever heard or read of. Of course, it is not very edifying reading in itself, but it illustrates so clearly the difficulties in the way of maintaining church services in those days, and, it also furnishes such convincing proof of the sterling piety of the early settlers here, since they continued faithful even under such severe trouble, that no apology is needed for giving the full account of the whole matter in the words of Muhlenberg's own report to the authorities in Germany. To understand the pains that Muhlenberg takes to explain the whole controversy fully, we must remember that the ecclesiastical bodies in Germany considered a call as given for life and would not consent except for the gravest reasons to dissolve the relationship of pastor and people. Let us notice also that the very reasons which made preaching so highly esteemed at that time, also made the preachers more independent and constituted a temptation which only the most faithful pastors could resist. We might well ask ourselves the question as we hear more of this now notorious Wolf in sheep's clothing how many of us could have stood such outrageous behavior on the part of one who was our pastor, without losing all faith in the ministry and giving up once for all the difficult task of maintaining the church. Says Muhlenberg, "For eight years there were no confirmations, no sacrament, and everything was in decay." But let us permit him to tell the story in his own words. We now quote at length from the last edition of the Hallesche Nachrichten or Reports from the Missionaries here to the Seminary at Halle, Germany, which had sent them thither and who gave them the authority under which they labored, until a Synod could be constituted in this country, which was done in Philadelphia in 1748.

A BITTER CHURCH QUARREL.

A letter to Germany of date December 12, 1745, from Dr. Muhlenberg contains the following: "Last summer (1744) some men came to me from the neighboring New Jersey. These men dwell upon the Raritan, where there were from 1732 to 1736 two strong German Lutheran congregations, which had written through Pastor Berkenmeyer to Hamburg, and had asked for a preacher. The reverend Ministerium of Hamburg had thereupon sent to New Jersey a Mr. August Wolf, of Lebegin, with a license to preach. This Wolf proved himself at the start in New York in the presence of some witnesses, who are still living, a capricious head full of pride and obstinacy. He has shown himself one who has made great progress in liberal studies, but has no gifts and training in spiritual matters, and especially for preaching. He was received in his congregations with great love, and although he read all his sermons, yet the congregations had patience with him because he gave out that he had lost his memory upon the sea.

"They then fell into strife with one another, which pastor Berkenmeyer and Mr. Knoll from New York have again mediated. But Mr. Wolf does not look at his office rightly, for he is not willing or able to preach without his written sketches.

He has married a farmer's daughter and lived with her in continual blows and quarrelling. This quarrelsome life and inefficiency in preaching made the congregations dissatisfied, so that they do not pay him his promised salary and wished even to have nothing to do with him. They offered him his traveling expenses if he would return home again, but he would not consent to do so. He boasted then that he had brought his written call and seal from Hamburg. Mr. Berkenmeyer and Mr. Knoll interfered, and complained to the Governor of the unscrupulousness of the congregation. The Governor ordered that the congregations pay and support him. The congregations complained on the other hand that he did not administer his office well. The matter then came to trial before the Court. When a year had passed Mr. Wolf swore before the authorities that he had performed his duties according to contract. The members were then served with writs of execution upon their property, and many of them were arrested upon the highway. In short, the office of preacher was by these means slandered, the youth neglected, the communion not administered, the sick not visited, indeed, there was such a desolation that it was made among the Germans a subject of street songs. The congregations were altogether scattered except a few families. Such complaints and legal processes had continued for nine or ten years. The magistrates were at last tired themselves and did not wish to give a decision. In spiritual matters the English magistrates cannot decide, these belong to ecclesiastical courts. Finally the matter came before the Supreme Court and caused a heavy expense to the congregation. The lawyers found their advantage in it. Part of the members sold their property and moved away. Mr. Berkenmeyer and Mr. Knoll tried in a friendly way to make up the differences. At one time Mr. Wolf was willing to take the amount of money and leave the congregation; then the congregation would not be willing. At another time the congregation would be willing to give an amount of money and then Mr. Wolf would not consent. The congregations could not be brought into any agreement and reconciliation with Mr. Wolf. Then Mr. Wolf was obstinate and was not willing to take back his wife nor to improve his manner of life. The congregations were also obstinate on account of the hard proceedings of law, and said "Mr. Wolf is an hireling." In short, so much scandal and injury to souls was caused in these ten years, that the effects will be felt forever. These congregations pestered me for two years to help them to get free. They shed abundant tears over their children who wished to know nothing more of religion, because it presented so bad an appearance, finally the congregations had brought the matter before the authorities in such a way that both agreed to submit their case to arbitration. The arbitrators were to be four preachers. Mr. Wolf named upon his side Mr. Berkenmeyer and Mr. Knoll; the congregations named Mr. Muhlenberg and Rev. Mr. Brunnholz. For the latter Rev. Mr. Wagner was afterward substituted.

"We gave both parties a hearing and were engaged four days and four nights in rumaging through the matters which had been for many years subjects of litigation; and I can say that I never in all my life had a task so hard and disagreeable. There was such a bitterness between the congregations and the preacher Wolf, that an agreement was impossible. The congregations desired nothing but to be separated from the evil man, but Mr. Wolf could argue and speak to his own advantage as well as the best of advocates. We would have willingly declined to interfere and let the matter come to the reverend Ministerium at Hamburg, but that was opposed to the purpose of the arbitration, and the magistrates wished it to be concluded and not to be prolonged still further.

After much investigation we found, first, that Mr. Wolf himself had been the primary cause of all the contention and scandal; second, he was found to be an adulterer, who without right or reason had thrust away his wife; third, he would not live with his wife again; fourth, he had sworn several times before the magistrates that he had administered his office according to contract, and we find the contrary to be the case; fifth, he had not once for the many years during which he had his children with him shown official and paternal fidelity enough to teach them the ten commandments.

Could one then with any equity force the congregations to recognize as a guardian of souls, one who was a corrupt knave, an adulterer, a perjurer, a wolf and a disturber of the community, who did not manage his own household, and should they in reward of his wickedness pay him so much money yearly? The people had also, it is true, transgressed with hard words, but the most of them were innocent, and then Wolf had every time first given the occasion. Had we proceeded with vigor, then no other resolution could follow than to set the congregation free, since no reconciliation could take place. But we asked Mr. Wolf what he claimed; his written answer was, that he desired a sum of money to resign, then he would give up his rights and claims on account of his call. I and Mr. Wagner came to a conclusion in the arbitration and decreed according to the protocol previously made, that the congregations should be free and released. But before this conclusion was sealed and subscribed another was found, to wit, Mr. Wolf stated in writing, that he released and set free the congregations from all claims and rights which he at any time asserted or might still assert, on account of the call. In short, he released the two congregations and gave as a reason his own incompetency.

In return he claimed after a long bargaining the sum of ninety pounds, Jersey money. This money was laid upon those whose property had not been levied upon by the authorities, and who had gone over to the other sects. For those members who in consequence of the writs of execution had been compelled to pay from year to year, said it was fair that the others who had not yet given anything, should bear something of the burden. Since now Mr. Knoll urged it and Mr. Wolf sought nothing else but a sum of money, and the members in part agreed to it, I arose and Mr. Wagner with me and made this the decree of the whole arbitration: Mr. Wolf sold his call and his right, for ninety pounds, and the congregations were glad with ninety pounds to get rid of the godless man, although much sweat of the brow and many drops of blood go into the ninety pounds, for which Wolf had done nothing but cause scandal. When the ninety pounds had been promised to Wolf it was insisted that he should take upon himself the back-standing costs of the court and should further deliver up the the call and the license from the reverend Ministerium of Hamburg, which he had hitherto grossly misused, and which had been like a sword in the hand of a maniac. He handed over the call, and the wardens, who had subscribed their names, tore off the seal and also their names, and gave the names and the seal to me. If the reverend Ministerium of Hamburg desires it, then the already long abused seal can be sent over or destroyed, that it may never again come into the hands of such men, who only bring reproach upon so reverend a body and put a stain upon our evangelical Lutheran religion in this western land.

CHAPTER VII.

REV. CARL RUDOLPH.

NO GREATER service could be rendered to any church than Muhlenberg had performed as arbitrator for the Raritan flock and their unfaithful shepherd. For thus ended at last the long series of law suits and arrests and executions continued for ten years or more from 1734 at least to 1744. How any congregation could have held together after such experience we can hardly understand. But they were still eager for the truth and were only too glad to make another trial of the appointed means of grace, even though they had found to their cost that the truth had been committed to earthen vessels.

We find that the unfaithfulness of the wicked Wolf had not been permitted to deprive the children of instruction in the gospel, and another preacher by the name of

had been asked to supply the lack of service of Wolf. Says Muhlenberg, "the young people had been well instructed in the heads of the catechism and although they had learned it in the Holland language, they also understand German and give the right answers. I administered the communion in both congregations which had not been administered in long years." In regard to settling a pastor over them Mr. M. says, "The two congregations are able and willing to support a pious man generously." "I have found," he says again, "that the people there have much more esteem and reverence for religion and the service of God, than in the rough regions of Pennsylvania."

What a high tribute this was to a people who had been so much abused by one who had usurped the office of the ministry and used it entirely for his own selfish gain. Yet their sufferings were not over and we shall see that they were still to eat their bread with affliction and have their drink mingled with tears, for we are told that "In the meanwhile the condition of these congregations, although they were free from this Wolf, was very lamentable. For eight years there were no confirmations, no sacrament, and everything was in decay. The congregations now turned to H. M. Muhlenberg, who had been among them in the year 1745, as arbitrator in connection with pastors Knoll and Wagner. He says in his journal, Dec. 16th, 1748: "The situation of the Raritan congregation is as follows: (1) Wolf still remains there, and will agree to nothing, but would rather rot there to affront the congregation than go elsewhere; (2) Another preacher also remains there with his wife and children, by the name of Langenfeld, who had served half of the congregations eight years before and, tired of preaching, carries on farming, and like Wolf remains a mere spectator; (3) The Hamburg ministerium also intends to take part should the Halle ministers enter the field, and pastor Berkenmeyer stands watching and would like to stir up Wolf to another law suit with the congregations, if a Halle man is settled there; (4) The congregations have become in the highest degree demoralized by twelve years of litigation; (5) They are afraid to sign a call, as they should, and desire to have full liberty to call and dismiss their own pastors. They have neither a church building, a school house nor a parsonage, and would like to receive some help from the reverend fathers [at Halle]."

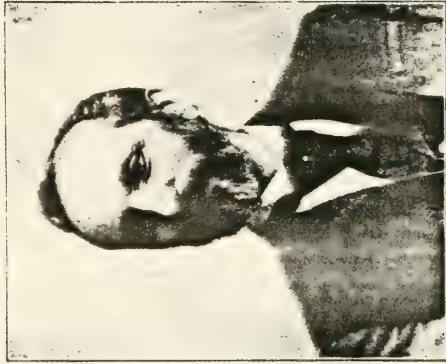

The churches in which they had previously worshipped must have been sold by Rev. Wolf, or perhaps were considered unworthy of the name being simply rude structures of unhewn logs.

"Muhlenberg yielded to their requests and visited them in the fall of 1745, conducted catechetical instruction, confirmation and the Lord's Supper. John N. Kurtz spent December of that year there and gave instruction and preached. In 1746 Muhlenberg visited them a second time and Kurtz spent three months there in the summer. In the spring of 1747 J. H. Schaum was sent thither with careful instructions from Muhlenberg, and spent the greater part of the year there. But in November of the same year [1747] the miserable CARL RUDOLPH came hither with pretended greetings from H. M. Muhlenberg, and genuine recommendations from the wretched Andrea, which recommendations were opposed to the association with Pennsylvania pastors, and with which he gained a certain following. In the meanwhile the friends of Muhlenberg were soon enlightened upon the character of the reprobate. But the congregations were once more disturbed and embroiled, and Kurtz was sent thither in March, 1748, to restore quiet. He remained four weeks. On the 25th of July Muhlenberg set out again thither on a visit, accompanied by a teacher, Loeser. The result was highly pleasing. Hitherto the people had formed four small congregations and there had been preaching now here, now there. But now out of the members of the four congregations, one church council was formed with three elders and two wardens from each of the congregations."

The Carl Rudolph referred to by Muhlenberg was a disreputable man who had crept into the ministry and was enabled to work a great deal of mischief at first in North Carolina, where he had barely escaped hanging by running away, then in Pennsylvania, where he had opposed Muhlenberg and the evangelical preachers, even by the use of the public prints, and finally in New Jersey. He obtained a call from a part of the congregations. But when information about him came from Philadelphia he was forsaken by all but a few. In the meanwhile, however, he had proved himself a worthy successor of the abominable Wolf. Although he claimed to be a Prince of Wurtemberg and therefore of noble blood, he acted in everything but a princely manner. He was a thief and was detected in stealing a coat from Valentine Kraft; was also licentious and in the habit of getting drunk in the taverns.

Such was the second regular pastor of these early congregations. He, probably, had a written call but remained only for a year and then went to Philadelphia, enlisted in the army and disappeared from sight. Muhlenberg says of him in one of his letters: "In this year (1747) just before the arrival of Handschuh, the godless so-called Prince of Wirtemberg, had crept in as a preacher, and in the pulpit and wherever he went slandered our colleague most shamefully. And as some well-disposed people were imposed upon by him, there arose two parties. One fought for our honor and industriously carried on all the beneficent and spiritual work. The other fought against us and indulged in abuse. Revs. Kurtz and Schaum did not labor without some results, but they were too weak and inexperienced in such emergencies and did not possess at all times the power of speaking prudently, and this was to the advantage of the other party. The Prince conducted himself so satanically that the very worst elements of the community turned against him and drove him away. Thus his coarsest calumnies even among his least respectable adherents were our best apologies. When the farce came to an end, both parties came to us and begged us for God's sake to forgive them and continue to help them.

"We gave them a book of condensed 'lessons.' I was compelled therefore to make a visitation upon the last of July, 1748. I found by investigation that only a few restless ones had stirred up the people and had said that no preacher would ever come to them from our college in Europe and that they ought to accept the Prince, who had shown himself to be a pious man from the beginning. When all four of the congregations [what are now Lebanon, Whitehouse, Pluckamin and Fox Hill or German Valley], were met together I was about to withdraw from them and said that we could not have anything more to do with them. The poor youth, the heart-breaking expressions of souls awakened by us, and the tears of the widows so affected me, that I had to promise not to wholly abandon them. They all begged in a pitiful way that we would give them our youngest brother, Mr. Schaum, if we could not give them any other, that they might not be wholly forsaken. After a long time I consented to this, if my colleagues were not opposed. I then chose out of each congregation three men for a common church council, which the best of the congregations had advised and determined upon. These twelve deliberated together with regard to a church building. They wished to build a spacious stone church in some central spot, from which the most distant members would be about ten miles away. Three congregations were united in respect to this. But in the fourth there were a few stubborn ones, who did not agree with the rest but, decided to build a church of their own among themselves. The liberty was given them to build as many churches among themselves as they wished. The three congregations and a few men from the fourth have estimated the cost of the building at 300 and some pounds besides their labor, and they have already subscribed 240 pounds and commenced to build. As we now intend to send Mr. Schaum to them as a matter of necessity, for a long time we thought of his disposition, so weak for such a critical place and the poor congregation (York) across the Susquehanna did not wish to spare him."

This brings us to the pastorate of the third regular pastor namely, John Albert Weygand, and the building of the New Germantown church.

CHAPTER VIII.

REV. JOHN ALBERT WEYGAND.

SINCE Schaum could not be taken away from York, the candidate, John Albert Weygand, whom Muhlenberg had received into his house at New Providence a short time before, was sent thither in November, 1748, but the congregations remained under the oversight of Muhlenberg, under which it had remained since the fall of 1745, and he had occasionally visited them and preached and administered confirmation and the Lord's Supper. For the others had not yet received ordination. Only in special and exceptional cases did Muhlenberg decide that Weygand might offer the communion to individual sick people, but this was disapproved in Halle. On the whole Weygand showed himself capable and faithful, but made a serious mistake in his all too early marriage with the daughter of a VanDieren, who had only just come among them. Yet Muhlenberg counted thirty young people in August, 1749, who were prepared for confirmation, and the new church was under roof so that the accession of the separating congregation was not needed. At the meeting of Synod in 1750 the ordination of Weygand was deferred, but was performed on the second of December of the same year by Brunholtz, Handschuh, Hartwig, Kurtz and Schaum, and the beautiful stone church which did service for nearly 80 years, was dedicated at the same time. On the 4th of the previous October, Muhlenberg had again visited Weygand, and, as opportunity offered, had met with his father-in-law, VanDieren. Now the particular congregations of Rach-eway and Leslysland and Fuchsenberg, disappeared and the one central church in what is at present New Germantown, Tewksbury township, Hunterdon County, N. J., took their place. Weygand remained in the service of the congregations until the beginning of the year 1753. Then he accepted a call, when a disturbance had arisen, to the Hollandish-Lutheran congregations at New York and Hackensack and labored among them until 1767.

In speaking of Weygand Muhlenberg expresses what seems to have the opinion in those days of the education required for the ministerial office. In a request for advice from the society at Halle, Germany, he says: "We would not willingly cause the least damage to the cause of Christ by precipitancy nor would we lose a nail from the structure by negligence. I have with this view written to the Raritan council and have left to their good disposition and judgment the agreement with Mr. Weygand, and am willing to give a permission to preach for one year. In the region of the Raritan a man must understand Latin or English, because in that section there are many of New England Presbyterian preachers, who cherish a great respect for Halle and the blessed orphan house, and like to have intercourse with men from there. An English preacher of the church once complained to me that he wished to talk in English and Latin with Mr. Schaum, but could get no reply. I said that he perhaps did not understand his accent and pronunciation."

Although Weygand was a vast improvement as a preacher and pastor upon his predecessors, as we see by the extracts from his diary, which shall be given later, yet he does not seem to have had either the wisdom of the serpent or the harmlessness of the dove. For when he had gone to the meeting of Synod at Philadelphia, which was the second one after its organization, with the full expectation of being regularly ordained, he was extremely mortified to be put off. And this was after the time had been set for his ordination and notice of it published. The reason for this was found in certain complaints that were made against him by his elders. The account of this is as follows:

A MINISTER'S WOOING.

In H. M. Muhlenberg's manuscript diary at the date of January, 1750, is found the following: "Mr. Weygand reported that he had married in December the daughter of a Mr. Van Dieren. Mr. VanDieren is by trade a tailor and had been forwarded to the province of New York in a complimentary manner with a stock of books by the court-preacher, Bohme, of blessed memory (Ziegenhagen's predecessor in London). His comfortable circumstances and edifying address, the scarcity of preachers, the independent ways of America, the high esteem of the Germans for the court-preacher, Bohme; the man's own desire and longing had all co-operated in enabling him to obtain ordination. The preachers in New York would not consent to it, but showered imprecations and numberless reproaches upon him in the public press. The Swedish preachers in Pennsylvania would not consent to it. At length he was ordained by an old German preacher in Pennsylvania, named Herkel, and sent back with evidences of ordination. After this he preached and administered the sacraments for several years among a few congregations in the province of New York until he moved into New Jersey and labored for several years among the Low Dutch Reformed and Lutheran congregations in common. He was so accommodating there that he administered the communion to the Reformed after their manner, and to the Lutheran after theirs. But at last by this means both parties became at variance, said he was a hypocrite and cast him off. He did not live far from Raritan, visited us several times and would like to have taken charge of the mountain congregations in Upper Milford, Saccum, etc., but the Providence of God, whose leadings we desire to follow, did not so ordain.

"Weygand lived with one of the elders [Baitus Pickle, of Round Valley, New Jersey], who was a man of wealth and had helped on the building of the new church more than any other person, and had also provided out of his own means an organ and other things necessary for orderly worship. This man had two elderly (betagte) daughters. The older had died in the previous fall and the younger, whom I confirmed together with all his sons, was still living. This younger daughter was a virtuous person, had the womanly adornment spoken of in I. Peter, 2, 3-4, was industrious, very skillful in household matters and lacked only the outward beauty of a worldly sort. She was no doubt intended for Mr. Weygand. But he paid his brief respects to her father very abruptly and demanded his consent to be given within a quarter of an hour, and would not give the father the usual time for deliberation, threw the father over [figuratively of course] and then went straight to VanDieren's house and was married to his daughter by her father. After this he kept urging the congregation very strongly to buy a farm upon which he might live. But the people were engaged in the difficult work of building a church and were already in debt. Nevertheless they involved themselves in more debt and bought a farm. Mr. VanDieren then sold his place and bought a farm near his son-in-law. In this neighborhood there also dwelt an old retired preacher, Langenfeld by name, and eight miles off Mr. Wolf is now living."

The elders of the church and another person of equal importance were disturbed by these proceedings and brought against their preacher the following complaints :

1. Mr. Weygand had wooed the elder's daughter not as a minister should, but like a dissolute college youth.
2. He had used in giving the communion to two sick people, instead of the consecrated wafers, red sealing wafers with which letters are closed.
3. When the elders called him to an account for this he had replied that the ministers in Frankford on the Main did thus.
4. He had married the daughter of a man whose oldest son had become a Quaker in Pennsylvania, and whose oldest daughter had married Deyling, a Zinzendœrfer.
5. He had thrown the congregation into heavier indebtedness by impetuously urging them to buy him a farm.
6. Should his father-in-law come to live with him he might lead his son-in-law astray.
7. The congregation were at one time observing a day of strict fasting and prayer, which the authorities had ordered, when two of the elders, on coming into the parsonage after service, found the minister's wife busy at the spinning wheel.

8. When he ought to have given the communion to a sick man, who was going to leave the church several hundred pounds, he was not at home but was engaged in doing his courting and was busied with his personal affairs.

Muhlenberg goes on to remark, "What this ferment may lead to only the future will show." Since the worthy fathers (on the other side of the ocean) could not find anyone to supply the churches on the Raritan and Weygand came so opportunely, I feel relieved of responsibility with regard to him, for I acted with deliberation and indeed under all the circumstances could not have done otherwise than I did. I find first in looking at myself and then in looking at others that the lack of faithful, steady and experienced laborers is a great hindrance to the spread of the kingdom of Jesus Christ. May the Lord have compassion upon us and send faithful laborers into his harvest."

Not long afterwards Mr. Weygand attended a meeting of the Synod of Philadelphia, when he expected arrangements would be made to ordain and install him over the congregations on the Raritan. But what was his chagrin to find the above complaints against him presented by a committee of three elders, who asked that the ordination, already announced publicly to take place at a certain time, should be postponed at least until the new church was dedicated, and their pastor had had time to improve upon his past conduct. Says Muhlenberg "we dare not ordain him forcibly, as it were, but were at a loss what to do, and so also was Mr. Weygand, because it had been given out everywhere that he was to be ordained. The protest was indeed a very great punishment for Mr. Weygand since he had brought it upon himself by his frivolous behavior."

SOME NATURAL COMMENTS.

We do not find fault it is true with this decision of the ministerium. It was the only thing to do under the circumstances. But we do think it is going a little too far, even for so apostolic and altogether adorable a man as Father Muhlenberg, to say that young John Albert, the warm-hearted young minister, should accept a wife, no matter how industrious and pious, who was "intended" (zugesagt) for him. For that no doubt was the very reason he got himself rejected. To be sure her father was rich and influential, but on the other hand his daughter was no longer in her teens and her beauty was confessedly not of a dazzling character. And suppose the other girl be taken into consideration. Because she hadn't been confirmed by the good old Doctor it doesn't follow that she wasn't beautiful both inside and out. She was certainly industrious or she would have preferred the church on a fast day to her spinning wheel. And it was pretty hard for the young minister that he couldn't have time for so important a matter as courting a wife. Now if it had only been the other girl, the rich man's daughter, they might not have said anything about the time or manner of his courting.

Perhaps Muhlenberg's remark in his letter of November, 1749, may explain matters somewhat. "They desired last year to have Mr. Kurtz for their preacher especially under the instigation of the principal member who had a marriageable daughter." So there was match-making going on in the church so early as 140 or more years ago. No wonder young John Albert rebelled against such deliberate scheming. He ought to have been ashamed to have had two strings to his bow, but there seems to have been this difference, one (or at least her father) was courting him and he was courting the other.

The man who was sick and was neglected by his pastor was no doubt Balthazar Pickle, whose legacy of a thousand pounds helped the New Germantown church through the trying times during and after the War of the Revolution.

But notwithstanding his very human weakness Albert Weygand seems to have been a sincerely pious man. This I think will be evident from the following accounts of his work as he recorded it in his diary. He little thought when he wrote this that it would be read so long afterwards by some of the descendants of the very people to whom he was then ministering.

A MINISTER'S DIARY IN 1748.

SEPT. 22.—I have arrived under many good omens among my congregation through the guidance of the Lord. On my arrival my host, Balthes Pickel, told me how Pastor Hartwich openly complained of Pastor Muhlenberg, because he removed Pastor Wolf from his office. This appeared very strange to me since I firmly believed that Pastor Hartwich stood by our association.

25th.—A man of the Reformed Church came to pay me a visit, under the pretext, that a man who had come over the sea with me, had praised me so much, that he feels compelled to get acquainted with me himself. He dissembled at first and asserted the absolute decree [Gnadewahl, i. e. the doctrine of election] and quoted all the arguments in its favor, in order to hear what I would have to answer. But afterwards he said that if a reformed preacher should preach the absolute decree of God, he would publicly contradict him.

N. B.—I thus learned that the majority of the common people agree with us with regard to the absolute decree of God. From another [German] Reformed man I learned that he had noted 100 passages which were against the absolute decree, and this number I increased for him in a private visit. As to what belongs to the Holy Communion they slander us so much the more that I had advised our people not to dispute much with them over so high a mystery, but to answer briefly that we receive it according to the institution of our Almighty Jesus.

28th.—Set out with my host, Balthes Pickel, to visit the members, and to see what household worship they had and how they were off for books [prayer and song books]. This visit pleased various members of the council, who, on this account rode with us and informed me fully what sort of people they were. Among others we meet with a very sick woman whom I asked, after a previous inquiry about her sickness, how it was with her soul. She answered that she cried night and day unto God, that He would have compassion upon one who was so great a sinner. After I had talked further with her, I prayed with her, sang a verse of the song, "Keep Me O Friend of My Soul," and commended her to the Lord. In the next house we visited I met a woman who said that we were not saved by faith but by good works. I answered her briefly, for night had already fallen. In the following visit we met two young married people, who had not been to communion in five years. The reason of this was, as they said, that they had had no regular preacher and when Mr. Muhlenberg came over, they had always heard of it when it was too late.

29th.—Have spent the whole day in visiting, and, alas, have met many families in a truly pitiable condition. Many young people from 20 to 29 years of age, who do not know how to read or spell, have proposed to me, to prepare them for the communion. In the few days that I have been here I have found nothing but a wilderness.

Dec. 3d.—Again visited my people. On the way I talked with two German Reformed people, who lead truly Christian lives. Of these the man was blind. The Lord had on that account so much the more opened his spiritual eyes. After a short talk upon the only righteousness which avails with God, we sang some verses of the hymn, "The One on the Cross is My Dove." On my leaving him, he promised to give a contribution to our church, and begged me to visit them again.

Jan. 19, 1749.—Laid the old Hendershid (Hendershot) in the ground. In this man God has given a wonderful proof of his love for sinners. This man had stained his soul with many sins of unrighteousness as I learned from people who had known him from his youth up. In order to bring him to a knowledge of his sins God had laid him upon a sick-bed for a year and a half. By chance Pastor Muhlenberg visited him three months before his death, and wanted him to be reconciled with his son from whom he had been alienated. But not even the most urgent persuasions were of any use, and he wished to cite his son to appear before the last judgment as is the custom with many revengeful people. At the end of November, 1748, I also visited him and asked him if he was prepared for eternity, but he made himself out so pious, that I had almost never met a man so pious as he appeared to be. I committed him to the compassion of God and gave him the passage in Rom. iv, 5 to think of, though not believing that it would subdue the hardness of his heart. Fourteen days afterwards he was reconciled to his son. Thereupon he expressed a constant longing to see me. On account of absence from home I did not visit him until the day before his death. He could scarcely whisper any longer. Yet he could understand so well that he said he called upon God day and night for a happy death, which his wife confirmed. I prayed with him and sang a few verses of the song, "Lord teach me mine end to know." On leaving I pointed him to the bloody wounds of Jesus, saying, that with the bloody righteousness of Jesus he would overcome if he held on to it in faith and trust. That night he died.

CHAPTER IX.

REV. LUDOLPH HEINRICH SCHRENCK.

W EYGAND was succeeded in 1753 by LUDOLPH HEINRICH SCHRENCK and his ministry also was attended with difficulties and disturbance. The "Mountain" people, as the Pluckamin congregation was called, had refused to give up their separate church and unite with the other three congregations, in 1749, and build one central church which should be not more than 10 miles from any of the people of the congregations. So it was now agreed that Pluckamin should have service one-fourth of the time and pay one-fourth of the salary.

This REV. SCHRENCK was the fourth regular pastor. He staid three years, for two of which he was in the hottest kind of hot water. He was sensitive, proud and irritable in the extreme. He was anxious to marry a rich wife, and yet was very ready to suspect every man, who had a marriageable daughter and who showed him any attention, of having designs upon him.

Also at one time, when two of the most influential elders called upon him upon some matter, and in the course of the conversation mentioned that some of his congregation thought he preached the law too severely and did not present often enough the persuasiveness of the gospel, he became very angry. But he bade these visitors good bye with every show of friendliness, kissing them both in true German fashion before they left. On the next Sabbath before a large congregation, after he had preached an excellent sermon, instead of making the closing prayer, he ordered the church doors to be locked, that no one might leave the house. He then began to abuse and revile the two men, who had been to see him the day before, with such violence that he foamed at the mouth. Every one was in consternation and wanted to know who were intended and who had been abusing the pastor. When it was found out who the elders were, who had so unconsciously give such great offence, all the elders went to the parsonage to reconcile matters, but the quarrel only become more bitter. The next Sabbath everybody flocked from far and near to hear what the minister would have to say for it had been given out that he was to plead his cause again in public. This he did as the account says "with fire and flame" and ended by calling out the names of these elders and excommunicating them from the church. One of these two men was Baltus Pickle, who had been the builder of the church, had paid 50 pounds towards the organ and 25 for the church. Moreover the church was still in debt to him for materials and work in building. This indebtedness was included in the 1,000 pounds which Baltus Pickle afterwards left by will to the New Germantown Church at his death in 1760.

It is interesting to notice that this church had an organ as early as 1754. Schrenck continued to struggle on for two years until he was finally compelled to leave in the year 1756. He treated Mr. Muhlenberg afterwards most shamefully and has left a very unfavorable memory behind him. He finally left for Ireland where for a time he served a Lutheran congregation.

CHAPTER X.

THE MUHLENBERGS.

HENRY MELCHIOR MUHLENBERG—PAUL DANIEL BRYZELIUS—
J. PETER G. MUHLENBERG—G. HENRY E. MUHLENBERG.

THE HISTORY of the German settlers in this part of New Jersey, would be complete without an account of the two pioneer missionaries, MUHLENBERG and SCHLATTER. For while they were not the first preachers to the Germans here and in Pennsylvania, yet they were in fact the real founders respectively of Lutheranism and the German Reformed Church in this part of the United States. They both possessed unusual organizing ability as well as a very high degree of piety and learning. They both, moreover, had to endure considerable persecution for righteousness sake. Also to both alike belonged the honor of bringing together the few scattered churches of their faith into a conference or synod. It is interesting to know that they knew one another and lived together in mutual confidence and esteem. Their paths often crossed each other but no friction ever arose between them. We shall give a short account of these remarkable men.

HENRY MELCHIOR MUHLENBERG was born in the city of Einbeck in the Electoral Principality of Hanover, September 6th, 1711. His parents were Nicholaus Melchior Muhlenberg, a member of the council of the above mentioned place, and Anna Maria Kleinshmid, daughter of a retired military officer.

He went to school from his seventh to his twelfth year and was confirmed at twelve years of age. His father died soon after and he was compelled to set to work to help support the family. This he continued to do more or less until he was twenty-one. He occasionally found time to learn to play on the organ. At twenty-one he resumed his studies especially of Latin and Greek. Providence opened a way for him to gratify his ardent desire for a course of study in one of the universities. The different villages and towns of Germany contributed funds to the support of the recently established university of Gottingen, and were entitled on this account to send a student to the university for free tuition. Muhlenberg happened to be the only one of his native place, who was of the requisite age and had a desire to go to the University, and thus received the appointment. While at Gottingen he yielded for a time to evil associations but not for a long period, for he soon met with a change of heart. And he and some other students engaged in the work of teaching the ignorant and neglected. In May, 1738, he taught a primary school at Halle. But he rose rapidly in public esteem until he became instructor in Theology, Hebrew and Greek.

In August, 1730, he was ordained as a deacon, or assistant minister in the church at Grosshennersdorf, in upper Silesia.

In 1741 he became, at the request of Dr. Francke, of Halle, a missionary to the scattered Lutheran congregations in Pennsylvania. On his journey to the colony of Pennsylvania, he went first to Holland and thence to England. On the 13th of June, 1742, he set sail at Gravesend for Charleston, South Carolina, which place he reached September 22d. During the voyage he suffered very much both in body and mind, from a scarcity of water and fresh provisions, and the roughness of the crew. A similarly painful experience was connected with his journey from Charleston to Philadelphia, where he arrived November 25th, 1742.

At the very beginning of his work Father Muhlenberg, as he might well be called, had to encounter opposition.

"PERILS BY MINE OWN COUNTRYMEN."

Count Zinzendorf had preceded him and was claiming to be a Lutheran, while really teaching doctrines opposed to the orthodox faith. On this account Muhlenberg was compelled to withhold any official recognition from one whose course was not entirely straightforward. Thus the very earliest efforts of the missionaries from Halle were directed to the healing of schism and the correction of errors. And yet nearly all of these men showed excellent judgment in avoiding, as far as possible, all controversial subjects and in depending principally upon the power of the truth itself in its singleness and simplicity. The difficulties of the task committed to these early preachers arose largely from the necessity of satisfying, on the one hand, the rigid conservatism of the authorities in the mother country, where persecution on account of the truth, had made orthodoxy a matter of life and death, and, on the other, of providing preachers or teachers for the numerous congregations scattered throughout New Jersey and Pennsylvania, who were pleading with heart-rending earnestness and persistency for almost any kind of a pastor, who could at least prevent them and their children from relapsing into utter barbarism.

"PERILS BY LAND."

Many were the weary days and nights spent by these heroic men hastening from one scattered hamlet to another, through almost pathless forests and across frozen streams, sometimes with fevered pulse and aching limbs, in order to keep appointments, made weeks beforehand, with people who would come twenty and thirty miles to hear once more the word of life. Often and often we read in the reports of sermons interrupted with the sobs of the hearers and not so much through grief as rejoicing at the sound of the gospel, which they had almost despaired of ever hearing again. In these absences from home wives and children would sometimes be put to sore straits, and the husband and father's heart would have an added load of anxiety to carry on their account.

"PERILS BY WATER."

The following extracts from Muhlenberg's reports will illustrate what has just been said : " Now, as I had to hold divine service in Providence on the 26th of November, 1749, and had as yet to ride twenty miles to my residence, I was obliged to set out from Perkasio on the 25th of November, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They gave me a guide. Night soon overtook us, and therefore we could not ride rapidly, and only came to the Perkiomen creek at 11 o'clock at night, which is still two miles away from my house. To our great surprise, we perceived that the stream since my departure was frozen over hard, and covered with ice. My companion only had a small horse, which in addition was unshod, consequently I had to go before and break the ice. I did this at the peril of my life and remained in the saddle, notwithstanding the leaping and rearing of my horse, and let my companion follow in the footsteps and holes which my horse had broken. In breaking the ice my horse had always to raise himself up in front, and at the same time break a hole with the fore-feet, and keep the piece of ice on the bottom until he leaped after with the hind feet, and then went still further forward. I got over safely, but on account of the dark night, I missed the outlet on the other side; and came with my companion to a bank, which was high and almost perpendicular. Back I would not again venture, for the broken holes were not easily found again in the darkness. We took off the saddles, and by the aid of some bushes clambered up on land, and resolved to make an attempt with our horses also. We tied the girths to the bridle of the small horse, and compelled him to stand on his hind feet, so that he could reach on the bank with his fore feet. We pulled, and the horse helped himself bravely onward with the hind feet, and safely reached the shore, as he was young and nimble. But when we would do the same with my horse, that was old and stiff, the bridle broke, and the poor beast fell backward with all his weight into the ice, so that he lay on his back in the water with his legs up, and locked in by the ice, and must thus have been drowned. I gave up the poor beast, because I saw no possibility to help him. My companion, however, would not rest but in great anxiety he cut a lever with a small knife, sprang down with it, and made a great opening in the ice, helped the horse so that he laid on one side, and at length worked himself on his feet again. Thereupon the horse anew broke through again, and would go back on the other side, but on account of weakness stuck fast in the middle of the stream in the ice, so that we could help him no more in any manner. We laid our saddles and baggage on the other horse and wished to go the rest of way home on foot, lost ourselves in the dark thickets, and walked around for about half an hour in a circle, until the stars once appeared in the heavens, and showed us where we were, when we got home about 3 o'clock."

The horse was rescued the next morning nearly dead and Muhlenberg had to meet his appointments with a serious illness creeping upon him as a result of his long exposure. The year before, 1748, he had been absent on one of his long tours, the return from which is thus described: "When I reached home on the 5th of May, I found my wife and two children down very sick with the measles. The wife was not properly cared for in my absence, and the wrong medicine was administered by which the measles were checked. This resulted in a suffocating catarrhal affection on the next day. It had proceeded so far that she had lost her speech and had assumed a brown color." Mrs. Muhlenberg finally recovered, though her life had been despaired of. She was the daughter of Conrad Weiser, who was prominent in the early history of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania as an interpreter and agent in connection with the Indian tribes.

HIS GIFT OF TONGUES.

And yet Dr. Muhlenberg was a man of very superior education. He had a good knowledge of Greek and Hebrew, and spoke the English, German, Latin, Holland and Swedish languages. He was given the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the University of Pennsylvania in 1784.

He preached in New York on one Sabbath in German in the morning, in Dutch in the afternoon and in English in the evening. He was possessed of a fine tenor voice and could play on the organ. His disposition was gentle and conciliatory and he seemed incapable of resenting an injury or even remembering a wrong. His tact and patience were often put severely to the test and never seemed to fail. He combined breadth of mind with the most methodical and conscientious regard for the details of routine duty.

It is principally the reports of Dr. Muhlenberg's work that make up the Hallesche Nachrichten. While the pastor of several churches in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, in name, he was really an itinerant bishop. He was a very earnest patriot during the Revolutionary war. He died Oct. 7th, 1887. His funeral was attended by a vast multitude. Three of his sons were sent to Germany to go through a course of theological training. One of these was Henry Ernst Muhlenberg, D. D., a man of scientific attainments, a skillful botanist as well as a most successful pastor and preacher. Dr. Muhlenberg's accounts of his work reveal him to have been a man of humble and fervent piety, a searching preacher and yet very gentle and considerate in his dealings with the weak and wayward. He seemed to find it his meat and drink to preach the truth. His consecration and zeal were unbounded. When once he had promised to visit a distant congregation, no weakness or weariness, no difficulty or danger could prevent him from keeping his appointment. In short there is no name on the annals of any evangelical church which represents a more exalted type of christian life and labor.

PASTOR IN NEW JERSEY.

The stone church at New Germantown, N. J., was erected at his advice, and is a monument of his practical judgment and of his powerful influence in this section. He was in fact the pastor of the Raritan churches from 1757 to 1775.

Father Muhlenberg's relation to the Raritan region began at the time of the trouble with Wolff in 1745 and continued for 30 years. For seventeen years he was the formally chosen rector while others served regularly in his place as his assistants. The gratitude awakened in the hearts of these people by the deliverance from utter ruin which he had secured for them by his patience, tact and decision, grew more and more warm and trustful, the more they learned to know him. It was therefore a most joyful time with them when in the year 1758 while on a visit to them, he consented to come the next year and spend twelve months. He felt he could not do less, though his own people of Providence had a prior claim upon him, since the Raritan congregations had built a new and more commodious parsonage expressly for his use in four months after he had objected to the smallness of the old one.

The long expected month of June, 1759, came round and Muhlenberg set out on Monday the eleventh from Providence in a wagon with his wife and four children. The three others were left in Pennsylvania. Six wagons had been sent to the Delaware river, twenty-five miles from New Germantown, to meet him. When he arrived some elders and their wives were present to welcome him and his family and to offer them a well prepared repast. Mrs. Muhlenberg returned on a visit to Providence, September 19th, and Muhlenberg on the 26th. They both returned on October 19th. He also visited Hackensack (Nov. 27th to Dec. 4th) with Wm. Graaf, a student of theology, afterwards his successor in the Raritan churches.

In June, 15th, 1760, Muhlenberg set out for Pennsylvania, accompanied by his son Peter and Jacob Van Buskirk, of Hackensack, a student of theology under his care. He returned again the next year, March 26th, and ministered to the Raritan churches in spiritual things. One year of such service as this man of apostolic spirit and power would render could not fail to produce lasting results.

It is interesting to note here the presence of Muhlenberg at the dedication of the Bedminster church [in Pluckamin] in 1758 at which time he preached both in German and English to a large concourse of people. He speaks of the great rejoicing at New Germantown, Bedminster and other places at the news received October 18th, 1759, of the capture of Quebec by the English.

According to the representations made to Muhlenberg, to induce him to spend a year with the Raritan people, by a delegation which visited for that purpose in the year 1757, he had a second time saved these people from falling into ruin. In 1761 he sent

PAUL DANIEL BRYZELIUS

(or Prizelius) to them to act as assistant pastor. At first his services were acceptable and in 1765 he was given a regular call as assistant pastor, but he soon afterwards lost favor with the people and the next year, 1766, he left his wife and family in the parsonage, because his salary had not been fully paid, and set sail for London to receive Episcopal ordination. He then went to Nova Scotia, where, however, he was unsuccessful in his ministry. Bryzelius was born in Hæradshammer in the diocese of Linköeping, Sweden, and came to Philadelphia in 1742 with Count Zinzendorf. He was converted from Moravianism under the influence of Dr. Wrangel and was received into the Lutheran ministerium Oct. 29th, 1760.

The next year after the departure of Bryzelius, Muhlenberg visited the congregations April 23d, 1767, and in May, 1768, sent his oldest son, to minister to the Raritan churches. He remained until March, 1772. He probably occupied the parsonage as he married 16th November, 1770, Anna Barbara Meyer. Peter had returned from Germany in 1766 after a three year's sojourn there, during which time he had served as a clerk in a drug store and a soldier in the British army. For two years, however, he had studied theology with Dr. Wrangel and was licensed the 20th of June, 1769. From New Jersey he went to Woodstock, Va., after receiving Episcopal ordination in London. His ardent temperament could not resist the revolutionary fever and he became a Colonel in the American army and afterwards attained the rank of Major-General. His place as assistant pastor of the Raritan churches, was taken by his younger brother, who had returned from Germany in 1770, was ordained the same year, on Oct. 25th, when he was not quite 17 years of age. He remained in New Jersey until he received a call to be the assistant of his father in Philadelphia on the 4th of April, 1774.

JOHN PETER GABRIEL MUHLENBERG,

GOTTHILF HEINRICH ERNST MUHLENBERG,

CHAPTER XI.

NEW GERMANTOWN AND GERMAN VALLEY.

EV. ALFRED HILLER, D. D., delivered the following sermon in German Valley on the 2d of July, 1876: When the first church building was erected at German Valley, it is hard to tell, as the church historian in those days it seems was not abroad. There is a tradition, however, which has come down to us from the oldest inhabitant, that the first building for divine service was built many years ago, and that it stood on or near the site of the old stone church, the walls of which are still standing. This church, like the old stone church, was doubtless a union church, built probably as early as 1747 [1761] by the Lutherans and German Reformed. The Lutheran Church in the Valley was for many years associated with the church at New Germantown, where the pastor resided and preached at regular intervals, as well as at German Valley and Spruce Run, so that for a long time the church was only an outpost, with no pastor residing on the territory, but supplied by different brethren from abroad. In those days it was the fashion for the members of this church frequently to attend church at New Germantown, nine miles from here, often going on foot, and barefooted at that, the ladies carrying their shoes in their hands until they came within sight of the church.

The fathers and mothers of those days were not "carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease."

[To avoid repetition part of the discourse is here omitted as the facts stated have already been given.]

In the year 1774, during the ministry of Henry Muhlenberg, Jr., the Lutheran and German Reformed congregations of German Valley determined to build a new church, to be the common property of the two congregations. This is the OLD STONE CHURCH.

Before building, an article of agreement was drawn up and signed by the pastors and officers of each congregation.

This building, now 100 years old, is still standing, and with proper care, the walls look as if they would stand another century. You are all familiar with the old church building. There used to be a heavy gallery on one side and across each end; the entrance on one side, under the gallery, and on the opposite side was the pulpit—one of the Jack-in-the-pulpit style, with sounding board suspended above. There is no chimney on this church, for the fathers here had a novel way of making themselves comfortable on cold Sundays. In the centre of the church a space about eight feet square was made with a ground floor, and on this square a great mass of charcoal was burned, the congregation getting for their share at least the smell of fire, while the preacher from his exalted position, nearly over the burning mass, received a double portion of gas to mix with his sermon.

The next minister called to this field after the building of the old stone church was the

who was settled here as pastor in July, 1775. He came here from Bergen county and labored in this field until his death in 1808.

During his ministry a new church was built, and a congregation was organized at Spruce Run. Mr. Graaf was a native of the town of Liningen, in the southwestern part of Germany.

He pursued and finished his theological education in Giessen, in Hesse-Darmstadt. After his arrival in America he was orained by Rev. Dr. Muhlenberg as pastor of Hackensack and Ramapo, in Bergen county, N. J. Mr. Graaf continued to labor here for thirty-three years—a pastorate longer by far than any who have as yet succeeded him. He is described as “a learned and pious minister of the gospel, faithful in the discharge of his official duties ; but when age and bodily infirmities forbade their continuance, the congregation cheerfully supported him until the time of his death.” Mr. Graaf, who was pastor here one hundred years ago, was succeeded by a native of Germany, who had for eight years been a classical teacher in the gymnasium at Nazareth, Pa. Dr. Hazelius took charge of the churches here in the month of August, 1809. His pastorate continued until near the close of the year 1815, when he accepted a call to the newly established Hartwick Seminary as the first Professor of Theology. This was the only pastoral charge that Dr. Hazelius ever served, the remainder of his life from the time he left this field having been devoted to teaching.

The name of Dr. Hazelius to-day stands high in the history of the church in this country, he having occupied the honored positions of Professor of Theology in the Theological Seminaries at Hartwick, Gettysburg and Lexington, S. C.

THE RECORDS OF THE CHURCH,

now in our possession, begin with the ministry of Dr. Hazelius ; and of his ministry what is principally recorded is the number of baptisms, which were transcribed from the records at New Germantown by Dr. Pohlman.

The following is the first entry by Dr. Hazelius : “On the 1st day of May, in the year of Our Lord, 1815, a number of the Lutheran congregation in the Dutch Valley met at their meeting house in Washington township, Morris county, for the purpose of electing seven persons as trustees of said church agreeable to an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled ‘An act to incorporate trustees of religious societies,’ passed 13th June, 1799, when the following gentlemen were chosen by a majority of votes of the members and voters then and there present, viz.: Isaac Roelofson, Jacob Karn, Philip Weise, Andrew Weise, William Nachrite, Frederick Swackhamer and Joseph Karr, who, having chosen Jacob Karn as president and Andrew Weise secretary, took upon themselves the name of Trustees of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in the Valley, Washington township, Morris county, by which name they will hereafter be known in law; and on the 10th day of June the above-named gentlemen were sworn into office before Nicholas Neighbor, Esq., one of the Justices of the Peace for the County of Warren and the State of New Jersey, according to the oath hereunto subjoined. Witness our hands this 10th day of June, A. D. 1815.

Although the election took place sixty-one years ago, I am happy to say one of that Board of Trustees, F. Swackhamer, is with us to-day, and is still an office-bearer in the church. The record gives the names of seventy-five persons baptized by Dr. Hazelius.

Among these names we find the following: First on the list, Lambert Bowman, son of David Neighbor, October 29th, 1809; Lawrence Hagar, John H. Weise, Catharine Naughtright, Jacob Weise, Sylvester Neighbor, Philip Welsh Swackhammer, Samuel Karn, David Swackhammer, &c. These are still familiar names in the Valley.

Dr. Hazelius was succeeded by the

a graduate of Union College, Schnectady, N. Y., and who had studied theology under the direction of the Rev. Frederick Mayer at Albany.

Rev. Hendricks took charge of this pastorate in August, 1816, and labored here six years, when he accepted a call to the Lutheran Church at Saddle River, N. J.; of his subsequent history I have no source of information. His records were imperfectly kept, and from them we learn that during his ministry he baptized ninety-eight children. Among these are the following familiar names: Isaac Roelofson, Isaac Stryker, Margaret Stelts, Isaiah Trimmer, Isaac Swackhammer, States N. Weise, &c., &c. On the resignation of Rev. Hendricks, a call was extended to the first graduate of Hartwick Seminary, who had recently left that institution, and had been preaching for the church at Saddle River, N. J.

REV. HENRY N. POHLMAN

Dr. Pohlman took charge of the churches at New Germantown, German Valley and Spruce Run in the month of August, 1822, and labored here most acceptably and efficiently for twenty-one years.

His records in the Church Book are beautifully written. The following is his first entry: "On the 1st of August, 1822, in consequence of an invitation from the Board of Trustees of Zion Church, New Germantown, the Rev. H. N. Pohlman visited that place and preached with approbation in the several churches."

Elections were held after public worship in each of the congregations at New Germantown, German Valley and Spruce Run on the 12th, 13th and 14th of said month, when it was unanimously resolved, "that the Rev. Henry N. Pohlman be called as rector of the three united congregations."

Accordingly, after a general meeting of the trustees of the said congregations held at the Valley on the 18th, the following call was presented to the said Rev. Henry N. Pohlman and was accepted by him on the 26th at a meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod assembled in Schoharie, N. Y., in the presence of F. C. Schaffer and Lewis Ernest Hazelius.

Then followed the call which was signed by the trustees of each church.

The following are the names of the church officers who represented this church: Jacob Karn, Isaac Roelofson, Joseph Karn, Jacob Weise, Andrew Weise, John Dufford, John Dusebery, William Naughtright.

Dr. Pohlman was installed on the 20th of November, 1822, by the Rev. F. C. Schaffer, of New York. One of the most important events of Dr. Pohlman's pastorate was the building of a new church. This took place in the year 1832.

Up to this time the two congregations in the Valley—the Presbyterian (formerly German Reformed) and the Lutheran had occupied the old stone church. But now both congregations conclude that it was not advisable to continue this partnership arrangement any longer, and the two

CONGREGATIONS SEPARATED.

Hence this year each congregation built their own church and they have been separate and independent of each other ever since.

THE NEW CHURCH

which forms the three walls of the present edifice was 40x45 feet from outside to outside, built of stone on this lot which was presented by Neitzer W. Weise, Esq. The following is the record of the laying of the corner stone: "The corner stone of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, to be known hereafter by the name of Zion Church, German Valley, was laid with due solemnity and in proper place on Whitsun Monday, the 11th day of June, 1832, and in the fifty-seventh year of the Independence of the United States of North America, under the direction of Henry N. Pohlman, pastor, Jacob Karn, Jacob Weise, John Dusebery, John Dufford, Jr., Philip Karr, Trustees; Jacob Karn, Jacob Weise, F. Swackhammer, Building Committee; David Bulmer, master carpenter: John Gray, master mason." Conscious that except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it, the commenced work was then solemnly committed to the superintendence of the all-glorious Architect and Governor of the Universe, and the congregation dismissed with the usual benediction. The following is the Doctor's record of the consecration of this church:

Through the smiles of an ever kind and gracious Providence the work commenced in His fear, was duly finished and on the 25th of November, the pastor had the pleasure of consecrating it to the worship of the triune God in the presence of a crowded and attentive audience."

The Rev. W. D. Strobel, of St. James' Church, New York, who kindly assisted on the occasion, then led the minds of his willing hearers to an exemplification of the duties connected with the sanctuary by addressing them from 1st Tim., III, 15: "That thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." The pastor followed in an address from Ps. V, 7: "But as for me I will come into thy house in the multitude of thy mercies and in thy fear will I worship toward thy holy temple."

May the solemnities of that day never be forgotten.

May the eyes of the Lord be open towards his house day and night! May He abundantly bless His people into whose hearts He hath put it to build a house for His name, and may they be built up a spiritual temple—an habitation of God through the spirit, through Jesus Christ, our Lord, Amen. May this prayer of the former, and now sainted pastor, be yet more fully answered. The following is the report of the Building Committee:

The Building Committee of Zion Church beg leave to report that in attending to the duties assigned them they have expended the following sums:

To the master builders as per contract.....	$1,355.00
Materials and payment of workmen.....	619.91¼
To the purchase of stoves and pipe, trimming for pulpit, &c.....	175.47

Making whole cost of the church..... $2,144.38¼

Of this amount all was paid or subscribed except $230.88¼.

At a meeting held in 1840 we find this resolution:

RESOLVED, That John Gulick be appointed sexton and that he be allowed $5 per annum for his services.

Labor was cheap in those days.

LUTHERAN CENTENARY.

At a meeting of the church officers in January, 1842, the following resolution was passed:

RESOLVED, That depending upon the blessing of Him who loves the cheerful giver, we will endeavor to raise during the centenary year $500, to be applied as a permanent fund to the benefit of our beloved Zion, and hereafter to be known as the centenary fund of the Evangelical Lutheran Zion Church, German Valley.

RESOLVED, That the collectors, John Naughtright, A. Howell, J. Dufford, P. Hann and G. Dufford, be special agents to receive subscriptions for the centenary fund and that the pastor be general agent for the same purpose.

This was the centenary of American Lutheranism, which dates back to 1742, the year that the Rev. Henry M. Muhlenberg, D. D., came to this country.

Another interesting item for this year is the report of the Trustees that the pastor's salary was paid regularly in full and $5 still in treasury.

On the 28th of July, 1843, Dr. Pohlman resigned this charge and on the 10th of September preached his farewell sermon, having accepted a call to the Lutheran Church in Albany, New York. While pastor here Dr. Pohlman received eighty members into the church by confirmation and baptized 320 children.

The name of Dr. Pohlman is still fresh in the memory of the most of us gathered here to-day. Although it is more than thirty years ago since he left this charge, up to the day of his death, he never forgot his old and tried friends in the Valley, neither is he forgotten by you. His circle of friends and admirers was not confined to his own church and his own denomination and of him it may be truly said to-day, "The memory of the just is blessed." Few, if any, men in the Lutheran Church in this country were more widely known or more highly honored.

At three different times he was elected President of the General Synod, while for many consecutive years he presided at the meetings of the New York Ministerium, New York Synod, and Synod of New York and New Jersey. Of all the pastors in German Valley and the region round about, none have been more generally popular than Dr. Pohlman. His successor in the church here was who took charge of this field in the month of November, 1843. Mr. Keiser, I believe, was a graduate of the college and seminary at Gettysburg, an excellent man and good sermonizer. He served the congregation for a short time, for it was during his pastorate, in the year 1846, that by mutual consent the ecclesiastical which heretofore existed between the two congregations of New Germantown and German Valley. The following are the resolutions then passed at a joint meeting of the officers of the New Germantown and German Valley congregations :

UNION WAS DISSOLVED,

RESOLVED, That the ecclesiastical union heretofore existing between the said congregations be by mutual consent dissolved at the close of the present month, October, 1846, and that each congregation relying on the assistance and blessing of the great head of the church will endeavor to make suitable provisions for comfortable support of a pastor.

RESOLVED, That we recognize with gratitude to God, the harmony and fraternal feelings which have characterized these two congregations in all their conduct toward each other during the many years they have been associated together, and that we will continue to regard each other as one in Christ, to love as brethren, and take a lively interest in each other's temporal and eternal welfare.

In those days all the church officers were called " Trustees " and were sworn into office before the civil magistrate.

The records show that Mr. Keiser during his ministry here received 22 persons into the church by confirmation and two by certificate from other churches, and that he baptized 24 children. Near the close of the year 1849 he received and accepted a call to the church in Schoharie, N. Y., and labored in this important field for seven years, when he accepted a call to St. James Church, Gettysburg, from which he removed to Dixon, Illinois, in 1861. After three years labor there he engaged in an agency for the American Sunday School Union. His youngest son being brought home from Yale college, prostrated by sickness to the verge of the grave, he resolved to make a home for his family in the milder climate of his native State, where he resided three years when the Master called him to his reward. He was born in Waynesboro, Augusta Co., Va., Sept. 28th, 1812 ; died near Petersburg, Va., October 12th, 1872, aged 60 years.

The following lines which were among the last pencilings in his common place book are inscribed upon his tombstone :

"'Tis sweet to labor in service blest,
Though labor with pain be blended ;
But sweeter by far with our Lord to rest,
The toil and the warfare ended."

We now come to the history of this church as an independent organization, and as most of you are familiar with this part of our history it will not be necessary to go into details.

As an independent self-supporting congregation this church is only thirty years old. The first resident pastor here was who succeeded Mr. Keiser in November, 1846. Mr. Deyoe is known to you all unless it be the younger members of the congregation. He is a graduate of Union college and I believe studied theology both at Hartwick and Gettysburg.

His first charge was at Woodstock, Ulster Co., N. Y., and from there he came to German Valley. His labors here were greatly blessed. To have a pastor of your own, who lived in your midst and devoted all his time to this one charge, gave a new impulse to the congregation and infused new life into the church.

At this time, and indeed before this time, the name of our esteemed brother, appears with a praiseworthy prominence among the office bearers and supporters of the church. On the arrival of the new pastor Mr. N. opened his heart and his doors too and took in the young dominie and his wife and for a very trifling consideration kept them during the whole winter and indeed until the parsonage which he was very largely instrumental in building, was finished and ready for occupancy.

Many of you remember how in those days when the church was weak—when friends were few and foes formidable, this good brother stood by the church, sparing neither time nor money, nor influence in his efforts to promote the prosperity of Zion. In his attendance upon the preacher's word—in the cheerful and liberal support he gave the church and in his efforts to bring his friends and neighbors with him to the house of God, providing and running a hack for years for this purpose he has set an example worthy of all imitation and his name deserves special mention in common with this part of the history of this church. During the ministry of Brother Deyoe the church enjoyed several precious and large numbers were gathered together in the church. There were at one time, February 6th, 1848, thirty-five persons received into the church ; at another time forty-two ; at another thirty.

At the head of the list of confirmations we notice the name of E. M. Battles. Brother Deyoe labored here until in the spring of 1858, when he resigned and accepted a call to the churches at Saddle River and Ramapo, N. J., in the neighborhood of which he still continues to labor. The charge having been divided a few years ago, he now preaches at Ramsey station in a new church which he has organized at that place. From the records of the church we gathered the following summary of Bro. Deyoe's labors while pastor here : Confirmations, 176 ; baptism of infants, 216 ; attended 97 marriages and 163 funerals.

REV. ALFRED HILLER, D. D.

Mr. Deyoe was succeeded by your present pastor, September 10th, 1850, nearly 18 years ago. As we to-day review these 18 years which have so rapidly passed into eternity we have great reason for gratitude for the repeated and continued tokens of the divine favor.

During this term the church record shows 239 additions to the church, 188 children baptized, 114 marriages and 206 funerals. Among the improvements made during the present pastorate, we would mention the rebuilding and enlarging the church in 1861. The total cost of these improvements was $4,485.66. Of this amount $415.24 were paid for bell and fixtures and $349.16 for furniture, cushions, lamps, &c. Dr. Willet, Morris Naughton and Nathan Anthony, were the building committee. In the year 1866 the parsonage was rebuilt and enlarged at an expense of about $2,400, and in the year 1869 the organ was placed in the church at an expense of $1,200.

The record shows 921 children baptized and 519 persons received into the church by confirmation. The present resident membership is 230 communicants.

Such, at the close of the first 100 years of our nation's history, is the history of this church.

As we contrast the church to-day with what it was 100 years ago we have reason to thank God and take courage.

What the next centennial will be depends very much upon us and our children.

Let us remember we are making history, and with such a history before you may you gather new inspiration to-day.

With a faith so pure and scriptural—with a government so in harmony with our free institutions and with such a history together with the memory of what our own beloved church has done for us and for our fathers—truly she is worthy of our love and untiring devotion.

May the language of our hearts to-day be

“For her my tears shall fall ;

For her my prayers ascend ;

To her my cares and toils be given,

Till toils and cares shall end.”

We add to the above a few items to bring the history down to the present time. In the

GERMAN VALLEY CHURCH

the Rev. Dr. Hiller resigned his pastorate of 23 years in 1881 to accept a call to the chair of Theology in the Hartwick Lutheran Seminary at Hartwick, N. Y.

He was followed in the year 1891 by Rev. Benjamin B. Collins, a returned missionary from Africa, who served the congregation until the year 1890, when the Rev. WILLIAM S. DELP, his brother-in-law, was unanimously called 27 November, 1890, and began his work the 12th of January, 1891, and is still laboring in this field. In the the Rev. Mr. Keiser's successor in 1850 was the Rev. GEORGE S. COLLINS, who was followed in 1853 by the Rev. JACOB DUY.

In 1872 the REV. JOHN F. DIENER accepted a unanimous call and remained until 1879, when he was succeeded by the REV. JOHN P. KRECHTING, who is still serving most acceptably the congregation.

CHAPTER XII.

THE GERMAN REFORMED.

MICHAEL SCHLATTER—WIRTZ—STAPEL—DALLIKER—WACK—AND GERMAN VALLEY CHURCH.

HAVING FOLLOWED the history of the Lutheran division of the Early Germans we now turn to the German Reformed branch. What Muhlenberg was to the Lutheran churches, his friend and fellow-countryman, Schlatter, was to the German Reformed people. Born at St. Gall, in Switzerland, in 1716, July 14th, he spent some time in Holland, after completing his studies as a teacher, and then, returning to Switzerland, became the Sabbath evening preacher in a church near his birthplace. He soon, however, offered his services to the Synod of North and South Holland as a missionary to the destitute churches of Pennsylvania, which were at that time calling so loudly for help. He arrived at Boston August 1st, 1746, whence he proceeded to Philadelphia. He married, October 11th, 1747, Maria Schleidorn, of New York. We have only space to notice briefly his very extensive labors in organizing and developing the very small beginnings of the German Reformed denomination. His labors were of the same general character as those of Muhlenberg. Like the latter he cheerfully placed his life in danger to visit the weak and struggling churches scattered so far from one another in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and even Virginia. No searcher for wealth, no enthusiast in scientific exploration endured more hardships or encountered more dangers than did these two devoted missionaries in their unwearied "work of service and labor of love." Schlatter's zeal was not without knowledge, and his tact and good sense carried him safely through trials and persecutions which would have overwhelmed a man of less balance of mind and correctness of deportment. It is said of him that "he was fond of order and had the power and tact of organization in an eminent degree. He was prompt and punctual in his appointments, careful and exact in all his business." Like Muhlenberg he was a man of fervent piety and insisted upon a personal experience of the power of the truth. Though carrying on his heart the burden of all the churches he could be in the social circle "free, familiar and full of vivacity and cheerfulness." Moreover, while devoted in heart and soul to his own inherited type of evangelical belief, he was entirely free from sectarianism and bigotry and no unseemly rivalry arose between him and his Lutheran compeer. In 1757 he accepted a chaplaincy in the British army and was present at the capture of Quebec. Two years later he gave up this position and settled at Chestnut Hill near Philadelphia. At the same time he served congregations at Barren Hill, Franklinville and other neighboring localities. He died in the month of October (?) 1790, in his seventy-fifth year.

THE CHURCH OF GERMAN VALLEY.

The following church history is an enlargement in some parts and a curtailment in others of a discourse by REV. ISAAC ALSTYNE BLAUVELT, delivered 28th April, 1870. Free use has also been made of Harbaugh's "Fathers of the German Reformed Church."

On the twenty-third of May, 1746, the deputies of the Synods of South and North Holland commissioned a certain Michael Schlatter, to come to this country to visit the various German settlements, organize churches, preach the gospel, administer the sacraments, prepare the way for the settlement of ministers, who might be sent from the old country, and take the general oversight of the churches. He had received a considerable portion of his education at Helmstadt, in the Duchy Brunswick, in northwestern Germany. He was fully inducted into the office of the ministry in Holland—probably in the year 1745. In accordance with the commission received from the Synods of South and North Holland, he sailed for America on the 1st of June, 1746. He reached Boston on the 1st of August. From there he went to New York, and thence to Philadelphia. Boston was at that time the largest town in America. He says it contained about three thousand houses. New York, or New Amsterdam, had about two thousand houses. Philadelphia had seven streets running north and south, and seven running east and west. It had about ten thousand inhabitants, and was the second city in America.

Schlatter made his home in Philadelphia, and became the pastor of the German Reformed Church in that city, in connection with the one at Germantown. But he was at home only a small portion of his time, being mainly occupied in visiting and superintending the various churches throughout the country. He kept a journal of his travels, which is still preserved. In this journal are some matters of interest to us. Thus he writes in one place: "When I had safely arrived at home on the third of July, 1747, I found a very earnest and moving letter, written by several congregations in the province of New Jersey, namely, at Rockaway, Fox Hill and Amwell, in the region of the Raritan, distant about seventy miles from Philadelphia. They urge me, with the strongest motives, yea, they pray me, for God's sake, to pay them a visit, that I may administer to them the Lord's supper, and by baptism incorporate their children with the church, who have already, during three or more years, remained without baptism." The church of Amwell was at Ringoes, in Hunterdon county. Rockaway is now known as the Reformed Church of Lebanon, and the Fox Hill church is described as "located at the foot of a hill of that name, in German Valley, about thirty miles north of Amwell." [H. Harbaugh]. It was more probably the church on the aunt Katie Sutton farm between German Valley and Fairmount.

It would appear from the letter which Schlatter received, that there had been no minister here for three years or more, and while the general state of morals and religion was, no doubt, pretty low, still the letter proves that there were some earnest christians. I quote again from Schlatter's journal: "On the thirteenth of November, 1747, I undertook the journey to the three congregations in New Jersey, from which I had, on the third of July, received a most friendly and pressing invitation to meet them. On the fourteenth, after a journey of sixty miles, I came to Rockaway. Here I received twenty young persons into the church as members, after they had made a profession of their faith; preached a preparatory sermon on the fifteenth, and on the following day administered the Holy Supper in a small church to an attentive and reverent assembly. In the afternoon I went to Fox Hill, where I preached a preparatory sermon, and on the following day, which was the eighteenth, administered the Holy Supper to forty members. After I had performed this solemn service, to the great edification of the congregation, and had yet, in each place, preached a thanksgiving sermon after the communion, I returned again to Philadelphia on the twentieth, joyful in heart and giving thanks to God for the support which He had rendered me. I cannot refrain from referring briefly to the fact that those three congregations, from gratitude for the service I had rendered them, handed me a pecuniary reward; and this was the first money which, since my arrival in America up to this time, I have received from any congregation for my labor and pains." Thus early did this congregation show a disposition to be liberal and generous toward its minister—a disposition which it has always cultivated. In after years, the people of this valley acquired quite a reputation for kindness to their pastor—a reputation which they have never lost, and which they still continue to deserve. Schlatter again visited this church in the early part of June, 1748, preached and administered the sacraments. There was a third visit on the eleventh and twelfth of October, of the same year; and a fourth visit, from the twenty-second to the twenty-seventh of May, 1749, and a fifth in June, 1750.

In the fall of 1750, Schlatter was sent to Europe by the German Reformed Synod (which he had himself been instrumental in forming), for the purpose of seeking help, both in men and in money. In his efforts he was highly successful, receiving the gift of seven hundred bibles and a considerable sum of money. Six young ministers were also sent over, and a general interest in America was awakened in the churches of Holland and Germany. This church, however, received no direct benefit from all this, for none of these men came to the Valley and the money was used elsewhere. For Schlatter said that the people here were "able to provide properly for the support of a minister, and also willing, with great cheerfulness to do it." Schlatter, moreover, reported to the Synods of South and North Holland, that this church, together with that of Rockaway, "implores earnestly that God may at length send forth a faithful laborer into this harvest." This prayer was soon answered; for in that same year, the people of the two congregations were made happy by having a minister settled among them. The first German Reformed pastor was

REV. JOHANNES CONRAD WIRTZ.

In the town library of Zurich occurs the following: "Johannes Conrad Wirz left Zurich for the Carolinas; is said to have met Anna Goetschi on the passage and to have married her in America, since which nothing has been heard of him."

This notice connects him with a family whose records, carefully kept, go back to the middle ages. JOHN CONRAD was the fifth son of JOHANNES CONRAD, SEN., who was born 1661, May 5, at Zurich, married Magdalena Klingler, and became a minister in 1682. He was catechist at Wiedikon and afterwards pastor at Neukirch in 1685; became pastor at Kloten in 1691 and was chosen deacon at the Silberschild, January 15, 1704. In 1728 he was appointed minister of the church at Kerensen, in Switzerland, where he died April 20, 1730; beside our first pastor, he had five sons and six daughters.

On the 29th of May, 1735, the ship Mercury landed at Philadelphia. It contained Palatines and Switzers to the number in all of 186. First on the list of those who sign the declaration of allegiance at the Court House in the presence of Governor Gordon is CONRAD WUERTZ. In this same ship were Johannes Moelich, Jacob Maurer, Conrad and Jacob Conrad Naffe and Jacob Naeff. The first and last of these families, and perhaps also the second, settled in New Jersey in the vicinity of Pluckamin.

Among the passengers who are marked absent occurs the name of Henry Goetschy. Of those under sixteen we have Rudolph Goetschy and Moritz Goetschy. The Rev. Moritz Goetschy, who is said to have come over in the same vessel, and whose daughter John Conrad Wirtz married, must have died before the vessel arrived, or immediately afterwards, as his name does not occur in the list. (See Rupp's Thirty Thousand Names, p. 99).

The next we hear of Mr. Wirtz is that he (or at least a Swiss bearing his name, only spelling it as it is on the list of emigrants, Wuert), is pastor of the "Egypter" congregation in Lehigh county in the year 1742. He served this congregation until 1744 and baptised fifteen children. It is said that nothing is known of this man afterwards, but there is nothing to contradict the supposition that he was the same as John Conrad Wirtz.

"In 1746, Oct. 14th or 15th," says Michael Schlatter, "a certain J. C. Wirts, of Zurich, came to visit me, who endeavored to excuse himself for having served as a minister for several years in some congregations in this country without any regular call or ordination. He said he had done this partly in compliance with the earnest solicitations of the people—who would be edified by an unordained teacher [rather] than remain entirely destitute of spiritual nourishment—and partly on account of having been destitute of any other means of support; and he humbly entreated me to lend him my counsel and assistance, that he might obtain from the Fatherland a regular ecclesiastical induction into the office of the ministry, and afterward be properly installed as pastor in some churches that might desire his services. I gave him to understand that I was not yet sufficiently well acquainted either with his abilities or manner of life, nor with the disposition toward him of those congregations in which he had hitherto performed his irregular labors ; but that I hoped in the ensuing spring to be able to investigate the matter, and report to the respective Synods as the circumstances of the case would seem to warrant, and then await their orders."

Meanwhile, it appears Mr. Wirtz continued in his congregations. On the 28th of June, 1747, Mr. Schlatter came to Saucon, where he speaks of a congregation served, at that time, by this Mr. Wirtz. Mr. Schlatter preached there on the 29th and asked the congregation if they desired Mr. Wirtz to be authorized to serve them as their regular pastor. As there was not perfect unanimity, Mr. Schlatter went on nine miles farther to Springfield, or Schuggenhaus, a congregation under the irregular care of Mr. Wirtz, where he preached on the 30th, and put the same questions with the same result as before at Saucon. There is nothing in all this, we are told, reflecting in the slightest degree upon Mr. Wirtz's moral character.

The next record relating to our first Reformed pastor is found in the minutes of the Synod of New York, which body included the Presbytery of New Brunswick. It is dated Newark, Sept. 27th, 1750. "The High Dutch congregation of Rockaway, in the township of Lebanon, applied to the Synod that they might be taken under the care of Synod, and that a certain person now preaching among them may be taken under examination, and, if approved, ordained as a minister. The Synod, in order to clear the way to transact anything with said people, do appoint Mr. Pemberton to make inquiry, of the Dutch ministers of New York, whether said people do belong to their jurisdiction ; and he is to acquaint a committee of Synod how that matter is. And the Synod appoints Messrs. Pierson, Burr, Arthur, Smith and Spencer ; their committee to sit at such time and place as they shall appoint, and transact, in said affair, according as things shall then appear to them." Sept. 21, 1751.—The committee report that, difficulties rising in their way, from time to time, they could do nothing in the matter ; and, as application is again made, they recommend that it be referred to the Presbytery of New Brunswick, to do as they think best, when the matter is laid before them.

Sept. 28, 1752.—According to the appointment of Synod, the Presbytery of New Brunswick examined the affair of the Dutch congregation at Rockaway, and ordained Mr. Worts (Wirtz) to be their minister." The above is from Records of the Presbyterian Church pp. 241, 243-4 and 246. Rev. Richard Webster in his History of the Presbyterian Church says, page 610, Conrad Worts "was taken up as a probationer, September 3d, 1751, Rockaway asked for him, May 9th, 1752, and he was ordained their pastor on the 5th of June. * * * He was dismissed Oct. 21st, 1761."

The following is an entry made by Mr. Wirtz in the church book of the church of York, Pennsylvania, which gives a detailed account of his removal from New Jersey :

"On the 21st day of August, in the year of our dear Redeemer, Jesus Christ, 1791, I, Johannes Conrad Wirz, minister of the word of God and installed pastor of the congregations of Rockaway and German Valley in Jersey, received an invitation from this congregation by the hands of Mr. Balthaser Spangler, to visit and preach to them, in the hope that a gracious God would incline our hearts to an affectionate union, and thus again supply this forsaken flock with a faithful pastor and teacher. With the divine blessing and favor, I concluded to accept this invitation, and determined to undertake the journey accompanied by the aforementioned Mr. Spangler. Accordingly, we set out on the 27th day of August and arrived here safe and in good health on the first day of September. On the following Sabbath I preached my first sermon, and, by request, delivered three or four additional discourses subsequently, which were so blessed by the Father of Light that the respected congregation, with unfeigned affection unanimously desired me to become their pastor, inasmuch as the Rev. Mr. Lischy had forsaken them, and as the members, individually, had confidence in me. A formal and regular call, dated September 12, 1761, and signed by the elders and members was tendered to me, which I was unable to decline, yet accepted only on condition that I should be able to obtain the consent of my congregations in New Jersey and of the reverend Presbytery of New Brunswick, by which I had been ordained to the work of the ministry. Subsequently, on obtaining the consent of my congregation and receiving a dismissal from the reverend Presbytery of New Brunswick, dated October 24th, 1761, I removed to this place in the name of the Lord Jesus, and arrived on the 5th of May, 1762, and on the following Sabbath, being the 9th of May, preached my introductory sermon from Rev. X, 10, having resolved to serve this congregation according to the grace of God in the preaching of the word and the administration of the sacraments, whereunto may a merciful God, for Jesus' sake, grant and communicate the grace, strength and aid of his Holy Spirit.

JOHANNES CONRAD WIRZ, V. D. M.

May 12th, 1762.

There are no records of his ministry in any of the German churches he served in New Jersey. His descendants, however, are found in the State and in this vicinity to the present day. Indeed the present Governor of the State, the HON. GEORGE THEODORE WERTS, is a great-great-grandson of the Rev. John Conrad.

His ministry in the congregation of York continued for only a year and a half, when he was called home to his rest and reward on Wednesday, September 21st, 1763. He was buried on the Friday following. His wife survived him. His children will be found in the genealogy of the Wirts family. During the short period of his ministry in York, he baptised eighty-three children, and buried fourteen persons. How many were added to the church is not known, but it appears that the congregation flourished. A new church was erected during his ministry. At the laying of the corner stone he preached from the text Ezra III, 10, 11. He seems to have been enabled to attend to his duties till near the end. His last baptism was performed August 14th, 1763, about one month before he died. At the time of his death the floor was not laid in the church; so they buried him in the church, under the altar.

"Tradition," says Rev. Mr. Harbaugh, "has preserved his name in good savor, as an earnest and pious minister. The church records, at York, bear various incidental marks of his zeal for the church, and his personal piety and devotion."

"After the laying of the corner stone," says the records, "the pastor expressed the following wish : In the church now to be erected may Piety preside, Holiness reign, Truth ever prevail, Love and Harmony dwell."

After Mr. Wirtz left the Valley, the congregation was without a pastor for a number of years. It is probable, however, that the people enjoyed the occasional ministrations of who was settled over the German church at Amwell. This Mr. Stapel was an energetic and efficient minister, and his labors at Amwell were greatly blessed. In a short time, eighty-four persons were added to the church, and his consistory declared that he has "thus destroyed the thought, that in a short time, New Jersey must acknowledge the English Presbyterian church as their church." But Amwell is now a Presbyterian church, and there is not a German Reformed church left in the whole region in which Stapel may have labored. He probably preached also at Alexandria, Knowlton and Stillwater.

Mr. Stapel was born in 1721 and died March 17th, 1766. He was buried in the cemetery at Ringoes. October 29th, 1762, the consistory of the church at Amwell wrote to the Synods of North and South Holland in regard to Mr. Stapel. They praise him and gratefully rejoice in his success. There are, they say, two schoolmasters laboring under his direction ; they stand fully under the coetus ; his ill-natured wife refuses to come to this country ; they desire them to call upon her in the Hamburg papers, to come to her husband, and, if she does not obey, to free him, have him legally divorced, that he may marry again ; "as it is necessary for a minister, in this country, to be married." They say seven years, the legal time, has transpired since she abandoned him. Stapel signs himself President of the Coetus of Pennsylvania, in a letter to the Fathers in Holland, May 17th, 1763. He was also president of a special meeting of the same body, October 24th, 1763.

His will dated Feb. 12th, probated March 5th (?), 1766, [Trenton, Lib. 12, fol. 414], speaks of his wife, "left behind in Germany," and his two sons, John Casper and John Andries, for whose benefit he leaves 72 ducats, in the care of his brother-in-law, John Peter Franks, of the city of Rostock, belonging to the Duke of Mecklenberg Schwerin. He also makes bequests to Catherine, the wife of John Housilt of Amwell, to the youngest son of Peter Huffman, late of Amwell, and to Peter Mire, "who formerly lived with me." In the probate of his will he is described as a doctor of divinity and physic.

REV. FREDERICK DALLIKER was the second regular pastor of the churches of German Valley, Fox Hill, Rockaway, Alexandria and Amwell. He probably also preached at Knowlton and Stillwater. He was born the 2d of February, 1738, and died the 15th of January, 1799, at 60 years of age. The name is said to have been originally de la cour, denoting Huguenot descent. The records of several of the churches under his ministry begin with his pastorate, viz., German Valley in 1769 (May 14th), Rockaway (Lebanon) in 1768 (Nov. 6th), Stillwater with the articles of Union in 1769 (Oct. 12th). The Lebanon book is dated 1762, August 5th, and it may be that the first records are torn out. The inscription on the first page reads Kirchen-Buch für die Racheweyler Evangelisch-Reformirte-Gemeine, 1762, den 3ten August.

At this date Wirtz had left this charge and either Stapel or Dalliker took his place. It seems more probable that Stapel, whose death occurred at Amwell in 1766, and who was therefore living in this part of New Jersey up to that date, was the pastor of these churches until then. This latter date would therefore be the more probable one for the beginning of Rev. Dalliker's ministry. He began to preach about 1757, according to the statement on his tombstone, where it is said that "he served the Reformed Church in this country forty-two years."

In the minutes of Coetus (Synod) of 1770, it is mentioned that Mr. Dallicker had left the congregation of Amwell on account of strife among them. He continued to minister to the other churches until the fall of 1782. He then removed to Goshenhoppen, Pa., where he remained until 1784. His family will be found in page 320 of the genealogies in Part II of this work. He is buried at Faulkner Swamp where a suitable memorial stone marks his grave. The text at his funeral was Heb. XIII, 17.

We have in our possession

THE CHURCH RECORDS

kept by Mr. Dalliker. They are very meagre, however, being not much more than a list of baptisms and confirmations. The following is a translation of the first record made :

"Names of elders and deacons of German Valley congregation, 1769.

Wm. Welsch, Caspar Eick, Conrad Rorick, Diedrich Strubel.
Officers elected in the year 1777, instead of those above :

Morris Scharpenstein, Jacob Heil, Peter Heil, Jacob Schuler."

After this we have a "list of those instructed in regard to the Holy Communion and confirmed." To understand this language, we must recollect that in those days, no person was admitted to the communion, without previously going to the minister to be taught by him privately, with respect to the doctrines and duties of religion. And all the church members were catechised before every communion. This list, as it appears on the church record, is divided into four parts: First—Single men. Second—Married men. Third—Single women. Fourth—Married women.

For the year 1769, there are fourteen young men, three married men, twenty-five single women, and three married women—forty-six in all. After this, in the course of the twelve years of Mr. Dalliker's pastorate, there were eighty-five added to the communion of the church. Among these names, are a number not now found among us, but others are very familiar.

The list of baptisms by Mr. Dalliker commences with the year 1768. Among them all, there is only one adult baptism recorded; all the rest are infants. And for the thirteen years there are two hundred and twelve baptisms recorded—an average of more than sixteen a year. In the year 1774, there were twenty-nine infants baptized, and the number was nearly as great for several years. During the Revolutionary war, there were not so many.

During Mr. Dalliker's pastorate, it was determined to build A NEW STONE CHURCH.

It is probable that the old log church had been the property of both the Lutheran and the Reformed congregations. At all events, the stone church was built by the two in partnership. Before building, articles of agreement were drawn up, and signed by the representatives of the two churches. The original paper was in German, and is not known to be in existence at the present day. But we have an old translation of this ancient document. This translation is as follows :

“Whereas, we the members of the Evangelic Reformed congregation, and we the members of the Evangelic Lutheran congregation, who by reason of the preachers which we have with Germantown, and by reason of the money expended for the church and parsonage-house are members of Zion's Lutheran Church, living in the Dutch Valley, Roxbury township, Morris county, are willing to build a meeting-house jointly :

Be it hereby known to all men that the following conditions were agreed to by the subscribers, representing both congregations, viz :

I. Both parties have agreed to build the meeting-house at their united expenses, so that none of the parties may throw up anything to the other.

II. As the church is built jointly, so it shall be kept up by our posterity jointly : the friendship of both congregations giving us hope that in case of the necessary repairs of the meeting-house, the weaker party will be supported by the stronger.

III. Both parties, with respect to Public Worship, shall have an equal right ; in case both preachers should meet together, then, alternately, the one must wait till twelve o'clock, upon the services of the other.

IV. For the good of both congregations, none shall be admitted to preach, but such as are under a regular church government.

V. Whereas, we do not only concern ourselves for ourselves, but for our posterity also, it is our will and opinion that none of the parties shall or can sell their right, in any way or manner.

Acted this 4th day of February, 1774, which is testified :

Frederick Dellicker, V. D. M., Henry Muhlenberg, Jr., Deputy Rector of Zion's Corporation.

Wilhelm Welsch,	Philip Weise,
Diedric Strubel,	Christoph Karn,
Conrad Rohric,	Leonard Neighbour,
Caspar Eick,	Roulof Roulofson,
Anthony Waldorf,	John ^{his} Schwachhamer,
Adam Lorentz,	^{mark} Andrew Flacky.

The above is a true copy of the original German agreement, translated by me the subscriber, this 3d day of May, 1817.

CASPAR WACK, V. D. M."

In the building of the house, the people of the two congregations turned out in a body to cart stone. It had been a previous agreement, that whoever on the day appointed, should bring the first load, should receive the honor of having his horses decorated with flags and ribbons which had been prepared for the purpose. There was much excitement on the subject, each one determined, if possible, to secure the prize. Judge David Welsh, who lived near the ground, where David the Fourth now resides, determined to try a little strategy. Accordingly on the evening before, he secretly loaded his wagon with stone, and then concealed it through the night. In the morning, he was up betimes, had his horses harnessed, and started for the ground before sunrise. But he was none too early; for as he drove up to the spot, he heard the heavy wagons thundering down the mountains on both sides. And although he won the prize of the decorations, he was but little in advance of many others. And before he could get his stone unloaded, all German Valley was on the ground.

The building erected was a very creditable one for that time. It was of good size, and very substantially built, the walls after standing nearly a century, appearing as strong as ever. And from the present appearance, there was some attempt at elegance in the finish of the structure.

That the interior of this venerable building has been so despoiled is a matter for regret. It ought to have been preserved intact, as a sacred relic of a by-gone age. The pulpit floor still remains, high up in the air, about the size of a barrel-head, with a great sounding-board suspended above it. At first no provision was made for heating the church—our fathers being made of better stuff than their children, and not so accustomed to study comfort. After a time a little “ten-plate” stove was introduced, but as this was found to be of little use, a pit was made in the centre of the building, in which, without any chimney, a mass of charcoal was burned. The old people say that this did not warm the house, but it did make many of the people sick, and it was a common thing for people to be carried out of church. The remains of this old charcoal pit may still be seen in the building.

It would be an interesting thing if we could have a photograph of the congregation to which Mr. Dalliker preached in the new church. There were no dainty little loves of bonnets to catch the admiring eye; neither was there a bewitching jockey hat and feather to drive the young men to distraction. The dresses were not cut according to the pattern of Harper's Bazar, or Godey's Lady's Book, but all was plainest homespun, made up in the plainest style. The men generally wore no coats, and a goodly number were barefooted. The whole aspect of the congregation was such as would surprise us in these days. There can be no doubt but that you are a better looking people than your fathers.

In the year 1782, Mr. Dalliker left the Valley, and removed to Goshenhoppen, Pennsylvania. He died January 15th, 1799, at the age of sixty years, ten months and seventeen days. He was buried in the German Reformed graveyard of Faulkner Swamp. His descendants are still living in the Valley, and at other points adjacent.

Mr. Dalliker's successor as pastor of the Valley Church was

with regard to whose life we have a somewhat detailed account. He was the son of John George Wack, a native of Wittenberg, in Germany, who came to this country and settled in Philadelphia in the autumn of 1748. Soon afterward he was married to Elizabeth Schuyler. He was a shoemaker by trade ; a highly respectable man and an elder in the church on Race street, Philadelphia. He had four children : Caspar, John Jacob, Barbara and Elizabeth. Caspar was born August 15th, 1752. When a boy he gave evidence of considerable mental ability. His pastor, Dr. Weyberg, became interested in him as a promising lad, took him into his family and educated him. In his seventeenth year he was sent to the vacant church at Lancaster to act as catechist. A few months afterward he preached publicly to the congregations of Tohickan, Indianfield and Great Swamp. These congregations were so much pleased with the young preacher that they sent a call to the Coetus for his regular services as their pastor. This was in 1771. According to the minutes of the Coetus, "Mr. Wack was examined in the truths of God's word, and as to the way of salvation ; and, having rendered full satisfaction to the Reverend Coetus, it was agreed and resolved that he should continue to catechise and preach in these congregations as heretofore ; his ordination, however, shall be deferred for the present, till the Reverend Fathers, Synods of Holland, have been consulted in regard to the matter, and what they shall advise shall hereafter be done in regard to Mr. Wack." The precise date of Mr. Wack's ordination is unknown. It probably took place as soon as permission was received from the Synods of Holland. He was the first young man born in America who entered the ministry of the German Reformed Church, and he was the first man ever ordained by that church in this country. Shortly after his ordination he received an invitation to visit Europe, with the promise of having his expenses paid and a handsome present beside. But, out of respect for the wishes of his parents, he declined the tempting offer and went on with his ministerial labor. His charge was an extensive one, embracing a large part of Montgomery, Bucks and Northampton counties.

Not long after his ordination he was married to Barbara Leidy, of Franconia township, Montgomery county. He continued in this Pennsylvania charge till 1782, when he was called to the churches of German Valley, Rockaway and Fox Hill. This call he declined ; but, on its being sent to him the second time, he accepted it, and soon afterward removed to the Valley. Beside preaching in these churches, as pastor, he also supplied the congregations at Stillwater, Knowlton and Sussex Court House. A truly extensive charge! If your minister should be heard to complain of the length of the drive to the Lower Valley, it might not be improper to remind him of Caspar Wack.

REV. MANLIUS SMEDES HUTTON, D. D.

PREACHING IN ENGLISH.

When Mr. Wack first came to the Valley the preaching was all in German, but, in course of time, as the English came gradually to be the language of the majority of the congregation, he adopted it in his pulpit ministrations; and toward the latter part of his pastorate he preached only an occasional sermon in German to please the old people. As to the character of Mr. Wack's English in his earlier days, we may get an idea from a story that is told of a certain army officer, who happened on one occasion to be in the neighborhood where Mr. Wack was to preach. Having understood that Mr. Wack was a German, he went to church to hear how a German sermon would sound. On his return he expressed himself as very much pleased. He "never knew before that German was so much like English." He "could understand a great deal of what Mr. Wack said." It so happened that Mr. Wack's sermon on that day was in English; or at least he meant it for English. In later years Mr. Wack came to understand English better, although he always had a decided German accent. It is said that there are some of his sermons still in existence, written with a great deal of care, in correct English, with the pronunciation of the words marked as he had found it in his dictionary.

Mr. Wack was possessed of some knowledge of music, and while in the Valley he TAUGHT A SINGING SCHOOL.

This school met at private houses, and was attended with no little interest by the young people. The hymns sung were in German. I am told by one who was present in this school, as a child, that the "old Dutch singing was better than the English singing is now-a-days." It was generally in the fugue style—the various parts chasing each other about like snow flakes in a high wind.

In addition to his ministerial labors, Mr. Wack carried on a farm. His farm embraced that now [1870] owned by Mr. John Swackhammer, together with that of Mr. Andrew Creger. He lived on the spot where Mr. Swackhammer's house now stands. Beside the farm, he made use of the water power which he had on his place, to drive an oil-mill and a fulling-mill. With all these irons in the fire, he yet made money, amassing a considerable property while in the Valley.

As may be conjectured from the number and diversified character of his employments, and from his general success he was a man of no little activity, both bodily and mental. Though a short man and quite stout, he was very light on foot, and he was fond of exhibiting his agility. In those days, before eight hour laws or ten hour laws were dreamed of, he used to be out with his men at the first peep of day; and when the call to breakfast came, it was usual for him to say, "Now, boys, a race!" and as tradition has it, he was rarely beaten. There are several stories told of the quickness of

HIS WIT.

A Universalist preacher, once attempting to dispute with him, affirmed that his doctrine was an old one—that it was preached in Paradise—meaning to claim the promise of the seed of the woman to bruise the serpent's head, as a proof of the doctrine of universal salvation. Mr. Wack replied, "Yes, your doctrine was preached in Paradise, and the devil preached it; his text was, Ye shall not surely die." At another time, a Restorationist was urging his false doctrine that after suffering a certain length of time, the wicked will all be released. "If that be so," said Mr. Wack, "I don't see what you have to do here, where I am doing all I can to prevent people from going to hell; your proper mission is in hell itself, preaching the gospel of prospective deliverance to those who are in torment." Another story is told of him which shows that he was not backward in rebuking sin. One day, while on one of his long journeys, which he always made on horseback, a young man stopped him and asked permission to ride. "Certainly," said Mr. Wack, "get up behind me." Now it happened that this young man was one whose life was a great way from the teachings of both law and gospel, and when once seated on the parson's horse, Mr. Wack gave him such an amount of wholesome admonition that the young man afterwards declared it to have been the hardest ride that he ever took.

Mr. Wack was regarded as a man of considerable learning for his day, and while in the Valley he had several students with him in course of preparation for the ministry. Among these was his only brother, John Jacob Wack. After completing his course of study in the Valley, John Jacob Wack settled at Amwell, and afterwards removed to Fort Plain and Stone Arabia, in New York. He acted as chaplain in the army during the war of 1812.

The ministry of Mr. Wack in the Valley was not unsuccessful, so far as gathering members into the church is concerned. During the twenty-seven years of his pastorate, ninety-eight persons were confirmed as communicants.

Mr. Wack had one daughter, who died young, and nine sons, who lived to grow up. Of these, George became a minister and preached in Pennsylvania; William lived in this Valley and became an elder of the church, and many of the old pastor's posterity are still with us.

Mr. Wack left the Valley in 1809, to take charge of the churches of Whitemarsh and Germantown, in Pennsylvania. He served the two churches for twelve years. He then gave up Germantown and served Whitemarsh for two years longer. This was his last regular charge, though he supplied some churches in Chester county for several years. The last four or five years of his life, he resided with his son, Dr. Philip Wack. He died at his son's house, July 19th, 1839, lacking only seven days of being eighty-seven years old.

After Mr. Wack left the Valley the church was vacant for four years. And not only was there no settled pastor, but there was a destitution of the regular preaching of the word. It was only now and then, at irregular intervals that the congregation enjoyed a visit from a minister. Still the church was held together, and the Lord's work went on. During the four years' vacancy, there were thirty-one confirmations.

But yet the people were not satisfied. They longed for the privilege of regular worship. And as from their remote position and other causes, the German Reformed Synod of Pennsylvania was unable to help them, the people felt constrained to look to their Presbyterian neighbors. And as their only resource, they resolved, as a body, to seek admission into the communion and fellowship of the Presbyterian Church. The Reformed Synod remonstrated; but the congregation answered that their only reason for desiring to change their ecclesiastical connection was necessity—a reason which is always satisfactory.

So here endeth the history of the German Reformed Church of German Valley.

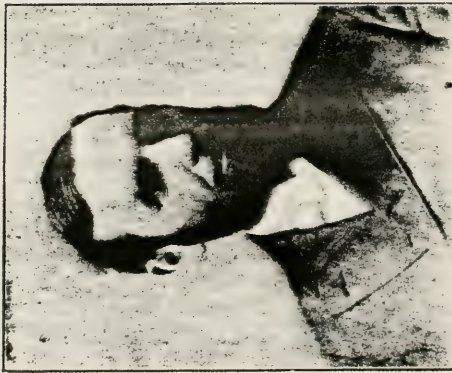

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF GERMAN VALLEY.

In the year 1813, German Valley was within the territorial limits of the Presbytery of New Brunswick. When, therefore, the churches of German Valley and Fox Hill determined to enter the Presbyterian connection, they presented their application to the Presbytery of New Brunswick. Their request was made on the 5th of October, 1813, and on the 6th it was granted. On the same day, October 6th, they presented to the Presbytery a call for the pastoral services of to labor in each of the churches one-third of the time. Mr. Castner was a native of Somerset county, brought up near Pluckamin. He had been licensed by the Presbytery of New Brunswick, at Newton, January 15th, 1812. He had preached in the Valley for a little time before the call was made out, and it was partly on his account, and through his influence, that the congregation had decided to connect themselves with the Presbyterians.

On the 9th of November Presbytery met in German Valley for the purpose of ordaining and installing Mr. Castner. He was first examined as to his views of the sacraments and church government. He then preached his trial sermon from John

REV. ISAAC ALISTYNE BLAUVELT, D. D.

REV. EDWARD F. LINNELL.

III : 16—"God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." These exercises proving satisfactory, Presbytery proceeded with the ordination and installation services. George S. Woodhull presided, Rob't Finley preached the sermon, and David Comfort gave a charge to both pastor and people.

When Mr. Castner entered upon his pastorate he found composed of the following members : David Welsh, David Miller, Henry I. Huffman and William Delliker.

When Mr. Castner came here the church consisted of thirty-seven members, of whom Mrs. George Neighbour is the only one now living, in attendance upon the church ; and, partly as a consequence of the long vacancy, the state of religion and morals was not very encouraging. The new pastor, therefore, set himself to work as a reformer of abuses. Mr. Castner was admirably fitted for this. He was a man of superior mind, strong convictions, both as to truth and duty, great perseverance and energy, and a spirit that was perfectly fearless.

Rev. D. X. Junkin, D. D., says of him : "What virtuous mind that knew him did not love and admire him? Had all my hearers known him, as many of them did, my task were done when his name was pronounced. But all did not know him. Bodily he was rather under medium stature ; but his frame was lithe, compact and firmly knit. Dark hair, a keen and penetrating dark eye, aquiline features, a brow betokening great powers of thought, a mouth and chin indicating great firmness of purpose and of principle, a manner and gate quick and determined, made him a man of marked presence. He possessed a mind of decided force and acuteness. He grasped a subject with strength, and wielded it with power. He was a natural orator ; and one of the best, if not the very best, extempore speakers in the Presbytery or the Synod. His readiness in this respect was probably a hindrance to the full development of his really great powers. His very active and laborious habits, and the multitude of his preachings, led him to rely too much upon his extempore powers, and prevented that culture in the study that would have made him one of the most polished and impressive pulpit orators of his generation. As it was, he was an able, laborious and successful minister of the Word. An early and fearless champion of the temperance reformation, he probably did more for that cause than any man in the bounds of the Presbytery. Once convinced that a thing was right, nothing could swerve him from its advocacy. He was utterly fearless—a man of unwavering moral courage. But whilst bold as a lion in defending the right and denouncing the wrong, he was gentle as a lamb and tender as a woman in the intercourse of social life. A warm-hearted friend, a sympathizing comforter, he was one of the most interesting conversers I ever met. A natural gentleman, he could be firm without arrogance, and entertaining without egotism. He was almost idolized in his congregation and was respected and beloved by his brethren and throughout the churches. Born at Liberty Corner, he pursued his classical studies at Basking-ridge and Princeton, and studied theology under Dr. Finley, of Baskingridge, for whom he always cherished great veneration. German Valley, Fox Hill and Black River [Chester], were the first field of his labors. At the formation of the Presbytery of Newton he was pastor of Mansfield, in which he was settled in 1820, and here he continued until on the 26th of April, 1848, when he was suddenly arrested by the hand of death, and borne from his earthly toils to his heavenly rest. 'He fell with his armor on. Long had he stood in the front of the battle. For thirty-five years he fearlessly confronted error, immorality and worldliness, as an ordained minister of Jesus Christ. The effect of his sudden exit from us is as when a standard bearer falleth.'—[Discourse at Jubilee Newton Pres.].

It was during Mr. Castner's pastorate that the first Sunday school in German Valley was established. This important event took place in the year 1816. The school was organized in an old red school-house, which stood at the southeast corner of the old grave-yard. Mr. Castner himself acted as Superintendent, though afterwards assisted by David Welsh, the third. A very efficient teacher in the school was a Miss Bracket, a New England lady, mistress of the day school. She was afterwards Mrs. White, and the mother of Rev. Dr. White, not long since pastor at Mendham. Among the other teachers in that first school were Conrad Raric, William and David Neighbour. They studied the bible and the New England primer. And not only did they learn the Shorter Catechism, but the Larger Catechism was also recited. Library books and children's papers there were none, but this lack was, perhaps, not in every respect a loss.

During Mr. Castner's pastorate there was no very extensive ingathering of members at any one time. Still, the preaching of the word was blessed, and there were additions to the membership of the church every year except 1818. During the whole seven years of his pastorate, thirty-four were added on profession and four by certificate. In the winter of 1820-21, Mr. Castner removed to Mansfield (Washington, N. J.), where he labored until his death.

Mr. Castner was succeeded almost immediately by

JOHN C. VAN DERVOORT.

He preached here before he was licensed, while still a student of theology at New Brunswick. Dr. Campbell complained of this to Presbytery as an irregular proceeding, and, the Presbytery sustaining his complaint, it was brought before the Synod; but no very decided action appears to have been taken by that body. Mr. Van Dervoort was soon after regularly ordained and installed as pastor of German Valley and Fox Hill. His home was in the Valley—the house now (1870) occupied by Mr. John Miller, at Middle Valley. This house was owned by the two congregations of German Valley and Fox Hill, in partnership.

Mr. Van Dervoort was not remarkable for his learning, nor for his ability as a sermonizer. But he was a good man, with a sincere love for souls. He had a remarkably fine voice, "a smarter voice than Mr. Hutton's," and showed a great deal of heart in his preaching. There are a number still living who remember the earnest, tender and affectionate manner in which he used to persuade people to seek the Saviour.

So far as the addition of members is concerned, Mr. Van Dervoort's pastorate was a successful one. In the year 1822 forty-three persons were added to the church at one communion season—forty-six during the entire year. The whole number of additions on examination recorded, from 1821-1825, was fifty-two. Mr. Van Dervoort left here in 1828 to take charge of the church of Basking Ridge. He died at Ghent, N. Y., in 1850.

The next pastor was

who, though born and brought up in the Dutch Reformed Church, had studied theology at Princeton. After his graduation he labored for a short time at Wawarsing, N. Y. From there he came to German Valley in 1828.

When Mr. Hutton came to the Valley he found a church composed of seventy-two members. During his pastorate twenty-two were added on examination and ten by certificate. The first entry made by Mr. Hutton in the sessional records is the account of the nomination by the session on February 6th, 1829, of David W. Miller, George Neighbour and Geo. Crater as of the church. They were all elected on the 18th of February and ordained soon afterwards.

One of the most important events of Mr. Hutton's pastorate was the building of the

NEW CHURCH.

It came about in this way: A new congregation had just been established at Clinton, and, as Mr. Hutton had been preaching there, greatly to the edification of the people, they called him to become their first pastor. This call Mr. Hutton was inclined to accept, but the Valley people were loth to lose him. Thereupon, Mr. Hutton promised the congregation that if they would build a new church, he would decline the call to Clinton. So, partly under the stimulus of a desire to retain a much beloved pastor, and partly from a conviction that a new house was needed, the people set to work to build.

It was determined that the new house should belong to the Presbyterians exclusively, both congregations being convinced that it was not advisable to continue the partnership business any longer. The Lutherans accordingly built a church at the same time, 1832, and the two congregations have been independent of each other ever since.

In the building of the church, there was a great difficulty in determining the location. At one time, it was decided to build on the hill near Middle Valley, on the ground now occupied as a cemetery. Afterwards a lot was chosen a little below the present residence of P. W. Swackhammer, in a wheat field—and the unripe wheat was actually cut off to clear the ground for the builders. Finally, however, the present site was chosen, and the lot was given by Mr. Hager and Mr. Swackhammer. But this was not done without much discussion—Mr. Swackhammer being anxious to save his garden, and Mr. Hager finding it hard to spare his favorite pear tree. The lot question being settled at last, the next thing was a plan for the new church. This Mr. Hutton procured from Mr. M. Thompson, a New York architect, the father-in-law of Robert Carter, the celebrated publisher. Such a thing as an architect's drawings had never been heard of in German Valley or any where in this part of the world. The event, however, proved the wisdom of Mr. Hutton's course in this particular ; for when the church was finished it was esteemed a marvel for beauty, and for many years it retained its pre-eminence as the handsomest church by far in this whole region of country.

The cost of the building was about three thousand dollars. This was raised by subscription. The largest amount given by any one man was three hundred dollars, from Leonard Neighbour, the father of all the Valley Neighbors. Considering the circumstances of the times, and the amount required for the building, this subscription was about equal to one of a thousand dollars at the present day. An example of liberality which is truly admirable, and well worthy of imitation.

Mr. Hutton left the Valley in 1834, to become the colleague of Rev. Dr. Matthews, in the pastorate of the South Dutch Church of New York. The congregation to which they ministered afterwards divided, one portion with Dr. Hutton as pastor, forming the church on Washington Square. Dr. Hutton still continues in this charge, and has become one of the most prominent and influential ministers in the denomination to which he belongs.

Mr. Hutton's successor was

a licentiate of the Presbytery of New York. Mr. Scott was a man of considerable learning, and superior ability as a preacher. He was a Scotchman, and he had the Scottish habit of preaching long sermons. But his sermons were not mere long strings of words; there was solid timber in them. Some objected to his preaching that he was always harping on fore-ordination. And it is certainly not a little remarkable that within so short a space of time this church should have had two pastors—Mr. Castner and Mr. Scott—who were ultra Calvinists. Mr. Scott seems to have presented these doctrines out of their proper proportion, and in such a manner as to lead many to mistake the decrees of God for a blind fate. A good old man, a member of the Lutheran Church, remarked that he “believed the Articles of the Synod of Dort, and that he liked to hear Mr. Hutton preach election, but that Mr. Scott he could not go.”

Soon after Mr. Scott's settlement he became involved in some difficulties with respect to the LOWER VALLEY CHURCH.

The church building in the Lower Valley was erected in Mr. Hutton's time. It owed its origin in part to a disappointment in the location of the Presbyterian Church. Some time afterwards the Presbytery of Raritan organized a congregation in the Lower Valley. This action Mr. Scott opposed, but his opposition was ineffectual. Thereupon an appeal and complaint was made to the Synod by the session of the church. In advocating this appeal before Synod, Mr. Scott went into a somewhat elaborate explanation of the relative position of German Valley and Schooley's Mountain; and in the course of his speech he gave the Synod to understand that “the Valley does not extend up over the mountain.” The Synod sustained the appeal of the session, and although the Presbytery of Raritan never rescinded its action, the Lower Valley Church soon died out.

As already remarked, the Church of German Valley, when it first became a Presbyterian Church, was connected with the Presbytery of New Brunswick. Afterwards, when the Presbytery of Newton was formed, the Valley Church fell into the new Presbytery. Still later, when the Raritan Presbytery was formed, this church was connected with it. But the congregation, not being pleased with the action of Raritan Presbytery, with respect to the organization of the Lower Valley Church, by a unanimous vote, the Synod was requested to transfer the church to the Presbytery of Newton. The transfer was made accordingly, and the church continued in Newton until 1861, when it was set back again into Raritan.

REV. J. H. MASON KNOX, D. D., F. L. D.

REV. HENRY M. VOORHEES.

Soon after Mr. Scott entered upon his duties here, the total membership of the church was reported at sixty-seven. During the eight years that he continued here, forty-six were added on examination and fourteen on certificate. His Scotch dread of new measures and religious excitements, appears in a minute made on the reception of seventeen new members in 1843. "These," he says, "were the fruit of a genuine revival of religion; the session being well satisfied of their piety, and all of them having been exercised for a considerable period, the most two, three and even four years."

On the 6th of October, 1839, the session resolved to nominate MR. DAVID NEIGHBOUR to the office of ruling elder. On the evening of October 13th, after public service, Mr. Neighbour was elected by a unanimous vote of the congregation, and was at once ordained. Immediately after the ordination, the session elected Mr. Neighbour to represent the church at the meeting of the Synod to be held in Trenton, on the following Sunday. So immediately did Mr. Neighbour enter upon the responsible duties of his office. And from that day to this—with the exception of a few years, during which he resided outside of the bounds of the congregation—he has been constantly and actively engaged in the service of the church. Long may he live to bless the church with his wise counsels and his good deeds; by his faithful discharge of duty, his generous liberality, and his earnest devotion to the cause of Christ, to furnish an example and a stimulus to a younger generation!

There can be little doubt but that in former years the church had been making contributions to benevolent objects. but there is no record of the fact before Mr. Scott's day. For the year ending in April, 1839, the church is reported as having raised "Missionary Funds" to the amount of $60. Two years later $72 are reported as contributed—$40 to Foreign Missions, $10 to the Bible Society, and $22 to the Theological Seminary. In 1842 the session ordered that hereafter quarterly collections be taken for benevolent objects, beginning with the Board of Foreign Missions, on the first Sunday in May.

At the beginning of the year 1843, Mr. Scott received a call from the Reformed Dutch Church of Newark, which he decided to accept. The Presbytery of Newton released him from his charge in the month of February. After he went to Newark he took a prominent position in the Dutch Church, and soon received the honorary degree of D.D. He died in 1858, at the age of forty-nine years.

As long as Mr. Scott continued here he and his horse, "Dack," had taken their regular trips to Fox Hill, good-humoredly enough. But, whatever the horse may have thought, his master was convinced that it was desirable for both the churches that they should have separate pastors. Accordingly, just before Mr. Scott left the Valley, at his suggestion, the session resolved "to support a minister for the future the entire of his time." The parsonage at Middle Valley had been previously sold, the money divided between the two churches of German Valley and Fox Hill, now Fairmount, and the house now owned by this church bought and enlarged; and from that time the two churches have had no other connection than that of friendly neighbors.

Mr. Scott was followed by

a man of pleasant, gentlemanly address, a good scholar and an able preacher. While in the Valley he was much esteemed by the people; but his stay was short—less than three years. During this time eight persons were received into the communion of the church on examination and five by certificate. It was in Mr. Vermilye's time (1844) that "the new hymn book (psalms and hymns) was introduced, by vote of session."

After Mr. Vermilye left the Valley, in 1846, he soon received the degree of D.D., became a professor in the East Windsor Theological Seminary, now at Hartford, and continues to hold a high rank among the ministers of the church.

Mr. Vermilye's successor was

a son of Dr. John Knox, of New York, and a grandson of the famous Dr. John Mason. Mr. Knox graduated at New Brunswick Seminary in 1845, and came to the Valley in 1846. He was one of the most popular and efficient pastors that the church ever had. The impression which he made upon the congregation was of a lasting character, and his sayings and doings are frequently quoted at the present day.

He introduced, in 1849, a custom of holding a monthly concert of prayer, for missions, in connection with the Lutheran congregation.

Through his influence and efforts a parochial school was started, which, with a little aid from the Board of Education, was carried on for several years, with no little efficiency and success. And not a few of the men and women of the Valley owe a great deal to that school, and to its excellent teacher, Mr. James S. Taylor.

During the five years of Mr. Knox's pastorate twenty-four persons were received into the communion of the church by examination and ten by certificate.

Mr. Knox left the Valley in 1851 to take charge of the Reformed Dutch Church of Easton, Pa. Two years later he accepted a call to the First Presbyterian Church at Germantown, Pa., where he continued until the fall of 1869, when he resigned his charge. Like the other ministers who had left the Valley, Mr. Knox soon received the Doctorate, and his name and fame are well known throughout the church.

After Mr. Knox went away,

GARRET VAN ARTSDALEN

came to the charge of the church. He stayed but three years. During this period, nine persons were added to the church by certificate and thirty-eight on examination—of these, thirty-six at a single communion occasion.

REV. WILLIAM R. GLENN,

of the First Presbyterian Church of Tamaqua, accepted a call to the German Valley Church. He entered upon his labors here in the autumn of 1856. Mr. Glenn is a good preacher, as all affirm, and his labors here were attended by a fair measure of success. During the eleven years of his pastorate nine persons were added to the church by certificate and ninety by examination. This is the largest number received by any one pastor.

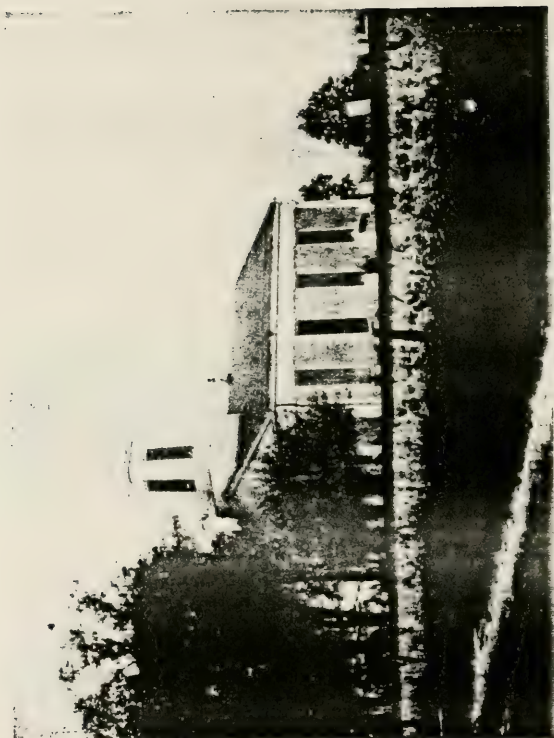

The pastoral relation between Mr. Glenn and this church was dissolved by the Presbytery, meeting at Clinton, January 13th, 1868. Mr. Glenn went to Bloomington, Illinois, where he is now laboring with very encouraging prospects.

REV. ISAAC ALSTYN BLAUVELT, D. D.,

the present pastor, was called from Clinton, N. J., in the summer of 1868; commenced labor on the 1st of August; removed to the Valley August 20th; was installed by the Presbytery of Raritan, October, 1868. Since that time the most noteworthy event has been the remodeling and enlarging of the church. The people had before determined that this work must be done, and little urging from the pastor was needed. Silas Neighbour, Jesse Huffman and I. Alstyn Blauvelt were chosen to act as a Building Committee. Messrs. Graham, Elizabeth, N. J., furnished the designs for the improvements. The work has been done, the ladies have provided the furniture and bell, and the results are before the eyes of the world. This day we enter our new and beautiful house, full of hope for the future.

Recalling the history of the past, we are constrained to render grateful praise that hitherto the Lord hath helped us; and, as we go over the story of our Father's loving kindness in the days gone by, we thank God and take courage.

Mr. Blauvelt resigned in 1874 to accept the call to the Presbyterian Church of Roselle where he is still laboring. He had the degree of D. D. conferred upon him in 1893 by the college of New Jersey. Mr. Blauvelt was born at Lamington, N. J., March 31, 1839. He is the son of old Dr. Blauvelt, who was pastor for so many years of the church of Lamington, Somerset Co., N. J., and who was recognized in his day as a man of unquestioned ability and entitled to all the influence and respect which his long and successful ministry had so well earned for him.

Mr. Blauvelt graduated from Princeton College in 1857 and Princeton Seminary in 1860. He was stated supply for four years (1860-4) at Plumstead, Cream Ridge and Plattsburg, N. J.; pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Clinton, N. J., 1864-8.

REV. EDWARD PAYSON LINNELL, followed Mr. Blauvelt in the summer of 1874. He had been supplying the pulpit, while a student in the Seminary. He was born on the 18th of April, 1846, at Granville, Ohio, and was educated both at Denison University at Granville, and at Hamilton College, N. Y. He graduated from Union Seminary, N. Y., in 1874. His memory is connected with a sad bereavement at the beginning of his ministry in the loss of his young wife within a few months of their marriage and his own death at a time and under circumstances to make it seem doubly painful. Having resigned from the pastorate of German Valley on the 9th of May, 1882, he accepted an appointment to labor in Montana, in connection with the church at Miles City. It was in the midst of his exhausting labors in this extensive field that he was stricken down at the early age of forty years on the 23d of July, 1886. He had been installed as pastor of the Miles City church on the 8th of February, 1885.

A sermon in memorial of him was preached at German Valley Sept. 5th, 1886, by the Rev. J. F. Brewster. Rev. D. B. Hervey, of Granville, Ohio, says of him: "As a preacher and brother I held him in high esteem. As a speaker he attracted attention in the early stages of his college course. His voice possessed an unusual clearness of tone, and this connected with a distinctness of enunciation, which was natural to him, gave a charm to his public address, which engaged every ear. His sermons were always characterized by richness of thought, clearness of illustration and force of statement. * * * He was devoted body and soul to one purpose, and wholly absorbed in thoughts and plans for its accomplishment. That one purpose was the salvation of souls and the prosperity of the church."

Mr. Linnell was followed by the who became the pastor here in 1883 and continued to serve this church until June, 1886, when he resigned to accept the call to become the pastor of a Reformed church in New York State. After preaching in that place for several years, finding the climate too severe, at the advice of physicians, he removed to the Reformed Church of High Bridge, N. J. He remained at High Bridge for several years when he removed to California on account of his health and is now living there as the pastor of a Presbyterian church.

REV. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN CHAMBERS, the present pastor, came in the year 1887 and is still rendering service.

CHAPTER XIII.

FAIRMOUNT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

FOX HILL was originally the name of the whole region now centering in German Valley. It became the name at a later date of the church now called Fairmount. The history of this church should now follow. We condense the historical discourse of Rev. W. O. Ruston, D. D., preached August 6th, 1876, at Fairmount. The church of Fox Hill was connected with the church of German Valley until 1843. Previously to this date the same pastors served both churches. The first part of Rev. Mr. Ruston's historical sermon is largely omitted since it treats of the matters already presented in the history of German Valley.

It would seem probable that more than 130 years ago there was an old log church at the foot of the hill, on the farm of Mrs. Kate Sutton, now farmed by Mr. George S. Hoffman. May it not be that it was in this church that Michael Schlatter preached in July, 1747, when he speaks of preaching in the church of Fox Hill? All this is buried in deep obscurity, from which there seems to be no resurrection.

THE SECOND CHURCH BUILDING.

About 120 or 125 years ago it was determined to build a new house for the service of the living God. Ground was obtained for this church on the hill known as Fox Hill, then called Foxenburgh—the site of the present church. The name Foxenburgh was derived from the original owner of the hill—a man named Fox. It seems that this Fox was a very enterprising farmer, introducing a new and superior variety of wheat into the country. The people took such a fancy to this brand that they would come to Fox's place from a great distance around to buy wheat. Hence it began to be said they were going to Foxenburgh—and this name has clung to it ever since. It may be interesting to note that this Fox lived on the farm now owned by Mr. J. Van Dervoort Welsh, in an old log house in the hollow below the house now occupied by Mr. Jacob Heldebrant.

The land on which the church stands was given to the congregation by James Parker, the non-resident owner of a vast tract of country in this neighborhood, and from whom the place was called Parkersville.

On this spot a church was finally erected and dedicated to God Almighty. The exact date of the building of this church can not now be determined, and we can only approximate thereto. It must have been built before 1760, as by the testimony of old persons, now dead, it was standing at that date.

The old church must have been a curious affair from all that is said about it. Those who worshipped in it in their younger days—and there are many yet living—describe it as a wooden structure, shingled, not only on the roof, but on the sides also—it was a shingle church. Inside it was neither lathed nor plastered, but boarded up. The floor was formed of two-inch plank, not nailed, but pinned down. The seats were the plainest and most substantial that could be made, consisting simply of a board properly supported, and another board nailed up perfectly straight for a back. The house was lighted by two rows of windows, and the shutters consisted of plain boards with long iron bands to secure them in position. Galleries surrounded the church, while the pulpit was not placed at the end, as is customary, but on one side. This pulpit was hung up, as one who in youth often worshipped there has aptly described it, "like a swallow's nest," and a large sounding-board held up by a rod of iron formed a fitting cover for the "Dominie." The women used to bring their little foot-stoves with them, and stopping at some friend's house near the church would light a charcoal fire, and so keep their feet warm during service.

The building of

was determined on, and finally, in 1816, the edifice was erected. This church was built on the site of the present one, though it was smaller in dimensions; galleries were on three sides.

It was a stone church, like the present one, and, no doubt, was a fine church for the day in which it was built. This building cost $2,850.

In the following year, 1817, the church was incorporated according to law, and a board of trustees elected under the corporate name of "The President and Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church in Parker's Village, on Fox Hill." Henry Miller was President. The church was now fully organized and ready for work.

Mr. Castner did a good work in bringing about a better observance of the Sabbath. Mr. Castner was succeeded by

REV. JOHN C. VAN DERVOORT.

Mr. Van Dervoort had not as yet completed his education, but was still studying in the seminary at New Brunswick.

The Presbytery at first complained against his course as irregular and unpresbyterian, but it finally ordained and installed him. He preached at German Valley and Fox Hill, giving two Sundays at the former place and one at the latter. Although not what would be called an able man, Mr. Van Dervoort was a most excellent pastor, reaching by his tender, earnest appeals the sinner's heart. He did not confine his labors to the Sabbath, but during the week, at the log farm-houses, or wherever he could gather a few together, he would preach the glorious gospel of Christ. Thus it was that from house to house he proclaimed Jesus Christ and him crucified. One incident will exhibit his characteristic zeal and earnestness, and will show how he would exhort the people till they were greatly moved. On one occasion he took for his text Prov. 29: 1, "He, that being often reprov'd hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy."

In the course of his remarks he said: "I have prayed with you, I have urged you, I have warned you, I have done everything to show you the danger, and I have pointed out the remedy. What more can I do? This I will do: I will implore you here on my knees no longer to harden your necks"—and falling on his knees in the pulpit, he continued his sermon in the attitude of prayer, producing a most powerful impression. After a very successful ministry, he left here in 1827 to take charge of the church of Basking Ridge.

REV. MANCIUS SMEDE HUTTON

entered upon his duties as pastor of the two churches of German Valley and Fox Hill. At this time the elders of the church were Morris Crater, John C. Salter, George A. Vescelius and Philip Crater.

Mr. Hutton met with notable success in his ministrations, and at one time there was a very powerful revival in the church. The result of this special outpouring of God's Spirit was the addition of more than forty members to the church, and throughout his pastorate many were continually added.

Dominie Hutton left here to accept a call to the South Dutch Church of New York. Never has there been a pastor so greatly beloved as he.

During the year 1835

was installed pastor of the two churches that had so long been united together.

During Mr. Scott's ministry thirty-eight were united to the church—twenty-six on profession of faith.

On the 26th of March, 1843, Joseph Magee and John J. Crater were ordained elders by Mr. Scott, though he had already been dismissed by Presbytery to accept a call to the Dutch Church of Newark.

The following resolutions were passed at the congregational meeting which accepted the resignation of Mr. Scott, February 14th, 1843:

RESOLVED, 1st, That the congregation of Fox Hill shall acquiesce in the decision of Presbytery. At the same time they wish Presbytery to understand that nothing but what appears to be the movement of Providence could lead them to consent to the separation of a union so blessed to them, and one so universally acceptable.

REV. NATHANIEL B. KLING.

REV. JOHN R. WILCOX.

RESOLVED, 2d, That in accordance with the recommendation of our pastor, Mr. Scott, if Presbytery dissolve the relationship this congregation take measures to support the gospel the whole of a minister's time for the future."

The church of Fox Hill now called as its first pastor the REV. I. S. DAVISON.

The effect of the change showed itself in a large ingathering of souls into the church. During his stay forty-seven persons were admitted to church membership, thirty-eight of them being on profession of their faith.

In March, 1846, two new elders were elected—namely, Frederick P. Hoffman and George H. Lindebaury, who still remain with us—the only members of the session as constituted at that time now living.

Mr. Davison sought and obtained a dissolution of the pastoral relation in the spring of 1847. He still lives, being a teacher in the city of Brooklyn, N. Y. It is a very pleasing thought that all the pastors of this church, since its independent existence, except one (who died on the field), still live to do the Master's work.

Mr. Davison was succeeded after a short interval by REV. CHARLES M. OAKLEY.

Mr. Oakley last autumn revisited his former charge. It was with great pleasure that the older members of the church once more welcomed their former pastor after twenty-five years' absence. He is a man of evident piety, having a spirit almost childlike in its simplicity and faithfulness. He eminently illustrates the childlike character of the Christian. Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. One such example of living Christianity is worth a hundred sermons.

Eleven persons joined the church under his ministration, two of whom were by certificate from other churches.

Mr. Oakley is still [1876] preaching the everlasting gospel of peace—supplying at the present time the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church at Amagansett, Long Island.

CHARLES WOOD

became pastor in 1851, and remained here till 1855. The total membership was eighty-one, which seems to be about the average. Nineteen entered the church on profession, and eleven by certificate, making thirty in all, showing a good degree of success. Two new elders were added, Conrad Rarick in 1851, and Philip Philhower in 1853.

The most important event of Mr. Wood's ministry was the building of the present church. The old church began to be in such a dilapidated condition that a change was needed. The contract was made and the building commenced on the site of the old structure. The present church is considerably larger than the old one, though it has but one gallery, while the other had three. The whole cost of building and furnishing the church was $3,800, and at its dedication only $450 remained as a debt on the church. The dedication took place July 25th, 1852, the sermon being preached by Dr. M. S. Hutton, the former pastor.

Before the dedication of the church it was determined to have a bell in the tower. The effort was made and the bell was obtained. It was a great day when the bell was hung, and the people turned out far and near to lend a helping hand. Fox Hill in this respect was in advance of the neighboring churches, having its bell before German Valley, New Germantown or Lamington. The first bell in the neighborhood was owned by the Congregational Church of Chester. This was many years ago. The first time this bell was rung, the people crowded from all around to hear, and some even went from Fox Hill for that purpose, and these may remember the minister's coming to the door and saying that, as the bell was about to ring, they must hold their horses, lest they should run away; and so every man stood by his horse's head while the sexton rang the bell. These are past days, and with the past has gone much of the simplicity and naïveté that characterized it.

IN NATHANIEL B. KLINK

the church again found a leader. Mr. Klink was a man of considerable ability, and during the four years of his pastorate there was quite a revival—fifteen joining the church at one time. During his ministry the church received twenty-six new members.

In 1856 Morris Rarick and Peter H. Hoffman were elected elders, neither of whom now act.

Mr. Klink will be remembered not only as a preacher, but also as a farmer. He was well trained in the farmer's life, and on the little parsonage lot he would raise grain that all the farmers envied. His spring pigs would weigh in October 250 or 275 pounds, and he had pork to sell. His chickens were wonderful; and he would sell eggs all the year round. He kept two cows, and the butter made under the supervision of Mrs. Klink was most excellent. Thus Mr. Klink was a leader, not only in the pulpit, but out of it in the daily toil of a farmer's life.

After an interval of over a year, was chosen pastor, and this choice being confirmed by Presbytery, he was installed in 1861. As Mr. Willox was so well known to those present, it will not be necessary to enter on any very extended narrative of his pastorate. He remained longer in charge than any minister since the days of Caspar Wack. Twelve years he labored among you, and it was not till the Master called that he laid down the charge which you had given him.

Mr. Willox was born in October, 1810, near Aberdeen, Scotland. He came to this country and taught school for a time in the Valley. Becoming dissatisfied with Presbyterian doctrine, he left that church and joined the Lutheran, studying in the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg. His first charge was at Friesburg, Salem Co., N. J., and finally he removed to Riegelsville, Pa., where he was very successful in his labors, 160 being united to the church during his ministry there. In 1861, having become convinced that the Westminster statement of doctrine contains "that system of doctrine taught in the Holy Scriptures," he sought a return to the Presbyterian fold. Hence he accepted the call to the Presbyterian Church of Fox Hill. During his long pastorate of twelve years, 54 persons joined the church on profession, and 5 by certificate, making a total of 59. He baptized 64 infants, and married no less than 93 couples.

In the year 1869 the church name was changed by an Act of the Legislature to the "First Presbyterian Church of Fairmount," and no longer can it be called Fox Hill—that is a thing of the past.

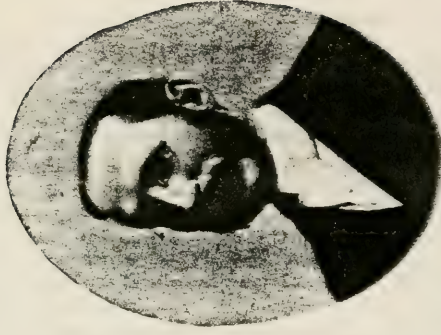

In this year Philip P. Hoffman and John Rinehart were added to the board of elders.

In 1870 a fair was held, the second made by this church. This fair was very successful, so that your committee were enabled to refit the church and repair the parsonage.

But the faithful pastor was never permitted to worship in the church as renewed. On the 23d of February, 1873, his spirit went home to its reward. Let me quote a few words from the funeral discourse of Rev. I. A. Blauvelt: "During his last illness, in speaking of his religious life, he said that he had often felt doubts of his final acceptance with God. Since he had been sick, however, and expecting to die, he had fresh disclosures of the love and mercy of God; 'and now,' said he, I have a full assurance of hope—not that wild, enthusiastic assurance of which some speak, but it is an assurance like that spoken of by the Erskines and the Alexanders—an assurance which rests upon the complete atonement of Jesus Christ.' And then he went on to say that he took no comfort in looking over his past life; that had been sinful. His hope all rested on Jesus Christ, whose blood cleanseth from all sin. And he continued to speak in this way through his entire sickness. He very often repeated the hymn,

'Rock of ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.'

The expressions of entire self-distrust and helpless reliance on Jesus Christ which this hymn contains seemed exactly adapted to his views and feelings. When he had come face to face with death, he was made to feel that Jesus Christ was all."

REV. WILL. OTIS RUSTON, D. D.

So died John R. Willox. He has gone to his rest, and is waiting for those to whom he so long ministered to join him in glory. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

On the 20th day of September, 1873, was elected pastor. His stay was short, and marked by no event of general interest, and on July 26th, 1874, the pulpit was again declared vacant.

During the next year the church was distracted by a multiplicity of candidates, and it was not till September 1st, 1875, that they were able to unite. At that time a call was made out for your present pastor, who accepted it, subject to the consent of Presbytery, which, at its fall meeting, granted the request of this congregation, and your pastor was installed on the 5th of October.

REV. WILLIAM OTIS RUSTON,

During the past winter God has graciously visited your community, and many souls have been gathered into his garner.

You have also deemed it wise to adopt the plan of term eldership, and have elected to the office of ruling elder the following persons: George E. Salter, Frederick Hoffman, Elias Hockenbery and Peter Hoffman, in addition to George H. Lindaberry and Philip P. Hoffman re-elected. These were ordained and installed on Sunday, May 6th.

There have been three churches erected on this spot—1st, the old shingle church; 2d, the first stone church, 1816; 3d, the second stone church, 1851.

And now, brethren, from this history gather courage. The church has seen many a day of trial and dismay, but "hitherto hath the Lord helped us." It is the Church of Christ, and we feel assured the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Out of the depths God has again and again brought you, and to-day you are stronger than ever before. This is the old church consecrated by the memories of your fathers. Give it your veneration, your love, your devotion. From the past gather strength for the future, and go forward rejoicing always in the Lord.

Dr. Ruston, whose admirable historical discourse we have had to condense, is now the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Dubuque, Iowa. He is also vice-president of an institution for the education of German ministers to labor among their fellow-countrymen in the West.

Dr. Ruston remained until February, 1877, when he was followed by the whose pastorate continued for three years.

Mr. Davis was born at Flatbush, Ulster, Co., N. Y., April 15th, 1851; graduated from Rutgers College, 1874; from the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, 1877. He was licensed to preach May 22d, 1877, and was ordained and installed as pastor of Fairmount Church August 12th, 1877. He resigned on account of ill health in 1880. Since 1890 he has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Bound Brook. In a letter to the writer he speaks with great pleasure of his ministry at Fairmount and still cherishes the friendships formed while he was pastor there. He was succeeded by the who began his ministry September 18th, 1880, and resigned April 28th, 1884. Mr. Long was well known and greatly respected by the neighboring congregation of German Valley as well as by his own people. He is now laboring most acceptably as pastor of the Green Hill Church, at Wilmington, Delaware. The church was vacant for three years when the

was installed as pastor May —, 1887, and resigned February 1891. Mr. Rutherford was a man of a good mind, a genial disposition and an earnest spirit. He was followed by the candidate

TILLMAN S. RUSH

June 13th, 1891. He resigned 12th November, 1893.

THE REFORMED CHURCH OF LEBANON.

EBANON, as it is now called, is a village of modern origin, but as the site of a church its history belongs to the first settlement of New Jersey by the Germans. Before the old church was built in the old graveyard, there was a building erected in Potterstown near by, which was dedicated on Saturday, September 11th, 1731, by Rev. W. C. Berkenmeier, pastor of the Dutch Lutheran Church of New York. But we can carry the history of this place still farther back. For there is a strong probability that the first German Lutheran service, of which we have any record, was held on the site of this church on the first of August, 1714. For we find that at that date a son of John Peter Appelman was baptised "at the house of Ari de Guinea on the Raritans, at our Christian Lutheran gathering." This was the record entered by Rev. Justus Falckner in the church book of the First Lutheran Church of New York City. Now we learn that the plantation, or which the church at Potterstown was situated, was sold to Matthias Sharfenstein on the 29th of July, 1741, by Aree Vangenee [the same as Ari de Guinea]; and by Matthias Scharfenstein's heirs was sold to Cornelius Wyckoff on the 11th of May, 1761. The words of special interest in the deed are, "containing about 132 acres, be it the same more or less, excepting always forth of the same, a small lot formerly conveyed to William M. Kinney [McKinney?], and one other where the Lutheran meeting house is built, both of them containing about one acre and half a quarter of an acre."

This farm was located by the late Judge Thompson, of Readington, who had surveyed formerly all through that vicinity, in Potterstown, placing the church on the site of the former tavern building. The only ground for doubt is the statement that Ari Vangenee bought the farm in question on the 3d or 4th of April, 1730, from Benjamin Rounseval. This may mean simply that he got his deed at that date. At all events, however it may be with the church service held in 1714, there is no doubt at all about the service there in 1731. There was a church at the same time near Pluckamin devoted to German Lutheran and probably also, if preachers could be found, to German Reformed service. Of course the church at Lebanon was the successor of this church at Potterstown. It is most probable that this church building, east of Lebanon, was used by Rev. John Conrad Wirtz during his pastorate from 1750-1761.

As the two churches at German Valley and Fairmount were built 1761, to take the place of the one building which was between these places on the "Aunt Katie Sutton farm," so it seems probable, that, as a result of Mr. Wirtz's labors, a church was erected near its present site at Lebanon at the same time.

The visits of Rev. Michael Schlatter, from 1747 to 1750, to this place, then called Rockaway, have been already narrated.

The congregation was taken under the care of the Presbytery of New Brunswick. In doing which measures were taken by the Presbytery to avoid giving offense to the Dutch Reformed body. Werts was taken up as a probationer on Sept. 3d, 1751, and having received a call from the congregation of Rockaway in Lebanon township, on the 9th of May, 1752, he was ordained as their pastor on the 5th of June, 1752. It is not at all unlikely that Werts had been laboring among the German Reformed churches of New Jersey for several years before 1751.

The history of Lebanon church belongs to that of German Valley, Stillwater, Alexandria and Amwell, as these churches were all served by the same ministers most of the time. We may add to these "Sussex Court House."

CASPAR MICHAEL STAPEL, who lived in Amwell township and served the German Reformed church near what is now Ringoes, probably also preached in Lebanon. He was succeeded by FREDERICK DAL-LICKER and he by CASPAR WACK. The history of these ministers is given in connection with the history of German Valley.

In June, 1788, the High Dutch Reformed congregation in Lebanon township was incorporated. The officers mentioned in the act of incorporation (on record at Trenton), were Peter Aller, Jacob Gearhart, Peter Young, Peter Henry, George Gearhart, Hans Peter Apgar.

The modern history of the church or the period when the preaching was altogether in English, began with the pastorate of who according to his own record in the church book, accepted a call from the United Congregations of Rockaway and Rockaway in Lebanon, September 29th, 1816, and was ordained and installed their pastor on November 26th, 1816.

The last record of baptisms by Rev. Caspar Wack is made in the handwriting of Mr. Shultz. They occurred on May 27, 1816. During his sixteen [or eighteen?] years pastorate he baptised 334 children and adults. This is a remarkable showing and would seem to indicate either a very large field of labor or a larger birth-rate than is the case to-day. Mr. Shultz was succeeded by the whose record of baptisms begins July, 1835. From this date until July 12th, 1840, only 73 baptisms are recorded. The last baptism performed by Mr. Shultz was on April 25th, 1835.

In Mr. Wack's place came the

who was twice called to be pastor of the Lebanon church, in 1740 and again in 1753, after he had been away for five years. Mr. Van Amburgh was born January 9th, 1809, near Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He was engaged in work on a farm until he was twenty years of age, when he was converted and decided to study for the ministry. He graduated from Rutgers College in 1837 and from the Theological Seminary in the same city in 1840. His first charge was at Lebanon, where he was the means of increasing the size of the congregation and where he was abundant in labors over a field of labor eight or ten miles square. He resigned from this charge in August, 1847, but was called a second time by this congregation to be their pastor in August, 1853, when almost immediately the old brick church gave place to a new, convenient and elegant frame structure. During the interval between his two terms of service as pastor in Lebanon, Mr. Van Amburgh had been pastor of a church at Fordham, N. Y., and from there he removed to be the pastor at Hughsonville, N. Y. He also took charge in 1869 of the church at High Bridge, N. J., which he had been instrumental in organizing. He next took charge of the church at Lower German Valley, and afterwards of the church of Annandale, also organized under his auspices. Here he remained pastor until 1878, when he retired from the active ministry. He lived until his death in the village of Lebanon.

During the interval that separated Mr. Van Amburgh's two pastorates, the church was served by the

for a period of five years from 1848 to 1853.

who came in the year 1870 and remained until 1873.

REV. JOSEPH R. CAMPBELL

succeeded Mr. Van Benschoten in the year 1873 and remained for two years.

REV. S. W. ROE, D. D.,

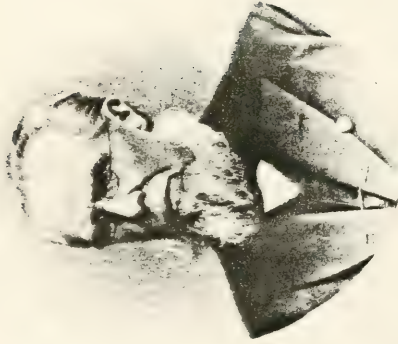

became the pastor of this church in the year 1875, and resigned in the year 1881.

REV. WILLIAM E. DAVIS, is the present pastor, and his ministry in this field promises to continue for a longer period than that of any of his predecessors. In September, 1893, he celebrated the twelfth year of his pastorate there, and also the anniversary of the origin of the church.

REV. EDWIN W. LONG.

REV. CHARLES WOOD.

SETTLERS OF UPPER GERMAN VALLEY.

THE name LONG VALLEY is by which German Valley was first known, and by this name the earliest surveys were located. It is marked on the map by the course of the South Branch of the Raritan from its descent into the valley below Flanders to its union with Spruce Run Creek at Clinton. The village of High Bridge forms a convenient terminus at the southern end. In length it extends in a southwesterly direction for about eighteen or twenty miles. It is situated between Schooley's Mountain on the west and Fox Hill on the east.

FLANDERS,

the northernmost town in the valley, is a small hamlet picturesquely situated, which was formerly a scene of considerable industry in the old time forms of manufacturing.

Burr Montanye in 1808 made high hats from Muskrat skins and also from wool. A bill of the above date was presented to Jonathan Nicholas for 56 dollars for a number of hats.

JOHN AYERS was one of the first settlers. His house probably occupied the site of the present residence of David Ayers Nicholas his grandson. John was the grandson of Moses Ayers of Basking Ridge. John Ayers moved from the latter place to Mendham, and from there to Flanders, where he bought 19 acres in 1763. This land includes a large part of the present village.

The first school house was a log building and stood on the site of Mr. D. A. Nicholas store. The present school building is the second on the same lot, which was bought in 1805.

JONATHAN NICHOLAS was another of the early settlers. He came from Wales with a brother, who died during the Revolutionary war. His son Rhece, the father of David A., married Elisabeth, the daughter of John Ayers.

William Bell, Matthias Luse, Daniel Barber, William Monroe and Paul Drake, a blacksmith, were also landowners here at a very early date.

The land on which the village is situated was part of the Breeches tract, 563 acres of which were sold to Jabesh Heaton by William Allen in 1770.

There are in the village three general stores, kept by Floyd Woodhull, Rev. Daniel E. Frambes and the one lately carried on by David A. Nicholas. A grist mill and blacksmith and creamery add to the business of the place.

One of the earliest Methodist Churches in this State was established here in 1788. The Presbyterian Church is a daughter of the Chester congregation. The post office was established in 1822, and from 1827 to about 1867 it was in charge of Rhece Nicholas and his son David.

is two miles south of Flanders. It contains the foundry and machine shop of Wm. Bartley & Sons. Established in 1846, this firm have enlarged their business, until they are now extensive manufacturers of portable saw mills, turbine water wheels, bark mills and general machinery.

In this place a forge was started about 70 years ago by David Welsh, the fourth, who was succeeded by Kempel and he by Hugh Bartley.

The upper line of the Budd tract runs through the mill pond in a course north twenty-six west across the valley. This tract was taken up by John Budd October 22d, 1714 [Burlington Lib. fol.], and contained 1804 acres. This was sold 22 June, 1733, to Wm. Allen. The northernmost farm, of 310 acres, on this tract was bought by DIETRICK STRUBLE, a mason, December 17th, 1770, for £166 ($442.66). This farm is now divided into the farms belonging to the John P. Sharp and the Decue estates. Dietrick Struble was one of the first elders of the Reformed church in the Valley. He came from Germany and arrived at Philadelphia on the 5th of September, 1748. His wife's name was Elisabeth Catherine and he had at least eleven children, whose descendants are found in Sussex, Warren and Hunterdon counties and in Pennsylvania. He removed from the Valley to Hampton township, Sussex Co., and is said to have died in Pennsylvania at 100 years of age.

MATTHIAS ABLE bought the next farm of 109 acres of Wm. Allen before 1767. This Matthias was probably a brother of Michael Paul and Andrew, and a son of Matthias, who arrived in Philadelphia from Germany in 1728, Sept. 4th, in ship Rose-tree. This family is quite numerous and settled also at Hacklebarney and in Tewksbury township, Hunterdon Co. The Able farm was owned in succession by Jacob Arnold, Philip Darmer, William Welsh and Morris Sharpenstein, who bought it in 1800. It included the mill property at Four Bridges.

MORRIS SHARPENSTEIN bought the next farm of 361 acres on the 31st of March, 1767, of Wm. Allen for £344 ($917.33), and divided it by will in 1781, between his two sons Morris and Peter. Morris was probably the oldest son of Matthias, who lived at Potterstown, Tewksbury township, Hunterdon Co. He may have been a nephew of the first John Peter Sharpenstein, who lived near German Valley.

ANTHONY WALDORF bought the 258 acres between Sharp and the road crossing the valley at Naughtright. Anthony, grandson of the first Anthony, was the last who owned the whole farm, which was divided in 1808 among his children.

This family probably came from the town of Waldorf, whence the well known family of Astors originated. Anthony had six children, John, Martin, George, Anna, Margaret and Gertrude, the wife of Adam Rhinehart. They have disappeared from this vicinity. This property was sold out in parts to Abraham Sharp, whose descendant, Frederick Sharp, now owns the larger part of it.

CONRAD RARICK bought 150 acres in 1773 of William Hewlings on the western side of the valley next to the Budd tract. This farm was part of 294 acres, surveyed to Daniel Smith, of Burlington, in 1754. Of the rest of this tract GEORGE, JOSEPH and JACOB MEYERS appear to have been the owners. At any rate George sold 33 66-100 to Morris Alpoek, May 7th, 1808 and 118 to William Rarick in 1811.

This tract was surveyed to Daniel Smith [Burlington Lib. S, fol. 217], June 10th, 1754, and sold to William Hewlings February 23d, 1755.

Conrad was the ancestor of all the Raricks who settled in this vicinity. He arrived at Philadelphia probably from Erbach, Wittenberg, October 8th, 1744, with JOHANNES HENDRICK, who may have been his father or brother. The latter appears on the court records of this county in 1753. He was one of the first elders of the Reformed church and sometimes read sermons in the absence of a minister. His eldest son Henry removed to Northern New York State and his other sons Conrad, John and William remained in New Jersey. Conrad also bought, May 28, 1767, lot No. 9 of the Boynton tract containing 143 acres.

NAUGHRIGHTVILLE.

CHRISTOPHER KERN received in 1766, Dec. 16, the deed for 490 acres on which Naughtright village now stands. He had settled upon the land some years previously. He paid £466 ($1,242) to Wm. Allen for the land. [Trenton Lib. A F, fol. 81]. The Kern family is scattered throughout northwestern New Jersey and Canada. It is supposed that Christopher's father JACOB came to Philadelphia from Germany in 1739 in the "Jamaica Galley." It is claimed that considerable property is awaiting the heirs of John Jacob in the old country. The Kern property included what are now the farms of Elias Buchanan, John T. and John D. Naughtright.

The village of Naughtright contains a grist mill now turned into a felt factory, a store and a blacksmith shop. It was formerly a place of very busy activity, a large business in wagon making being carried on by the late John Naughtright. A creamery is situated about a mile north of the village, owned until lately by the Hon. Wm. Naughtright. Iron mines were opened on the mountain west of the village by the late Theo. Naughtright, but proved unremunerative.

A Union Chapel was erected a few years since above the school house and religious service and a Sabbath school are regularly maintained. William S. Fisher is the Superintendent of the latter. The store belongs to George Swackhamer, of German Valley. Mr. Axford, a veterinary surgeon, owns the blacksmith shop and Hamley and Batson carry on the felt factory.

HERMAN BITZER occupied the last farm on the Budd or Allen tract as early as 1750 and until it was purchased by John Peter Scharpenstein. Nothing is known of the Bitzer family, except that the name occurs among the settlers at Annsburg, near Rhinebeck, in 1711. This farm of 455 acres included the farms of Willard Apgar, the Wyckoff and Lambert Sharp place, and perhaps the Henry Wise, the Baldwin and Lance farms.

FREDERICK SOVEREIGN bought May 10, 1768, part of the Ebenezer Large survey or 240 acres for £125 ($333). This survey joins the Budd tract on the west. This land, 240 acres, was sold by Sovereign on May 21st, 1801, to Garret Lake for $2,400. The name Sovereign was originally spelled, as signed to the deed to Garret Lake in German hand-writing, Friedrich Zofrin. Frederick may have been the son of Johannes Soeffrens, who landed at Philadelphia 19th September 1734. He had probably ten children, of whom one, David, bought a farm on the Robins' tract north of his fathers, and another, Frederick, removed to Sussex Co. The Sovereigns of Pottersville, engaged in the iron furnace there are of this family. Some of the children of the second generation removed to New York State.

GARRET LAKE was the first of the name in Morris Co. His descendants still live on the original property. Silvester Lake owns the original homestead. Garret was a Quaker, and came from Hunterdon Co. He was the son of GARRET, who died 1781 in Amwell township, and the grandson of THOMAS, who died 1765. The Rev. John W. Lake is a grandson of Garret.

CHAPTER XVI.

SETTLERS OF GERMAN VALLEY.

GERMAN VALLEY.

OUR own village of German Valley is situated on the Logan tract of 1,666 2-3 acres, surveyed to James Logan on the 12th of May, 1713 [Burlington, Lib. B, fol. 118, and Lib. E, fol. 154], and sold by James to his son William on the 9th of July, 1743. It was resurveyed 20th June, 1749, and found to contain 1,813 acres. This tract was all bought by, or at least the deeds were given at about the same time, 1749, to six purchasers, John Peter Scharpenstein, Philip Weise, Tunis (Anthony) Trimmer, William Welsch, Leonard Neighbor and Matthias Trimmer.

The oldest part of the village is the grist mill, which was first run by Philip Weise, as early at least as 1767. In 1791 the mill belonged to Nitser and Welsh. Of the houses still standing, the residence of Richard Schoenheit, called the Old Fort, F. D. Stephens house and the Hager Weise residence, are the oldest and were probably built about 1774. The old Hager house is probably as old as the above.

William Nitser was the first tavern keeper and he was followed by Jacob Drake, Jr., 1800-4; Lambert Boeman, 1805-9; David Welsh, Jr., 1810; Joseph Miller, 1811-13; Azal Coleman, 1814-16; Philip Crater, 1816-18; William W. Willett, Archibald Sickley, James Fisher, Will. D. Lusk, David Crater, Philip Crater, James R. Denniston, John McCarters, Will. Goodwin, George Crater, Augustus Mettler and Nelson Hyde.

The grist-mill, referred to above, has been recently furnished with new process machinery, and is now owned and run by Isaac W. Dorland. M. T. Welsh carries on an extensive lumber and coal business; and the stone quarries of Mr. Bartles and Mr. Schoenheit, the latter leased by Lyman Kice, are found to meet an increasing demand for superior building stone. John Todd is the blacksmith.

John Peter Nitser, the first storekeeper, was succeeded by William Nitser and he by Lawrence Hager.

The present stores are kept by George Swackhamer, in the building erected by Samuel Welsh; by Jesse Weise, as the successor of Hagar Weise and his son Edward; by Lyman Kice, succeeding his father-in-law Morris Naughtright. The F. D. Stephens Co., agents for the Florida steam heaters and engaged in the tin-ware and stove business, carry on an extensive business. Also the Allen and Van Nest Steam Heating Co., have their headquarters here.

The German Valley Quarterly, formerly The Independent Quarterly, has been published here for twelve years and has attained a circulation of nearly four thousand. The two churches, Lutheran and Presbyterian, both date back 150 years.

JOHANNES PETER SCHARPENSTEIN bought the first farm in the northern part of the tract. He was in actual possession of the 210 acres, for which he paid £100 ($266), when he received his deed in Philadelphia on the 8th of December, 1749. His farm, like the others, ran across the tract from one side of the valley to the other. It is probable that John Peter was a brother of Matthias Scharpenstein, of Potterstown, and therefore an uncle of Morris of the Upper Valley. He died intestate in 1760. He had at least seven children: Morris, Mary Catherine, the wife of Lawrence Hager, the first; John Peter, whose descendants are all those of the name of Sharp now living in this vicinity; Anna Maria, the wife of William Hann (son of William 1st); Jacob, who kept a tavern at Hackettstown; George, who removed to Sussex Co., near Lafayette, where his descendants are still found; and Anthony, who lived for a time on Schooley's Mountain, but afterwards moved away.

An account of the other families of this name, who lived near Lebanon and in Greenwich township, Warren Co., will be found in the genealogies in Part II of this work. It is quite probable that the Sharps, as the name is now spelled, came from the vicinity of Rhinebeck. If that should be found to be the case, then their origin in the old country was in the town of Sassenberg, County New Witt, or Neuwied, and their arrival was as early as 1710. They are found in New Jersey as early as 1734.

PHILIP WEISE purchased the next farm of 262 acres for £125 ($335), and was in actual possession, when he received his deed December 8th, 1749. He settled here probably as early as 1743, if not in 1738. At this date he arrived in Philadelphia on September 11th in the ship Robert and Olliver along with Leonard Neighbor, Stephen and John Michael Terriberry, Philip Dufford, Sr., and Philip Dufford, Jr., and Heinrich Shenckle. Philip Weise had two sons, Philip and Jacob and two daughters, Elisabeth, the wife of John Hager, and Margaret, the wife of William Nitzer. His descendants are living on the original property. He or Philip, Jr., built the "Old Fort," now Richard Shoenheit's stone house, in 1784.

TUNIS TRIMMER bought the farm next to Philip Weise of 315 acres for £150 ($400), 30th May, 1750. This farm included the farms now occupied by Mrs. Addie Hager and Matthias T. Welsh. Tunis was the son of John, of Hunterdon Co., and the brother of Matthias, of German Valley. He died 1754. His will [Trenton, Lib. 8, fol. 77], dated 7th November, probated 21st December, 1754, names wife, Elisabeth, and children: Paul, the oldest; Mary, who perhaps married 2d December, 1768, Caleb Swayze; and Anthony. Thomas Fairclow, who was appointed, Nov. 1st, 1770, the guardian of the son Anthony, may have married the widow Elisabeth and not, as we have stated in the genealogy, the daughter of Tunis. The property was bought by John Hager, one of the executors of the will, before 1759.

JOHANNES HEGER (Hager) had first settled in Hunterdon Co., Tewksbury township, and from there came to the valley and occupied a part of the "leased lands." He was one of three brothers, Hans George Hegi, Johan Hagea and Jacob Hagea, who landed at Philadelphia from the ship Dragon 30th of September, 1732. One brother, probably George, went to New York State, and Jacob Hauge, or Hager, another brother died in Oxford township, Warren Co., in 1757. The descendants of the latter probably removed from the State. The Hagers, of Holland township, Hunterdon Co., are of another family and came from Pennsylvania to this State. John, of German Valley, had a son Lawrence, who remained in the valley; and John, who bought a property at Drakestown, 1763, and kept a tavern at the cross roads. Jacob, a third son, lived near Newberg, on the Musconetcong; George bought 330 acres of land above Springtown on Schooley's Mountain, first about 1776, then repurchased it in 1796. This property is in the possession of one of his descendants, Mrs. J. V. Stryker. David, the youngest, lived for a time on the mountain and then moved away. The late Hon. John Sharp Hager, Senator of the U. S. from California, was a great-grandson of John's oldest son, Lawrence. His father, Lawrence 2d, kept a store for many years in German Valley in the old stone store recently torn down.

WILLIAM WELSH, or Johannes Wilhelm Welsch, as it is in the original German, bought the farm next to Tunis Trimmer in the year 1743, as is stated in an old field book of Caleb Valentine. But he did not get a deed until probably the last payment was made on May 30th, 1750. He paid £122 ($325) for 258 acres. On the 8th of April, 1779, he sold to his son David 175 acres, part of which he had purchased from John Hager in 1759, November 5th.

William and Michael Welsh arrived from Germany at Philadelphia, 27th September, 1741.

JOHANNES MICHAEL WELSCH had a fulling mill on the Musconetcong, near Newberg, in 1768, but nothing further is known of him or his family. William married Elisabeth, a daughter of Leonard Neighbor, and had a son William, who became very wealthy owning land in Hunterdon and Morris counties. The first William was one of the first elders of the Reformed church.

Judge David, the first, was another son. He lived where Jacob Welsh now lives, and was a very prominent man in church and state. He had no children. Philip, a third son, lived for a time on the Isaac Roelofson farm at Naughtright and then occupied the old homestead, now belonging to his grandson of the same name. The late John C. Welsh, Esq., was his grandson. The latter was President, when he died, of the Hacketts-town National Bank, which owed its success very largely to his unusual shrewdness and practical sagacity. He was also in other respects a leading man in the community, whose counsel was sought by men from far and near, and he occupied most efficiently for many years the position of an elder and leader in the Presbyterian Church of his native place.

LEONARD NEIGHBOR or Leonhard Nachbar, as the name was originally, bought the fifth farm of 310 acres, on the Logan tract for £147 ($352). This land was left to his only son Leonard 2d, by whom it was ordered to be sold to one of his family. Leonard 3d then bought the farm and left it at his death to his two sons, Leonard and Jacob, one taking the Arthur Neighbor place and the other the Silas Neighbor farm.

Leonhard, the emigrant, might be called the "Father of the Valley," inasmuch as every Shenckel and every Welsh and nearly every Trimmer must trace their descent up to him. For his three daughters married respectively the heads of these families: Mary Elisabeth married John William Welsh, Anna Martha married Matthias Trimmer and Anna Margaret married Heinrich Schenckle. Of the children of Leonard Neighbor, 2d, Nicholas and David went West and founded the town of Newcomerstown, Ohio, about 1815. Their descendants are found also in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and California. Mr. Byron Roberts, of Topeka, Kansas, and Mr. L. B. Neighbor, of Dixon, Illinois, belonging to this family, are men of prominence in the community. "Uncle" David Neighbor, of Lower Valley, who was born 1797 and died 1892, at the age of 95 years, and whose birthdays were annually celebrated by large gatherings in his home to do him honor, was remarkable for an equable temperament, a judicious mind, unimpeached integrity and a genial disposition, all of which were sanctified by a fervent christian faith. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church for many years; a member of the Assembly and of the Constitutional Convention. His son James Leonard is a prominent lawyer of Dover, N. J.

MATTHIAS TRIMMER bought the farm next to Leonard Neighbor, the last one of the Logan tract. He paid £160 ($427) for 338½ acres, of which he was in actual possession, 30 May, 1750. This property now includes the farms of William Dufford and James Anthony. It was divided by Matthias in 1793 between his sons John, who received 220 acres, and David, who received 110 acres. He also owned 30 acres on Schooley's Mountain, 265 acres in Lower Valley, which were left to his son Jacob, and on Fox Hill, 70, which went to David, and 150, which were given to Leonard. He owned altogether 845 acres.

Matthias was the oldest son of John Trimmer, who came with his brother from Germany or Holland to America. The brother and his family cannot be traced. All of this name in Morris and Hunterdon counties are descendants of John. He probably arrived in ship Davy at Philadelphia on the 25th of October, 1738. He and his son Matthias were naturalized by act of Assembly in 1744. He had twelve children by two wives, nine sons and three daughters. Four of his sons settled in the valley. Besides Matthias, William settled east of Middle Valley and had one son Conrad; Tunis on the Hager property, and Nicholas near Parker. George, Harbert and John settled in Amwell township, Hunterdon Co., where their descendants are still to be found.

THE LEASED LANDS

included all the Budd and Scott tract. This tract was divided into farms, which were leased in 1747, for a term of one hundred years. The farms, however, were passed from owner to owner, and as the rent was small, it was not regularly paid and the settlers looked upon the land as theirs in fee simple.

Disputes arose and the heirs of the original lessors scattered throughout the country refused to resign their title. In the meanwhile the land had arisen in value and was worth contending for. For fifty years or more up to the year 1844 the title to these farms was in dispute. No one cared to spend any money in improvements, of which some one else might reap the benefit. Fences and buildings and the proper care of the land were largely neglected. Finally at the above date a compromise was effected; commissioners were appointed to survey the whole tract and allot the different sums which each farm was to pay towards the whole amount, which had been agreed upon between the parties. The long contest was thus at length decided and new deeds were given, which were made valid by a special act of the legislature, passed the 8th of March, 1844.

Beginning at the northern end of the Budd tract, the first farm of 200 acres was leased in 1747 to JACOB DUFFORD. A copy of this lease, now in the possession of James Anthony, will serve as a sample of the rest. It is dated the 20th of May, 1747.

John Budd of the County of Morris, gentleman, and Sarah his wife, to Jacob Tefort, weaver of said county, gives a lease * * of a certain tract of land in that place called Long Valley, whereon he now dwells, lying on both sides of the Rarington River, bounded as follows * * by lands of James Logan and Stofe Terberger, * * the said Jacob Tefort from the 20th of March last past [1746], for and during the term of 96 years * * and the said Jacob Tefort doth agree * * to pay 8 Spanish Pistolls [] of full weight on or before Nov. 1st next ensuing. On failure of payment of said rent, twenty days after the respective days of payment of said rent yearly * * the said John Budd may enter upon the leased lands themselves and seize &c. any goods or chattels &c. which shall be found thereon and keep them 20 days and if no payment be made to redeem them then the said John Budd may sell them at auction to the highest bidder and the overplus * * be returned to the lessee. The witnesses are Nathan Cooper; Andreas Kilian? and Johannes Heger are in German. This lease is endorsed on the back with the No. 5, and the words, John Trimmer and Adam Winegarden were present when I took possession of this plantation, with consent of Stephen and Jacob Tefort, Aug. 8, 1781.

Jacob Dufford, to whom the lease was given, was the son of PHILIP TOFORT or Dufford, who was the first of the name to come to the valley. He arrived at Philadelphia 11th September, 1738, in the ship Robert and Olliver. He was probably of Huguenot origin, the name being Devoor or Dufloor. (See Genealogies p. 342). He died 1767, his son Jacob having probably died before him. His son Adam probably removed to Greenwich township, Warren Co., as his name is found on the "Old Straw Church" book. His son George has left no descendants in this vicinity. Philip, Jr., also disappeared very early. Jacob is therefore the ancestor of all of his name in this section. Of his sons, Matthias settled on Schooley's Mountain, where he bought 185 acres of the Stevenson tract in 1775; George Stephen ("Yerestuffy") remained on the old place, now owned and occupied by Nathan Anthony and Abner Dilts.

STEPHEN TERRYBERRY ("Stofe Terberger") leased, in 1747, the farm of 150 acres, next to Dufford. This is the farm now owned by Isaac Sharp Vescelius. About 1796, when Jacob Trimmer bought his 600 acres below the county line, John Swackhamer moved from that place, where he was living, to the Terryberry place, which his son Frederick occupied for many years. Mr. Vescelius is a descendant, on his mother's side, from both these families. Stephen died 1776 and left two daughters, Margaret, who probably married John Swackhamer and Elisabeth, who married Adam Sager. His son George Frederick removed to Oxford township, Warren Co., and his son Philip settled upon Schooley's Mountain, where he owned considerable property which was left to his son Philip 2d, who died in 1852.

JOHANNES HEGER leased the next farm, which was afterwards owned in succession by William Welsh 2d, Aaron Howell and Anthony Trimmer, by whom it has been sold to his son the Hon. Hager Trimmer.

THOMAS NIEL leased, in 1752, 166 acres east of the three farms mentioned above. Of this family nothing is known. In 1744 John Dufford and Adam Hoffman divided this tract between them.

LORENTZ SCHLEICHER ("Sliger") leased the next 200 acres in 1750. In 1844 this plantation included the land of I. Vescelius (13¼ acres), Dr. Sherwood (75.90), part of S. G. Hoffman and David Swackhamer.

Lorentz was the father of all of his name. He was one of the signers in 1749, of Rev. J. A. Weygand's call. He had at least three sons: John Leonard, of whom nothing is known; Lorentz, who went to Wyoming, but whose son came back here and settled at Pleasant Grove; John George, settled at Beattystown.

PETER MAINS leased in 1747 the next farm of 133 acres.

The Mains family, of which Peter was probably the first, removed to Stillwater and to Sparta, where they are still to be found. This farm was owned by David Miller in 1844.

JOHN STINE, leased in the same year, the next farm of 217 acres. This farm was afterwards owned by Jacob Kern and George Wack. The Stine family have removed from this vicinity.

JOHN HENDERSHOT leased 13th April, 1747, 333 acres for eight years rent free, "to make improvements." This plantation was afterwards, 1760, leased by Scott to THOMAS NEIL for 84 years. The Neil family have disappeared.

The first of the name of Hendershot was probably MICHAEL, who came to New York in the second emigration in 1710. He had probably six children, Casper, Maria Sophia, John Peter, Michael, Elisabeth, Eva and John. These children settled at Hackensack, in Monmouth and Sussex counties. Some of their descendants probably went to New York State. The John who settled on the leased lands is said to have come from Connecticut and to have afterwards removed from German Valley to Greenwich township, Warren county. The name would indicate that they came from Holland.

CORNELIUS HOBBOCK took the next 150 acres in 1747. This included the farms of Silvester Neighbor and George Trimmer. The former of which has recently been purchased by Mr. Hoffman.

The Hobbock, or Hoppock, family was probably of Holland descent. Cornelius was probably a brother of Hendrick, Teunis and Jost. The family is now scattered from Lambertville to Sparta.

JACOB BODINE held the lease for 133 acres, which now belong to William N. Swackhammer. The Bodines descended from the Huguenot Jean Boudin, who came from the town of Medit, France, to London before 1681, with his wife Esther Bridon. He died on Staten Island in 1695. He had a son Francis, whose son Isaac settled at the North Branch. Jacob was probably the son of Isaac. Another son of Isaac, viz. Frederick, was probably the father of Gilbert, who lived in

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF LOWER VALLEY.

Chester township, and whose daughter Elsie married Matthias Trimmer.

On the east of the original Budd tract land had been bought by Scott from Daniel Smith. This was included in the leased lands.

MICHAEL PACE, a son-in-law of the first Welsh, leased 1775, 58 acres of this tract. This farm belonged to Philip Philhower in 1844. Michael kept a tavern here in 1772. He afterwards removed with his family to Wyoming, Pa. One son, John, remained here and was brought up by his uncle, Judge David Welsh. Two daughters, Elisabeth and Susan, married respectively, Conrad and William Rarick. Michael had a brother Daniel, whose son Frederick left many descendants settled for the most part in Mud street.

WILLIAM TRIMMER, probably a son of the first John, in 1775 leased 84 acres and Thomas Neil 30½ next to him. William appears to have had only one son, Conrad, who was the grandfather of Asa and Nathan Trimmer and of Uncle Jesse Hoffman.

MIDDLE VALLEY,

about three miles from German Valley, is situated on the Budd tract or "the leased lands."

DR. EBENEZER K. SHERWOOD, a physician, was settled here more than half a century ago, practiced medicine in this region for 45 years, and at one time maintained a private asylum for the insane. He had come from Somerset county, having originally belonged to Connecticut. His son, the Rev. Jonathan H. Sherwood, married Dr. Hutton's sister, and was for many years the beloved pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Milford, New Jersey.

DAVID W. MILLER kept the store more than fifty years ago. His character is well described in the following obituary notice which appeared at the time of his death :

In Brooklyn, N. Y., February 12th, David W. Miller, died in the 68th year of his age. There is a special significance and value in this notice, in that it is the record of the death of the last one of a family of nine brothers and sisters, in the lives and death of all of whom is strikingly illustrated the covenant faithfulness of God.

The father of this family was one most fitly characterized by the phrase "An Israelite in whom is no guile." The mother was a woman remarkable for earnest, enthusiastic, active piety. These parents, as will be readily inferred, trained their household in the fear and admonition of the Lord. And they were privileged before they died to see all their children in visible connection with the church of Christ, and leading lives of consistent piety; they witnessed the joyful, triumphant departure of more than one of them, heard from over the sea, words of calm Christian faith of one who died in a far land; and after they had ascended each of the surviving sons and daughters, as they successively departed, left behind them good evidence that they had gone to join the covenant host.

One of these was Jacob W. Miller, who served New Jersey in the United States Senate twelve years; another was William Miller, well known in Newark and vicinity as an orator of rare promise, but who died at an early age in the city of Paris, where he had gone in the vain hope of arresting the progress of a fatal malady.

David W. Miller was born in German Valley, New Jersey, in the year 1799. He was a man of ardent, enthusiastic spirit, gifted with good intellectual powers, and especially a vivid imagination, and on several occasions addressed public assemblies with marked effect.

His leading characteristic was ardent devotion to the cause of Christ. In every agency that seemed fitted to advance that cause, he took an earnest, active and untiring interest. He was one of the earliest movers in the cause of Sunday schools in his county and State; and one of the first addresses on that subject published in the State was from his pen.

In the country neighborhood where he lived many years, some miles from any church, he sustained, much of the time almost unaided, the ordinances of religion, laboring untiringly in the Sunday school, the evening meeting, by prayer and exhortation and the reading of good books to quicken believers and save the impenitent. He delivered an able address at Morristown, N. J., 10th April, 1827, at an anniversary of the Morris County Sunday School Union.

He removed from German Valley to Brooklyn about the year 1848, and was there employed for a series of years alternately in private business and government employ. During the war he was for some time in the work of the Christian Commission, being actively engaged with earnest devotion and hearty satisfaction, as in his true work amongst the sick and wounded at City Point.

During the last ten years of his life, with impaired health, and no regular business, he gave what strength he had to every good work that presented itself, being deeply interested in and a constant attendant upon the noon-day prayer meetings.

The Miller family of this vicinity were descended from JOHN HENRY MILLER or Mueller, who was born in the village of Niedermastahn in the Zweibrucken Palatinate, and came to Philadelphia 12th August, 1752. Henry had four children, Elisabeth, the wife of Christian Kline, Mary Catherine, the wife of Baltis Stiger, Henry, who settled at New Germantown, and David, who settled at Middle Valley. A daughter of the latter married Rev. John C. Vanderwoort. Of the other children of David, of Middle Valley, William W. and Jacob W. became prominent lawyers, the latter being first Senator of New Jersey and then of the United States, both being acknowledged to be men of pre-eminent gifts both as orators and lawyers. William W. however died young and left only the promise of a great career.

ANDREAS MILLER was the ancestor of another family of the same name, which settled in the vicinity of Hackettstown.

CHAPTER XVII.

SETTLERS OF THE LOWER VALLEY.

LOWER VALLEY, CALIFON AND HIGH BRIDGE.

LOWER VALLEY.

BEGINNING with the county line of Hunterdon county we enter upon the West Jersey Society tract. This comprised speaking generally all of what is now Hunterdon county, at least that part of it which is west of a line drawn from Pickels Mountain to Pottersville and north of the boundary line, which runs between Hunterdon and Mercer counties.

It contained 91,800 acres, of which there was owned, before 1760, by Allen and Turner 10,800 acres; by Coxe and Kirkbride, 11,377; by Coxe and King, 1,527; by Hoff and Bonnell, 500; by Harmon Rosencrants, 568; by Alexander, Morris, White and Dunstar, 10,500; surveyed and laid out in farms 32,000.

As early as 1735 this tract was settled by a number of people and leases were given for four years to 98 families of farms in size from 50 to 300 acres. A list of these names will be found in the appendix. These were all the settlers on the whole tract with the exception of the ten thousand acres sold to Coxe and Kirkbridge, which extended from Clinton to Flemington.

JACOB TRIMMER, son of Matthias 1st, bought a tract of 603 acres from Livingston, being lots No. 68 and 69 of his allotment, for £1809 ($1809 ?) gold or silver, 4th July, 1797. The land is described as now in the possession of John Swackhammer. There was excepted from this purchase a farm of 81 acres previously (4th July, 1794) sold to Rev. Caspar Wack. This well known Trimmer tract is now in possession of Jacob's descendants.

John Swackhammer, son of Samuel, the emigrant, was charged in the year 1766 with the rent of lot No. 69, of 448 acres, valued then at £896, and Jacob Cummins with the rent of lot No. 68 of 238 acres.

SAMUEL SWACKHAMMER settled on a part (162 acres), which he had bought, of a tract of 376 acres, which belonged to Anthony White, at least as early as 1762, and it may be that this was where he was settled in 1735. This tract extended from the road to Califon from the Lower Valley, southwesterly on both sides of the South Branch, two-thirds of the distance to Hoffman's crossing. The farm north of Swackhammer's, of 126 acres, had been bought in 1762 by Philip Sheeler, and another lot of 2½ acres was in possession of Conrad Swackhammer, and a fourth part of 66½ acres was occupied by William Haugh (Hawk?). The two latter parts were unsold.

SAMUEL was the first of the Swackhammers and came to this country in 1731. He died in 1782 at 82 years of age, leaving a family by three wives of 25 children, 73 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren. Such is the statement in the old German church book by Dominie Graaf, but his will only names 13 children, of whom we can trace the descendants of only Conrad and John. The former, Conrad, leaving descendants in Hunterdon county, and the latter, John, in Morris.

PHILIP SHEELER, now called Schuyler, was the first of his name in New Jersey. He was born 1718, married Ann Anderson and died 1784. He had 14 children, of whom Philip and Jacob removed to Sussex county, while Peter, William and John left descendants in Hunterdon and Morris counties.

CALIFON.

The village of Califon is of comparatively recent origin, but more than makes up by the rapidity of its growth for delay in starting. The name was originally California, which became abbreviated to Califon. Jacob Neighbor, who formerly owned the mill there and also the store, gave the name to the place. Several years ago the Methodists rebuilt their church and now worship in one of the most beautiful and convenient churches in all this region. The Rev. Mr. Jones, the present pastor, is a man of fine elocutionary powers as well as a liberal minded and enterprising pastor, and under his ministrations the church is growing in size and efficiency. The business men are noted for their enterprise and push. G. W. Beaty and J. W. Beavers and Peter Philhower are the general merchants of the place, S. N. Weise and the Weise and Neighbor Company are extensive dealers in a superior quality of lime.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF LOWER VALLEY.

This church is located in the southeast corner of the township, near the thriving village of Califon. The original members were from other churches, and more especially from the Presbyterian Church at German Valley, with which it was at one time connected. Many of the members living in the vicinity of Lower Valley began to feel the need of a place of worship nearer home, and September 30th, 1870, half an acre of land, upon which the house now stands, was purchased of Samuel K. Weller. A building committee was at once appointed, consisting of Samuel Trimmer, Oliver Bunn and David Neighbour. The corner stone was laid in May, 1871, by Rev. I. A. Blauvelt, of the German Valley Church, and the building was completed and dedicated December 19th, 1871. It is of wood, 38 by 65 feet and cost $12,000. May 7th, 1872, this church was regularly and legally organized by the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, with the following constituted members: On certificate from German Valley Church, George Neighbour, Elisabeth Neighbour, David Neighbour, Jacob M. Trimmer, Susan L. Trimmer, James Trimmer, Catherine Flumerfelt, Adaline Neighbour, Caroline Apgar, John Neighbour, Margaret Q. Neighbor, Charles Miller, Mary Miller, James Foster, Ellen Foster, Elias V. Cregar, Eliza Ann Cregar, Sylvester Neighbour, Zilpha Neighbour, Mary Trimmer, Elisabeth Miller, Gilbert Trimmer, Caroline Trimmer, Samuel Trimmer, Ann C. Trimmer, Leonard G. Neighbour, George E. Naughtright, Caroline Trimmer, George Apgår and Ann Naughtright ; from Pleasant Grove, Rachel Apgar, Peter Bunn and wife, Abraham Hoffman and wife and Oliver Bunn ; from Flanders, Mary Welch ; from Reformed Church at High Bridge, Benj. Cole and Sophia Cole ; from Evangelical Lutheran Church of Spruce Run, O. B. Hoffman and Margaret A. Hoffman. The first elders were George Neighbour, David Neighbour and Jacob M. Trimmer. May 18th, 1872, the following additional elders were elected : Elias V. Cregar, Benj. Cole and Abraham Hoffman. In 1874 the church officials purchased three-quarters of an acre, adjoining the church lot, and built thereon their present beautiful and commodious parsonage at a cost of $4,000. The first pastor was Rev. I. A. Blauvelt. He preached at German Valley in the forenoon and at Lower Valley in the afternoon. He was succeeded in December, 1871, or January, 1872, by Rev. R. H. Van Amburgh, who remained only till February, 1872, when Rev. John Reed was called. He was succeeded by Rev. Chester Coe Murra, installed in May, 1875. His successor was Rev. W. J. Henderson, installed in May, 1877.

Rev. James R. Gibson was called 1884, and remained the popular and efficient pastor of the church until the year 1894.

For six months he was pastor of a Presbyterian Church, of Berwick, Penn., but was called back to his former charge, which had been unable to unite upon any one to fill his place. Mr. Gibson resigned on account of impaired health to seek relief in the employ of the Prudential Insurance Company, of Newark.

He was followed by Rev. A. Nicholson, who is the present pastor. The church a year or two ago purchased a pipe organ at an expense of $1,200, and have recently procured an expensive steam heating apparatus. This church is now in the Presbytery of Elisabeth. Present value of property, $16,000 ; membership 154. The Sunday school was established in 1840 by David Neighbour, the first superintendent.

HIGH BRIDGE.

This township was included in the Allen and Turner tract of 10,000 acres. The whole tract was purchased, 21st October, 1752, of the West Jersey Society by William Allen and Joseph Turner for £3,997, New York currency. It included 586 acres previously purchased by them [Trenton, K, 194].

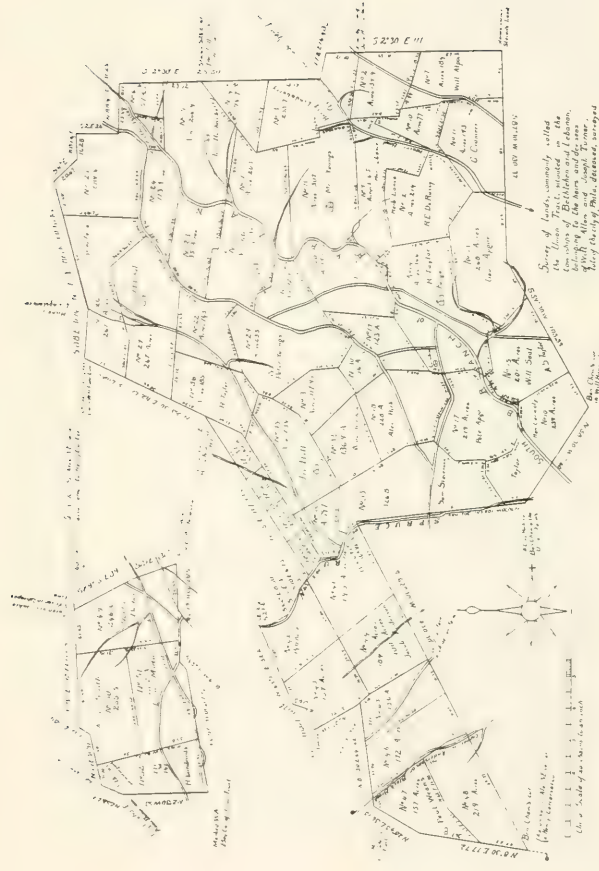

In 1742, December 1st, William Allen had purchased 3,000 acres and in the deed a forge is spoken of as already in operation. The same company owned land in Sussex county, including the Andover Furnace, and in Chester township, Morris county. They were large iron manufacturers and are said to have been engaged in this business as early as 1728.

In 1802 the tract including the present township of High Bridge and also part of Bethlehem, was divided into 52 farms. The map of these farms is now in the possession of Mr. Lewis Taylor, of High Bridge, who has kindly permitted it to be copied and it will be found in this volume.

WILLIAM ALPOCK occupied farm No. 1 of 184 acres.

On the 23d of September, 1734, there landed at Philadelphia, Zacharias and John Wilhelm Ahlback, with three others of the same name, who were under sixteen years of age, viz., Johann Wilhelm, Joh. Gerhard and Johann Peter. Zacharias and William occupied parts of the Society Lands in 1735. The three brothers William, George and Peter, who tradition says were the first, were probably of the second generation. Of these Peter settled in Alexandria township, and George, between Bray's Hill and Cokesburg.

MORRIS ALPOCK was the first of the name in Morris county and owned or occupied land on the road from Bartley to Flanders. He had three children, William, Philip and Elisabeth. From the first of these, William, have descended all the Alpoeks of Morris county. William bought 223 acres, in 1773, of the Bowlsby tract, between German Valley and Chester. This farm is now owned by Theodore Coleman. Morris, his oldest son, owned 265 acres at Naughtright until his death in 1835.

Dual notes.

HENRY LINDABERRY occupied lot No. 3. He was the ancestor of those of his name in Tewksbury township and in Morris county. He had eight children, Conrad, Jacob, Harbert, Ann, the wife of Tunis Updike, Casper, John, George and Eva the wife of Peter Hockenberry.

CONRAD LINDABERRY, who removed from near the Whitehouse to Hope, Warren Co., was probably the brother of Herbert.

GEORGE LINDABERRY, of Whitehouse, the grandfather of William N. Lindaberry, of Hackettstown, and Mrs. Leonard F. Apgar, of Middle Valley, may have been a brother of Henry and Conrad.

There were originally two brothers, CONRAD and NICHOLAS LEINENBERGER, who came to Philadelphia, 15th September, 1752. Caspar Lindaberry bought in 1796 a farm of 176 acres east of the John Sharp place near High Bridge.

JOSEPH HOCKENBERRY, who occupied lot No. 5 of 266 acres was probably a grandson of HERBERT, who died in 1769, and left twelve children, of whom six were boys, viz., John, Peter, Jost, Henry, Christopher and Harman.

HARMAN LANCE occupied lot 9 and HERBERT lot 12. Three brothers of the Lance family came to this country together. They were Jacob, who settled in Warren county, and whose descendants are found near Sparta; Michael, who died in Greenwich township, Warren county, leaving five children; and John, who was the father of Harman and perhaps also of Herbert. The three brothers came to Philadelphia on October 28th, 1738, in ship Thistle.

MATTHIAS CRAMER was probably the father of George, who is found on lot 11 of 193 acres. The former had at least two sons: Matthias, one of whose daughters, Anna, married John Hager, and another, Mary, married John Sharp; Morris, who removed to Mendham, and left descendants in Chester township.

JOHN ADAM APGAR was probably the first of the family in this country. His name was originally Ebcher and he came from the borders of Italy. His oldest son, Herbert, was probably the father of George, who occupied lot 13 of 268 acres, and of Peter, who lived upon lot 17 of 219 acres.

There were ten sons and one daughter of John Adam, the emigrant : Herbert, who settled east of Cokesburg ; Henry, in Alexandria township, Hunterdon county ; Jacob, west of Cokesburg ; Peter, of Lebanon ; John Peter, near Whitehall ; William, of Clinton ; Adam, of Cokesburg ; Frederick, of Alexandria township ; Conrad, of Mountainsville ; George, who went West, and Catherine, an only daughter, who married first John Emery, and second John Sharp.

JOHN SEALS, an English school-teacher, who came to this country about 1762, was the father probably of Daniel and William Seals, who lived on lots 22 and 15 respectively. John lived on lot 20.

CHAPTER XVIII.

SETTLERS OF UNIONVILLE.

UNIONVILLE, or Parker, includes the hilly section between German Valley and Fox Hill. The post office is in the store of Mr. Sutton, at the cross-roads where are also the school house and a blacksmith shop. THE BOWLSBY TRACT of 2,365 acres taken up in February, 1765, by Thomas Bowsby, joins the valley tracts on the east. Part of this, 1,652 acres, had been surveyed 29th October, 1714, for Samuel Barker [Burlington L., 3 and 4].

WILLIAM ALPOCK bought 225 acres of this tract 1773. This is now the farm of Theodore Coleman.

CONRAD BUNN bought the next farm of 358 acres November 18th, 1772. Of this land Bunn sold 112 acres to John Dean in 1783, and he to Andrew Shangle in 1801. The rest finally came into the possession of J. J. Crater and Stephen I. Howell.

CALEB SWAYZIE bought 250 acres next to Conrad Bunn, and on both sides of Mudd street. This farm was sold to Conrad Bunn. From Conrad it came to John Bunn and the latter sold the 250 acres for $1,000 to William D. Lusk, 17th November, 1824. The Messlar property, formerly Lomersons, belonged to this land. Two hundred and eight acres were sold April, 1855, by James Vanderveer and D. C. Horton to Henry M. and Ser- ing Hoffman.

Hedges Howell sold the next farm of 159 acres to George Weise in 1847. It is now owned by Lauerman.

JOHN F. SMITH owned the next farm of 120 acres, which is now Theodore Phillhower's.

JEREMIAH AFGAR owns the next place of about 90 acres.

ISAAC HOWELL bought at an early date about 243 acres, which was divided up at his death into six shares, now occupied by his descendants.

PETER HOFFMAN now owns the next and most southern farm on the Bowsby tract. It contains 97 acres, 48 acres west of this farm and between it and the old Trimmer property there were 48 acres which were sold in 1790 by J. Culver to Leonard Neighbor.

NICHOLAS TRIMMER purchased 119 acres extending from the old Fox Hill road at Parker to and across the present turnpike. This is the property on which the store and school house stand. It now belongs to the Salter estate.

CONRAD BUNN bought 158 acres, including the present Albert Bunn farm, of Gershom Gard, 19th July, 1784.

North of this property Nicholas Trimmer bought, 19th March, 1789, 155 acres which he sold 1820, April 4th, to George Dufford.

HENRY SMITH gave a mortgage 8th March, 1784, to Caleb Swayzie for 123 acres between the Shangle farm and the Alpoek in Cherry Valley.

THE WETHERELL TRACT

bounded the Bowsby tract on the south. It contained 1,100 acres and was taken up 1719 [Burlington, Lib. A, fol. 148].

The eastern end of this tract where John Rhinehart lives was sold to ADAM LORENTZ in 1750. Of his 250 acres Lorentz sold 100 to Anthony Waldorf in 1754 and the latter sold the same in 1784 to Adam Rhinehart. The other 155 acres (the western half) were sold to Jacob Frazee and by him to Leonard Shangle in 1793, and by Leonard to John, Jacob and Frederick Shangle. On the opposite side of the road is the old Rhinehart place.

In 1773, November 13th, Asa Budd to William Smith sold a farm of 119 acres east of the old Rhinehart place and running from the Rhinehart road to the road to Pottersville.

M. E. CHURCH OF CALIPON.

ANTHONY SCHENWEL bought 120 acres south of the old Rhinehart place, 16th December, 1793.

The rest of the Wetherill tract was divided into three lots, which were bought by Philip Crater, Jacob Miller and John Snyder.

PHILIP CRATER bought 243 acres in 1785, including the Barkman farm.

JACOB MILLER purchased the farm south of this of 243 acres. This plantation included the Walter's of 163 acres, and another farm of 71 acres.

WILLIAM FLEMING bought the farm west of these, called lot No. 3, containing 280 acres of John Snyder in 1798.

THE DAVENPORT TRACT

ran almost east and west between the road on the north, separating it from the Wetherill tract and the Hunter survey and the county line on the south. It contained about 500 acres, was taken up 29th October, 1714; was sold to Joseph Reckless 23d October, 1747, and on a resurvey 19th April, 1748, was found to contain 585 acres.

MORRIS CRETER bought 7th February, 1748, 308 acres, or the western, and ANDREW ABLE, the eastern half of the same amount at the same date. Both these purchasers were in actual possession at the time of signing the deed, and it is probable that they first settled on the land some years previously, paying a little on the land each year until the full amount was reached, when the deed was given.

MORRIS CRETER was the ancestor of all of the name in New Jersey. His brother JOHN probably came to this State with him, as his name is found on the old Tewksbury township book in 1756, but none of the descendants of the latter have been found.

Morris had four children: Jacob, an imbecile; Morris, whose son Philip owned considerable land in Chester township and whose son Morris was the grandfather of Rev. Dr. W. O. Ruston's wife; Philip, who owned land in Chester and near Unionville, and whose son Matthias had descendants at Glen Gardner; Esther, who married Thomas Van Buskirk.

ANDREAS ABEL was probably an uncle of Matthias of Upper German Valley. He had two children, Michel and Paul. The former owned the land on which the first church (a union church) of Fox Hill stood.

HEINRICH SCHENKLE probably settled on the farm (of 167 acres) east of the Davenport tract. This he left at his death in 1769 to his wife for 14 years, when (1788) it was sold to Henry's oldest son Anthony. Besides Anthony he had four sons and four daughters.

JOHN BUNN, of German descent, settled on the farm in the extreme southeastern corner of the township, before 1756. He was the father of CUNRAD, who bought the land near Unionville. It is not known whether he had other children. Another family of the same name was settled in Somerset county. There were Bunns of English descent from Woodbridge, New Jersey, in Hunterdon county. The name would suggest a Huguenot origin.

JOSEPH VAN PELT purchased in 1799 161 acres or part of the Benjamin Hunter survey of 250, which was between the Davenport tract and the county line.

PHILIP PHILHOWER was the great-grandfather of the family of that name now settled east of Middle Valley. Andrew Jesse, Jacob, Elias and David, are sons of Philip, who was the grandson of the first Philip. The last named probably had a brother George, who went to Virginia, and a father George Philip Wuhlauer, who landed at Philadelphia 16th September, 1748, from the same vessel as Rev. Casper Wack's father.

THE READING TRACT, which this family once owned, has always been difficult to survey. It contained 250 acres and was frequently sold. It joined the leased lands on the east and the county line on the south.

CHAPTER XIX.

SETTLERS OF SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN.

BUDD'S LAKE—MOUNT OLIVE—DRAKETOWN—FLOCKTOWN—SPRINGTOWN—SCHOOLEY MOUNTAIN SPRINGS—PLEASANT GROVE.

AUTKAUIANNING is the name by which Budd's Lake was called by the Indians and in the early surveys. It lies half in the Reading and half in the Eyre tract. When the former of these was first surveyed John Reading was on a surveying trip in this region. Of this trip he has left an account in his diary, now in the possession of the New Jersey Historical Society. As an illustration of the wild condition of this part of New Jersey at that time we quote a few extracts :

May 22 [1715]. Left Allamucha * * kept a path which led to a very pleasant pond (Budd's Lake) being upon the head of a branch of the Rarington, called south branch, being near a mile over and two miles in length ; kept the path about two miles farther to an Indian plantation called Chanongong, where we slept that night.

May 23. We went back in the morning to aforesaid pond where we laid out a tract (the Reading survey of 600 acres) having got an Indian to help us and lay by the pond all night.

May 24. We waited in the morning for some venison which the aforesaid Indian promised to bring us, but failed. Went to the Indian plantation where we surveyed and it raining very fast in the afternoon lodged there all night.

During this trip, as far as the Water Gap and down the Musconetcong, the party suffered from want of food and required the help of an Indian guide, during part of the time. Nothing but Indian settlements are found west of Whippany or the Passaic river.

The family of Budds who settled very early on the upper part of the lake gave their name to this body of water.

Jesse M. Sharp, of German Valley, purchased land along the eastern shore and erected the large hotel which is now located there. The post-office was established in 1857.

MT. OLIVE,

the nearest village, was named from Benjamin Olive. The Presbyterian Church in this place was at first a preaching station of the Chester church. Thus the Rev. James Harcourt, probably, preached here as early as 1752.

The Baptist Church was constituted with about twelve members in 1753, as a branch of the church in Morristown. In 1786, September 27th, it was organized as a separate charge. In 1768 James Heaton gave an acre of land for church, burial and school purposes. The trustees to whom the deed was given were Jacob and Job Cossett (Corzat) and Richard Stephens. A log building was probably already built upon this land at that date and was a union church.

SAMUEL HEATON and his three brothers are said to have come from Wrentham, Mass., to engage in the iron business. Samuel was an overseer of highways in Roxbury township in 1741.

is situated on the farm of 200 acres purchased by Ebenezer Drake in 1759. This land was part of the great Boynton tract of 3,314 acres, taken up by Joseph Pigeon, 8th October, 1718 [Burlington A, 193]. This tract was sold to Boynton and, in part, by him to Allen.

SAMUEL BARBER bought the Drake farm and sold it in 1800 to John Peter Sharp, of German Valley. The latter left this property to his son John in the year 1826. The last named built a store, which is still in use.

At the cross-roads a tavern was once kept by John Hager, who bought the farm there of 200 acres from Joseph Arney in 1763, who had bought it in 1736 from William Biddle, of Philadelphia. Hager sold to Jonas Smith and Smith to Jeremiah Pool, 17th April, 1800.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN.

THE BOYNTON TRACT

was very early divided into lots of 100 and 200 acres.

Lot No. 1 was bought by Thomas Batson and sold to Peter Hiles.

Lot 2 was bought by William Allen who sold to Lambert Van Sickle and he to Philip Scheeler and the latter to John Smith in 1802.

Lot No. 3, bought by Thomas Batson, was sold to Samuel Shoemaker and by him to Joshua Howell, 1771.

Amos Grandin bought lot 15 of nearly 400 acres, and WILLIAM WIRE purchased 319 acres of him 19th September, 1804. Jonathan Bilbee bought 100 acres of this land, which he sold in 1839 to James Force, the father of Thomas, the present owner. The Raricks and Waterhouses owned a considerable number of acres on this tract.

DANIEL LAWRENCE gave in 1768 a mortgage for 260 acres east of the Boynton tract.

SILAS DRAKE gave a mortgage on 200 acres north of the Schooley tract to Magdalena Cook of New York.

In 1796 Lockman sells 100 acres of this land to Benjamin Coleman and in 1802 the rest of the heirs sell the same to John Coleman, the son of Benjamin.

JOHN KEMPLE sells 40 acres of the remaining hundred to John Coleman in 1802. The latter sold 120 acres to Daniel Young in 1818. The Schooley tract (200 acres) was sold to Thomas Culver in 1749 by Thomas Batson.

THOMAS COLVER (son of Thomas) sold 46 acres to Jabesh Pembleton in 1794, to whom also George Colver sold 18 acres in 1802.

AMOS COLVER disposes of 44 acres in 1808 in trust for his daughter Sarah Van Sickle.

FLOCKTOWN.

MATTHIAS THOMAS bought the Benjamin Wright tract of 400 acres which had been sold before 1761 to John Eaton.

ANDREAS FLOCK and his son Matthias bought the whole 600 acres of the tract surveyed to Collins and Gosling and sold to Samuel Furness in 1720.

DAVID ZOFRIN (Sovereign) bought the Daniel Robbins tract of 333 acres, which had belonged originally to Samuel Johnson. Part of this is now the Robert Durham property.

The Schooley tract running along the road from north to south was formerly owned by the Ayres, Forces, Lefoy and Hance families.

THE HOLLINSHEAD TRACT

was surveyed to Joseph Hollinshead 24th July, 1755, and contained 807 acres. After passing through several hands it was conveyed in 1798 to Thomas Bowlsby and Christian Hoffman. By the latter 19 acres were sold in 1799 to Simon Culver, and 25 to Wm. Little; 61 to Jacob Teeple (the Read farm) in 1826.

ABRAHAM DICKERSON bought 90 acres of this tract from Philip Flock, which is now in the possession of his heirs.

THE HUGH SHARP tract of 400 acres, west of the Hollinshead, was surveyed 13th March, 1717, and was sold to John Sharp and Ziba Hazen, his son-in-law. This included the Hugh Menagh farm.

THE FRANCIS DAVENPORT tract, south of the road running northwest and southeast by Flock's school house, was surveyed 20th October, 1714, and contained 604 acres. This includes the Searles farm (bought by William Searles in 1816), the Swackhamer and Parker places, formerly owned by Wm. Hoffman; the Rettie Hunt and Elias Howell and Orts farms.

GEORGE HAGER, the son of John, bought the Beswick tract of 330 acres, taken up in 1719, about 1776, but repurchased it in 1796.

SPRINGTOWN

is situated on the Elijah Bond tract of 500 acres, taken up 24th July, 1751, and sold to Braithwaite in April, 1771.

The Terriberry and Sager (now the Hiram Petty place), the Seneca Wise and Newton Smith farms, are included in this tract.

The village contains a hotel, kept by Jacob Drake and owned by Mrs. Rose, the blacksmith shop of Mantius Lindabury and the marble yard of Thomas Y. Ward.

Between the Braithwaite tract and the valley lands Daniel Smith had taken up 633 acres along the side of the mountain in 1763. Of this $133\frac{3}{4}$ acres were sold to John Sharp in 1807; $55\frac{1}{2}$ to John Hager in 1795; $21\frac{3}{4}$ to Sharp in 1807; $64\frac{3}{4}$ to William Nitser in 1774 and the northern end of $144\frac{1}{4}$ to Sharp in 1807.

South of the Smith lands and running along the side of the mountain was the tract of William Hewlings.

George Beatty, of Trenton, owned the land between Hewlings and Stevenson, which included the farms of Jacob Dufford, Henry I. Hoffman and Philip Terriberry. West of these was the farm sold by Beatty to Joseph Colver in 1783.

THE STEVENSON TRACT of 2,550 acres, taken up 4th May, 1713, extends from the Parker road running nearly north and south to the Pleasant Grove road, running in the same direction. The eastern end of this survey was sold in 1726, by the executors of Stevenson to Jacobus Van Sant and by him to George Wood and Simon Hilyer, and by them to William Hilyer.

Of this land Abram or Thomas Larew sells 200 acres to David Welsh in April, 1801, and David Welsh in October, 1801, conveys 106 acres to Richard Gray and 49 to Conrad Rarick. North of this latter lot were 160 acres which Conrad Rarick in 1839 conveyed to C. H. Hendershot.

AMOS GRAY in 1801 owns 80 acres east of Rarick, which John Gray conveys in 1835 to Abram Emmons.

MATTHIAS DUFFORD bought a farm of 185 acres, west of Rarick and Larew, of William Hilyer in 1775 for £462.

West of Dufford is the "still house lot" of 79 acres which was sold by John Sharp in 1809 to Doughty, Ralston & Co.

North of this farm were the 112 acres sold 1779 by Joseph Culver to Joseph Heath for $750. Of these 112 acres 20 were bought from Thomas Mill and Nancy in 1787, 30 from Richard Mann in 1793 and the rest were inherited from Robert Colver. This farm now belongs to William Marsh's estate.

The next farm also formerly owned by H. W. Hunt, Esq., also belonged to Robert Colver.

WILLIAM HENN purchased 350 acres of the Stevenson tract in 1745 of Samuel Schooley and his wife Avis, of Bethlehem township, Hunterdon Co. This land Schooley had bought of Isaac DeCou in 1726.

THE SCHOOLEYS, after whom the mountain was named, came from England to Burlington. There were several families of them. SAMUEL who sold land to Wm. Henn was the son of Thomas, who came to the above city in 1678. He was residing in Bethlehem township when he sold his land on the mountain and probably never resided here.

ROBERT, the son of William—perhaps a cousin of Samuel—who owned land at Draketown, is said to have resided there until he removed to Randolph in 1740, where he bought 600 acres of the Kirkbride tract. The family were Quakers.

ROBERT COLVER bought of William Cook in 1748 265 acres west of Henn. This included what is now the Martenis farm. This Robert was the son of John and grandson of John Sr., who came from New London before 1732. His brother Thomas settled near Draketown. They came from Monmouth Co., having gone thither from the mountain.

THOMAS NUNN was in possession in 1764 of 200 acres west of the Henn property. He left his property to his two sons Benjamin and Thomas, and the latter's right became vested in Joshua Nunn, grandson of Thomas. Joshua sold to David Colver in 1788 and Colver to Philip Hann, and Peter Woolf, surviving executor of Thomas, the elder, sold the other half to John Bacon who sold to Philip Hann and Hann sold the whole in 1803 to James Hance.

LAWRENCE HANN owned the farm on which the Pleasant Grove church and parsonage stand.

CALEB SWAYZEY bought the next farm of 197 acres in 1793 of Andrew Little. Caleb was the sixth child of BARNABAS Swazey who came from Southold, L. I., to Roxbury in 1737. He was a cousin to Israel Swazey, who owned the farm below the mineral spring.

ROBERT COLVER, JR., bought the next farm, containing 140 acres, of Edward Taylor, of Amwell township, in 1774. The farm had come from Stevenson to DeCou (as part of 500 purchased in 1714) and from DeCou to Freegift Stout and from his executors to Taylor.

REV. W. J. GILL, D. D.

The Hugh Sharp tract of 230 acres, south of Stevenson's, surveyed in 1715, included the farm of 106 acres sold by Jeremiah Bacon in 1786 to James Hance and that sold to Daniel Dilts in 1802.

PHILIP TERRYBERRY purchased very early the farm which he sold in 1784 to Jacob Dufford. Between Dufford and Dilts was the farm of Henry H. Hoffman.

The HENRY I. HOFFMAN farm was once owned by Frederick Young. It was sold in 1775 by Nathan to Joseph Colver, by Colver in 1795 to Fred. Young, by Young in 1806 to John Hoffman and by him in 1808 to Henry I. Hoffman. Henry I. Hoffman was a son of John Hoffman and a grandson of Henry, who probably came from New York State to New Jersey. Henry I. was a prominent elder in the Presbyterian Church of the Valley.

The farm of the late Mrs. George Lindaberry, originally 124 acres, was sold by George Beatty, of Trenton, to Joseph Colver and by Colver in 1799 to Philip Terryberry.

THE MORGAN TRACT included the Hann farm formerly belonging to Terryberrys, upon part of which the Dorincourt house now stands.

THE BOND TRACT of 500 acres was taken up 24th July, 1751, and was sold to Braithwaite in 1771. Two hundred and forty-two acres of this land was sold 15th April, 1795, by Jos. Colver to David Welsh. This included the Seneca Wise farm and the village of Springtown; the Hiram Petty farm formerly owned first by John Sager, and then by John Terryberry; and part of the Philip Terryberry property.

THE BENJAMIN HUNTER TRACT of 750 acres was bounded on the east by the road at Pleasant Grove from the store to the county line. It was taken up October, 1714, and included the John P. Sharp farm, probably owned in 1764 by George Eick, the Hann farm and the Walters place, sold in 1818 by Edward Sharp to T. and J. Walters. West of these farms was the Conrad Honness place.

The first land purchased by a resident on the mountain was the farm afterwards in possession of J. Beatty. This was sold March 1st, 1733, to WILLIAM PEW, of Lebanon, by Thomas Schooley, of Bethlehem, Hunterdon Co. It contained 136 acres and was afterwards owned by P. Sailor.

THE ELIJAH BOND TRACT of 438 acres next to the mineral spring was taken up in 1719 and sold to DeCou and 321 acres of it were sold by him to Charles Drake in 1779. William Drake, the son of Charles, bought the eastern part (135 acres) in 1807 and Israel Swayzey, son-in-law of Chas. Drake, bought the western end of 175 acres. The lot containing the spring of ten acres was not included in William Drake's farm.

The English settlement, through which the road from the springs to Hackettstown passes, formed part of the large Beswick tract of 1072 acres. Several families of English people settled upon this land at the beginning of this century. They were the Rawlings, Ruslings and DeRoses. Some dispute arose as to the title and an agreement was entered into 25th September, 1817, in consequence of which a new survey was made and the land was divided into lots and assigned to James Upjohn, James Rusling and Anthony Rawlings, so far at least as to give them the share of Ann Bland, while the rest went to the heirs of Ann Dickerson, the other heir of Francis Beswick.

Judge Aaron Robertson owned part of the southern end of this tract. South of and next to the Beswick came the Samuel Johnson survey of 364 acres (taken up in 1755) consisting mostly of wood land.

MOORE FURMAN sold to Henry Hance 278 acres along the Musconetcong in 1794. This farm was joined on the west by James Martins who had settled on his farm at least before the year 1755.

STEPHENSBURG owes its name to the family upon whose land the place is situated. This land was purchased before 1800 by Samuel Stephens, the son of Richard, of Mt. Olive. Robert Colver Stephens, the son of Samuel, was an elder in the Pleasant Grove church and was a fervent christian and an active business man as shown by his diary, which is still in existence.

In 1750 John Rockhill surveyed "to Jonathan Robeson a

SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN SPRINGS

has been a resort for visitors in pursuit of health for over a hundred years. In the year 1770 Dr. Henry M. Muehlenberg, while visiting in this vicinity, tested the virtues of this spring then "recently discovered." It was probably long known to the Indians and its medicinal properties taken advantage of by them.

In Morse's Geography, published in 1789, the following account is given of this spring, which seems to have become a place of general resort even thus early:

In the county of Hunterdon near the top of the Musconetcong mountain there is a noted medicinal spring, to which invalids resort from every quarter. It issues from the side of the mountain in a very romantic manner, and it is conveyed into an artificial reservoir for the accommodation of those who wish to bathe in, as well as to drink, the waters. It is a strong chalybeate and very cold. These waters have been used with very considerable success, but perhaps the exercise necessary to get to them, and the purity of the air in this lofty situation, aided by a lively imagination, have as great efficacy in curing the patient, as the waters.

In 1810 Professor Mitchell, of Columbia College, made an analysis of the waters of the spring and announced as a result that "if there is anything that deserves the name of a pure chalybeate water in the world, this would seem to be such a composition."

The popularity of this spring made it necessary to provide some accommodations for the visitors who resorted thither. Before the close of the last century JOSEPH HEATH erected a house to accommodate boarders. This building is still standing. About 1809 another building was erected. In 1817 Ephraim Marsh, a son-in-law of Joseph Heath, became associated with him in the hotel business and erected the main buildings of the group now known as the Heath House.

Belmont Hall, recently enlarged and now known as "The Dorincourt," was first erected about 1820 by Conover Bowne of New York. It was afterwards owned in succession by William Gibbons, of Madison, then by his daughter, Mrs. Francis Lathrop, then by Edward Holland and finally by the late David Crowell. At Mr. Crowell's death the house was started anew under a different name and with greatly increased accommodations.

THE HON. EPHRAIM MARSH was the most prominent man on the mountain in his day. He was born at Mendham in 1796 and died on the mountain in 1864. He came to the mountain in 1816 as a manager for Joseph Heath. He represented the county in both houses of the legislature; was county judge; a member of the N. J. Constitutional Convention and President of the Morris Canal Company. His management of the Heath House brought it into national fame and very many of the prominent public men of the time before the war, sought entertainment at the springs.

The late William W. Marsh, the son of Judge Ephraim, inherited the public spirit of his father and filled a large place in the community up to the day of his death.

THE INDIANS

have left some evident traces of their early existence upon the mountain. Three Indian paths are referred to in old surveys. One crossing the South Branch at Middle Valley and passing through Pleasant Grove, another crossing the mountain above the mill at Two Bridges, above Naughtright, and a third passing down the mountain near the spring.

An Indian camping ground was once to be found on the Ayer's farm near Draketown, and what were called "The Indian Fields" was situated between the latter place and Hackettstown. Hiram and Tim, two Indians, with their squaws and papooses were living on the mountain fifty or sixty years ago. All the land in Warren and Sussex and this part of Morris counties belonged to what was called "the last Indian purchase above the falls of the Delaware."

were the first religious body in this section. This peculiar body of sectarians were led apparently by a desire to cultivate undisturbed their strange form of religious life, in seeking this frontier so far distant from their home in New London, Conn.

John Colver was their leader and he brought with him to this wilderness in 1732 his children and their families to the number of twenty-one persons. Other families affiliated with them, such as the Tuttle, Burrows, Manns, Weirs, Waterhouses, Lambs, Pechers (Pishers?), Salmons and Owens.

They removed from Schooley Mountain after three years to Monmouth Co., whence they returned hither after eleven years.

Where they worshipped on the mountain we cannot tell, but they had a house of worship, referred to in Smith's History of New Jersey (1765), near the point where the road from Mountain Pond joins the highway from Rustic to Mount Arlington. They had a graveyard near Silver Spring about a furlong from Lake Hopatcong. Some removed to the Red Stone country or Virginia. (See Dover Era July 18th, 1890.)

Sandford's History of Connecticut (p. 141) speaks of them as follows: "Some trouble was caused by a sect known as the Rogerenes that flourished mostly in the neighborhood of New London. While their doctrines were obnoxious to their neighbors the principal annoyance came through the indecencies of dress and behavior that marked the more than eccentric actions of this peculiar people. Holding the views of the Seventh Day Baptists they added notions of their own both eccentric and immoral."

They were strenuously orthodox in their belief, holding to the doctrines of the Trinity, of salvation in Christ, the new birth, the resurrection and eternal judgment. But to these they added their peculiar views, in which they largely resembled the Society of Friends. To them all days were alike and it was lawful to labor after worship on the Lord's Day. They were opposed to the taking of oaths and to audible prayer, except when moved by the spirit. Any resort in sickness to physicians or the use of medicine was sinful. They abhorred such adjuncts to worship of God as church steeples, pulpits and cushions, a paid minister or even a separate church building. Nor did they approve of monuments to the dead. They gloried in suffering for their belief and even courted the penalties of the whipping post, fines and imprisonment. They were accustomed to attend the service of the churches and carry their work into the church with them. This they are said to have done in the year 1770 in the churches both of Mendham and Basking Ridge. This sect was originated in the year 1674 by John Rogers, whose father James was a baker in New London, and the richest man in the colony next to Governor Winthrop. It is still in existence. CHAPTER XX.

SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

SCHOOLEY'S MOUNTAIN SPRINGS has been a place of resort probably since the year 1770. About 1825 it became more widely known and patronized. The native population was sparse and scattered and its religious conveniences and accommodations very few and uncertain.

At that time the visitors being largely religious people felt the need of better opportunities for public worship, while staying upon the mountain. Their liberality combined with the enterprise of some influential people among the permanent residents resulted in a successful effort to build a church.

This was designed to be a union church in which clergymen of all denominations, either visitors or settled in the neighborhood, would be welcome to hold religious service. In order the better to secure this end, the ground upon which the church was erected was deeded to the trustees of the Theological Seminary at Princeton in trust for a site upon which should be erected a building for the religious worship of "all denominations of christians."

The building was of stone and had seating room for 200 people. It was of two stories, the upper room being used as a school room, and cost altogether about six hundred dollars. It was dedicated on the 7th of August, 1825, by the Rev. Dr. Pohlman, then the pastor of the Lutheran Church of German Valley, N. J. The building when completed was, by the trustees of the seminary, placed in the hands of a committee of three, consisting of the Rev. Dr. Campbell, of Hackettstown, Ephraim Marsh, an elder in the same church, and Dr. Pohlman.

From that time forth visitors on the mountain heard the gospel preached by clergyman of every denomination ; Episcopalians, Baptists, Lutherans, Presbyterians and Methodists. The pastors of neighboring churches took their turn in conducting service on Sabbath afternoons.

When in the course of time the old stone chapel became unfit for use and was removed, the community felt the need of a larger and more comfortable building in which, as in the previous structure, union services might be regularly maintained. With this end in view the present large and elegant building was erected and dedicated on the 7th of August, 1870.

Upon this occasion the Rev. Dr. Moffat, of Princeton Theological Seminary, preached a sermon, and the Rev. Dr. Pohlman, of the Lutheran Church of Albany, who had dedicated the old stone chapel forty-five years before, offered the dedicatory prayer. The basement was fitted up for the purposes of the Sabbath school, and the structure cost altogether $13,000.

A LARGE REVIVAL.

occurred in the year 1874. Rev. Samuel Sawyer, pastor at Pleasant Grove, began a series of meetings, a week before Christmas, in that year, and soon found he had not been mistaken in his belief that a deep religious thoughtfulness was prevalent throughout the community. These meetings were continued for six weeks or more, with very little intermission, the clergymen of the neighboring churches occasionally aiding in the services. It was a most remarkable work of grace, reaching almost every family, and in some instances, every member of a family, until as many as seventy were indulging a hope of salvation through Christ. It now became a matter of serious consideration how to care for these new converts. After careful and mature deliberation it was decided to organize an independent congregation. Neighboring congregations with one exception bid the new enterprise, "God-speed."

As a result of the application to the Presbytery of Morris and Orange, a committee was appointed by that body and met in the chapel of the church of Schooley's Mountain on Wednesday, March 17th, 1875, and proceeded to organize the church. An able and instructive sermon was preached by Dr. Alfred Yeomans, of Orange, and Rev. Messrs. Mix and Souper, the other members of the committee, also took part in the impressive service. Twenty-four persons, principally from the churches of German Valley, Hackettstown and Pleasant Grove, signified their desire to become members of the new organization. Messrs. Wm. W. Marsh and H. W. Hunt were chosen as elders. The membership was increased at the next communion to the number of seventy-five.

The first minister regularly supplying this church was the REV. SAMUEL SAWYER, who became stated supply on the 15th of April, 1876, having previously resigned as pastor of the Pleasant Grove Church. He only remained one year, when he removed to the West. Services were regularly maintained by different supplies, until the REV. E. P. LINNELL, of the Presbyterian Church of German Valley, began regular service every Sabbath afternoon, and continued from December 1st, 1878, to June 1st, 1879. The church was again served by temporary supplies, for a period, until the REV. J. KINSEY SMITH was called to be the first pastor, October 15th, 1882. He was ordained and installed October 26th, 1882. He remained for four years, when he accepted a call in March, 1886, to the Church of Mt. Washington, Md. Very soon afterwards, 23d May, 1886, the REV. WILLIAM J. GILL, D. D., became the stated supply, to be soon, 12th December, 1886, elected pastor. By a mysterious providence this relationship was of but short duration and was terminated by the death of Dr. Gill in the spring of 1887. During his ministry the church on the mountain was united into one pastorate with the church of Beattystown. Dr. Gill was born in the North of Ireland, and had spent the first years of his ministry in Europe, and had been settled over churches in Baltimore and Brooklyn.

The REV. E. P. CRANE, of Rutherford, spent six months on the mountain as supply to the church, from June till December, 1887. He resigned to accept the position of American Consul at Stuttgart, Germany, a step to which he was impelled by his impaired state of health.

The present minister-in-charge is the REV. HUGH SMYTHE, who has been ministering to this people since the 15th of January, 1888. Mr. Smythe was born in the North of Ireland, is a graduate of Princeton College, and in his Theological education has enjoyed the advantages of the educational institutions at Belfast, Ireland, and Geneva, Switzerland. He had been the pastor for four years of the Broadway church, Cincinnati, and for eight years of a Presbyterian church in Elizabeth. He has had four brothers, all of whom were ministers, and two sisters, both of whom married ministers.

Of the elders, besides W. W. Marsh, recently deceased, and H. W. Hunt, ordained 17th March, 1875, there are Thomas Y. Ward, ordained 18th April, 1875, Lawrence H. Hunt and J. Newton Smith, ordained 1894. The above history has been compiled from the session book of the church, which is a model of completeness and accuracy. This church is a living instance of what may be done in the way of sustaining the continuous and regular worship of the sanctuary in the face of great difficulties and discouragements. In this respect the self-sacrifice and public spirit of Messrs. Marsh and Hunt cannot be too highly appreciated.

PLEASANT GROVE CHURCH.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF PLEASANT GROVE.

BY REV. WILLIAM J. MEWHINNEY.

AN OLD STONE CHURCH in which the congregation of Pleasant Grove worshipped for more than fifty years, was probably completed in the year 1806, certainly in 1807. The congregation assumed the name of Pleasant Grove in 1807. Whether a log house of worship preceded the erection of the stone church it has been impossible to ascertain.

Pleasant Grove applied to the Presbytery of New Brunswick for the appointment of ministers to supply its pulpit both at the spring and fall meetings in the year 1808. Rev. Wm. B. Sloan, of Mansfield and Greenwich, Rev. Garner A. Hunt (uncle of Rev. H. W. Hunt, Jr.), and Rev. Joseph Campbell, preached in the church as the result of these applications.

Toward the last named,

then but recently licensed to preach the gospel, the congregations of Independence, Hackettstown and Pleasant Grove, turned as the man they desired to be their pastor. Some time before the first of April, 1809, these congregations held meetings respectively, and voted to make out a call.

Mr. Campbell accepted this call at the meeting of the Presbytery which began April 25th, 1809. He was ordained and installed at Hackettstown on the thirteenth day of June, 1809.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell was about thirty-two or thirty-three years of age at the time of his installation. His birthplace was Omagh, in the North of Ireland. He emigrated to America with his parents in 1797, at the age of nineteen or twenty. In 1801 he was married to Miss Abigail Denton, who came with him to Hackettstown. He acquired his scientific and literary education under Dr. Smith, of Nassau Hall, now Princeton University, teaching school in Princeton while he was doing so. He studied theology with Dr. Woodhull, of Freehold. The churches of Independence and Pleasant Grove were his first charge. Mr. Campbell conducted two services at Pleasant Grove every third Sabbath, with a brief intermission between them. He was an able preacher, both as respects the matter and the delivery of his sermons. A volume of these, published two years after his death (1842) furnishes very interesting testimony to the quality of his discourses. A man who knew him wrote: "His delivery was deliberate, earnest and impressive, though somewhat marked by the Scotch-Irish pronunciation. Those who have personal recollections of his pulpit appearance will remember the peculiar smile he wore, which was not banished even when his tears flowed."

The "Old Stone Church" in which Mr. Campbell preached stood where the present church stands. The building was a plain structure, without bell-tower or cupola. It had galleries on three sides and was heated by charcoal fire. The pulpit stood in the north end of the church. It was a small, box-like structure, built high up against the wall, supported by a tall post and reached by a winding stair on either side.

Conrad Honness, James Hance and Lawrence Hann, of Pleasant Grove, Peter Lance and his son John, of Little Brook, and Samuel Stephens, his son Robert, and William Hance, of Stephensburgh, were all conspicuous members of the congregation in that day. Conrad Honness, of Pleasant Grove, Peter Lance, of Little Brook, and Samuel Stewart, were probably chosen members of the first session. James Hance was elected elder about 1818 ; John Lance was a member of session in 1826 and John Lindaberry in 1827.

How many members of the church there were in 1809 or who were admitted into the church from that time till 1826, there is no record to show. From 1826 until 1830 thirty-five were added to the church—thirty-four of them confessing Christ publicly for the first time.

Mr. H. W. Hunt, Jr., a young member of Newton Presbytery, seems to have become the stated supply of Pleasant Grove and Danville, the out stations under Dr. Campbell, on April 21, 1831. Pleasant Grove was still under Dr. Campbell's pastoral oversight. Dr. Campbell resigned the pastorate of Pleasant Grove in the spring of 1832, and Rev. H. W. Hunt, Jr., was installed as pastor in November of that same year.

REV. H. WHITEFIELD HUNT, JR.,

was the son of Rev. H. W. Hunt, an able and popular minister in Hunterdon county. The son was born at Sparta, N. J., Jan. 8th, 1799. He graduated from Princeton College in 1820, and spent one year in Princeton Theological Seminary. In 1822 he became a home missionary, and made a missionary tour through New York and Pennsylvania. He was licensed by the Presbytery of Newton October 4th, 1821, and ordained by the same body on the 29th of November, 1823. From 1823 till 1826 he was stated supply of the churches of Alexandria and Kingwood under his father. In 1826 he became the teacher of a preparatory school at Schooley's Mountain, and was occupied thus till he became the preacher of Pleasant Grove. He was a man of medium height, fair complexion, and in his later years of portly figure. One has written of him, "Rev. Mr. Hunt was a classical scholar, thorough and solid in his attainments, he had a warm heart, was a devoted friend, and an able and eloquent preacher of the word." He was an earnest, energetic and effective worker, and a good pastor. His death occurred on the 29th of January, 1868, eight years after he resigned the pastorate of this church.

Forty-six were received on confession of faith and six by letter, during that ten years from 1832-43. It was in the latter year that the harvest time came. Sixty-six were added to the church on confession, and two entered by letter from another church. Fifty-two of these were converted during a series of special services, lasting from the last Sabbath in October until Sunday December 9th. During the period from January 1st, 1844, until January 1st, 1857, only thirty-two were received into the church on profession of their faith and nine by letter.

When the

was opened in 1858, twenty-four, exclusive of those received from Lower German Valley, were added to the church. Sixteen of these made their first public confession of Christ.

In 1847 the trustees received a deed for a plot of ground on the south side of what was then the graveyard, the gift of Mrs. Maria H. Hunt. This was the first of that series of benefactions which only ceased at her death.

When the old stone church was remodeled is not known. That was done, doubtless, soon after Mr. Hunt became pastor.

These changes sufficed until April, 1857. A movement to build a new church was then started. On the 12th of April, 1857, the last communion was held in "the old house which had stood for more than half a century." It was torn down very soon after, and on the ground where it stood, but facing east and west, the new house was placed. This new building is, substantially, the church of to-day. On the 17th of April, 1858, the new edifice had been finished, and the session met in it for the first time.

Mr. Hunt was stated supply of Danville, probably, from 1831 until 1836. He was pastor of the Lower German Valley Church from the latter year until April 8th, 1856. In that year it appears from a meagre record of the Second Mansfield church he became its pastor, and held that position till he resigned both it and Pleasant Grove.

In April, 1860, Mr. Hunt had the pastoral relation, which had existed for more than twenty-eight years, dissolved. Heavy financial responsibility, which devolved upon him at that time, was the reason for his action. He left the church in a prosperous condition, with a new house of worship, and a membership of 141 persons. He had done his work faithfully and disinterestedly. Though thirty years have passed by he is still lovingly called "Our old pastor."

REV. BURTIS C. MECHE, D. D.

Two pastors had come before another decade elapsed. The first of these, was called prior to September, 1860, when he began his work as joint pastor of Pleasant Grove and Second Mansfield. He was installed at Pleasant Grove May 1st, 1861. He was pastor of the church but two years, when he resigned, and devoted his whole time to Second Mansfield.

Rev. Mr. Lane was succeeded by

REV. JAMES H. CLARK.

He had supplied the pulpit subject to Mr. Hunt's oversight in 1859, and had made some strong friendships and awakened a most enthusiastic desire to have him for a settled pastor at that time. It was to Rev. Mr. Clark that the congregation turned when Mr. Lane assumed sole charge of the sister church. Mr. Clark came on the field in July, 1863, and entered upon his pastorate October 1st, 1863. He was then a man thirty-three years of age, having been born in New York City on the 3d of March, 1830. He graduated from the Seminary at Princeton in 1859, and, on the 25th of September, in the same year, he was ordained in Iowa. After a three years pastorate in Burlington, Iowa, and a year's chaplaincy in the army, Mr. Clark settled in the East, as stated supply of the Throop Avenue Church in Brooklyn, N. Y. It was from Brooklyn he came to Pleasant Grove.

After having filled a large number of ministerial positions in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and also in the West, he resides in Yazoo City, Illinois, the pastor of a pleasant congregation there, in this year of our Lord 1894.

Rev. Mr. Clark was, at that time, a man of strong will, who prosecuted whatever he undertook with all the energies of his being. The pastorate of Mr. Clark closed after the expiration of six years, in the early part of November, 1869.

The parsonage was built in the year 1865, very probably ready for occupation and occupied in the month of October. With this activity, spiritually and financially came a sense of strength, of importance, and of independence. For the first time in its history Pleasant Grove was supporting a pastor alone, and the people were encouraged and gratified at their success.

The next period in the history of the church extends to the year 1888. Three pastors, M. Ayers Depue, Rev. Samuel Sawyer and Rev. B. C. Megie, D. D., filled the pulpit in succession during this time.

REV. MOSES AYERS DEPUE

was a young man, thirty years old, when he became pastor of Pleasant Grove. His birthplace was not far from Belvidere, N. J. He was ordained by the Presbytery of Londonderry on the 11th of July, 1867. He was stated supply of the First Church of Easton from 1866 until 1867, pastor in East Boston from 1867 till 1869, and stated supply of Lewisburg, Pa., from 1869, until early in 1870. He was an able young man, an eloquent preacher and of endearing character. He died while pastor of the church on the 12th of October, 1872, in Easton, Pa.

The year after Mr. Depue's death was called to the pastorate. He had labored as an organizer of churches in the South and West, and was preaching in East St. Louis, Illinois, at the time when he was called here. He was installed in the church on the 7th of May, 1873. Mr. Sawyer was, as a rule, a most eloquent preacher, and he was undoubtedly the most faithful and successful pastor who has served Pleasant Grove Church. He resigned the pastoral charge on the 11th of April, 1876, to go to Indiana, where he still lives, a very old man.

At that same meeting of Presbytery

severed his connection with the church at Dover. Elder John T. Hoffman made bold to ask him to preach as a candidate for the vacant pulpit at Pleasant Grove. He consented. He had already been called on the 4th of June, 1876, and was installed soon after. Dr. Megie was born in New York City, December 4th, 1813. He was educated at the University of New York, and at Andover, Princeton and Union Seminaries. He was ordained by the Presbytery of North River, October 31st, 1838. From 1838 until 1839 Dr. Megie was stated supply at New Paltz, New York, and from 1839 till 1876, thirty-eight years, he was pastor of the Dover church. For twelve years Dr. Megie went in and out among the people of Pleasant Grove. He resigned upon his election to the office of Superintendent of Public Schools for Morris County. He was the Stated Clerk of Morris and Orange Presbytery from its organization in 1871.

REV. SAMUEL SAWYER.

Dr. Megie was a man of kind heart and of wonderful activity for his years. He was a good preacher of the word. He died suddenly in 1890.

On the 27th of June, 1881, Daniel C. Anderson and Isaac Smith, of Little Brook and Stephensburgh, respectively, were inducted into the office of ruling elder, and thus became members of session.

Sixteen were added to the church while Mr. Depue was pastor. But it was during the three years of Rev. Mr. Sawyer's pastorate that the church received the outpouring. Eighty seven united with the church on profession of their faith, and thirteen by letter during the three years he labored in Pleasant Grove. Beside these seventy-three were hopefully converted during a revival at Schooley's Mountain. The number of heads of families among these was remarkable. Additions to the church were perennial, two or three at a time. Prayer meetings were crowded; gifts to benevolent objects multiplied; revivals arose in every quarter of the parish, and every department of church work felt a quickening.

The pastorate of Dr. Megie was also conspicuous for the number brought into the church. One hundred and thirty-six were added on profession of faith in Jesus, and thirty-six by letter, during the twelve years of his ministry. These were gathered in at revivals, rather than perennially. Twenty-one were added as the result of special services during the winter of 1886-7. Fifty-one were received as the result of meetings conducted by the Evangelist B. Fay Mills in 1886. The 170 members of the church in 1869 had increased to 230 in 1888.

The period which has passed since 1888 is too near to be spoken of at any length, and the writer will only state its main facts :

REV. SAMUEL J. McCLENAGHAN,

a student of Princeton Seminary, was ordained and installed in the church of Pleasant Grove May 9th, 1889. For more than six months previous he had supplied the church in the relation of pastor-elect. Mr. McClenaghan served the church until July 5th, 1891, when he removed to East Orange to become the assistant pastor of the Munn Avenue Church, and have charge of its mission at Elmwood.

Mr. W. J. Mewhinney, at that time pastor of the Whippany Church, was installed in the church on the 28th of October, 1891.

On the 15th of December, 1889, James Everett, William Lindaberry and Jacob Ribbons were ordained elders. The session is, therefore, at the present time composed of the following ruling elders : John T. Hoffman, now 85 years of age, who lives at Port Morris, George Lindaberry, the patriarch of the active members, Daniel C. Anderson, Isaac Smith, James Everett, Wm. Lindaberry and Jacob Ribbons.

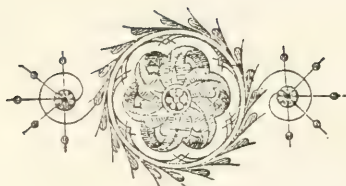

While Mr. McClenaghan was still pastor-elect, a revival occurred that added forty-five on confession of faith and five by letter to the church. Fifty-nine on profession of their faith and sixteen by letter came into the church during his pastorate. Fifteen have been added on examination and three by letter during the present pastorate.

During the ministry of Mr. McClenaghan the Woman's Missionary Society was organized in 1889. In the spring of 1892 the societies of Christian Endeavor of Pleasant Grove and Stephensburgh were organized. These societies have done good work in their respective spheres since their organization.

When one looks back from the settled orderly present to the uncertain beginning of eighty-five years ago ; when one compares the abundant preaching of the word, the many meetings for prayer and the steady instruction in the Sabbath schools with the dearth of those privileges in that early time ; and when one thinks of the many who have been saved through the instrumentality of Pleasant Grove Church from that earlier time till now, is it possible to do anything else than to thank God and take courage? Is it a wonder that there are many who love the Pleasant Grove Church and who loyally expect better thing for it and from it in the future?

REV. WILLIAM JAMES MEWHINNEY, the present pastor, was installed October 28th, 1891.

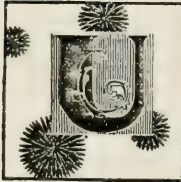

CHAPTER XXII.

SETTLERS OF TEWKSBURY TOWNSHIP.

NEW GERMANTOWN.

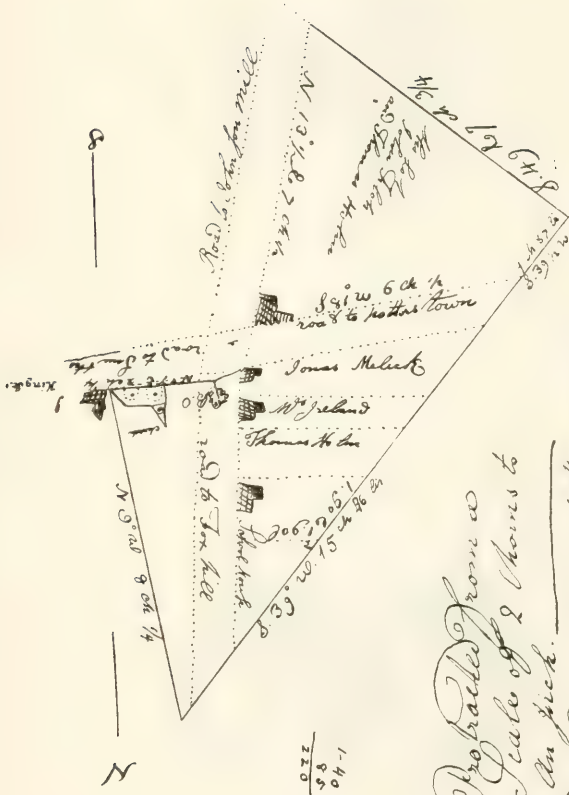

UNLIKE other settlements of the early Germans, the village of New Germantown is older than its church organization. It is said, however, that a log church for Episcopal service was in existence before the first edifice for Lutheran worship. This latter building was erected as we have seen in the year 1749, and dedicated December 4th. It was to take the place of the four smaller churches at Fox Hill, Rockaway (Potterstown), Leslysland (Whitehouse) and Pluckamin.

The land upon which the church was built was part of a lot of seven and a half acres, leased to the congregation by Ralph Smith. This lease is dated the 10th of November, 1749, and refers to the church as already built.

In 1768 it was converted into a fee by a commutation of the quit-rent. The trustees, whose names are given in the lease, were Baltis Bickle, Hones (John) Melek, Philip Weise, alias White, Casper Hendershot, Lawrence Rulifson, Samuell Barnard, David Meleck, Jacob Cline, Adam Vockerot, Jacob Shipman, George Swart and Joseph Hornbaker.

These same names are found in another interesting document, a note, viz., given to Baltis Pickle for £80, dated 18th of December, 1750.

The congregation must have been in great need of money.

Map of

REV. JAMES H. CLARK.

REV. SAMUEL J. MCCLENAGHAN.

For at this time they had just built their stone church, which was estimated to cost £300, and their young pastor had insisted upon their buying a parsonage farm "near the church" for £120. These amounts may not seem large in themselves, but they had to be raised from a people diminished in number and impoverished in resources by a long series of vexatious lawsuits with the wicked Woolf.

A map of the church lot, obtained from Ralph Smith, which was made in 1755 by Wilmot, was kindly loaned to the author by B. Van Doren Fisher, Esq., and has been reproduced for this work.

This map gives evidence of the presence of a school at that early date. This was probably then and for a long time the only one in Tewkesbury township.

Ralph Smith is the real founder of New Germantown, to which he gave the name of Smithfield. It retained this name until about 1760, when the name New Germantown first appears in a deed.

Ralph Smith is said to have come to New Jersey from Boston in the year 1734. He removed in 1759 to some place, which he called Mount Lebanon. His property was conveyed by leases to run for various periods, but generally for one hundred years. The old church is said to have been an exact copy of the Episcopal church built by General Washington at Pohick Creek, Virginia.

The very low walls were surmounted by an immense barrack-shaped roof, sloping to the four sides. The windows were small, square and high from the ground, and the pulpit with its immense sounding board, was opposite the large doors, which were in the middle of the south wall. In the centre of the church, in the broad aisle, was a long, shallow trench, in which charcoal would be heaped up and burned, to serve the purpose of a stove. There were five aisles, and two galleries at the sides; one being used as an organ loft and containing a fine instrument for those days.

From Wilmot's map we may get a fair idea of the village as it was at that time. At that early period a school-house stood a few feet east of the church, facing south on the line of King street, now Church street, and was the German school spoken of in old documents.

The lot north of and adjacent to the church contained nearly an acre. On the opposite side of the Fox Hill road, now Main street, there was a school-house on the second lot. There was apparently no house on the lot south of this one, belonging to THOMAS HOLM (Helm?). The next lot, which was built upon, probably belonged to JOHN CARLISLE, no doubt the brother of Robert, of Chester, Morris Co. It is described, however, as occupied by a Mrs. Ireland.

JONAS MELICK owned the corner lot opposite to the church. He was born in Bendorf, Germany, in 1710, and was the brother of David, of New Germantown, and the son of John Peter, of Bendorf, Germany. Jonas was the cousin of John Melick, of the "Old Farm," whose story Mr. Andrew Melick has so charmingly told in his well-known work. John Fleet and Thomas Holm occupied the tavern lot, containing about three acres, which fronted about equally upon both roads.

The following is taken from "Our Home," published in 1873:

The land opposite the church, fronting on King's road, was divided by Ralph Smith into seven lots of 66 feet front, and numbered from Main street eastward. No. 1, containing one-fourth of an acre, was leased to James Cole in 1761, the quit claim subsequently coming into the possession of the church. The said Cole came from Boston in 1734, and had thirteen children.

No. 2 was the lot known as the "High house lot," owing to the house upon it having a basement and a very high porch. It was conveyed in 1753 to Michael Hendershot. In 1758 one Bryan Lafferty recovering judgment against Hendershot, the lot was sold by Moore Furman, the sheriff, to Frederick Schultz, for £80, the quit-claim subsequently coming into possession of the church.

This lot was afterwards occupied by Dr. Oliver Barnet and also by Major Rinehart.

No. 3 occupied by Edward Kreiter, at a later day known as the "Betsey Adams" lot and occupied a few years ago by Harmon Henry, also came into possession of the church.

On the 30th of October, 1766, John Welsh and Catherine his wife, innkeeper of New York, give a mortgage to William McDonald, of Somerset Co., N., J., for lot No. 3 in Smithfield, Tewksbury township, Hunterdon Co. It is described as on the north side of Kings street and beginning 64 feet from James Cole's corner and running eastward.

No. 4 was conveyed in 1759 to Andrew Shandler for one hundred years. This also came into possession of the church. It was occupied among others, at a later day, by Squire Demun and John Fisher.

No. 5 was sold by one Jonathan Toms to Major Godfrey Reinhart on a perpetual lease at fifteen shillings per year.

No. 6 contained a one story house formerly well remembered. The church still holds the original claim on this property.

No. 7 was owned by a Melick.

The purchase of the above lots by the church in 1768 was no doubt for the purpose of investing the legacy of £1,000 ($2,666 ?) which Baltis Pickle left to the church in the year 1766.

Godfrey Rinehart kept the first store in the village. In 1757 or 8 the parsonage house was built on the church lands, and the old stone house is still standing, being owned by Mr. Frederick Apgar, whose property includes the old church farm.

This house is the one mentioned by Dr. Muhlenberg as built to accommodate him, the former building not being large enough for his use. It was thus intended to offer him some inducement to come and live in this region at least for a time. He occupied this dwelling during his stay 1859-60. Here also no doubt lived his two sons, viz., Peter and Henry, who each in turn took the active charge of the Lutheran Churches here.

It is impossible to locate all the early settlers of Tewksbury township as the land was simply leased for a period and was not sold until about 1790 or later. The Livingston tract, speaking generally, belonged largely on the east side of the Fairmount road and the Parker on the west. The land to the east of the West Jersey tract belonged to Budd and Logan. The society line whose course was south forty-seven degrees west from Pottersville to Potterstown and ran along the road from the latter place to New Germantown, bounded these lands on the east.

POTTERSVILLE was first called Lamington and afterwards Potter's Mills. There were mills here as early as 1756, owned by William Willet. The grist mill was burned in 1820 and rebuilt. In 1840 it was remodeled and again rebuilt in 1878. The feed mill was first a factory for carding wool and weaving blankets. It was turned into its present use about thirty years ago. The village consists of a store, with a post office, flouring mill, feed mill, blacksmith shop, machine shop and foundry, shoe shop and fifteen dwellings. It was named after its principal citizen Sering Potter.

COKESBURG is claimed to be as old as 1754, when a furnace was built there, but the name does not appear on the township book and it therefore could not have been a place of any importance as early as that. It has a store, a blacksmith shop, wheelwright shop, a Presbyterian and a Methodist Church and fourteen dwellings.

MINARD FARLEY settled near here before 1760. The family came from GEORGE, who was at Woburn, Mass., as early as 1641. From there the family went to Roxbury, Mass., and from there came to Trenton, N. J., where George and Caleb were found in 1709 as trustees of the Presbyterian Church. The former of these two was grandfather of Meindert.

MOUNTAINVILLE has been so called for 40 years, since the school house was built. J. C. Farley is the present store-keeper. It has two mills and twenty-three dwellings.

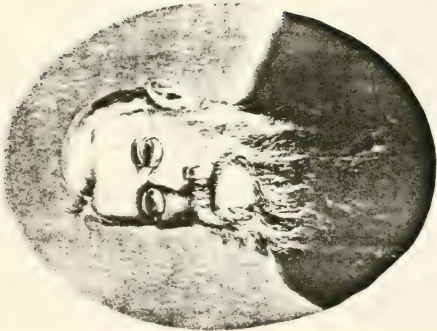

FARMERSVILLE has a school house and eight dwellings.

FAIRMOUNT has twenty-three dwellings, whose inhabitants have their post-office here. This was established in 1850.

CHAPTER XXIII.

SETTLERS FROM SOUTHOLD AND SOUTHAMPTON.

SOUTHOLD, Long Island, named after a town of the same name in Suffolk Co., England, from whence the first pastor, Rev. John Youngs probably came, is the oldest in Long Island. It was first settled in 1638, and the church there was organized October 31st, 1640.

Thus early did the religious sentiment of these sturdy Puritans assert itself. "In their deep poverty their liberality abounded," and before their lands were wholly cleared or their own homes hardly erected they built their house of worship and burdened themselves with the support of a preacher.

Among these settlers were then or very soon afterwards to be found the families among others, of Brown, Baker, Case, Corwin, Cooper, Corey, Cramer, Dickerson (or Dickinson), Haines, Horton, Howell, King, Moore, Overton, Paine, Salmon, Scudder, Swezey, Terry, Tuthill, Vail, Wells, Wiggins, Wines, Youngs and others.

Of these early settlers of Southold some removed to Elizabeth, N. J. Such were William Cramer, John Dickerson, John Haines, William Johnson, Jeffrey Jones, Eva Salisbury, Barnabas Wines, Jr., and Thomas Youngs.

Easthampton and Southampton were settled by branches of some of these same families. Thus when the Rev. Abraham Pierson founded Newark, N. J., with a contingent from Southampton, they found settled near them in Elizabeth, people of the same names as their own.

The people of Southold were very decided in their preferences as to the form of their church government. They were congregational of the type called Separatists. It is their church which is spoken of under that title in Smith's History of New Jersey (1765).

The township of Roxbury was formed 1740. The record of this event is as follows: December 24th, 1740: A petition to the court from sundry of the inhabitants of the south-westerly part of the county of Morris praying that they be made a township for several causes therein set forth. The court grants their petition, and bounds said township, to be called henceforth Roxbury, from the bounds of Somerset Co., thence up the river commonly called Peapack, and up the same, including the same, to that branch, or part thereof, called Indian Run, and thence northerly and westerly by the bounds of Hanover to the Great Pond; thence down by the same to the Musconetcong to the bounds of the county; thence by the bounds of Hunterdon, Essex and Somerset counties to the place first mentioned.

The bounds of the township are too indefinite to be precisely defined. Indian River was that now called the North Branch. But they no doubt included not only the present townships of Chester (formed February, 1799), Washington (formed January, 1798), Mt. Olive (formed 1871), but also a part of Mendham, Randolph and Roxbury.

Morris Co. was formed March 15, 1738-9. Previous to this Hanover, as a township of Hunterdon, is recognized in 1722, and Walpack in 1732.

Mendham, formed in 1749, took off the eastern part of Roxbury.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

The township officers for the first year were as follows:

Appointed 1741, March 25, William Griffing, clerk; Nathaniel Drake and David Luce, freeholders; Samuel Coleman, assessor; Obadiah Seward, collector; James Pitney and Theophilus Case, surveyors of highways; Nathaniel Drake and Samuel Haton, overseers of highways; William Douglas, constable; Aaron Stark and George Halloway, overseers of the poor.

From December 22, 1741 to 1746, the new names that occur were Thomas and John Green, John Hardin, Joseph Langdon, Will. Pew, Ben. Luce for December, 1741; Israel and Richard Swayzie, Ezekiel Frost, Nathaniel and Richard Fansher, James Martin for 1742; James Wells, Richard Sutton, Jonah Hopkins, George Park, John Bell for 1744; Caleb Swayzie, David Hopkins, Will Lorison, John Brown, John and Samuel Swayzie, for 1745; Daniel and John Budd, Benj. Manning and Samuel Horton, for 1746.

The statement, repeated by Mr. Johnson in his History of the Congregational Church, that Chester township was divided into lots in 1713 and 1714, can only be true of the original surveys which were taken up about that time. As we shall see the actual settlement could not have taken place in less than twenty or twenty-five years later.

CALEB HORTON came to Roxbury from Southold in the year 1748. He was the great grandson of BARNABAS, of Southold, who came in 1633-8, from Mouseley, in Leicestershire, England. Caleb bought in 1747, of Isaac Pierson, 1,782 acres (the Gardiner tract), in what is now Chester township.

SAMUEL HORTON, about whom nothing is known, was surveyor of highways of Roxbury in 1746.

SAMUEL SWAZEY came from Southold to Roxbury, 17th May, 1737. This is the earliest date on record for the settlement of the above township, unless we consider John Colver, as a resident, since his will is dated in 1732 at Roxbury. But Colver probably resided on Schooley's Mountain. Samuel Swazey was probably a son of John 2d of Southold. He owned at his death, in 1759, nearly a thousand acres in Chester township, and in Warren Co. His son Samuel was the first psstor of the Congregational church, and in 1773 he and his brother Richard removed to Western Florida, now Mississippi. They had bought there of Captain Amos Ogden in 1772, 19,000 acres of land. The brothers took with them to Florida, a number of families, from whom the Farrars, Kings, Corys, Montgomerys, Pipes, Foules, Colemans, Jones, Callenders, Fowlers, Luses, Griffing, Hopkins, Nobles, Ashfords, and many others in that vicinity are descended. (See Part II, p. 523).

Two other sons of Samuel, viz.: Israel and Barnabas; settled near Hope, Warren Co. Mary, his youngest child, married John Seward and became the ancestress of the prominent family of that name.

JOHN BUDD, the grandson of John, who removed from Southold to Westchester Co., N. Y., in 1661, came to Roxbury about 1740. He had ten children, whose descendants are still found in Chester township.

WILLIAM CORWIN, the great-great-grandson of Matthias of Southold, came to Roxbury before 1767, and resided about one mile and a half north of Chester.

ISAAC CORWIN, of unknown relationship to William, settled near Flanders during the Revolutionary war.

The DECAMPS were descendants of HENRY, of Middlesex Co., who was the grandson of LAWRENS JANS, an immigrant to New Amsterdam in 1664.

PHILEMON DICKERSON, of Southold, was the grandfather of THOMAS, whose five children, THOMAS, DANIEL, JOSHUA, PETER, and a sister ELIZABETH, came to Roxbury in 1745. Peter was the grandfather of Gov. Mahlon Dickerson.

DAVID LUSE, freeholder in 1741, came to Roxbury with his brother BENJAMIN, as early as 1736, when he bought land near Chester.

SAMUEL COLEMAN, assessor in 1741, had fifteen children and was probably related to the family of Orange Co.

OBADIAH SEWARD, collector in 1741, came from Brookhaven, L. I., and settled at first on land now owned by a descendant at the cross-roads. He removed to Berkshire Valley and JOHN, one of his sons, who married Mary Swazey, removed to Sussex Co., and from there his children removed to Orange Co., N. Y. The ex-Secretary of State was of this family.

The first of the name in this country was probably WILLIAM, who sailed from London 6th January, 1634, for St. Christopher and the Barbadoes. His son Obadiah 1st, father of Obadiah of New Jersey, was in Brookhaven as early as 1664.

The SKELLENGER family in this State are descended from JACOBUS SCHELINX, who came to New Amsterdam in 1643. He removed in 1658 to Amagansett, L. I. DANIEL, his grandson, removed to Roxbury about 1776 and settled on a farm between Chester and Mendham.

WILLIAM LARASON, surveyor of the highways in 1745, bought a large farm on Pleasant Hill in 1748. He was the son of WILLIAM, constable of Hopewell township in 1721, and the grandson of JOHN, a Danish nobleman, who was on the rate list of Newtown, L. I., in 1683.

ABRAHAM DRAKE, the son of Rev. John, of Piscataway, bought land at Drakeville in 1751. His son Nathaniel was a freeholder of Roxbury in 1741. Abraham was the grandfather of Col. Jacob and father probably of Nathaniel of Sussex Co., and the grandfather of Silas of Draketown. The Drakes of Mendham were apparently of another family, who were of Holland descent. JOHANNES DRACK, of Jamaica, L. I., in 1715, was probably the ancestor of this family.

THOMAS FAIRCLOE, who came from the border between France and Germany, was the first of his name in New Jersey and came hither probably about 1750.

WILLIAM GRIFFITHS (or Griffing), the first clerk of Roxbury, appointed 1741, was probably the grandson of Jasper, who came from Wales to Southold before 1679.

THEOPHILUS CASE, surveyor of highways, 1741, was probably the son of Theophilus of Southold. The latter was the son of William, who came from England to Rhode Island in 1635. Theophilus and Ichabod and John, three brothers probably came together from Southold to Roxbury.

RICHARD TERRY, from Southold, was the first of the name in Roxbury. Three brothers, Richard, Thomas and Robert had come from England in 1635. Richard, of New Jersey, was probably the great-grandson of the first named of these brothers.

THOMAS and JAMES REEVES came to Southold about 1660; Thomas removed to Southampton in 1667. SILAS, of Roxbury, who died 1777, and had seven children probably came from Southold.

SETTLERS FROM SOUTHAMPTON.

Southampton is the next oldest town on Long Island to Southold. It was settled 1640, by people of the Presbyterian preference. The founders of the church of this order in Chester came mostly from this place.

NATHAN COOPER came from Southampton, L. I., and purchased 600 acres in Roxiticus. He was the great-grandfather of General Nathan.

ELIAS HOWELL removed from Southampton to New Jersey and died on the way. His son Elias bought 200 acres of Nathan Cooper at Milltown in Chester township, 1822. NATHAN HOWELL bought a farm at Hacklebarney of Johannes Haas in 1760.

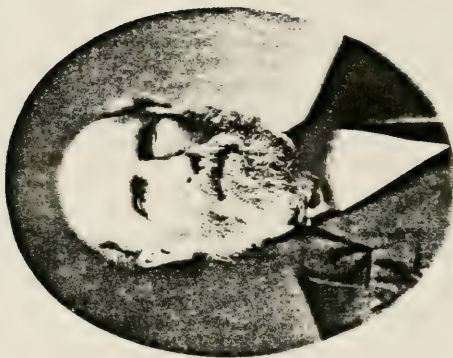

REV. WILLIAM WOODHULL, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Chester, was the first of his name in this vicinity. He came in the year 1768. He was the son of John and great-grand-son of Richard who immigrated in 1648 to Brookhaven.

JOSEPH HEDGES, M. D., was the first physician in the township. He married a daughter of Rev. Will. Woodhull. He was descended from William, who settled in Southampton in 1644 and removed to Easthampton in 1649.

Other settlers of old Roxbury will be found in the Genealogies, Part II of this work.

SCHOOLS.

The first school was taught in a log house by the Rev. Mr. Woodhull until the Revolution. Miss Phebe Jagger also taught for a time a private school on the Cooper estate. From 1800-1812 John G. Gardner, of Connecticut, taught a school in the village. Another teacher was Miss Hester Brackett, afterward the mother of Dr. T. F. White, of Summit, N. J. William Rankin removed hither from Deckertown in 1854 and taught school in the brick hotel until 1862, when he removed to Mendham. Rev. L. I. Stoutenburgh, Miss Susan Magie, Mrs. M. F. Hoagland, Rev. P. S. Smith, Mrs. C. Y. Baker and Rev. J. H. McCandless have taught successively in "The Chester Institute. In 1870 a three story building, erected by the Hon. Daniel Budd, was taken possession of and used for school purposes by Miss Magie. The Rev. James F. Brewster also conducted a private school while pastor of the Presbyterian Church. (History of Morris Co., p. 214).

IRON MINES.

Hacklebarney had a forge more than a hundred years ago. It was sold in 1786 by Samuel Ross to Frederick Bartles and a mortgage upon it was given by the latter in 1790 to Randall & Stewart, of New York. This 100 acres was the northern end of a tract bought by John Wortman, Sr., in 1771, of Peter Schenck. Hon. Daniel Budd, in partnership with Mr. Bartley, carried on this forge for many years. In 1867 mines were opened in various places and the transporting of the ore increased with the building of the Chester Railroad in 1869.

The Chester furnace, situated west of Chester village, was built in 1878 by the Jersey Spiegel Iron Company. In 1879 it was leased by the W. J. Taylor Co. This furnace was torn down in 1792 or 3.

In 1872 the tracks (about five miles long) between the Hedges mine and Hacklebarney and the D., L. and W. R. R. were laid. In 1881 this track was extended a mile and a half through the village to the Swayzie, Leek and Cooper mines. No mining at all is now carried on at or near Chester.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH was organized in 1881 and Rev. E. S. Ferry was appointed its first pastor. For five or six years services were held in the academy by the Peapack pastor. In 1881 the Methodist Church of Bedminster was removed and erected in Chester.

CHAPTER XXIV.

CHESTER CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

REV. FRANK A. JOHNSON.

OUR limits of space prevent us from giving in full the historical sermon of Mr. Johnson, delivered in his church on the 2d of July, 1876, but it was substantially as follows: "I have thus sketched the growth of our national and denominational life, that we may bear in mind some of the remarkable changes that have occurred while our own church was making its history.

Now let us consider in very condensed form, third, the history of the First Congregational Church of Chester; not only the oldest Congregational Church in New Jersey, but, so far as I can ascertain, the oldest west of the Hudson River.

The fathers of the Congregational Church in Chester, formerly called Roxbury, were descended from the company of English Puritans who first settled in Southhold, Long Island. Their fathers left England during the turbulent times in the reign of Charles the First. They fled from the tyranny and oppression, and were ardently devoted to civil liberty, and jealous for the purity and simplicity of the Protestant religion. The Rev. John Youngs, who had been a minister of Hingham, England, came to New Haven, Conn., with a part of his church in 1640. He remained there but a short time and then passed over to Long Island, with his church and settled upon a tract of land purchased from the Conhony Indians. They were a godly people, and from the beginning of their settlement we find them careful to make provision for the support of the gospel, to exact punctual attendance on public worship and a strict observance of the Sabbath.

In 1702 the town court fined a person 6s. 7d. for a breach of the Sabbath, and in 1711 another man three shillings for profane swearing.

Previous to 1645 they are supposed to have erected their first house of worship.

The constitution of this church was originally Congregational and so remained till 1832.

The tract of land now constituting the township of Chester was surveyed and run into lots in 1713 and 1714, and began soon after [?] to be settled with emigrants from Southold, L. I., who had been brought up in the Congregational Church, planted there by their fathers, and were by conviction and profession attached to its doctrines and customs.

It was in their hearts to do as their fathers had done, plant a church of the same faith and form of government as that in which they had been baptised and to which they owed so much.

Having settled from one to three miles apart, in a country to be cleared of heavy timber, with their private buildings to erect, roads, bridges and fences to make, and families to support; it is wonderful that they, as early as 1747, should have been able to erect a commodious house of worship, with pews and galleries to seat an audience of 400. This house stood about twenty rods northwest of the present meeting house.

This building was used for a house of worship till 1803.

Two generations worshipped in it, and many souls were born into the Saviour's Kingdom within its sacred walls.

It was remodeled in 1803, but a part of its timbers still exist in the frame work of a barn on the estate of Mr. William Seward at Chester Cross Roads.

Just imagine a Sabbath in 1776 when your fathers assembled in this old church. It is doubtful whether a wheeled vehicle drove up to the door. Some came on horseback, but more walked, winding their way for miles through woodland foot paths. The women often carried their shoes in their hands to save wear and tear, placing them upon their feet as they approached the church.

We should think it a strange appearing company which gathered in that meeting house, but there were men and women there who feared God, whom God loved as his dear children, who have long since entered the mansion prepared for the lowly as well as the great who truly love and serve Him.

About the time of the building of this first church the excitement which caused the separation in the Congregational Churches of Connecticut and Long Island reached this settlement, and a majority of the inhabitants became "separates" as they were then called. A separate Congregational Church was gathered, which was ministered unto by Rev. Samuel Sweazy for about twenty years. These Separatists retained the doctrines and form of government of the regular Congregational Churches. Their separation was a protest against the oppression and worldly influence of the union between Church and State which existed especially in Connecticut. No wonder there was a protest against the punishment of ministers for preaching outside their own parish without special consent of the minister and two-thirds of the parish in which they wished to preach. Or against the treating as vagabonds of ministers who were traveling and preaching outside of their own States. Or against the fining or imprisoning of those who failed to attend the parish meeting, or the preaching of their own minister on the Sabbath.

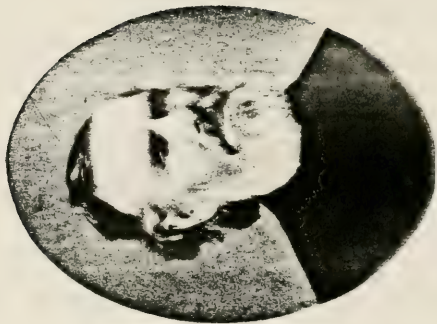

All honor to the spirit of liberty that dared the opposition of a powerful State Church rather than submit to such oppression. A minority of the former worshippers in this church withdrew and joined another church.

They called the Rev. Marches to be their minister, and about 1755 built the house across the river, where the Presbyterian Church formerly worshipped.

Soon after the close of the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Sweazy the war of the Revolution began. The years 1777 and '78 were stirring times in New Jersey. Hostile armies crossed and recrossed the State, desolating its fair villages with fire and sword. Chesfer was off the line of conflict, and yet must have been a source of supply for the patriot army while encamped at Morristown.

During these years worship was suspended and the Congregational Meeting House was used as a hospital for wounded and disabled soldiers. It is to be regretted that the church records do not give us a more complete account of the events of this important historical period. Every patriotic impulse is stirred to know more of those scenes that transpired upon this hillside ; when, in this old church, patriots suffered and yielded their lives for the holy cause of freedom. But the entries in the books for those years are very meagre. During these exciting times, when worship was suspended, the moral and religious habits of the people suffered greatly.

About 1779 a union of the two churches was attempted under the REV. DAVID BALDWIN, who, for six years preached on alternate Sabbaths in the two houses of worship.

Failing to accomplish the desired union Mr. Baldwin left his field of labor and soon after the church was pronounced dissolved. But immediately a new Congregational Church was organized, and in June, 1785, the REV. JAMES YOUNGS was ordained and installed as pastor. The ministry of Mr. Youngs was very short. He died in November, 1790, aged 32, deeply lamented by his people and his brethren in the ministry. The church records have this entry concerning him : "All accounts go to prove him a most amiable man, a sincere, exemplary and devoted Christian. The effects of his ministry, short as it was, were extensive and happy. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord."

From 1790-1801, the church was without a regular pastor, but ministers from Long Island frequently visited the people, and through their preaching sinners were converted and the church edified.

In November, 1800, the church held a day of fasting and prayer for direction in the choice of another pastor. They were led to extend a call to Mr. STEPHEN OVERTON, who was ordained and installed pastor on the 16th of June, 1801. The congregation rapidly increased. In 1803 the original house of worship was replaced by another more modern in appearance, 50 feet by 40 in size, with front and side galleries, a steeple and bell.

Great revivals occurred during Mr. Overton's early ministry, and many substantial members were added to the church, but many, sad to relate, dishonored their profession, and returned to the world.

From 1817 to 1828 the church and congregation sadly declined in spirituality and in regard for the prosperity of the church. It was feared that a final dissolution would result from this indifference.

Mr. Overton was dismissed from his long pastorate in March, 1828. He died on September 18th, 1839. The church records refer to him as possessed of strong intellectual powers with "a clear melodious voice and thrilling elocution, endowed with one of the strongest constitutions; he travelled much, preaching more than once a day for weeks in succession."

From its formation till 1810 the church and pastor were enrolled as members of the "Separate Congregational Convention of Connecticut and Long Island."

In 1810, with other churches in this State, it formed a new and similar convention, which in 1828 was dissolved.

Let us try to picture a Sabbath in this second house of worship in 1826, half a century ago.

Since 1776 there have been many improvements, yet even now nothing we could call a carriage approaches the door. Many of the congregation still come on horseback, others walk, while now and then a rude wagon deposits its load at the door.

As we enter the door everything seems very strange to us in 1776. The pulpit is so high that necks are fearfully wrenched in efforts to see the preacher.

A row of box-pews with high backs, facing toward the centre of the church extends along the wall and several rows of pews of like pattern occupy the space directly in front of the pulpit. The remainder of the house is filled with ordinary seats. If it be a winter's day we shall find no fire, and will wonder why these people make such a sacrifice of comfort to hear the gospel, when, in our days a slight fall in the thermometer would keep half the congregation home from a comfortably warmed church. The congregation is dressed with severe simplicity and gives token of a sturdy and hard working race.

In the autumn of 1828 the REV. ABNER MORSE was called to the care of the church as acting pastor for three years.

He found its spiritual life at a very low ebb. It was resolved that it would not be right to commune at the Lord's table till the church had purged itself of a large number of neglectful and immoral persons. A meeting was called for those only who still considered themselves the cordial friends of Christ, and who were ready to renew their covenant with Him. Some fifty persons responded to this call, two of whom are now living. While under the pastoral care of Mr. Morse the church was prospered and its membership largely increased.

Mr. Morse was dismissed at his own request in the spring of 1833. The REV. CHARLES JONES officiated as acting pastor from August, 1833-'35. The church, in granting him his dismissal, paid him a high compliment as "an able and faithful minister of the Gospel.

The REV. JOHN FISHPOOL, a native of Essex in England, was stated supply of the church from October, 1835-October, 1836.

From 1836 to 1840 the church was supplied by different members of the New York State Congregational Association, with which the church was now connected.

For some eight months in 1839 the REV. LEWIS F. TERRILL acted as stated supply. During these years there was much discord among the membership, few were added to the church, and its spiritual interest suffered greatly.

During 1840 and 1841 the church was very much discouraged; the ordinances of the gospel were neglected and for nearly a year not more than one sermon was heard in the church.

On October 6, 1841, MR. LUKE I. STOUTENBURG, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a licentiate of the New York Association, supplied the pulpit and was invited to continue the supply for several Sabbaths. On December 15th, 1841, it was voted to call Mr. Stoutenburg to the pastorate of the church. The call was accepted, and on June 14th, 1842, he was ordained and installed pastor of the church.

Mr. Stoutenburg remained pastor till December 17th, 1867, when his resignation was accepted by the church. The events of this pastorate are so comparatively recent, and are so well-known to you, that I will pass them by without particular mention. Suffice it to say that during these years the church was greatly prospered, and, indeed began a new and more healthy life. The congregation and membership were much increased. On one Sabbath, February 21st, 1842, forty-eight persons united with the church, (the largest addition at any one time) eight of whom are active members.

In 1854 the second house of worship was taken down and the building in which we are now assembled was erected. In December, 1867, the REV. JAMES I. EVANS was called, and in June, 1868, was installed pastor. During this pastorate the parsonage now owned by the church was built.

On April 1, 1871, the resignation of the pastor was tendered and accepted by the church.

For some months after the close of this pastorate a period of trial and discouragement intervened, but the preaching services were continued, usually by ministers of sister churches.

In September, 1872, the REV. B. F. BRADFORD, pastor of the Congregational church of Charlotte, Michigan, was invited to the pastorate. Mr. Bradford acted as stated supply till May, 1875. The events of his ministry are so fresh in your memory that I need not recall them. He was the intimate friend of most of you; and a large proportion of the membership of the church is the fruit of his labor. He left the church united, happy and prosperous.

On June 15, 1875, the present pastor was called; the call was accepted. He entered upon his duties on August 1st, and was installed pastor by a council convened for that purpose.

Such is the historical narrative of this dear old church down to the present date. We should like to know more of its early history, especially in the Revolutionary period, those days that tried men's souls; but we should be thankful that the church records are so complete, that no period in its long life is shrouded in utter darkness. It is to be regretted that the statistical portion of the church records previous to 1830 were in such an imperfect state that we cannot ascertain the total membership, baptisms, etc.

At this time the membership is 240. In all probability the membership at any one time was never larger than at present.

In 120 years there have been six pastors whose terms of service aggregate 81 years, viz.: Mr. Swazy, 20 years; Mr. Youngs, 5 years; Mr. Overton, 27 years; Mr. Stoutenburg, 26 years; Mr. Evans, 3 years, and the pastor now in office. During the same period there were five regular stated supplies, viz.: Mr. Morse, 5 years; Mr. Jones, 2 years; Mr. Fishpool, 1 year; Mr. Terrill, 8 months; Mr. Bradford, 3 years.

The REV. E. B. ENGLAND, of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Newark, was called to be the successor of Rev. F. A. Johnson, the 15th of November, 1889, and remained until 1894, when he resigned to accept the call to the Presbyterian church of Washington, N. J. In November, 1894 REV. ABRAHAM L. SHEER accepted the call to this church, and is now its pastor.

The present deacons are, J. H. CRAMER, S. H. LEEK, D. STRYKER, S. SCHUYLER.

The trustees are, H. P. SANDERSON, E. T. HOWELL, J. K. DAVIS, GEORGE SQUIER, H. Y. HALL.

CHAPTER XXV.

THE CHESTER PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

BY REV. JAMES F. BREWSTER.

THE first minister ordained over this congregation, or the church of Roxbury as it then was called, was REV. SAMUEL HARKER, or Harcour, who was probably of Huguenot descent. In Foote's sketches of North Carolina, to which State some of his ancestors removed, he is described as remarkable for size, vigor and strength, and is said to have spent his early youth in manual labor. He graduated at Princeton College and was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of New Brunswick, Dec. 6th, 1751. The records of that Presbytery inform us that being called to Roxbury, on Black River, in Morris County, New Jersey, he was ordained there October 31st, 1752.

In an autobiography of Dr. Caldwell, published at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, by order of the editors of the University Magazine, he makes the following record concerning Mr. Harker: "My grandmother's name was Rachel Lovel [daughter of a French Protestant, residing at Oyster Bay, Long Island]. She married a Mr. Harker, who was a minister of the Presbyterian Church. My grandfather Harker was remarkable for personal size and strength. He was experienced in all ordinary practical business. It was said of him that he would go into the harvest field and cradle more wheat in a day than any other man in his part of the country. In his ministerial labors, both in and out of the pulpit, he was ever regarded with high estimation and confidence by his congregation."

I am sorry, however, to be obliged to add to this that Mr. Harker entertained some doctrinal errors which eventually caused his separation from his church about eleven years after his ordination. The Presbytery heard in 1757 that he had imbibed and vented certain erroneous doctrines, and were about to proceed against him when they learned that he had left his charge and gone as a chaplain in the army. By order of Synod in 1759 a committee met at Mendham and examined a paper containing Mr. Harker's principles, many of which they found to be correct, but others containing errors. On hearing this report the Synod thought it expedient "to try yet whether further converse may convince him, and agree that he meet with Samuel and James Finley, John Blair and Robert and Sampson Smith at Nottingham in November; and on his return with Gilbert Tennant, Treat, Ewing and Dr. Alison," he met with these committees without any benefit, though the interview lasted two days and one evening. In 1761 he published his sentiments in a book entitled "An appeal to the Christian World," to which the Rev. John Blair published an answer entitled "The Synod of New York and Philadelphia Defended." In 1763 the Synod condemned his propositions, declaring that they could not continue him as a member, and that he be disqualified for preaching or exercising his ministry anywhere. The congregation of Black River, we are told, was thrown into confusion, on hearing this, and wrote to Dr. John Rodgers, of New York, to call a meeting of Synod without delay. He consulted the Presbytery of New Brunswick and they judged that it was not desirable, for all the good to be expected could be accomplished by sending a committee thither. Accordingly in August they sent thither the Rev. Messrs. Hait, McKnight and Kennedy, and soon after the church of Black River asked for supplies.

It is asserted that this was the only case of discipline for erroneous doctrine during the period extending from 1758 to 1789—a proof of the general orthodoxy of the church at that time.

For five years after the suspension of Mr. Harker the church was without a regular pastor until the fall of 1768, when they settled the

REV. WILLIAM WOODHULL.

He was a native of Brookhaven, Long Island, and had been preaching in that place for a short time before his removal to Black River. He traveled from Long Island to this place on horseback, with his wife and child riding on the horse behind him. He was a graduate of Princeton College, and studied theology with the celebrated Samuel Buell, of East Hampton, Long Island. The call was to the united congregations of Roxbury and Succasunna, and the original paper is still in my possession bearing date September 1st, 1768.

After preaching for several years Mr. Woodhull was obliged to give up his pastoral labor on account of weakness of the throat, and for a time the church obtained supplies from the Presbytery. He still occupied an important position in the community, became a Judge in the Circuit Court, and was the teacher of a Latin school until it was broken up by the Revolutionary War. Dr. Isaac Brown, in the funeral sermon of his brother the Rev. Dr. John Woodhull, of Freehold, and one of the founders of Princeton College, speaks of him as a man venerable in piety and services as well as years.

I have in my possession several of his sermons bearing date Roxbury, 1769, which prove him to have been a sound and able preacher. His name is on the roll of the Presbytery of New York as still being pastor of this church in 1770. I find the following item in regard to Mr. Woodhull in Hodge's History of the Presbyterian Church: "In 1783 the Presbytery of New York reported that they had left the name of Rev. William Woodhull out of their list of members, because on account of feeble health he had relinquished his ministerial duties. The Synod deeming this reason to be insufficient directed his name to be restored to the roll." From this we may learn what was the opinion of the church on the subject of the demission of the ministry, which has latterly been extensively discussed in our General Assembly.

Mr. Woodhull lived until the 24th of October, 1824, when he died and was buried in the family plot on Pleasant Hill.

During the stormy period of the American Revolution the church was again without a settled pastor, but with returning peace they sought again a settled minister.

About the year 1782 we find that the church was supplied by Rev. Mr. Baldwin, who, however, was never installed as pastor. In 1785 was obtained as a stated supply, and in 1786 he received a unanimous call to the pastorate of the church. Like that of Mr. Woodhull, his time was divided between Roxbury and Succasunna. He was a native of Long Island and for thirty years he continued the pastor of our church. He is described as a plain but good preacher, although the church made no marked progress under his ministry. He lived upon the hill near the church, several years after the close of his pastorate, and died at length of old age.

Mr. Fordham was succeeded about 1815 by from Baskingridge, N. J. He gave this church one-third of his time, preaching at Black River, German Valley and Fox Hill.

Mr. Cassner was succeeded in 1818 by

of Albany, N. Y., a member of the Reformed (Dutch) Church. He remained in Chester about four years and a half and the church is said to have grown somewhat under his ministry. There was one marked revival, especially upon the mountain. During his ministry the church edifice on the mountain was built, although as yet there was no church organization. In his time stoves were first placed in the church edifice, which, without plaster or ceiling, was open to all the winds that swept across the hill-top. Mr. Miller left Chester in the spring of 1823, having been called to the Reformd Dutch Church of Tompkinsville, Staten Island, and was succeeded in the autumn of the same year by who remained the pastor of the church during the following thirty years. Mr. Williamson was a native of New Jersey and a graduate of Princeton College and Seminary. Before his settlement here he had labored for little more than a year as a frontier missionary in the State of Illinois. Two colonies were sent forth from the mother church, which now are distinct and useful organizations, and the old edifice on the hill-top was abandoned, and in 1851 the congregation built and occupied this house in which we worship.

In 1835 forty-eight persons were dismissed from this church to organize the Presbyterian church of Mt. Olive, and in 1852 twenty-six persons were dismissed to form the Presbyterian church at Flanders.

In 1832 there was a marked revival and about fifty were received into the church at one time. God's special presence was exhibited in the most marked and solemn manner. People came from Mendham, the mountain and all surrounding country to share in the blessing which the Lord was pouring upon the people. The church services were crowded, and even the steps of the pulpit were filled with eager and tearful listners.

On the third day the pastor requested the anxious to remain after the services and the rest to leave, and the whole body of the church was filled with those inquiring the way of life. From the fruits of that revival came some of the best men and strongest supporters of the church.

Mr. Williamson remained in charge of the church until 1853, in the autumn of which year

REV. GEO. M. S. BLAUVELT,

a graduate of Princeton College and Seminary, was ordained and installed among you. His pastorate covered three years, until October, 1856. In June, 1857, Rev. Josiah Markle, who was educated in the Reformed (Dutch) Church at New Brunswick, became the pastor of the church for the short space of nine months, until April, 1858.

On the following June your present pastor,

a graduate of Rutgers College and Princeton Theological Seminary, and a Licentiate of the Presbytery of Passaic, became the stated supply of the church, and was ordained and installed on the 12th of October, 1858. The relation has now remained unbroken for more than eighteen years, and this pastorate is now the oldest in the Presbytery, and, with one exception, the oldest in the whole northern part of our State.

Unfortunately we have the record of elders only during the last fifty-seven years. Previous to that MR. ABRAHAM DICKERSON is known to some of you as having been a leading and influential officer.

In June, 1819, the roll of the elders of the church were WILLIAM WOODHULL, JR.,—a son of the former pastor,—JARED HAINES and NOAH SCUDDER. These men have long since passed away, but their descendants are still among us, and their memories are yet held in honor. In the minutes of March 3rd, 1821, appears the following record: "MR. GILBERT BODINE having been elected by the congregation to the office of the ruling elder, and having been duly ordained, appeared this day and took his seat as a member of session." For eighteen years Mr. Bodine served the church in this office until his death in 1839.

In 1823 CONRAD RARICK was elected to the eldership and served the church until his removal from their bounds.

In 1827 WM. HEDGES WOODHULL, STEPHEN FAIRCLO FORDHAM and JOHN STRYKER were ordained to the same office. For ten years no other officer was elected until 1837, when the names of JONATHAN NICHOLAS, JAMES TOPPING and HENRY HEDGES were added to their number.

In 1846 GEORGE W. STENSON was set apart to the same office, but served the church apparently but a short time. During the succeeding eleven years no other elder was elected until the autumn of 1857, when the number was increased by the addition of DANIEL CHAMBERLAIN and JOHN D. G. CARLILE. In 1865 JOHN R. CHAMBERLAIN and DR. S. E. HEDGES were set apart to the same office. In 1867 MR. ANDREW CREGER was ordained and took his seat as a member of the session. In the spring of the present year the church resolved to substitute the term eldership for the life tenure, and under this plan Mr. STEPHEN HEDGES HUNT and Mr. JOHN HOAGLAND have been enrolled among the number of ruling elders. It has educated and sent out two ordained ministers—REV. MR. LEEK, who died a few years ago in the State of Illinois, and CHARLES EVERT HEDGES, who was soon taken from his work on earth to his home in heaven.

Thus far we have reprinted in condensed form Mr. Brewster's sermon, delivered 2nd of July, 1876.

Mr. Brewster resigned on account of ill health, 1890.

REV. FRANK MELVILLE KERR

was ordained and installed, as pastor, 30th of June, 1891, and after three years' service he removed to Hempstaad, L. I. in 1894. He was followed by who was ordained and installed in Oct. 22, 1894.

The elders at present are, ANDREW CREGAR, W. T. BURD, ordained May, 1880; FREDERICK N. JENKINS, ord. May, 1884; JOSEPH CROAT, ord. May, 1892.

The trustees are, WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Esq., President; N. C. VANNATTA, J. H. MILLER, DAVID SHARP, J. W. TIGER, H. W. CYPHERS.

CHAPTER XXVI.

SPRUCE RUN--"SWAKE"--CLARKSVILLE LUTHERAN CHURCHES.

SPRUCE RUN LUTHERAN CHURCH.

SPRUCE RUN was at first part of the congregation of New Germantown and the people attended service at that place and German Valley. The first Lutheran services held in the Spruce Run Lutheran Church of which we as yet have any knowledge were conducted by Rev. William Graff. He became the regular pastor, July 16th, 1775. Either the same year or the previous fall he began to preach at Spruce Run as occasion offered. During the first twenty-five years of their history Rev. Graff held services at Frederick Fritts' on the premises now occupied by Andrew Van Sickel.

The first church was a

UNION CHURCH

in which the Reformed also held their worship. It was built in 1800. From this time until 1833 the church had the services of the Lutheran ministers of New Germantown every fourth Sabbath. Thus Revs. Graaf, Hazelius, Hendrick and Pohlman labored in this charge. The was, however, the first pastor of Spruce Run, as an independent charge. He was ordained and installed the 2d of Sept., 1834. He remained until April, 1860, when he resigned on account of ill health.

In 1835 the congregation became self-supporting. During 1835 REV. MR. WACK, who alternately held services in the church on behalf of the Reformed and Presbyterian congregation, ceased to preach here, and it seems, that from that time their interest gradually lessened until it became entirely a Lutheran congregation.

In the year 1835 a new church was built. This was erected to take the place of the old Union church.

THE "SWAKE CHURCH."

About the time of the great revival in 1840

REV. LAMBERT SWACKHAMER

began preaching at various points near by. He was a member of the Francklean Synod, and finally went to Mt. Bethel, where he organized a congregation about 1840, and, during the next three or four years, gathered quite a large number of followers. In 1844 he succeeded in building the present stone edifice, erected by Fritz Swackhammer. After Rev. Swackhammer left it was sold by Moore Castner for debt and bought by the Albright Methodists. They were, however, unable either to build up a congregation or pay the debt, and it again became the property of Moore Castner.

On June 10th, following, the congregation elected as pastor. At his installation Aug. 15th, 1860, Rev. H. N. Pohlman preached the sermon and pronounced the usual questions.

In May, 1864, Revs. P. A. Strobel and David Kline attended the General Synod at York, Pa., as visitors and the question of an exchange was talked over.

This led to correspondence upon the subject and on October 30th, 1864, he dissolved his relation to the charge as pastor when was given a call by Spruce Run, while Centre Brunswick elected REV. P. A. STROBEL as their pastor

Rev. P. A. Strobel served various fields with acceptance and died Nov. 26th, 1882, at Dansville, N. Y., and was buried at Red Hook, N. Y., a few days later.

Rev. David Kline began his labors December, 1864, and he was installed on Feb. 8th, 1865. At his Christmas communion the same month about one hundred communed. In April and May, 1866, special meetings were held, and on May 20th, forty-six were received into full membership, the largest number ever received at one time. He admitted one hundred and twenty during his whole pastorate.

On May 14, 1867, Rev. Kline reorganized as a Lutheran Church, at which time George Banghart, William R. Prall, Conrad Davis, Benjamin Johnson and Peter C. Apgar were elected trustees. August 23, 1868 Moore Castner and wife, in consideration of the sum of $500, gave a warranty deed to the Evangelical Lutheran Church of New Jersey (the word Church being written by mistake for Synod, the Synod having raised $300 of the amount necessary). This includes both church and cemetery.

On November 4, Rev. Mr. Kline preached a stirring sermon based upon the parable of the ten virgins, in which he especially dwelt upon the neglect of these wise virgins in sleeping. It was afterward recalled that he labored somewhat and returned home not feeling very well. The afternoon service was omitted and before the morning sun of November 5, 1877, rose in splendor he had gone to be at rest and meet his Savior with all the loved ones at home. By this startling Providence an active ministry of twenty-seven years in the Lutheran Churches at West Camp, Centre Brunswick and Spruce Run was suddenly ended. But he had been instrumental in winning souls to Christ, while his genial nature and hearty sympathy drew to himself many devoted and faithful friends. The attendance at his funeral was large and the services solemn and impressive.

The following month (Dec. 2) Rev. C. Duy preached for the congregation, and without consultation made an appointment for then living in Chatham Village, N. Y. It was a surprise to the writer, but he was at liberty to visit them and did so, and preached for them on three consecutive Sabbaths (December 9, 16 and 23). On January 6, 1878, he returned, and after service an election was held, at which time he was unanimously elected, the call dating from January 1, 1878.

In May, 1886, the pastor received and accepted a call to the pastorate of St. Peter's (stone) Church, where he is now laboring.

The next and present pastor,

REV. V. F. BOLTON, was elected and settled in September following.

CLARKSVILLE,

was set off from Spruce Run and organized November 16, 1869, with twenty-four members. The church was erected in 1871. REV. A. K. FELTON was installed April 8, 1875, the church having been previously served by Rev. David Kline, pastor at Spruce Run. REV. G. W. ANDERSON succeeded Mr. Felton and remained until 1882.

REV. J. W. LAKE took charge May 1, 1883. During his seven years of service eighty new members were added, the church's indebtedness paid, the edifice repaired and improved and a parsonage built.

REV. E. V. HOELSCHKE, followed next and remained until ill-health forced him to resign.

The above is substantially the history of Spruce Run church written by Rev. Chester H. Traver.

AND OF THE OTHER

EARLY SETTLERS OF OLD ROXBURY TOWNSHIP

FROM

AND OF MANY FAMILIES WITH WHICH THESE INTERMARRIED

LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS.

It may be necessary to remind the reader that the following genealogies have been gathered with very great labor and pains from various records and from various people. Very little help was obtained from family records, so that nearly all dates of birth or death had to be procured from church books, tombstones or wills. Some lines of descent have been carried down farther than others because of greater ease in procuring information with regard to them. The spelling of names has been made to conform to the records or to the various ways of spelling, prevalent in the different branches of the same family. The omissions and errors, of which there are no doubt very many, are due largely to the faulty memories of those who have given the information.

The arrangement of the families will explain itself, if it is carefully examined. Some abbreviations very commonly used are, b. for born; bap. for baptised; bot. for bought; conf. for confirmed; m. for married; s. for son; dau. for daughter; w. for wife; ch. for child or children; res. for resides, or resided; rem. for removed; prob. for probated when the reference is to a will. Note carefully the use of perh. for perhaps, to indicate that the statement following is a matter of mere conjecture, while prob. or probably, indicates that there are more reasons for, than against, the statement that follows.

GENEALOGY.

ABEL.

There were Abels in New England and in New York at an early date, and it may be that our families of this name are descendants of these. Hendrick Abels came from the Netherlands in ship Rosetree, March, 1663. In 1738, September 4th, Andrew Ablin and Matheis Koplín landed at Philadelphia. The spelling presents no difficulty as the peculiar formation of A in some German handwriting would explain the K in Koplín, and the termination ín is quite common, especially as a feminine form.

In 1733, Aug. 28, Michael Ably and three others under 16, viz., Hans Peter, Hans Adam and Hans Michael Ebly, landed at Philadelphia from the ship Hope.

ANDREAS bot. of Joseph Reckless, of Burlington Co., 1748, Feb. 7, 308 acres or one-half of the Davenport tract, near Fox Hill, the other half of which was sold on the same day to Morris Creature (Crater); the price was £103 and the said Abel was in actual possession. Andreas leaves a will, prob. 1751, June, in which he divides his property into three parts, one for his wife of 60 acres, and the other two of 120 acres each for his two sons Michel and Paul; in 1762, June 6, Paul and Leany, his wife, sell their share, or 126 acres, to Michel for £304. In 1768, March 29, Michel Abel gives mortgage on 240 acres of this tract, "whereon said Michel Abel now lives," to Richard Stockton, &c. Lib. A fol. 91, Morristown. In 1784, June 1, Michel gives a mortgage to John Striker, of Somerset, upon the whole original tract of 308 acres for £1308 (N. Y. money). These records show that this farm upon which the original Union German Church of Fox Hill stood, belonged to Michel Abel, who must therefore have been the father of Jacob, who afterwards occupied this farm, and of his brothers and sisters. He had ch.:

April 10, in which she names sons Matthias (eldest), Paul, Michel and Andres Abel, and Caty and Eve, daughters of Michel. She no doubt had married a Tedrick for her second husband. The most probable conjecture with regard to her husband's name is that it was MATTHIAS, and that he was a brother of Andreas, or Andrew, of Fox Hill. Her children were perhaps the following:
- I. MATTHIAS, bot. 124 acres Upper German Valley of Wm. Allen.
 - II. MICHEL, letters of administration of his estate granted to Elisabeth, 1799, Jan. 5, Somerset Co., N. J.; perhaps had son, ALPOCK.

Tradition says that three brothers, William, George and Peter Alpoek, (Ohlbach, Albach, Alpaugh or Alpoek), came from Holland in the year General Washington was born, or 1732. On Rupp's lists we find that in 1734, Sept. 23, there landed at Phila. from the ship Hope, Daniel Reid, Master, Zacharias Ahibach, John Wilhelm Ahibach and under 16, Johann Wilhelm, Joh. Gerhard and Johann Peter Ahlbach. These all belonged to a generation before the one to which we have been able to trace the families of that name now in this section.

In 1735 Zacharias and William Albach were occupying parts of the "Society Land" in Hunterdon Co. The three brothers referred to in the tradition, stated above, were probably of the second generation. Repeated inquiries have failed to discover the relationship between the families of German Valley and those at Cokesbury and High Bridge.

MOSES was freeholder, Sussex Co., 1764-9. Letters of adm. of est. of JOSIAH, Sussex Co., to Elias Ayers and Stephen Conking, 24 Oct., 1781. PETER, a member of First Wantage Church, 1786, and mortgage given by him on land in Wantage twp., 28 Dec., 1773. On records of First Church of Wantage, near Deckertown, N. Mr. Andrew Mellick, Jr., of Plainfield, the historian, claims that the Ayers, of Mt. Bethel, Pa., are descended from SAMUEL of Ulster Co., Ireland, a Scotch Covenanter, who came to Philadelphia with his wife and a dau. and rem. after his wife's death to the Scotch-Irish settlement at Deep Run, Bucks Co., Pa., where he died 1747. BARTLEY.

ROBERT and DAVID BARKLEY were two of the twenty-four proprietors to whom the Duke of York gave the grant, or sale, of East New Jersey, 1682-3, Mar. 14. ROBERT was appointed Governor, and d. 1690, Oct. 3. DAVID appears to have visited the province previous to 1684. He died 1675, about Aug. 15, on the passage from Aberdeen to East Jersey, in charge of a cargo of goods for the proprietors. His rights in the soil were inherited in whole or in part by his brother JOHN, who lived for many years and died in the province. John came to East Jersey, with six persons in his company, Mar., 1683 ; was appointed, 1692, Mar. 25, by Gov. Alex. Hamilton, Receiver General and Surveyor General ; his name appears, 1699, as clerk at Perth Amboy ; signs, 1702, as one of the proprietors of East Jersey.—[Whitehead's East New Jersey]. It has not been possible as yet to trace the connection between the two proprietors, and the families of Barclay and Bartley of Bedminster twp., Som. Co., but it seems probable that the father of Robert Barkley and Hugh Bartley (or Barkley) was John Barkley, who may have been the son of JOHN, the proprietor.

MISCELLANEOUS—It has been impossible to get satisfactory information with regard to the Castner family, even after considerable correspondence. The above is offered as a basis for further research. John Kastner, settled in Schoharie, 1713; removed to Tulpehocken Creek, Pa., in 1723, with 33 other German families (Rupp p. 467). A certain Paul Kastner is said to have come to New Germantown, 1694, with Rev. Francis Daniel Pastorius.

CHAMBERS.

Four brothers of the name of CHAMBERS, JAMES, ROBERT, JOSEPH and BENJAMIN, came from the county of Antrim, Ireland, and landed at Phila. about 1726. The youngest, Benjamin, in a deposition, made in Philadelphia, 8 Dec., 1736, styles himself "a millwright about 23 years of age," and he is said to have been at the time of his death, 17 Feb., 1788, "eighty years of age and upwards." He was, therefore, probably born about 1710. For a time the brothers lived together at the mouth of Fishing Creek, on the eastern bank of the Susquehanna, a few miles above Harris' Ferry. Here they erected a mill, which was, at that period, of great utility for a large district of country. Attracted, however, by the prospect of other locations for such establishments and for farms, they crossed the Susquehanna, on or before the year 1730, and settled at different places: JAMES, at the head of Green Spring, near Newville; ROBERT, at the head of Middle Spring, near Shippensburgh, and JOSEPH and BENJAMIN at the confluence of Falling Spring and the Conococheague, where Chambersburg now stands. Joseph, however, soon returned to Fishing Creek. But the others remained where they had last settled and were distinguished for their enterprise and public usefulness. They were soon followed by large numbers, who were not slow to hear of the attractive region soon to be opened for settlement. In the settlement commenced by James Chambers, about three miles south of Newville, was one of the most numerous clusters of inhabitants in the valley. It was very early (1738), strong enough to form a religious congregation which offered to pledge itself to the support of a pastor.—[Wing's History of Cumberland County].

RANALD and ROWLAND CHAMBERS, two brothers, according to tradition, came to America about 1720, from the north of Ireland and settled at Meeting House Springs, near Newville, Pa. They were of Scotch Irish descent. The name, Chambers, is said to have come from the Scotch Cameron. This became Camerarius, when the Camerons fled to France. On their return to Ireland the name became Chambers. Notwithstanding the tradition, mentioned above, it could very easily be that these two brothers were sons of one of the first four, probably of JAMES. Ranald died in 1746, prob. soon after his marriage. He could hardly have been over thirty years of age and too young to have come to Philadelphia alone in the year 1720 or 1726. However, in 1736-7, Randle [Ranald?] Chambers receives a grant of land, for the use of his son James, on Great Spring Creek, a branch of the Conococheague, (History of Cumberland Co., p. 23). James Chambers commanded one of the three companies that fought the Indians in the battle of Sideling Hill, April, 1756.

William C. Chambers was born near Harrisburg, his grandfather [great-great-grandfather ?] was no doubt one of the four brothers, JAMES, ROBERT, JOSEPH and BENJAMIN, who emigrated from Antrim, Ireland, about 1726 and settled first upon the Susquehanna, but soon crossed over and took possession of lands in different parts of Cumberland Valley; Benjamin, the youngest, going as far West among the Indians as Chambersburg, which bears his name. The other brothers are said to have taken up lands at Middle Spring, Green Spring, Middlesex and along the river. The subject of this sketch was brought up in the Presbyterian Church. He was educated in Dickinson College (where he was a classmate of the late President Buchanan), and in the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. He settled in Carlisle, as a practitioner of medicine, and soon after married. Dr. Chambers, though much esteemed as a physician, relinquished the practice of medicine after several years and engaged in the manufacture of flour and iron. In 1838 he removed to Philadelphia." —(History of Cumberland County, Pa., by Rev. C. P. Wing, D.D., p. 186). He was an elder for many years of the First Presbyterian Church, of Carlisle. COLVER.

JOHN COLVER, (Culver) was the oldest settler in this part of Morris Co., of which we have any record. His will was dated, 2 Dec., 1732, at "Black River, Hunt. Co., N. J." John Bell was a witness to this will and also Seth Smith, a woman. The history of the Colver family is especially interesting also on account of their peculiar religious tenets and practices. They were leaders of the sect of Rogerines and brought with them from New London, Conn., to this vicinity a number of people, 21 in all, who shared in their particular doctrines. John Colver is said to have come hither with a wife and family of ten children. He died here in 1733, mentioning only 2 children in his will. The whole family seem to have moved away, one son Jabez going to Wantage twp., Sussex Co., and the rest to Monmouth Co. Afterwards, however, the other son of John, viz. John 2d, with his two sons, Thomas and Robert, returned to Schooley's Mountain. In 1748, Robert, "of Monmouth Co." buys a farm of Wm. Cook, part of which is now owned by Mrs. William Martenis and contains the Colver graves. The other son of John, viz. Thomas, bought land, 1749, near Drakestown, Morris Co., N. J., from whence his grandson, David, went to Lafayette. From Hinman's Early Settlers of Conn., p. 773, and History of Southampton, p. 228, and History of New London, Conn., we compile the following:

The name Cummins is said to be the same as Cumyn, Comyn, or Cunning, names, which appear frequently in the history of England and Scotland. The original family of this name arose from the vicinity of the town of Comines in France. They came over to England with the conqueror, and Robert Comyn was sent by William, with 700 men to reduce the northern provinces. In the middle of the 13th century, there were four Scottish Earls in the family. Nearly annihilated by Robert Bruce, the sole survivor of the family escaped to England and there established important connections. [Blackie's Modern Encyclopedia]. DU FOUR.

Quite a number of Walloons and Huguenots took refuge in the Palatinate about 1650, from religious persecution in France and French Flanders. They resided for some time in Mannheim, the capital of the Palatinate of the Rhine, and at Franckenthal, and from thence came to England and America. This was the case with the families of Louis du Bois, the founder of New Paltz [or the New Palatinate], N. Y., and of the Demarest, De Vaux, Hasbrouck, Le Febre and at least nine other families, who afterwards emigrated to this country. [Baird's Huguenots, Vol. I, p. 188]. Some members of the Lucas and Laurent (Laurens or Lawrence) families came directly from La Rochelle, in France, to England, and from thence to America. Frantz Lucas and Johannes Lorentz, of the 2d Palatine Emigration, may have been originally from Rochelle, having gone from thence to the Palatinate. Isaac Feber (Le Fever), in the first Palatine emigration, was prob. a Walloon relative of the Simon Le Febre (Le Fever), who went from French Flanders to Mannheim and then by way of England to New Paltz. It is therefore not at all unlikely that the Tofforts (Dufforts, Duffords) were originally DuFours (De Voors or Du Fourts) and belonged to Mons in Hainault.

DAVID DU FOUR (DU FOURT, DE VOOR, DU VOOR) of Mons in Hainault [a province in the N. E. part of France], came to this country in 1657; one of his sons settled in the vicinity of Readington, although there are now no representatives remaining in this part of New Jersey. David had children:

EGE.

EGE FAMILY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

MICHAEL EGE, of Carlisle, Cumberland Co., Penn., was one of two brothers, the name of the other brother being GEORGE, whose father came from Germany [or Holland ?] to N. Y., and from there to Phila., where he died. His widow, after the death of her husband, rem. to the house of Mr. Stujels, who resided and owned iron works in Lancaster Co., Pa. George, the brother of

Michael, settled in Heidelberg twp., Berks Co., and built in 1793, the Reading furnace. He was prob. Judge of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania in 1793. He had at least one daughter Elisabeth. The father of these two brothers was probably JOHN MICHAEL, who arrived in Philadelphia from Germany, 30 Sept., 1738, in ship "Nancy and Friendship," with BERNARD and JACOB Ege. On the 16 Oct., 1751, HANS GEORGE Ege arrived in ship "Duke of Wirtemberg." There is a tradition in the New Jersey family that they had relatives in Cumberland Co., Pa. ADAM and MARTIN, probably brothers, who were the first of the name in New Jersey were, therefore, probably sons by a first wife of the first John Michael; and Michael and George, sons of the same by a second wife. For a Michael Ege, a widower, was married, 25 July, 1743, to Anna Catherine Holst. (Records of St. Michael and St. John Luth. Church, Phila., Pa.) This is, of course, simply a probable conjecture. The children of John Michael would not be named in the list of emigrants if under sixteen. Adam of New Jersey had a son (the eldest), born 1750, while the children of Michael of Carlisle, Pa., were prob. not born before 1780. Michael, 2d, bought in April, 1763, twelve-sixteenths of the Carlisle iron works, and shortly after became sole owner. "He was one of the most prominent iron-masters of Pennsylvania." Shortly before his death, which occurred 31 Aug., 1815, he owned the Carlisle works, the Pine Grove furnace, Holly furnace and Cumberland furnace. Each of these consisted of iron works and two or three thousand acres of timber and farm land. Mr. Ege was born in Holland and emigrated with his brother George to Berks county, and was engaged in iron-making before he bought the Carlisle works. He built at the latter place a new metal furnace, a steel furnace and a rolling and slitting mill, probably just before the Revolution. He also made blister steel and cannon balls for the Revolutionary army. The manse house (near the works) was built by Michel Ege in the year 1795, and is one of the handsomest houses in the county. In 1798 he built the new dam on Yellow-breeches Creek at Island Grove, and the race, which carries the water of that dam into Boiling Springs. Michael, 2d, left three sons and two daughters:

- I. PETER, inherited from his father the Pine Grove iron works.
- II. GEORGE, inherited the Mt. Holly furnace about 6 miles from Carlisle; had one son and two daughters:
 - (I). MICHAEL M., has a son George F. and three others.
 - (II). CAROLINE.
 - (III). A daughter.

EGE FAMILY OF NEW JERSEY.

ADAM EGE is thought to have come from Germany with two older brothers, at 13 years of age. He was most probably a brother of MICHAEL and GEORGE of Pennsylvania; he prob. had also a brother MARTIN, who was witness in 1757 to a deed from John Hobbs to Adam Ege for land in Hunterdon Co., N. J. Adam was brought up by John Hobbs, who probably came from Phila. to Amwell twp., Hunterdon Co.; the latter being without children, left all his property to Adam Ege. He m. about 1748, Margaret Hunt (dau. of Thomas); had ch.:

FARLEY.

The name FARLEY or FAERLY first occurs in New Jersey in the history of the Presbyterian Church of Ewing or Trenton. In 1709, March 6, Alexander Lockhart gave a deed for a burial place and the site of a church to trustees, among whom were GEORGE and CALEB FARLEY. These names next occur on the records of the First Reformed Dutch Church of Somerville, N. J. From these records it would appear that George and Caleb were children of CALEB.

As the majority of the settlers of Ewing came from Long Island and New England, it may be that this family also came from Massachusetts and were supposed to be of German origin, only because they married into families of German descent. GEORGE FARLEY (or FARLO), of Woburn, Mass., married first, 9 April, 1641,

Dr. Farrow began his work in this vicinity at an early period of his life (at 22), with his youth and youthful appearance against him, but rapidly grew into the confidence and esteem of the community. Notwithstanding the claims of a growing practice, he has always been one of the most regular attendants upon Church service, sometimes beginning his visits upon the sick at 6 o'clock on Sabbath morning, in order to have time for attendance at morning service. He was elected and ordained a ruling elder of the above church 26 May, 1872, and has been ever since most active and influential in that important position. His marked characteristics as a physician are faithfulness, promptitude, cheerfulness and honesty; and in other relationships, his enterprise, generosity, sound judgment and energy are in continual demand, and have helped to make successful more than one movement of public advancement and reform. FISHER.

HENDRICK FISHER was born in 1697, according to some historians in Bound Brook, N. J., but according to other and more reliable historians his birthplace was in the Palatinate, Germany. He came with his father's family to America in 1703. His father purchased a house and considerable land of William Dockwra this same year, on the south bank of the Raritan River near Bound Brook, on the road leading to New Brunswick. The house was built by Dockwra in 1688 and is now occupied by William Voorhees. It was at one time owned by Capt. Creighton McCrea, son of the Rev. James McCrea who preached in the Presbyterian Church of Bound Brook, and brother to Jennie McCrea whose tragic death at Fort Edward during the Revolution is well known.

Hendrick Fisher was a mechanic by trade, but a man of more than ordinary intelligence and with a wonderful business capacity. He was held in the highest esteem by his fellow citizens, and held for many years the highest positions in the Colony of New Jersey and in the church of which he was a member. He united with the Reformed Church, of New Brunswick, in 1721, during the pastorate of Rev. Theodore Frelinghuysen. The next year in 1722 he was elected Deacon, and held this office for two terms. In 1727 he was elected Elder, and was re-elected for seven different terms. He was a regular attendant on all Ecclesiastical conventions, and exerted a great influence in the establishment of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in America. He was appointed Catechist and Lay Preacher as an assistant to Rev. Mr. Frelinghuysen. Some of his published sermons had a large circulation among the people, and were valuable for their doctrinal and spiritual truths. In civil life no man in all New Jersey was more influential than Hendrick Fisher. He was elected as a member of the Colonial Assembly of New Jersey from Somerset Co. in 1745, and was re-elected to every succeeding assembly until 1775. While a member of the Assembly, he was chairman of many of the most important committees. He never flinched from active duty in whatever form it appeared. He was one of the three men whom New Jersey sent to represent her in the congress, called by Massachusetts and Rhode Island, to meet in New York on the first Tuesday of October, 1765. In January, 1775, he was appointed on a Committee of Grievances, of which he was elected chairman. This committee sent to His Majesty, King George, a petition asking for a redress of the "grievances under which the colonies are now laboring." In May, 1775, he was a delegate to the Provincial Congress of New Jersey, which met at Trenton, of which important body he was elected chairman. In his opening address he set forth most forcibly the grievances of the American colonies. He was chairman of the Committee of Safety which had charge of legislative and executive affairs during the recesses of Congress. No man in all the colony was more loyal to the cause of American Independence than Hendrick Fisher; and no one was more courageous and uncompromising in seeking to obtain freedom for his country. He was intensely hated by his tory neighbors and by the British, so that he was always armed to meet their threatened attacks. When the British General offered pardon to all the citizens of New Jersey, who would forsake their allegiance to the American cause, he made an exception of Hendrick Fisher, with three other citizens of Bound Brook. In December, 1776, a foraging party from the British army drove away many of his cattle. On April 13, 1777, after the first battle of Bound Brook, the victorious British army marching back to New Brunswick, stopped at his house and took all the money they could find and all the rest of his cattle. Hendrick Fisher did not live to see the full independence of America. He died while the war was still in progress, but with unwavering faith in the justice of the cause, and the hope that the States soon would enjoy the blessings of peace and prosperity. His body rests in a family graveyard on his farm. There in a dense thicket overgrown with trees, stands a plain brown upright slab with this simple inscription, "In memory of Hendrick Fisher, who departed this life August 16th, 1779, in the eighty-second year of his age." In the minutes of the Assembly of New Jersey his name is printed Fisher. In the records of the First Reformed Church, of New Brunswick, his name, at the time of uniting with the church, is given as Visser. At another place his name is given as Vischer. The above has been kindly furnished by the Rev. Titus E. Davis, of Bound Brook, N. J. Hendrick Fisher and wife Elisabeth had children, bap. at Somerville, N. J.:

THE FISHER FAMILY

BY B. VAN DOREN FISHER, ESQ.

In the old graveyard at Larison's Corners, sleep many of the early German settlers of Hunterdon County. Rough, unlettered stones mark their graves, and only the stains of time and the covering moss give a clue to the years that have passed since they began their silent vigils.

Among these graves of early worthies, undistinguishable from those of his neighbors, is that of PETER FISHER. Whence he came to this country and when, we have not been able to determine. We find, however, from old records, that he could not have settled in New Jersey later than the year 1725, with the probability strongly in favor of his having arrived at a considerably earlier period.

Tradition has it that he married his wife from the old home in Germany; but aside from the fact that her first name was Maria, we know nothing concerning her.

Peter Fisher, upon his arrival in this country, settled first in Somerset Co., N. J., where he remained until the year 1730 when he purchased a farm about a half mile west of what is now Rocktown, in Hunterdon County, which farm is still owned by one of his descendants.

The deed for the premises mentioned bears date March 30th, 1730, and by it, Thomas ——— of Township of Amwell, etc., yeoman, on the one part, conveyed to Peter Fisher, now or late of the County of Somerset, etc., yeoman, of the other part, in consideration of one hundred and thirty-two pounds of lawful silver money of the King's Dominions in America, etc., two hundred acres of land besides the usual allowance for highways.

PETER FISHER had eight children, Anthony, John Wilhelm, Elisabeth, Christopher, John, Peter, Jacob and another daughter, name unknown:

I. ANTHONY, as appears by the baptismal record of Readington church, was baptized Nov. 14, 1725. He married Elisabeth Snyder and settled on a farm west of Mount Airy. He had eight children. He died May 31, 1800, aged 75 years, and is buried in the old grave-yard at Larison's Corners:

FRELINGHUYSEN.

REV. THEODORUS JACOBUS FRELINGHUYSEN [or Frelinghausen, as he sometimes wrote it], was born at Lingen, in East Friesland, now belonging to the kingdom of Hanover, about 1691. He was the son of REV. JOHANNES HENRICUS FRELINGHUYSEN, pastor of the Reformed Church at Lingen, and a brother of MATTHIAS DAVID FRELINGHUYSEN, who settled in Hortigen, Holland. He died not later than 1748, as near as we can tell, and is said to have been buried on the property which he owned near Three-Mile Run, though without a stone to mark the spot. He was ordained in Friesland, in 1717, by John Brunius, and settled at Embden. He was selected for the service of the churches, and urged to go to that distant field by a pious elder, belonging to the Church of Sicco Tjadde. The young minister made a strongly favorable impression by his edifying manner of conducting family worship, at the house of the elder, where he was stopping on his way to Embden to assume the rectorship of that place. Mr. F. arrived at New York January, 1720, in ship King George, under Captain Goellet. He preached 17 January, 1720, in the Collegiate Church, New York, and, for the first time on the Raritan, 31 Jan., 1720, from 2 Corinthians, I:20. His field of labor extended from New Brunswick to North Branch. "He encountered many difficulties, owing in part to the scattered population, dense forests, unbridged streams, and ill-marked roads, incident to a newly-settled country, but still more to the state of the people, among whom formalism abounded, leading, as it always does in the end, to a great relaxation of morals. His ministry was one of continued conflict, carried on most aggressively against indifferentism and pharisaic formalism. The method of this fearless preacher was to always carry the war into the enemies' camp. With tireless energy and uncompromising earnestness, he fought out to its finish the conflict between truth and error." The storm and stress of of such a life-long struggle, in which churches and even families were divided, and the aid of the courts and the printing press was enlisted, must have been very trying and exhaustive. Still the bold champion of purity in religion held on his way, because, as he said, he would "rather die a thousand deaths than not preach the truth." The results of his faithfulness were found first in his own family, every one of his five sons becoming ministers, and both his daughters marrying ministers. A personal religion, which is thus attested, needs no other proof of its sincerity and attractiveness. Moreover, the searching revival, which brought so many into the churches under his charge, and the testimony of Whitfield and others, sufficiently evidence the power of his preaching to have been that of the truth itself. Some bitterness and excess were to be expected, when conscious rectitude is so maliciously assailed, as it was in the person of Rev. Mr. Frelinghuysen for so many years. Rev. Theodorus Jacobus bought, 17 July, 1744, a farm of 200 acres from Dan Hendrickson, in Middlesex Co. [Trenton Lib., 42 or 25, fol. 444], said to be the John Bronson place, a little west of Three-Mile Run. His seven children were: Theodore; John; Jacobus; Ferdinandus; Henricus; Anna, b. 1738, d. 3 May, 1810, at 72, m. Rev. William Jackson, who was settled for thirty years over the churches of Staten Island and Bergen; Margaret, b. 12 Nov. 1737, d. 23 Dec., 1757, m. Rev. Thomas Romeyn, of Long Island; had one son, Rev. Theodore Frelinghuysen Romeyn, who succeeded Dr. Hardenburgh, in his grandfather's charge on the Raritan.

REV. THEODORE, the eldest son of Rev. Theodorus Jacobus, b. 1734, d. at sea about 1760. He was sent to Holland for his education, and, after being ordained to the ministry, came to this country in 1745. The next year he was settled over the Dutch Church in Albany, N. Y. (1746-1760). "He was a man of more than ordinary abilities and culture, and published a catechism in 1748, which received the approbation and endorsement of the coetus. His memory was long precious among the godly people in his charge at Albany." He was ardent in disposition, and frank and popular in his manners; but his severe denunciation of fashionable excesses, introduced by royal troops quartered in the city, led to his resignation and his departure for Holland, in the pursuit of funds for the establishing of an educational institution in this country. He was lost at sea about 1760. He had sailed from New York, 10 Oct., 1759. He left a young widow, who afterwards married again, but no children.

REVS. JACOBUS and FERDINANDUS, the third and fourth sons of Rev. Theodorus Jacobus, were sent to Holland to be educated and ordained for the ministry. After they had finished their courses of study, they embarked for home to take charge, the one of the church of Wawarsing or Marbletown, the other of that of Kinderhook; but both died at sea of smallpox in 1753.

HENRICUS, the fifth, and youngest son of Rev. Theodorus Jacobus, pursued his studies in this country, and was licensed to preach in 1756, and took charge of the churches of Wawarsing and Rochester, in Ulster County, N. Y. The next year he was regularly ordained, but soon after died of smallpox at Naponech.

REV. JOHN, the second son of Rev. Theodorus Jacobus, b. 1727, died, Sept. 15, 1754, suddenly, at Flatbush, at 27 years of age; was educated and ordained in Holland; commenced his labors as successor of his father, in Aug. 1750; brought bricks from Holland for a house [the — Doughty mansion in Somerville], which still stands, and which was once a theological seminary, under Rev. John; m. Dinah Van Berg, of Amsterdam, Holland, the daughter of a wealthy and distinguished East India merchant, who m. for 2d husband Rev. Jacobus Rutzen Hardenberg; had ch.: Eva, m. Caspar Van Nostrand, and rem. to Ulster Co., N. Y., where numerous descendants of the family are still remaining; and Frederick.

"Gen." FREDERICK, only son of Rev. John, b. April 13, 1753, d. April 13, 1804. m. first, Gertrude Schenck, d. March, 1794; second, Ann Yard. He studied theology six months, but gave up the design of becoming a minister; strange to say, he was not a communicant of the church. He was educated at Princeton, where he graduated in 1770; was admitted to the Bar when of age; was, at the early age of 22, in 1775, sent to the Provincial Congress of New Jersey, where he was placed on the committee of Public Safety; chosen representative again the next year; elected, in 1778, on joint ballot to the Continental Congress, but resigned after serving a year; returned to the Continental Congress 1782 and 1783; member of Assembly of New Jersey, 1785-87; was member of the Convention of 1787; took part in battle of Trenton as captain of a volunteer corps of artillery; shot the Hessian, Colonel Rahl; afterwards colonel of militia; was present at the skirmishes at Springfield and Elisabeth, and at the battle of Monmouth Court-house, June, 1778; in 1793, was chosen to the United States Senate, from which he resigned, 1796. In the whiskey insurrection in Pennsylvania, he was major-general of the forces of Pennsylvania and New Jersey; he had ch.: John, Theodore, Frederick, Maria Cornell, Catherine Judd, Elisabeth Yard Etmendorf, and Sarah.

I. "Gen." JOHN, b. near Millstone, 21 March, 1776, d. of a bilious fever 10 April, 1833, m. first, 1797, Louisa Mercer, dau. of Archibald, then residing near Blackwell's Mills; second, 13 Nov., 1811, Elisabeth Mercereau Van Vechten, dau. of Michael, b. 11 Dec., 1790, d. 4 June, 1867. "Notwithstanding the unpropitious circumstances in which his infancy and youth were passed, occasioned by the Revolution and its immediate results, he secured sufficient education to enable him to enter Queen's College at New Brunswick, from which he was graduated in 1792. He was admitted to the Bar in 1797. In 1801 he purchased the estate at Somerville, but about 1805 returned to Millstone, on account of his father's death, and took charge of the family, superintending the studies of his younger brothers, Theodore and Frederick. While living here he lost his wife, in 1809, and united with the church at Millstone. In 1810 he returned to Somerville. He was not an eloquent pleader, but had a large and lucrative business in the quieter branches of his profession. He represented his county as a member of the State Council from 1809 to 1816, and was surrogate of the county for fifteen years, from 1818 to 1832. He was frequently made the executor of estates. He commanded a regiment of militia at Sandy Hook in the war of 1812. After the war he was made a brigadier-general, by which title he was subsequently addressed." He had a quick eye, a clear head, a rapid decision, a sound judgment, a strong will, and invincible courage. He was a man of large heart, and devised liberal things. Pleasant, affable, social, he enjoyed life abundantly; yet he thought continually for others. Hand and heart were open to the poor and afflicted. He was a man of profound and ardent piety." [History of Hunterdon and Somerset Counties, p. 586]. "He seemed to be quite insensible to fear. At one time there was, in the county of Somerset, a resident who, having become heavily involved in pecuniary embarrassments, and being threatened with legal process, shut himself up in his home with loaded arms, and declared that he would shoot any person who attempted to serve a warrant on him. As the man was known to be of a very determined character, it was difficult to find any one willing to approach the house. General Frelinghuysen, on being informed of the fact, took the paper and declared that he would serve it. As he came near the dwelling, the occupant called out to him to return, or he would fire. 'No you wont,' was the reply as the courageous man coolly continued his course until he reached the door, when he made legal service of the paper." He had ch. by his first wife : An infant who d., Mary Ann Vanderveer, Frederink, d. at 2, Gertrude Magie by 2d wife : *Theodore, Elisabeth Kennedy, Frederick (J.), Louisa M. - II. THEODORE, second son of Gen. Frederick, b. Mar. 28, 1787, at Millstone, N. J., d. April 12, 1862, m. first, Charlotte Mercer (da. of Archibald), 1809; second, Harriet Pompelly, 1857; elected, 1826, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, which position he declined to accept; had no children. Was Atty-Gen. of New Jersey, 1817-29; U. S. Senator, 1829-35; Chancellor N. Y. University, 1839-50; President Rutgers College, 1850-61; "New Jersey's favorite son." In 1841 he was chosen President of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; and in 1846, President of the American Bible Society. Hon. L. Q. C. Elmer says of him: "His piety was so unostentatious and yet so manifest, his manner of address so winning, his integrity so complete, and his desire to do good so intense, that he could not fail to exercise a good influence over those with whom he came in contact. Even those who would turn with disgust from any attempt of others to introduce religious subjects, would listen to him at least with assumed patience, and thank him for his faithfulness. His natural temper was quick and irritable, [but with the rarest exceptions under complete control]. This quick sensibility was one of the elements of his power. It was manifested in his voice and demeanor. He was indeed the most persuasive speaker I have ever listened to. [He never wrote out his speeches in full and spoke at his best without writing]. Like Whitefield, and all great natural orators, his voice and manner were such as to bring his hearers into entire sympathy with his own feelings, and thus to overmaster them. * * * He filled the place in the Senate which was filled by Mr. Wilberforce in the British Parliament. His voice was always heard on the right side of all questions partaking of a religious or moral character, like the Sunday mail and the Cherokee Indian bills. The congressional prayer-meeting was as constantly attended by him as the sittings of the Senate itself. There is indeed no reason to doubt that his personal influence at Washington was equal if not superior to that of any other individual." He was nominated for the office of Vice-President on the same ticket with Henry Clay, in 1844. This was without the least solicitation or suggestion, direct or indirect on his part. His defeat was a most painful surprise to a host of friends, who took the failure of their efforts as a personal affliction. "From the time when he took his first successful position at the bar of New Jersey in 1812, until he went to New York in 1838, he was engaged in almost every important cause which arose in the State." The great cases in which he appeared and established his reputation were the important slander case Hall vs. Grant, tried in Newark in 1821; the great Quaker case tried in 1833, in which the reading of the evidence occupied nine days; and the New Jersey Proprietary case, Waddell vs. Martin, concerning the ownership of lands under water around the coast and along tide-water streams. [See his life by Rev. Talbot W. Chambers, D. D., Board Publication Reformed Church, 1863].

- III. FREDERICK, third son of Gen. Frederick, b. 8 Nov., 1788, at the family homestead at Millstone. He d. 10 Nov., 1820, m. 4 Aug., 1812, Jane Dumont (dau. of Peter B.). He received the rudimentary elements of his education at New Brunswick; was prepared for college in the academy at Basking Ridge; graduated at Nassau Hall, 1806; admitted to the bar, 1810; commenced practice at Millstone, and soon secured a lucrative practice; appointed Prosecutor of the Pleas for the counties of Somerset, Middlesex and Hunterdon, which office he held until his death. He was more of a natural orator than either of his brothers. He delivered two addresses, which enhanced very greatly his reputation as an orator. One of these orations was before the Washington Benevolent Association at New Brunswick in 1812, and the other before the Somerset County Bible Society in 1820. "His imagination was fervid, his temperament buoyant, and his sensibility very lively." His piety was sincere, earnest and practical. A noteworthy characteristic of the three brothers, John, Theodore and Frederick, was their brotherly affection. "The love which these brothers had for each other was, in its depth and warmth, almost romantic. Their greatest pleasure was to be together, and the lively sallies of the younger brother never failed to dispel the depression of spirits to which Theodore was sometimes subject." Frederick had five children: Susan Waterman, Gertrude Mercer, Dumont, Frederick, Theodore and Maria Louisa Elmendorf :
- (I). SUSAN, b. —, d. —, m. William D. Waterman; no children.
- (II). GERTRUDE, b. 7 Sept., 1814, d. 11 Oct., 1886, m. 7 July, 1835, Dr. Wm. T. Mercer; had ch.: Charlotte F. Mercer; Gertrude A. Mercer; Whitehead; Frederick F. Mercer; Theodore F. Mercer; William Mercer; Archibald Mercer; Dumont Mercer.
- (III). DUMONT, b. 16 Feb., 1816, m. Martina Vanderveer (dau. of Judge); no children; res. at Somerville, N. J.; licensed as an attorney, Sept., 1838; as a counsellor, Nov., 1843; Clerk of Somerset Co., 1840-5.
- (IV). FREDERICK "T.", b. at Millstone, 4 Aug., 1817; graduated at Rutgers College, 1836; admitted to the bar, 1839; Counsel of the City of Newark, 1840-54; Counsel of C. R. R. of N. J., and of the Morris Canal and Banking Co.; member of Common Council of City of Newark, 1846; member of Peace Congress, which met in Washington, D. C. Feb., 1861; appointed by Gov. Olden Attorney-General of New Jersey, 1861-6; appointed again by Gov. Ward and reappointed by Gov. Parker; appointed, and afterwards elected, U. S. Senator for part of a term; re-elected for full term of 6 years, 18—; nominated and elected Minister to Great Britain, which flattering offer was declined; was again offered the English Mission by Pres. Hayes, and this second offer was also declined; appointed by President Arthur Secretary of State of U. S., 12 Dec., 1861. Mr.

F. during his career in Congress, was influential in getting Mr. Sumner's Civil Rights bill passed; introduced the bill against polygamy; secured the passage in the Senate of the bill to return to Japan, what is known as the Japanese Indemnity Fund; took a prominent part in the Alabama controversy; delivered speeches in the French Arms controversy and upon the impeachment of Andrew Johnson; was a member of the famous Electoral Commission of 1877. One, who knew Mr. F. well, says of him: "Frederick Frelinghuysen was born in Somerset Co., N. J., in 1818, but his father having died when he was quite young, he was taken to Newark and entered the household of his uncle Theodore (a member of the U. S. Senate 1830-36, afterwards Chancellor of the University of the City of New York, and finally President of Rutgers College, N. J.), by whom he was brought up. In the great wave of spiritual influence which swept over the country in 1837-8 he was reached and after a long and severe struggle with his natural pride was converted to the truth, to which he steadfastly adhered for the rest of his life. He had a quick and active mind, was capable of long and intense application, and speedily won a high place at the bar of N. J. He was endowed with the faculty of easy and persuasive speech, and this with his acquired and hereditary character gave him great influence with juries, legislative bodies and popular assemblies. He had great personal dignity, and passed through life untouched by slander. He took a deep interest in philanthropic enterprises, and was especially interested in plans for the wider circulation of God's word, and at the time of his death was President of the Somerville Bible Society. He was a spiritual man, and exerted a quiet but decided influence upon his fellows at the bar and in the Senate, never being ashamed to speak in behalf of the Saviour whom he loved and served." Nicholas had at least three, JOHN, FELTEY and PETER.

JOHN, the first of these, b. 1748, d. 1810, m. Mary Troch and served in the Revolutionary war. He moved to Nochamixon, Pa., where he lived until 1800, when he came to Holland twp., upon the farm now belonging to Jacob Robbins, which he rented for ten years. This land was conveyed to his son, John, 1811, April 15; it was part of Parker's lot No. 26; John had children:

His parents came from Prussia to Phila., then to Hagerstown, when he was 13 years of age (?); spell their name Hauger. The Hager family seems to consist of many branches, or more probably there are many families of the same name. Some came to this country before 1700, and settled in New England. There are many of this name on the list of emigrants, who arrive at Phila. from 1727-1776. Judge T. S. Hager, born in German Valley, who died in California, found that the name is correctly spelled, Hager, and signifies "lean," "haggard." Families of this name are found in books of heraldry possessing rank and having coats of arms, and belonging to Austria, Bavaria and Prussia.

CAPT. JOHN HAGER, a Revolutionary soldier, went from Scholarie Co. to what is now the town of Hector, Schuylcr Co., N. Y., about 1798. He was the youngest of nine brothers, and married Nancy Patchen. HENDERSHOT.

The name is variously spelled as Henneschid, Henneschit, Hinnschutt, Hendershott ; and it seems to be of Low Dutch or Holland origin.

The first of the name in New Jersey was MICHAEL, who is found in New York in 1710 with his wife, Ann Catharine, and three children, Casper, John Peter and Maria Sophia ; another son, Michael, being born later, probably 1714. The first Michael has children baptised on the Raritan River by the Lutheran pastor of New York from 1716 to 1730. Another family is said to have come in the person of Isaac, their common ancestor, from Saybrooke, Conn., to Lopatcong twp., Warren Co., with Matthias Shipman, having first stopped at German Valley. The truth of this story seems to be that the father of Isaac, John by name, leased a part of the Budd tract in 1749, but soon removed to Greenwich twp., Warren Co. That he came from Connecticut seems doubtful. He was more probably the son of Michael the first, and was born 1720.

MICHAEL, b. 1674, m. Catherine, b. 1680 ; on the list of Palatines of the second emigration, 1710, who remained in New York (Brodhead Documentary Hist. N. Y., vol. 3, p. 340) ; rem. to New Jersey, first on the Millstone River, then to the West Jersey Society lands in Hunterdon Co. ; had ch. :

HOFFMANS OF SOUTH JERSEY.

HOFFMANS or "HOPMANS" were very early arrivals in the State. There were in New Sweden, in the year 1693, ANDERES Hoppman with 7 in his family; his will, dated Piles Grove, 1715-28; FREDERIC with 7 in family and his brother, JOHAN, with 7 in family, including the five children, Bridget John, Nicholas Monce (Hermans) and Michael; lastly NICHOLAS Hoppman with 5 in family [Arcelius' Hist. New Sweden, p. 190-4 and 440-4]. It seems probable that MARTEN Hopman, who is found in N. Y. city, as early as 1663, was a brother to Andrew, Fredrick and the rest. He was given permission in 1672 to go to New Sweden (South Jersey and Delaware) and to solicit subscriptions for the building of a Lutheran church in New York. It is said that Peter Stuyvesant brought with him from the Delaware, as hostages, a number of Swedish families, among which were the Hoffmans. Martin came from Revel, a Swedish town in the gulf of Finland, in Esthonia, which was taken from the Swedes by the Russians in 1710. He m. (1) in N. Y. city, 31 March, 1663, Lysbeth Harmens; (2) Emmerentje Dewitt (sister to Tjerk Claessen); had only two sons and two daughters, who are known of:

- I. ANNETJE, bap. 1 March, 1665.
- II. MARRITJE, bap. 12 Dec., 1665.
- III. NICHOLAS, m. 30 Dec., 1704, Jannitie Crispell (dau. of Antoni), b. Feb. 1686, d. 11 Feb., 1752.
- IV. ZACHARIAS, of Shawangunk, Ulster Co., N. Y., m. 19 Oct., 1707, Hester

Bruyn, d. 1744. It is claimed by some that the Hoffmans of Cokesbury and German Valley belonged to the descendants of the Swede, Marten, but the probabilities of the case are all opposed to this conjecture.

HOFFMANS OF COKEBURY.

HENRY, lived on the William Stevenson place, then of 217 acres, in High Bridge twp., which was sold by John Hoffman, sole surviving executor of the last will of Henry, to William Hoffman, 1809, April 1, for \$3,365.67; 109 $\frac{1}{4}$ acres of this were sold by William and Elenor Hoffman, 1835, April 1, to James Stevenson for \$2,737.50. Henry's will, dated 1790, Sept. 13; prob. 1794, Aug. 19, leaves all his property to his second wife, until her death or second marriage. The father of Henry was prob. HARMON, but no trace is found of the latter, unless he should be the Harmonus of the Second Emigration, who was in New York 1710, and whose will [prob. N. Y., 15 April, 1752, dated Orange Co., N. Y., 1752], names wife, Gertruye (Gertrude), and ch.: Harmanus, Berstena or Cersteana (Christena ?), Rachel, Jurry (George), Catrina Snyder, Layd (or Leaya) Gestlar, but no Henry. LAWRENCE.

The Lawrence (Lorentz or Laurents) family were probably from Rochelle, France. They may have joined the Germans from the Palatinate, at the port of their departure in Holland, or they may have come from the Palatinate, whither they had previously fled for protection from religious persecution in their native land. The latter seems the more probable from the fact that large numbers of Huguenots fled to Germany and particularly to the Palatinate, during the time of Louis XIV. The Laurents and Lucas families had come over together not only in 1710 but in the previous century. ANDRE' LAURENT, the ancestor of a noted family of South Carolina, son of Jean Laurent, married in London, 8 Mar., 1682, Marie Lucas, both being natives of La Rochelle. The latter was the daughter of DANIEL LUCAS. The families seem to have been associated together for a long period. [Baird's Huguenot Emigration I. 282]. There is a German family bible now in the possession of Mrs. John M. Lawrence, of Brooklyn, N. Y., which contains the record of the family of the emigrant, Johannes. There seem to have been in New Jersey representatives of another German or Holland family of the name of Lawrence. There were members also here of the English family of that name, the Hon. Thomas Lawrence, of Hamburg, being one.

JOHANNES LORENTZ [Lowrentz, Lawrence] came over in the "second emigration" of Palatines or Germans in 1710 and is found in New York at that date. The record is as follows: JOHANNES LORENTZ in New York, 1710, at age of 43, his wife Anna Margareta, at age 39, his children Anna Elisabetha at 15, Magdalena at 13, Anna Barbara at 11 and Alexander at age of one year and a half. The old German family bible contains the record of baptisms of John's children. The will of Johannes Lowrentz, dated Peapack, 12 July, prob. 3 Dec., 1745 [Trenton Lib. I, fol. 16], names six children. He was b. 1661, m. 1691, Anna Margaretha, b. 1671; had ch.:

NEITZER.

JOHN PETER NEITZER (or Neitzert) was the first of the name to come to America. He came from the county of Wied Runckel, of which Erbach and Dierderff were principal towns, in Wirtemberg; arrived at Philadelphia, 8 Oct., 1744, in ship Aurora, together with Henry and Conrad Rorig (or Rarick) and Bernhart

Neyzart; he died 1763 without heirs in this country; kept store in German Valley and had on his ledger the names of 228 customers nearly all Germans who came from Warren, Hunterdon and Morris counties to trade with one of their own race. His nephew John William Neitzert and a niece Elisabeth, came over to this country to receive, as the only heirs, the property he left behind. These facts are learned from the following records at Trenton.

Herman Kline, principal creditor of Peter Nitsar, late of Roxbury, Morris Co., N. J., is made administrator of his estate 8 Oct., 1763. Trenton Liber H of Wills, fol. 391. In the same Liber, fol. 595, we find a baptismal certificate, duly authenticated, of John William Neitzert, nephew of John Peter, which we transcribe, just as it is, being an awkward translation from a German original.

"The bearer John William Neitzert was begotten of christian honest parents named Herbert Neitzert and Eva, who formerly lived here and were members of our congregation, born in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and forty-two, July 15 and baptised the 22 instant, and when he attained to years of maturity was taught the fundamentals of our after-the-word-of-God-evangelical Reformed religion and admitted to the sacrament. Now as said Neitzert proposes to take a voyage to America, to fetch an heritage left behind by his father's brother, named Peter Neitzert, merchant upon the Raritan, deceased, for himself and his only co-heiress Elisabeth, daughter of John Anthony Neitzert, deceased; and as he is herunto legally impowered and authorized by the said heiress' own hand's subscription, we have therefore granted him this present certificate to the end that he might find credit at the place where it may be necessary to be acknowledged for the legitimate heir of the said remains or heritage and do further commend him as well to the guidance of the Almighty by his Holy Spirit, as to the christian charity of those whose assistance he may stand in need of.

JACOB FREDERICK DILDINE, Prator of the parish of Webach.

ANNA ELISABETH NEITZERT.

"That the preceding attestation was written and underwritten by a minister of the County Wied Runckel named Miller, and that the contents thereof may be fully credited, the same is hereby, at the legal request of John William Neitzert, magistratically attested and testified, to confirm the truth thereof.

In this war, 1771, Jan. 20, Lieut. Nathan, brother of Capt. Amos, was killed; David, another brother, was also conspicuous in this war. In a deed, 1769, Sept. 6, of Sheriff Michayah How, of Hunterdon Co., to Baltus Pickel, for land at New Germantown, the mill of Amos Ogden is referred to. In records at Moravian Indian Mission at Wyalusing under date 1768, Nov. 11, occurs this record, "Capt. Ogden set out for Wyoming where he and his brother carry on Indian trading." It was said of Mr. Ogden "Uniting to the truest courage and untiring activity an intuitive perception of all the arts and stratagems of war, he was an indefatigable leader." On Nov. 14, 1769, Caleb Swayze was appointed guardian of Justus Swayze Ogden, son of Joseph of Morris Co.; probably Caleb Swayze was of Morris Co. and not Joseph Ogden. (Trenton Lib. K, 223).

ISAAC OVERTON, of Southold, d. 1688; his mother was a sister of John Elton, a previous settler of Southold; 1688, had four males and two females in his family. Isaac may have been the Colonel Overton referred to in a letter of Andrew Marvel to John Milton, dated 2 June, 1654, as "one of those steady Republicans whom Cromwell, unable to conciliate, was under the necessity of securing." After a previous imprisonment in the tower, he was confined during the Protector's life in the Island of Jersey, and obtained his liberty from Parliament a short time only before the restoration of Charles II. He then stood out against the restoration at Hull, 1660, but could do nothing. He was arrested in Dec., 1660, but not being a regicide, was not tried. Several places in England bear the name Overton, a common one in olden times. Isaac had children or grandchildren, perhaps: I. ISAAC, b. 1683, d. 4 Nov., 1733, m. Abigail, and had ch.: 1. PICKLE.

Three brothers of the name of PICKLE are said to have come from Hamburg to Staten Island, then to Black Mills, near New Brunswick; from thence they came to Hunterdon Co. The names of these brothers were said to be Baltis, Conrad and Frederick. But this is a mistake, as these are names of a later generation. If there were three brothers, their names were BALTHAZAR, FRANTZ WILHELM (of whom all that is known is that he signed the call to Rev. John Albert Weygand in 1749), and JOHN NICHOLAS, who was settled on Society Lands in 1735. Moreover, in the records of the marriage of Balthazar (Luth. Ch. of N. Y.), he is said to have come from the graftschafft (or county) of Hartenberg, Germany, and his wife from the same place.

BALTHAZAR PICKLE [or BICKLE], b. 1686, d. 5 Dec. 1765, at 79, m. Anna Gertrude Reiterin, 16 Aug., 1718; signed call to Weygand 1749; bought land in Round Valley before 1729; gave the name Pickle's to Cushetunk Mountain; afterwards bought property nearer Whitehouse. He was the most wealthy and influential man among the early German Lutherans in this part of New Jersey. He built, nearly altogether at his own cost, the Central Church at New Germantown; furnished the seats for the earlier church at Rockaway (now Potterstown, near Lebanon) in 1733; left at his death a legacy of £1,000 to support the preaching of the gospel; he was most prominent in every part of the early history of Lutheranism here, and seems always to have acted the part of a large-minded and honorable man. Indeed, it seems more than probable that without him the whole effort to maintain service under such exceedingly adverse circumstances, would have failed entirely. He mentions only two children in his will, viz.: Baltus and Henry; had ch.:

- I. MARIA CATHRINE, b. 15 July, 1719. bap. 2 Aug., 1719. She is probably the dau. who is said to have died before 1748; perhaps it is her tombstone which is marked "C. P., 1744," in the New Germantown churchyard.

MISCELLANEOUS—There was a JOHANNES ROELOFSON, who settled "on the Karitans" about 1700, but nothing is known of his family.

RUNYON.

The family of Runyons are descended from VINCENT RONGION. He was a Huguenot and came to America in the year 1645. He settled in East Jersey on the Elisabethtown grant as early as 1668-70. He was called at the first mention of his name, "a mariner from Poitou." This province in France endured the fiercest persecution on account of religion, until all industries were paralyzed and whole communities were depopulated. There is on file at Trenton a marriage license issued by the governor of East Jersey, Philip Carteret, in the year 1668. This document reads as follows:

"To any of the Justices of the Peace or Ministers of the Province of New Jersey: Whereas, I have received information of a mutual agreement between Vincent Rongion, of Portiers, in France, and Ann Boucher, the daughter of John Boucher of Hartford, in England, to solemnize marriage together, for which they have requested my license, and there appearing no lawful impediment for the obstruction thereof, these are to require you or eyther of you, to joyne the said Vincent Rongion and Ann Boucher in matrimony, and them to pronounce man and wife, and to make record thereof, according to the laws in that behalf provided, for the doing whereof this shall be to you or eyther of you a sufficient warrant.

Given under my hand and seal of the Province, the 28th of June, 1668, and the 20th year of the raigne of our Sovereign Lord Charles the Second, of England, Scotland and Ireland, King, defender of the faith, &c.

(Signed)

PH. CARTERET.

This couple were joyned in matrimony by me the 17th of July, 1668.

SHARPS OF GREENWICH.

In Greenwich township, Warren Co., there were probably three brothers, JOHN CHRISTIAN and JACOB, and one sister Christina, who married a Schultz. It is impossible to discover their relationship to the Lebanon family though no doubt they were related to them and to the family of German Valley. It is remarkable to notice that there was a Christina Margaret Sharpentine, of Rhinebeck, who married Christian Otto Shultz, but the woman died 1779, Oct. 20, at Rhinebeck, she could, therefore, hardly be the Christina Schultz mentioned in the will of Christian Sharpentine, of Warren Co., of the date of Sept. 27, 1793. However, this confirms the impression produced by other incidents that the Sharpentines came from the Upper Hudson Valley.

JOHN, of "Greenwich, Sussex Co." (now Warren), whose will was dated 1770, June 1, prob. Aug. 8, names in his will sons, Peter (not yet 24), John, and other children not yet of age; also executors, Matthias Shipman, "my wife and son Peter;" witnesses were Robert Martin, Alexander White and Christian Sharp. This John buys land of William Lovett, in 1758 in Warren Co., and probably settles at Marvel Hill.

The following accounts of the removal to Florida and Mississippi of a number of the early settlers of Roxbury are from a letter of Dr C. F. Farrar, of Kingston, Miss., written 28 Sept., 1891; and also from the work entitled Mississippi as a Province, Territory and State, by J. F. H. Claiborne.

Capt. Amos Ogden having been wounded in battle retired from active service and settled in New Jersey. He received a grant from the King in 1767, May 13, of 25,000 acres of land in West Florida. This grant was given in return for a favor conferred upon Charles the First by an ancestor of Capt. Amos. The favor consisted in hiding the King in the hollow of a tree, when closely pursued by his enemies. Capt. Amos proceeded to Florida to have the mandamus recorded and was lost at sea on his return voyage. His son Capt. Amos (sic) being away from home at the time, found the grant afterwards among his father's papers and sold 19,000 acres at 20 cts. an acre or £9000 proc. for the whole, to Samuel and Richard Swazy, April, 1772. Soon after the Swazeys went to Florida to locate the land with Caleb and Joseph (Justus?) King as surveyors. On their return Capt. Ogden died in New York, Oct., 1772. Joseph King returned to New Jersey and never went back to Florida, but his two sons George and Charles afterwards went to Florida and after a long suit at law recovered their father's share.

As far back as 1768 the King had issued an order, or mandamus, to the Governor of West Florida to have surveyed and allotted to Amos Ogden, of New Jersey, a retired naval (?) officer, 25,000 acres in one single tract. In 1772, Capt. Ogden sold 19,000 acres of his claim to Richard and Samuel Swayze, of New Jersey, at the rate of twenty cents per acre. They made a reconnaissance of the district, and located the claim on the Homochitto river, in the present county of Adams. In the fall of the same year the two enterprising brothers, with their families and a number of their kindred and friends, sailed from Perth Amboy for Pensacola; thence, by the usual lake route, to Manchac; up the Mississippi, and then up the Homochitto to what is now known as Kingston. Samuel Swayze had been for a number of years a Congregational minister, and most of the adults who came with him were communicants. The faithful shepherd, as soon as he had provided a shelter for his wife and children, and planted corn for their bread, gathered up his fold and organized his society, undoubtedly the first Protestant pastor and congregation in the Natchez district. Under many drawbacks, growing out of Indian depredations, and discouragements after the country passed into Spanish hands, this pious teacher and his kindred met together on the Sabbath, often in the swamp and cane-brakes, for divine service. In 1780 the Indians became so troublesome and exacting that most of the settlers abandoned their homes and moved to the vicinity of Natchez. The venerable pastor settled on the east bank of St. Catharine, on what was long afterwards known as "Swayze's old field," on the left of the road from Washington to Natchez, and there he died in 1784. The Jersey settlement, begun in 1772, by men of intelligence, energy and high moral character, became prosperous and rich; densely populated; highly cultivated; distinguished for its churches and schools; its hospitality and refinement. And, in the course of years, it sent its thrifty colonies into many counties, carrying with them the characteristics of the parent hive. The Farrars, Kings, Corys, Montgomerys, Pipes, Foules, Colemans, Jones, Callenders, Fowlers, Luses, Griffings, Hopkins, Nobles, Ashfords, and many others in Mississippi and Louisiana, are descended, in one branch or the other, from the brothers Swarze.

TITMAN.

LODEWICK DITMAN, d. 1772, m. Mary —; was the first of the name in this country. The progenitor of the Titman's in New Jersey probably came from Saxony. The German form of the name is Tittmann. Tittmanns are today to be found in Dresden, Leipsic and Wittenberg, and some of them have been men prominent in letters. In New Jersey they have confined themselves mainly to agricultural pursuits, and many of them have succeeded in amassing comfortable fortunes. In 1737, one Tittmann bought 400 acres of land at the foot of the Blue Mountain, near Blairstown, N. J. Here George Titman, 1st, his son Baltus and his descendants lived for 107 years, or till 1844, when the farm went into the possession of a great grandson of Geo. Titman, 1st, named Walter Wilson, whose family still owns it. George Titman's other son, George Titman, 2d, in 1775, bought of William Coxe and Mary, his wife, a tract of 266 acres of land at Bridgeville, N. J., to which he added 200 acres in 1793. Most of this land is still in the Titman name. After his death, in 1796, the land at Bridgeville was divided between two of his sons, George, 2d, and Jacob, while while he gave a farm in Sussex Co. to his other son, John Titman. The 200 acre tract at Bridgeville, which went to Jacob, was willed to his son Gwinup, who in turn left it to his son William B. Titman, who still owns it. Part of the 266-acre tract is owned and occupied by Marshall Titman, who received it from his father, George, 4th; his will dated Oxford, Sussex Co., 20 Sept., prob. 23 Nov., 1772 (Trenton Lib. 16, fol. 210), names wife Mary and ch.:

- I. JAMES TOPPING died at Chester, N. J., Sept. 16, 1874. He was born June 1, 1780, on the John Carlyle farm (later the W. J. Taylor place). His father WILLIAM Topping came here from East Hampton, Long Island, his native place, purchased this place, and reared a family of 7 children, 4 girls and 3 boys, none of whom lived to be less than three score and ten, and some of whom are yet living at over 80 and over 90 years of age. Of these JAMES was the sixth child. His father lived to be over 78 years of age, and his mother 89 years at the time of her decease. At the age of about 15 years James left home to learn the trade of a cabinet maker with Jonathan Scudder at Westfield, N. J., where he became acquainted with Sarah Marsh whom he married when he was about 22 years of age. After finishing his trade, with another young man he bought Mr. Scudder out, and continued business at Westfield for one year, when he sold his business at Westfield to his former employer and removed to Chester, where he bought the place now known as the George Hedden place and resided in the same house that now stands on that lot, his shop being nearly opposite the house. Here he carried on his business for many years. He was successful financially for those years, and purchased a great deal of property and loaned money on mortgage. At the age of thirty he purchased the farm, on which he was born, from his father. He had eight children, four boys and four girls in the following order: I. ELIZA; II. CHARLES; III. MARY ANN; IV. EVERT;

V. JANE; VI. THEODORE; VII. GEORGE; and VIII. SARAH. About fifty years ago he bought the property on which he lived till the time of his death, and moved upon the farm he bought from Reeves Corwin. This house was built about the year 1800. About the time he bought the Corwin place he became a member of the Presbyterian Church, of which he was always a generous supporter. ELIZA, his first child, died in 1868, unmarried; CHARLES, the second, was drowned at the age of four years; MARY ANN married Henry Hedges, and died 1890, leaving one daughter, the wife of Rev. George M. S. Blauvelt; EVERT received a college education, and became a professor of languages in Princeton College, afterward taught a classical school in Baltimore; JANE married John S. Hunt, and died at the age of 27, leaving two children, who are now dead, leaving no heirs; THEODORE died in 1873, leaving one daughter; GEORGE died at the age of 27, unmarried; SARAH, the eighth child, is still living; Mrs. Topping the mother of the family died in 1854 in the 74th year of her age.

TRIMMER.

TRIMMERS OF HUNTERDON COUNTY.

JOHN TRIMMER, died Jan., 1749, in Amwell twp., Hunterdon Co.; prob. arrived at Philadelphia in ship Davy, 25 Oct., 1738; his name is signed by the clerk to the oath of allegiance, taken at the above date, Hans Timmer. This is the only case in which this name appears in the list of emigrants that arrive at Phila.: Johannes and Matthias Trimmer are naturalized by act of Assembly, 12 Nov., 1744. In Lib. 3, fol. 365, of deeds, in clerk's office at Flemington the following occurs in the beginning of a modern deed, from which we can locate the place of first settlement of this family: "Whereas John Trimmer stood possessed at the time of his decease of a tract of land in Amwell of 300 acres, bounded on the south by land of Jacob Hand, westerly by land formerly William Bines, now Paul Couls, northerly by land of John Jarell's and part of Neshanic [Neshanic] brook, Adam Bellowsfelt's and Jacob Stout's land, and easterly by William Bellowsfelt; and did agree to sell to his eldest son, the said Matthias Trimmer, of Long Valley near Fox Hill, partly to these presents, 105 acres, part of the above mentioned tract, for 425 pounds, on the 4 Nov., 1748; and the said John Trimmer died before any conveyance was made out and no provision was made in his will to give a title to the said lands; as the money had been paid by said Matthias Trimmer, the sons and legatees of John Trimmer, Tunis, Andrew, George, Harman, William, John, Nicholas and Henry, sign a release of said land unto their oldest brother, the eldest son of John, viz. Matthias, 31 May, 1750. On 4 April, 1751, Matthias sells this land to Philip Kels. Johannes Trimmer in his will dated Readington, 10 January, prob. 22 February, 1749 [Trenton Lib. 6, fol. 335], names wife Mary Catrina and ch.: by the first wife, Tys [Matthias], Toenes [Anthony], Ry [Andrew], Georg, Herbert [Harman in the deed]; by second wife, Anna, Christina, William, Hannis [John], Niclas, Judil, Henrick; the witnesses were Adam Bellisfelt, Matthias Housel and Godfrey Peters. He speaks of some of his children as not yet of age. The wife named in the will, Mary Catherine, may be the third and who would therefore have no children, for Johannes Tremer and wife Elsje [Alice] have a child, Hendrick, bap. at Readington, 3 Oct., 1747. As this was probably the youngest child of John, according to the order of the will, and by his second wife, there would seem to have been three wives:

MRS. LOUISE VESCELIUS-SHELDON, the daughter of Aaron Vescelius and Mary Ann Miller, has attained to considerable literary fame. She is thus spoken of in a weekly illustrated paper called Town Talk: Louise Vescelius-Sheldon finished the first chapter of the romance of life before she was twenty. She was wife and widow before many girls have done with flirtations, and after recovering from so sad a blow, she attempted a career of music. Possessed of a fine soprano voice, she, with her two sisters—likewise musical, spurred by the same ambition—went to Europe to study. Time, money, patience and the best instructors were employed. Three years spent thus crowned their effort with success. They learned Madame Nilsson's secret of success from her instructor. They gave their own concerts, appeared in opera in the capitals of the continent, and at last drifted back to London. Here they called a halt and resolved to seek a summer clime for health and rest. Europe was an old story, so they went to South Africa. Life in the colonies and the diamond fields is most charmingly told in "Yaskee Girls in Zulu Land," which Mrs. Sheldon published in 1867. Aside from information in the way of natives, vegetation and animals of this region, the book is aptly illustrated by photogravure process, and is the first book to have been illustrated in this way in this country. Next she published "An I. D. B. (Illicit Diamond Buyer) in South Africa," a dainty love story most daintily told and illustrated. She writes for the Cosmopolitan, and magazines in general, but considers literary work a pastime only, while music is her labor of love.

When he first entered the ministry, his congregations were feeble and unable to afford him the necessary temporal support. He was therefore obliged, to some extent to carry on farming. In various branches of the mechanic arts he was quite skillful, and in many cases manufactured his own farming implements. He was fond of company. He was also a man of learning and wrote a work of theology in Latin. He was remarkably fond of music and had musical instruments of various kinds. Among the rest he owned a large organ, which he had made with his own hands. In his appointments for preaching and in his other engagements he was always punctual. WERTS.

The genealogy of the Wurts family has been printed for private circulation in a most elegant style. Through the kindness of Rev. Wm. A. Wurts, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church of Hagaman's Mills, New York, the writer has been permitted to examine a copy of this most interesting publication. The name is variously spelled Wirtz, Wuerts, Werts, &c.

WERTS OF SWITZERLAND.

The WERTS family can be traced back to ULRIC VON UERKON who lived about 1250, A. D. He was one of four brothers and married in 1280 the Baroness von Wandelburg. He had three children, Hans, Rudolf and Burckhardt. The youngest of these, BURCKHARDT, lived about 1310, and was chief magistrate of Uerikon. He m. Verena, only child of Heini Wirz, one of the sons of Hermann of Erlenbach, who was his uncle. Burckhardt was called "Burckhardt von Wirz von Uerikon," "Burckhardt von Uerikon," "Burckhardt Wirz." He had children, Heinrich, Hans, Rudolf and Conrad.

HEINRICH, eldest son of Burckhardt, lived about 1365-1380; married Adelheid von Cham; was chief magistrate of Uerikon in 1365; owned property at Erlenbach and Zurich. About this time the titular "von Uerikon drops out of sight in connection with the name of Wirz. The children of Heinrich were Burckhardt and Walter.

BURCKHARDT, 2d, eldest son of Heinrich lived about 1420 and married Elizabetha Stucki. He was chief magistrate of Uerikon and had children: Jacob, Hans and Heinrich.

HEINRICH, the third and youngest son of Burckhardt, lived about 1470, married first, Agnes Von Cham in 1498; second, Verena Wedischwiler. He was chief magistrate of Uerikon and almoner of the princely abbey of Einsiedeln. Heinrich and his two brothers received, in 1492, letters patent of nobility, constituting all three Knights and granting them a coat of arms. A fac-simile of this patent and a reproduction in colors of the escutcheon may be found in the Wurts genealogy. Heinrich had children: by his first wife, Barbara, Regula and Adelheid, and by his second, Jacob, Anna and Verena.

JACOB, the only son of Heinrich, was born 1506, and married Margaretha Vachtigen. He died 1536 and left four children, Caspar, Jacob, Magdalena and Margaretha.

CASPAR, eldest son of Jacob, was born 16 April, 1532, married Anna Kleiner, 9 Feb., 1553; was printer; had children: Hans Rudolf, Hans Jacob, Josias, Heinrich and Julius, Elisabetha, Anna and Catharina.

JOHANNES RUDOLF, eldest son of Caspar, was born in 1554, married first, Verena Aeni, 1 June, 1577; second, Dorothea Richtmann, 30 June, 1602; had thirteen children; by his first wife, Hans, Hans Jacob, Franz, Hans Ulrich and Johannes and Catharina; by his second, Hans, Hans Ludwig, Barbara, Elizabetha and Regina.

FRANZ, third son of Johannes Rudolph, was born 1581, m. first, 15 Oct., 1603, Margaretha Horner; second, January, 1620, Anna Keller; he died 4 Oct., 1658; had children: Johannes Conrad, Franz, Caspar, Hans Rudolph, Jacob Caspar, Anna, Barbara, Margaretha and Anna Catharina (twins), and Margaretha 2d.

JOHANNES CONRAD 1st, the eldest son of Franz, was born 20 May, 1606, d. 1667; he was the great-grandfather of Rev. John Conrad of New Jersey, was born 1606, d. 1667; ordained March 16, 1628, pastor of the "Church of the Holy Spirit" at Zurich, Switzerland.

JOHN CONRAD WIRTZ 2d, son of the above, was born 1631, died 1682 and 17 Jan., 1654, took the Synodical oath and became Verbi Dei Minister. He was made "Field Preacher," 1656; pastor of Uerikon, 1658; of Reichtenweil, 1661; deacon of the "Church of the Holy Spirit" at Zurich, 1668; first arch deacon, 1680; aedile, 1680.

JOHN CONRAD WIRTZ 3d, father of our pastor of New Jersey, was born 1661, d. 1730; ordained, 1682; pastor same year of St. Peter's in Zurich; at Neukirch, 1685; at Kloten, 1691; deacon at Silberschild 15 Jan., 1704; first arch deacon, 1709; pastor Kerensen, Switzerland, 1709.

WERTS OF NEW JERSEY.

REV. JOHN CONRAD WIRTZ, pastor in New Jersey, was the fifth son of the above and was born in Zurich, Switzerland, 30 Nov., 1706. His eldest brother, Jacob, was invited to become court preacher at Wurtemberg. John Conrad when a young man entered the service of the King of the Netherlands as a cadet, but soon abandoned the military profession and returned to his native city, Zurich, where he engaged in the practice of law. In the year 1734 he joined a company of more than 250 people, pious men, women and children, who proposed to settle in America. They left Zurich, 4 Oct., 1734, under the leadership of the Rev. Moritz Goetschi, their destination being "the Carolinas," which region they believed (from a certain pamphlet describing the country) to be a second Canaan. They encountered many hardships on their way from Zurich to Rotterdam, not the least of which were occasioned by the opposition of the Swiss government, who evidently saw that this was the forerunner of a large exodus. After reaching Holland they had many vexatious detentions, and many of the band were scattered, and some returned to Zurich. They did not leave Rotterdam until the following spring, and then circumstances obliged them to change their destination, so that they sailed for Pennsylvania. During the detention in Holland John Conrad married Anna, the daughter of the Rev. Moritz Goetschi (or Goetschius). They had a perilous passage of twelve weeks to Philadelphia, where their leader (Rev. M. Goetschi), who had been ill during the voyage, died. Precisely where the band of immigrants made their home a. first, we do not know; and we lose sight of J. Conrad for a few years. It is probable that he now had his thoughts turned toward the ministry, for which his early education had somewhat fitted him, and to which the traditions of his family led him. Johannes Conrad landed Phila., 1735, May 29; was the first German Reformed preacher in New Jersey of whom we have any knowledge; preacher for the Egyptian congregation, Lehigh Co., Penn., from 1742 to 1744; preacher at Saucon and Schuygenhaus (Springfield) at least as early as 1747; came to New Jersey to Rockaway (Lebanon) and German Valley, before 1750; ordained by Presbytery of New Brunswick, 5 June, 1752; rem. to Pa. 1761, d. York, Pa., 1763, Sept. 30; had ch.:

I. ANNA MARIA MAGDALENA, bap. Christ Church, Phila., 1735, Aug. 20, three days old.

WILLETT.

THOMAS WILLETT, who became the first Mayor of New York after the capture of the city by the English, arrived while yet a young man, in 1629, at Plymouth, Mass., from Leyden, in Holland, where he had been sojourning with other Puritans. He was sent the following year to Penobscot, to superintend a trading house, but returned soon after and engaged in the carrying trade between the New England colonies and New Amsterdam, where he is found possessing some landed interests in 1645. He was in subsequent years an active friend to the Dutch, whom he more than once seasonably notified of the designs of the English. He was a magistrate of Plymouth from 1651 to 1664, when, at the request of Col. Nichols, he accompanied the expedition of the English against the Dutch colony. On the change of the charter of the city of New York to an English form in 1665, Capt. Willett was appointed its first Mayor, and held that office again in 1667, in the course of which year, it is presumed, he returned to New England and settled at Rehoboth, or Swansea (now the town of Seconek), Mass. where he died the 3d of August, 1674. [See Boyle's Hist. Memorial of Plymouth II, 235, 236; New England General Register IX, 318; Valentine's Manual of the City of New York]. A certain TOBBIE WILLETT and ANN WILLETT leave London for America on the 22d of June, 1632. The Memorial History of New York says: "Capt. Thomas Willett, d. 1674, Aug. 4, at 64 years of age. His property in New York was confiscated 1673 by the Dutch; he is buried in Little Neck Burying Ground, within the limits of East Providence, Rhode Island." Capt. Thomas Willett m. Mary Brown (dau of John, of Plymouth), 6 July, 1636. He had ch.:

SAMUEL WILLET (probably the grandson of Capt. Thomas), appears in New Jersey in 1700, and he is the Samuel of Monmouth Co., whose son WILLIAM receives letters of administration upon his father's property 1762, Oct. 4. This Samuel may have been the father of WILLIAM, who owned the fording place on the Black (or Lamington) River.

WILLIAM WILLETT, owned the mill at Pottersville. In Tewksbury Township Book, 1757, William Willett's fording place is mentioned. He carted grain for the Continental army, and received his pay in Continental money, the depreciation of which ruined him; removed to New York State with all his family but one son and two daughters. There were other Willets in the northern part of Somerset Co., who may have been related to William. These were: JONATHAN; THOMAS, of Warren twp., whose will prob. 3 Jan., 1822.

MISCELLANEOUS—JACOB WOLF, of Bedminster, is given a mortgage by Daniel Lawrence July, 1785, for land prob. near Drakestown. This Jacob is prob. a brother to George and William. The ancestor of this family was probably JOHN AUGUSTUS WOLF, who was born in Loebegin, Germany, and came to New Amsterdam in 1734, and from there came the same year to this part of New Jersey.

Family tradition says that three brothers came over together and further research may discover some trace of the other families, or it may be that only George (above) was the son of John Augustus, the emigrant.

WOODHULL.

The WOODHULL family were prominent in England, Long Island and New Jersey. They trace their descent from the Conquest, 1066. WALTERUS FLANDEREMIS had a son Walter, Baron of Wahull. From him the lineage has been traced for twelve or more generations to Richard, who emigrated to this country (Long Island), as early as 1648. He was born at Thenford, Northampton Co., England, in 1620, and d. 1690. Possessed of large wealth he purchased, 1665, one thousand acres, including the site of Brookhaven, L. I. He left a widow, Deborah and three children, Richard, Nathaniel, who d. unm. in 1680, and Deborah, who m. Thomas Lawrence.

RICHARD, 3d, son of Richard 2d, b. 1691, d. 1767, had Richard, Mary, John, Capt. Nathan, Stephen, Henry, Phebe.

JOHN, son of Richard, 3d, b. 15 Jan., 1719, d. 3 Jan., 1794, had William, John, Caleb, Merritt Smith, Henry, James, Elisabeth, Gilbert, Jeffrey Amhurst, Temperance and Mary. The emigrant Richard left England on account of the part he took in the civil war. His descendants in almost every generation were prominent in the medical profession, the legal sphere and the calling of the ministry. Rev. William, of Chester, had a nephew who was a Judge of the Supreme Court, and a brother, Rev. Dr. John Woodhull, who graduated from Princeton College; was a trustee from 1780-1824; pastor for most of his life of the Presbyterian Church of Freehold, N. J. He had a son Rev. George Spafford Woodhull, and the latter had a son Rev. William Henry Woodhull.

YOUNGS.

Among the families of Palatines of the second emigration, 1710, and found in New York at that date are JOHANNES JUNG (Young) aged 32, and his wife Anna, aged 35; also NICLAUS JUNGENS aged 38 and his wife Anna Magdalena aged 25. The next record is of the date of 1738, March, when letters of administration of the estate of Johannes, of Somerset Co., are granted by consent of the widow to Samuel Stockton (Trenton Lib. C, fol. 190). In the baptismal book of the First Ref. Church of Somerville, we find that JOHANNES JONG (Young) and wife Mecheld have a child, Margaritje (Margaret), bap. 1725, April 4; also PHILIP JONG and Mareya (Mary) have a child, Mareya, bap. 1734, Oct. 20. In 1730 Johan and Pieter Young are naturalized by act of Assembly; in 1751, Philip; 1754, John; 1755, Jacob and Tunis. Hence it would appear that Peter and John were the two first arrivals of the German family of Youngs. There was, however, another family of the name of Young, whose descendants have spread through New Jersey, that of Robert Young, a Scotchman, who settled at Newark very early and died 1736 at 63.

MELLICK.

MELLICK—The genealogy of this family may be found in the recent work called "The Story of an Old Farm." That work is so well known and so extensively circulated that it will be only necessary to give a brief synopsis in this book of the very interesting and complete family history found in that most valuable production. Mr. Andrew J. Melick, Jr., the author of the work referred to above, has traced his ancestry back to the year 1500. PETER MOELICH was living at that time in Winnigen, Germany. Peter was the father of THEISS, b. 1530, and the latter was the father of MICHEL, b. 1598, and he of FRIEDERICH, b. 1611. The latter had a son JONAS, b. 1650, who migrated from Winnigen to Bendorf in 1688. With Jonas came JOHAN WILHELM the son or nephew of Jonas, whose three sons emigrated to America. HANS PETER, the second son of Jonas had born to him in Bendorf eleven children; his four sons emigrated to America, viz.: JOHAN JONAS, b. 27 July, 1710, who d. unmarried in Hunterdon Co., N. With Jonas came to Bendorf from Winnigen also JOHAN WILHELM, his son or nephew, whose three sons, JOHANNES, JOHAN PETER and JOHANN GOTTFRIED, emigrated to America. Two brothers DAVID and PETER Moelich, probably nephews of Johan Wilhelm, of Bendorf, also came to America and founded families. David settled in New Jersey and Peter settled in Columbia Co.

THE MUEHLENBERG FAMILY.

REV. HEINRICH MELCHIOR MUEHLENBERG was born in the city of Einbeck, in the Electoral Principality of Hanover, Sept. 6, 1711. His parents were Nicholas Melchior Muehlenberg, a member of the Council of Einbeck, and Anna Maria Kleinsmid, daughter of a retired military officer. He had eleven children, of whom four died young. Seven reached maturity; the Reverend JOHN PETER G., Member of Congress and Major General; REV. FREDERICK AUGUSTUS, Member of Congress, and grandfather of the hymn writer; REV. DR. G. HENRY ERNST; EVA E., the wife of Rev. C. E. Schultze; MARGARET H., the wife of Rev. J. C. Kunze; MARY CATHERINE, the wife of Major Francis Swayne; MARY SALOME, the wife of the Hon. Matthias Richards, Member of Congress. Dr. Muehlenberg served the three congregations to which he had been first called, viz. New Hanover, New Providence or Trappe, and Philadelphia, until his death, with many visitations or temporary residences, for the benefit of the congregations, to New York, New Jersey, Maryland and South Carolina; in 1748 organized the ministerium of Pennsylvania and adjacent States, which now numbers 291 ministers and 471 congregations; in 1762 introduced a new constitution into the congregation at Philadelphia, which restored peace and order to it, and became the basis of most of the congregational constitutions in Pennsylvania; built during his ministry in Philadelphia, St. Michael's and Zion's church, the latter in its day the largest church edifice of the Lutheran denomination in the U. S. This building was sold and the money arising from its sale, given to found three or four other Lutheran churches of a large size in Philadelphia; suffered much during the war of the Revolution, in consequence of the presence of the American or British armies near or in his parish, while the British had possession of Philadelphia, and the battles of the Brandywine and Germantown were in progress, and the Americans were encamped at Valley Forge; during all, but especially the last year of his life, kept up a correspondence with the fathers in Halle, who had sent out him and other ministers for Pennsylvania, and the adjacent States of New Jersey, New York, Maryland, Virginia, &c. These reports have been almost the only accurate account of the state of the Lutheran church in this country during the last century. He had the degree of D. D. conferred upon him by the University of Pennsylvania, and enjoyed all his life in a marked degree the respect and confidence of some of the most eminent ministers of the Episcopal, Presbyterian and German Reformed churches in Pennsylvania and elsewhere and received the honorable title of Patriarch of Lutheranism. Dr. Mann in his edition of the Hallesche Nachrichten says of him, "The monument to his honor is the Lutheran church of this land."

I. JOHN PETER GABRIEL, b. at the Trappe (now Providence), Montgomery Co., Pa., 1 Oct., 1746, d. 1 Oct., 1807; m. 6 Nov., 1770, Anna Barbara Meyer; was sent, 1763, with his two brothers to Germany for their education; served for two years in a drug store at Luebeck; became tired of the drudgery, as his employer imposed upon him and neglected to give him instruction in his profession; took advantage of the presence in the country of a British recruiting officer to enter the military service without the consent of his father, who much regretted his loss; returned to America in 1766 and studied for the ministry under the Swedish Provost

Wrangel : began preaching in 1768 in vacant congregations ; acted as assistant to his father in the Raritan congregations 1768—1772, preaching in German and English ; was licensed at the Synodical Convention, 20 June, 1769 ; became pastor in 1772 of a Lutheran Episcopal church at Woodstock, Va., after he had received Episcopal ordination in London in April, 1772 ; at the breaking out of the Revolutionary fever, acted as a member of a Committee of Safety ; was sent to the House of Burgesses ; Colonel of the 8th Virginia Regiment ; served with distinction throughout the entire war from the battle of Charlestown to the surrender of Cornwallis, at which he was present and was honored with the ranks of Colonel, Brigadier and Major General ; was a member of the First and Third Congresses ; U. S. Senator and enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the most eminent men of the Republic, as Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry, General Green and others. PETER, who served in the Navy and was in the battles on Lake Erie and in the Chesapeake, as midshipman. He then served in the army as Lieutenant and Captain ; was an aid to Gen. Pike in Canada and to Gen. Jackson in the battle of New Orleans and in the Creek and Seminole war ; died 1844, a Major and Lieut. Colonel by brevet, while acting as paymaster in the U. S. army at Natches, Louisiana. He married Miss Coleman and had seven children ; 6. FRANCIS, a lawyer and Congressman from Ohio ; married Mary Downing and died in 1831 ; 7. He was educated with his two brothers at Halle (1763-1770) ; ordained to the ministry by the ministerium of Pennsylvania, 25 Oct., 1770, then not quite 21 years of age ; became pastor of Christ's Lutheran Church of New York (1773-1776) ; obliged to leave the city when it was taken by the British, he returned to Pennsylvania ; elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature and made Speaker of that body ; was President of the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention for the ratification of the Constitution of the United States ; elected to Congress 2 March, 1779 ; Speaker of the First and Third Congresses ; member of the Board of in Pennsylvania ; President of the German Society in Philadelphia ; had seven children among whom was HENRY, the father of Dr. William Augustus Muehlenberg, who was pastor of Grace Episcopal Church, founder of St. Luke's Hospital and author of the hymn, "I would not live away," with others used by all denominations.

- IV. MARGARET HENRIETTA, the fourth child of Dr. Henry Melchior, was born 17 Sept., 1751, and died —; she married Rev. John Christopher Kunze, D. One of Doctor Kunze's daughters married Caspar Meyer, founder of the mercantile house of Aelrichs & Co., of New York, and Gustav Schwab, Esq., a son of the German poet of that name, married a granddaughter of Mr. Meyer. A second daughter married a Mr. Oakley, and a third daughter married Jacob Lorillard, founder of the well known family of that name.
- V. GOTTHILF HEINRICH ERNST, the fifth child of Dr. Henry Melchior was born at the Trappe, 17 Nov., 1753, and died 23d of May, 1815. He married in July, 1774, Catherine Hall, daughter of Philip Hall, of Philadelphia. He was sent in 1763, when ten years of age with two of his brothers to complete his education in Germany; returned to America 1770; ordained 25 Oct., 1770; became his father's assistant in Philadelphia; compelled to flee from the city by the approach of the British in 1776; he retired to the country, where he took up the study of Botany, in which he became very proficient. He returned to the city after the departure of the British and continued his labors there until 1779, when he resigned and removed to Montgomery Co., where he took charge of several congregations. The next spring he accepted a call to Lancaster, Pa., where he continued until his death from apoplexy on the 23d of May, 1815. Granted the title of D. D. by the University of Pennsylvania, he was made a member of the American Philosophical Society in 1796; of the Naturforschende Freunde in Berlin in 1798; of the Philosophical and Physical societies of Göttingen in 1802; and of various other associations in Sweden, Germany and elsewhere. REV. JOHN GEORGE SCHOENHEIT was pastor of the Lutheran Church at Teichroda in Schwarzburg-Rudolstadt; had a son, REV. FRIEDRICH CHRISTIAN HENRICH SCHOENHEIT, b. 18 Sept., 1789, d. 28 April, 1870, m. Wilhelmina Maria Elisabeth Eichhorn, of Volkstadt; was present in youth at the battle of Saalfeld, 10 Oct., 1806, of which he could give many historical incidents as an eyewitness: educated at the gymnasium of Rudolstadt, then at the University of Jena; became his father's assistant and finally his successor; after eleven years removed to a new and larger field, consisting of four churches, viz., Singen, Hengelbach, Goesselbann and Paulinzella; remained in this parish for 42½ years from 1826 until his death in 1870; was a laborious pastor; in going from one church to the other on a very cold day, in 1827, froze the toes of his right foot, so that they had to be amputated; was a lover of nature and fond of hunting and fishing; from his early days delighted in collecting butterflies and studying birds; experimented in the planting of trees and the care of bees, even allowing the latter to form a hive in the high altar of one of his churches; became a learned scientist; Secretary of the Agricultural Society of Paulinzella and of the Botanical Society of Germany; corresponding member of a number of scientific bodies at home and abroad; was endeared to his people "by his conscientious discharge of duty, his simple, homely character, his kind manners, his constant readiness to render help in word and act with his medical knowledge"; was the author of several works: "The Wonders of the Animal Kingdom"; "The Flora of Thuringia"; "Forest Botany Self-Taught," and one other; had nine children, of whom one son, LOUIS RICHARD, came to America in 1852.

LOUIS RICHARD SCHOENHEIT, son of Rev. Friedrich, residing in German Valley, N. J., was born 1 Mar., 1833; m. Henrietta Gulick (dau. of William); res. at German Valley, N. J.; has ch.:

I. OSCAR, m. Mary Beyer; res. Newark, Washington.

II. ELMER, unmarried.

III. EDITH, unmarried.

An interesting tradition of this family recounts that their remote ancestor, a charcoal burner, was once fortunate enough to rescue the Princess Paulina, of noble birth, from death by exposure or wild beasts, when she had lost her way in the Black Forest, while with a party who were hunting wild boars. In gratitude to God and to her deliverer, she founded the Cloister of Paulinzella and also established a fund for the education of every male descendant of the charcoal burner, who should study for the ministry, and to furnish a dowry to every maiden of the family when she married.

SMITH (p. 500), JOHANNES HEINRICH SCHMIDT, should be JOHANNES, whose will [Trenton, Lib. 32, fol. 334], dated Readington, N. J., 4 June, 1790, prob. 1 Nov., 1791, names wife Christian and ch.: I. STRYKER, PETER (p. 510), m. Christina Smith, b. 16 March, 1778, the daughter of Martin Smith (son of Johannes).

WERTS, CONRAD [to be added to the Werts family, p. 561-7]. His will dated Roxbury, 23 Aug., 1766, prob. 17 Oct., 1767, names wife Anna and also his mother Anna, and speaks of children without naming them, the daughters at least, not yet being 18 years of age. The executors are George Waldorf and "my brother John Wirtz"; the witnesses are John Waldorf, Peter and Maurice Wirtz; the inventory amounted to £246. This makes the children of REV. JOHN CONRAD, the emigrant, to be six in number, viz.: I. ANNA MARIA MAGDALENA, b. in Phila., 17 August, 1735; II. CONRAD, d. 1767; III. JOHN, b. 1744; IV. GEORGE, b. 1746; V. PETER, m. 1774; VI. He died of typhoid fever in the autumn of 1840, sincerely mourned by his brethren and by the people. D. D. by Lafayette College.

"Dr. Campbell's talents were quite above mediocrity. COLLINS, GEORGE S. Careful inquiry has failed to get the information desired concerning Mr. Collins. The following items are all that have been obtained: One gentleman, who used to be a great friend of Mr. Collins, said he was 6 feet 4 inches in height and quite peculiar. He was not licensed until after he came to New Germantown, N. J., not having finished his studies. His arguments were very close, and it required strict attention to follow him. He was a great talker when with those of his own sex. Did not affect the society of ladies. From New Germantown he moved to Maryland, where his wife died shortly; he also died in a few years. He had two children, son and daughter. The boy died while they were in Maryland, and it is the impression that the daughter is dead also.

In the year 1862 or 63, there was a call for volunteers to serve in the war, and a mass meeting was held in the Lutheran Church, of New Germantown, of which Mr. Duy was chairman. After he had made a stirring speech, calling for volunteers to come forward and sign, what was his surprise, when the first person to come forward was his son Philip, 17 years of age. who enlisted and went to the front.

GLEN, WILLIAM RENWICK, son of William and Isabella (Renwick) Glen, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 12, 1812, and came to the United States at an early age. He first united on profession with the church at Mateawan, Dutchess Co., N. Y., then under the pastoral care of the Rev. Samuel Irenæus Prime, at the age of twenty-one. He was afterwards elected a ruling elder, was ordained to that office July 19, 1840, and retained it until licensed. He was prepared for college at the Hudson River Seminary, at Stockport, N. Y., under the Rev. E. D. Maltbie and the Rev. Alden Scovel, and for some time pursued his studies at Burr Seminary, Vt., but was never graduated from any college. He entered Princeton Seminary in 1845, and graduated in 1848. He was licensed by the Presbytery of North River April 21, 1847, and labored as a missionary to the coal miners of Schuylkill and adjacent counties, Pennsylvania, 1847-52. He was ordained an evangelist by Luzerne Presbytery at Middleport, Pa., December 10, 1850. His first pastorate was over the Tamaqua Church, Pa., where he was installed June 9, 1852, and released Aug. 12, 1856. His next charge was over German Valley Church, N. J., where he was installed October 17, 1856, and was released Jan. 13, 1868. Next he was pastor elect at Bloomington, Ill., from Jan. 20, 1868, until installed July 11, 1869. This relation (as also the church organization) was dissolved after the reunion, April 5, 1871. He then served the church at Heyworth, Ill., from April 5, 1871, until July 1, 1872. From July 1, 1872, to January 1, 1873, he labored as a missionary to the feeble and vacant churches in the Presbytery of Bloomington. His last pastoral charge was at Monticello, Ill., where he was installed June 10, 1873, which relation, because of a severe attack of bronchitis, was dissolved May 1, 1875. From this time his health was delicate and manifestly declined, but to the end he was strong in faith and hope. He died of consumption at Frankfort, Ind., March 31, 1880, in the sixty-ninth year of his age. Mr. Glen was a man of a tender, true and affectionate nature, of deep and fervent piety, prayerful, conscientious, industrious, an untiring worker, wearing himself out for Christ, always keeping in view as his great aim the salvation of souls. For a long time he was a sufferer, patient, uncomplaining, submissive, looking forward to the rest, the joy, and the crown.

Mr. Glen married July 23, 1838, Miss Mary Sophia Avery, daughter of Nathan B. Avery, of Hudson, N. Y. She survived him with two sons and two daughters. 1. IRENAEUS R. GLEN, M. Att'y for Illinois, late of Springfield, Illinois, now of Chicago, Ill. Since the above was written Mrs. Mary S. Glen died at Bradfordton, Sangamon Co., near Springfield, Illinois, on Thursday, Jan. 25th, 1894.

HARKER, SAMUEL, or, as the name is sometimes spelt on New Brunswick Records, Harcour, was probably of Huguenot descent. Remarkable for size, vigor and strength, he spent his youth in manual labor. He graduated at Nassau Hall in 17—, and was taken up by New Brunswick Presbytery, December 6, 1749, and was licensed November 6, 1751. Roxbury and Hardwick asked for him, June 5, 1752, and being called to Roxbury, on Black River, in Morris Co., New Jersey, he was ordained there October 31.

He challenged Abel Morgan, the Baptist minister, of Middletown, and who had debated on infant baptism with Finley in West Jersey, and they disputed on that point for two days at Kingwood, in Hunterdon county.

In 1752 or 53 a man named Heaton, who, with three brothers, had moved from Wrentham, Mass., to establish iron works on Black River, near Schooley's Mountain, became a Baptist because he could not find a text proving infant baptism. This led Robert Colver, who lived there, to advertise a reward of twenty dollars for a text proving infant baptism. Harker carried a text to him and demanded the money; being refused, he sued him; but the justice ordered Harker to pay the costs. On the Black River dwelt also a small number of Rogerines or Quaker Baptists, from Groton, Connecticut. (Webster's Hist. Pres. Church.)

Graduated at Hartwick Seminary, 1857, licensed to preach by the New York Ministerium, Sept. 3, 1857, in Zion's Church, Utica, N. Y., and ordained by the New York Ministerium in St. Matthew's Church, New York City, Sept. 28, 1858. After licensure in 1857 became pastor of the Lutheran Church at Fayette, Seneca Co., N. Y.; remained for one year when he accepted a call to the church in German Valley. After serving this church twenty-three years, he accepted the call to Hartwick Seminary to become Dr. G. B. Miller's successor and Professor of Systematic Theology; D. The following is from Dr. Hutton's funeral sermon, preached by Dr. T. W. Chambers, of New York: Dr. Hutton was quite above the ordinary stature, and though in early life somewhat slender, yet afterwards he attained symmetrical proportions and an imposing presence, so as to attract attention in any company. This was heightened by his countenance, which never altogether lost the ruddiness of youth. It was open, mobile and expressive, quickly responding to the emotions within. It was not so much the regular features, or even the kindling eye, as the frank, sweet and kindly expression which invited confidence and seemed necessarily an index of character. To this must be added his voice, which was clear and musical, fit for all forms of speech but especially for such as were grave or pathetic.

His style was simple, easy and limpid; never drawing attention to itself, but serving admirably for the colorless transmission of his thought. What he said was aided greatly by the manner of saying it. His commanding presence, his solemn earnestness, his rich, sonorous tones, his manifest sincerity, endued his words with a power additional to the truth conveyed.

BRISTOL, April 23, 1880.

MY DEAR MR. CHAMBERS:—When I went to German Valley I found a people exceeding loyal in their affections to all my predecessors, but for Dr. Hutton there was a sentiment of tender love and devotion that was exceedingly marked and most remarkable. In the five years of my pastorate there I never heard an exception taken to anything which Mr. (they never learned to Dr. him) Hutton ever said or did; but I did hear almost every day his sayings and doings spoken of with praise, admiration and thankfulness. In himself there was one feeling of devoted love. He was of great use to that congregation. By his wisdom and zeal he engaged the people in the erection of a church building which, for that time, was a marvel of beauty. This he accomplished without difficulty, though there was a question of location which, at the outset, bid fair to tear the congregation into at least three pieces. He united them on the location by a scheme so fair that every one agreed to it when it was proposed, and abode by the result when that was declared. The result was a firmly united congregation, which, from that time to this, has had a history of which any congregation in the land might be proud. No pastor has ever been there who has not been glad of his residence there, for all his memories are of a people who have, to a rare degree, "highly honored him for his works' sake,"—and who have to their ability contributed to his comfort in every way' while they have sought to extend the influence of the church in all directions. And I have always given Dr. Hutton special credit for this. But for his wisdom, and living counsels at the crisis of that church's history, it must have had a very different record.

Yours very truly,

JAS. H. MASON KNOX.

After graduating at Pennsylvania College he spent one year in the Theological Seminary and finished his course of study preparatory to the ministry in the Seminary at Andover, Mass.; first ministerial work was in the Lutheran Church at Winchester, Va.; in 1843 succeeded Dr. Pohlman in the churches of New Germantown, German Valley and Spruce Run; in 1849 was called to the Lutheran Church at Schoharie, N. During this time he united with the Presbytery of New York, and was, during the remainder of his life, a minister of the Presbyterian Church. This transition was natural and easy as he was always more Calvinistic than Lutheran in his theological views, and without of such Catholic feelings as to make him indifferent to denominational bounds. He died in the comfort and hope of the gospel, Oct. 12, 1872, and was buried in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Philadelphia.

McCLENAGHAN, SAMUEL JOHN, was born March 17, 1862, in Lancaster Co., Pa. Youth and early manhood spent on his father's farm. He writes, "when it was decided that I should become a minister, I entered in 1881 the Collegiate Institute at York, Pa., and graduated with highest honors 1884. The same year I entered the Junior Class of Princeton College, graduating in June, 1886. For three years I studied theology in Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating in 1889. During my middle year in the seminary I was invited to supply for one Sunday the pulpit of the Pleasant Grove, N. J., congregation. For one year as supply and for two years as pastor I occupied this pulpit. During the year in which I supplied the church there was a gracious outpouring of God's spirit, resulting in many conversions. May 9th, 1889, I was ordained to the gospel ministry by the Presbytery of Morris and Orange. On the same day I was installed as pastor of Pleasant Grove Church. Dr. B. C. Magie, the former pastor, preached the sermon. Rev. T. F. Chambers, of German Valley, gave the charge to the pastor. Rev. W. W. Hallaway, Jr., of Dover, charged the people. For two years after installation I served this people as pastor. They were delightful years. Amongst this people friendships were made which the lapse of time cannot destroy, ties of fellowship were formed, which I hope will never be sundered. In July, 1891, the pastoral relations were dissolved at my request and I removed to East Orange, N. J., to take charge of the work at Elmwood Chapel. In this place God has blessed my labors as is evidenced by the large numbers who have given their hearts to Him. In June, 1889, I was married to Anna B. Marsh, daughter of ex-Senator Crowell Marsh, of Princeton, N. J. One daughter, Marguerite, has blessed this union."

SCOTT, JAMES, was born Sept. 27, 1809, at Glasgow, Scotland, in the house in which Mary Queen of Scotts took refuge after the battle of Langside. His father, John Scott, was educated for the ministry, but owing to ill health never preached. Soon after uniting with the church James was thrown upon his resources to com- plete his education. He commenced his classical studies at the University of Glasgow, where he remained three years and removing to the college at Belfast he graduated after a two years course with the honors of that institution. He mar- ried in Ireland and came to this country in 1832. Studied theology under the New York Presbytery ; was licensed by that body in 1834 to preach the gospel. He be- came pastor of Presbyterian Church of German Valley, N. J., where he labored with great acceptance for eight years.

He removed to Newark in 1843, when he became pastor of the First Reformed Dutch Church, which increased to nearly double its number under Dr. Scott. As a preacher Dr. Scott excelled in description. It was a good evidence of the estima- tion in which he was held, that when he preached upon a special subject his church was generally crowded. Everything he undertook, from writing a book to penning a notice, was a thing to be done with all his heart. He was careful to observe the little proprieties of life. He was scrupulously punctual to his engagements, and never in debt. He loved any employment in which he could be of service to others. Although mainly devoted to his pastoral charge, Dr. Scott found some time for literary pursuits. His life of Pollock, upon which he bestowed much labor, gave him a reputation beyond the place of his residence. He contributed an excellent article on Malachi to a splendid gift-book, edited by Dr. Wainwright, and published by the Appletons a few years since. He formerly wrote a number of fugitive pieces of poetry, which were published in some of the daily journals. He had latterly, however, devoted most of his spare time to writing an epic poem, which he had just completed at the time of his death. A few days before his death, he had said to a number of his family with whom he was conversing on the subject of his probable sudden decease: "If I am to die soon, there could not be a better time than now. My labors have been crowned with success, I have the affections of my people, and I should die amid the regards of the community." Dr. Abeel writes: "In the death of Dr. Scott, this community have sustained a loss that in some respects cannot be replaced. None can take his place in this city. He came to it at a time when it was but a village, its business just recovering from great depres- sion, and a new, young and enterprising population rushing in. Since then it has grown to its present size and prosperity."

SMITH, BAKER, was born in Princeton, Ill., Aug. 27, 1838. He was the second son of Elijah and Sylvia Smith, both of whom were natives of Conway, Mass., and eminent for christian piety. His early life and childhood was spent upon his father's farm. At fourteen he entered a printing office and served a four years' apprenticeship. At the age of fifteen he united with the Presbyterian Church, and on leaving the printing office, went to Andover, Mass., to study for the ministry, finishing his theological course in the Chicago Theological Seminary. During his vacation he was employed by the Vermont Domestic Missionary Society, being licensed by the Royalton Congregational Association, and afterwards ordained, having been called to the pastorate of the Congregational Church in Rochester, Vt. He remained in that position over three years, resigning to accept a chaplaincy in a hospital at Washington, tendered him by President Lincoln, and which he was afterwards obliged to decline, owing to sickness and death in his family. His next pastorate was in Massachusetts, removing from thence to the West, spending twelve years in Home Missionary work in Kansas. For several months he was unable to pursue any kind of labor, from nervous prostration brought on by overwork, and his physicians insisted that his life depended upon a change of climate; he returned to the east, and was soon invited to the temporary charge of the Presbyterian Church in Mount Freedom, removing to Lafayette in the spring of 1884, where he labored as pastor of the Presbyterian Church for three years and two months, when he resigned to accept the hearty call from the church in Sparta, where he remained four years and three months, resigning to accept a call from the Presbyterian Church in Flanders, commencing his labors with this church, Oct. 1, 1891, being installed pastor the 11th of December following. Had the title of D. D. conferred upon him by the College of Vermont in 1894. He has been deeply afflicted in the loss of his family, his first wife, who was Miss Cynthia Emma Barnard, of Vermont, dying of consumption, in Massachusetts. By her he had five children, only one of whom survives, and now resides in Newton. He afterwards married Mrs. Abbie Francis Tanner, of Rhode Island, who also died with consumption, soon after his removal to Sparta. In April, 1889, he married Miss Mary A. Decker, of Beemerville, who is an earnest church worker, and a thorough Bible student.

STEPHENS, GEORGE H., was installed Oct. 27, 1887, as pastor at Flanders, N. J., dismissed June 17, 1890; pastor at Berwick, Pa., 1890 —.

TRAVERS, CHESTER H., was born in Township of Clinton, Dutchess Co., New York, June 23, 1848; his ancestors were farmers, and among the Palatinates who came over in 1710 with Rev. Joshua Kochertal, who records that Johanna Niclaus Treber was known to have been a native and resident of Wollstein, Ober Ambt Crutznach, Germany. After leaving the public schools and spending two terms in DeGarmo Institute, he prepared for college at Hartwick Seminary, N. Y., and graduated from Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, the following year. His first charge was Chatham Village, during which time he married Ida E. Jones, of Gettysburg, but January, 1878, he removed to Spruce Run and remained until July, 1885; had four children, all still living; while there, he was co-editor with Revs. Henderson and Doolittle of the Philocrat, which they launched and is now known by the name of The Home Visitor, published at Flemington, N. J. Since July, 1885, he has been pastor of his ancestor's church, known as St. Peters Lutheran (Stone) Church, Rhinebeck, N. Y.

VANDER VOORT, JOHN C., born at Bound Brock, 1798; graduated at Queens College, 1818; graduated at New Brunswick Sem., 1819; lic. classis of New Brunswick, 1819; pastor at Presbyterian Church, German Valley and Fox Hill, 1819-26; Basking Ridge, 1826-34; Totowa. First, 1834-7; Kinderhook, 1837-42; Mellenville, 1842-45; New Paltz, 1845-48; Ghent, Second, 1848-51; died June 21, 1851. He was early brought into the church. His habits were eminently devotional, prayer seeming to be his element. In the social prayer meetings there was fervor, spirituality and unction, which were highly prized and edifying to those who were with him before the throne. He gave himself to his ministerial work with a steadiness of purpose and an active energy. In most, if not all of his charges, he enjoyed seasons of refreshing from the Lord. Love to the master and compassion the souls of men, were ruling affections of the heart. He aimed at delivering the whole counsel of God. In the delivery of his message, there was an earnestness and vigor which arrested attention. He contented not himself with merely illustrating truth, but carried his appeals to the conscience and the heart of his hearers, with a pungency and directness which pursued, and a tenderness which melted them. He was a wise, faithful and affectionate pastor. By both constitution and grace he was well fitted for sympathizing with others. He labored much to elevate the tone of piety of the people, and dreaded, as a pestilence, the form of godliness without the power. His last illness was protracted and painful, but he retained his power and exercised filial submission, and had not a doubt to cloud his prospects. See Funeral Sermon by Dr. Gosman.

VERMILYE, ROBERT GEORGE, was born in the city of New York on the 3d of March, 1813. His father was William W. Vermilye, of Huguenot ancestry. With thorough preparation Robert entered the sophomore class in Columbia College, New York, and was graduated at the commencement in 1831, maintaining one of the highest places in his class. His success as teacher in the College Grammar School was so satisfactory that in December, 1837, when twenty-four years of age, he was appointed Adjunct Professor with Dr. Anthon of the Greek and Latin languages in the college. All his spare time was given to the study of Hebrew under a Jewish Rabbi in the city, and to a systematic and extensive course of theological reading under the advice and suggestions of his pastor and clerical friends. He was licensed to preach in 1838. For a winter he supplied the pulpit of the Duane Street Presbyterian Church, where he had been brought up, and where was one of the most intelligent congregations in the city. He was ordained and installed pastor of the Presbyterian Church of German Valley, in July, 1843. From German Valley, after three years, Mr. Vermilye was called to a new, and in some respects, a difficult field of pastoral labor in the Congregational Church at Clinton, N. Y. His installation took place June 10, 1846. In 1851, when thirty-six years old, he received the honorary degree of D. D. from Columbia College. He was forty-four years of age when he was elected prof. of theol., Hartford, Conn. His voice was full, harmonious and flexible; his sermons logical and well considered, possibly lacking somewhat in the imaginative quality, yet often pathetic and tender, for he could awaken strong emotion and draw tears; they were well written and in a high degree, instructive and edifying to an intelligent audience, and for manner, delivered with ease and unction, at times with impassioned earnestness and power. He died in June, 1873. (See Memorial Discourse by Rev. Thomas Vermilye, D. D., brother of Dr. Robert G.)

APPENDIX III.

MOUNT OLIVE CHURCHES.

MOUNT OLIVE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

MOUNT OLIVE CHURCH is really a daughter of the Chester Presbyterian. Its history therefore properly follows that of the latter. The following is in substance the historical address delivered by Rev. David James on the 6th of January, 1884.

There are two family names which are closely connected with the original settlement of this place: Richard Stephens and Captain Peter Salmon, and most of the residents here, who bear these names, are the descendants of these families.

RICHARD STEPHENS was of English descent. He was a millwright, and married the daughter of Daniel Landon, of Hackettstown. It is claimed that Daniel Landon was among the first settlers in Hackettstown valley, that he cleared the land and built a mill on the Musconetcong, near the bridge which crosses the stream where the brick mill now stands. He had a daughter named Dolly, and the tradition is that he employed Richard Stephens to assist him in the erection of his mill, when they formed an acquaintance. Be this as it may, Richard Stephens and Dolly Landon were married on the 18th of February, 1762, 121 years ago, and removed to this place and lived in a log house which stood about half a mile from this church, midway down the lane nearly opposite the old Baptist parsonage, now called the old house field. They were the parents of nine children, the order of their names being as follows: Samuel, Dorothy, Mary, Mercy, Daniel, Priscilla, Richard, Jr., Joshua and Ebenezer.

CAPTAIN PETER SALMON came from Long Island, N. Y., married a Miss Stark and settled upon the hill above Flanders. He was an extensive land owner, having in his possession the tract of land now covered by several farms, upon which Joshua Salmon, John Drake's family, William Tharp, Nelson Caskey, George Salmon and others now reside. Captain Salmon was the father of three sons and four daughters, William, Aaron, Peter, Jr., Elisabeth, Sarah Ann and Margaret. Nothing could be more natural, in so sparsely a settled community, than for Capt. Salmon's sons and daughters to become acquainted with the young family of Richard Stephens living only about one mile west of them.

Peter Salmon, Jr., married Priscilla Stephens, the sixth child of Richard. She was born in 1774 and died on Sabbath, February 16th. 1862, in her 87th year. I recall one story she used to relate with delight. When she was about four years old her father, Richard Stephens, entered the army of Washington, then quartered at Morristown. He left his wife and seven little children in that log house, and joined the troops. One morning, it must have been in the winter of 1779, her mother was standing on the stone step in front of the house, when she heard the dying echoes of the roar of a cannon over the hills. The tears dropped from her eyes and as she wiped them away with her apron, the little children came about her and inquired why she was crying. She replied, "your father will never come home again," supposing that he would fall in the battle. But he did return alive and well, and lived many years to enjoy the blessings of that liberty which he fought to obtain.

Some time before the American Revolution a number of settlers around Mount Olive, belonging to different denominations, and not able to maintain separate pastors, united in building a log church on the corner where the Baptist church has been erected. James Heaton and wife deeded land to Jacob Corsart, Richard Stephens and Job Corsart, as the trustees, for the use of four denominations, namely: Anabaptists, the Church of England, the Congregationalists and Presbyterian. "To build meeting-houses and school-houses and to bury their dead and for nothing else."

This deed bears date March 15th, 1768. These families continued to worship together for about forty years or until 1808, when an effort was made to build a new and better place of worship on the same place where the log church stood. The subscription is dated April 1st, 1808. "The subscribers being desirous to build a new meeting-house in Roxbury where the log meeting-house now stands, do promise to pay the sums annexed to our names to any person or persons that shall be duly appointed to superintend the building of said house." This second church was raised in 1809, but after it was inclosed it remained unfinished until the 25th of April, 1818.

The church was held in union by the Baptist and Presbyterian denominations until 1853, when the relation was mutually dissolved, and the Presbyterian congregation erected this house, and the Baptists soon after built their house, which is the third church on the same ground.

Among the first ministers who preached in the log house for the

was the REV. MR. REUNE RUNION, who served some of the time during the Revolutionary war. It is related of him that on a certain Sabbath, in the winter of 1777, there was a meeting in the log church, when he preached, being favorably disposed toward the British, and as they had been successful in most of the recent battles, he took occasion in his prayer to thank the Lord that the Americans had been overcome and that an end of the war would soon follow. This was very pleasing to those who agreed with him, but very displeasing to many who did not. During the intermission (for it was the custom then to have an intermission of forty or fifty minutes, and then a second service), those who favored the sentiment expressed in the prayer were rejoicing over it, when Dolly Stephens, the wife of Richard, who was in the army, remarked, "there is great rejoicing among the Tories to-day, but I trust in the Lord, that their tune will be turned before this day week." And true it was, for that week the battle of Princeton was fought, Jan. 3, 1777, and the British were routed.

After Mr. Runion the REV. DAVID JAYNE served the church for a time. He was a shoemaker, and like Paul, worked with his own hands, and proved his own work. It was the usage of the families, in that time, to purchase their own materials, and employ a shoemaker to come to their homes and manufacture what was necessary for the family. Mr. Jayne was a workman that needed not be ashamed for he was careful that the saints should be shod from the soles of their feet to the soles of their bodies, "with the preparation of the gospel of peace." He was the father of Dr. David Jayne, the patent medicine proprietor, who was once a school boy and attended in the log house with many of your fathers. After Mr. Jayne, other pastors followed whose records I have not been able to obtain.

The first Presbyterian minister who is known to have preached for any continuous time in the log church, was the REV. LEMUEL FORDHAM, who came from Long Island about 1785, and was pastor of Black River church or Chester Hill. About once a month he would come and minister to this outpost of his flock. As before related, the second church building commenced in 1809, was not finished until 1818; during this period of nine years, the minister preached from the carpenter's work bench. Mr. Fordham's last sermon, preached about 1815, from this bench, was a review of former years and is reported to have been three hours long.

During the time when the church remained unfinished, Mr. Daniel Stephens housed his sleigh in the building through the summer, and I have heard his son, William Stephens, the Elder, say, that when a boy, he was accustomed to sit in the sleigh during service, and that he had heard many sermons from that pew.

Mr. Fordham was succeeded by REV. MR. MILLER, and he by REV. ABRAHAM WILLIAMSON. During the early part of Mr. Williamson's ministry, the mountain was more densely wooded than it is at present, and black bears were often seen.

Here it may be remarked that the house of Colonel John Budd and those who have descended from it, have always welcomed the ministers of the gospel. Col. John Budd married Miss Dickinson, of Chester, and settled on the Lake in 1785, to which he gave the name of Budd's Lake, and his descendants have continued in the homestead until now his grandsons, G. S. and A. D. Budd occupied the land.

The Presbyterian families residing on this mountain were connected with the Black River or Hill church. That was the first Presbyterian church in this region and the Rev. Mr. Harker was the first minister, who came about 1752. The house was erected on a lot now occupied as the Pleasant Hill cemetery. At that time and for nearly sixty-four years the communion was celebrated there. It was also the place of stated worship for all the Presbyterians in the vicinity.

Mt. Olive was an outpost for services once or twice a month until 1857, when the families had increased to such an extent as to petition for an organization. The members assembled in the old frame building (the second erected) on the 8th of September, 1834, fifty years ago the 8th of next September, when you should celebrate your semi-centennial. The following is the Presbyterian record:

At a meeting held according to previous notice for the purpose of organizing a church, the following persons presented certificates of dismission from the church of Chester and expressed their desire to be organized into a separate church, to be called the Presbyterian Church of Mount Olive:

Skinner, Elizabeth Fancher, Lydia Wolfe, Ann Kinnan, Dorothy Salmon, Julia A. Budd, Sarah Salmon, Elizabeth Salmon, Hannah Stephens, Caroline Salmon, Mary Dickerson, Hannah Rightmire, Sarah Kinnan, Rachel Caskey.

These forty-seven members were duly organized, and were the original members of this church. The following persons were the same day chosen Ruling Elders: William Stephens, John VanDyke, Archer Stephens, Augustus Wolfe, Abraham D. Budd, Aaron Salmon, Jr., and John Salmon.

Elders. "Mr. Aaron Salmon died Friday, April 4th, 1851, for nearly seventeen years a Ruling Elder in this church. He was a man of deep and ardent piety. Nor was his warmth of feeling momentary and impulsive, but regular and constant, resulting chiefly from inward contemplation of himself as a sinner, in the sight of God, and having found favor of him through the merits of a crucified Redeemer. To him the sinner out of Christ was in the same pitiable condition that he himself once was, and consequently, the subject of his daily prayers. None felt more anxious for the outpouring of God's spirit on the hearts of the careless and impenitent than he did, and none rejoiced more when such a gracious work took place, either in his own neighborhood or elsewhere. The immortal interests of his soul he made paramount to all others; for this he labored and prayed."—New York Observer.

Elder John VanDyke died June 19th, 1862. He was a faithful, unassuming and consistent christian man.

Elder William Stephens died suddenly, March 1st, 1865. Universally esteemed as an upright, honorable man. A man of few words but prompt actions. A judicious leader in this community and a pillar in the church. Twice he has been honored with a seat in the New Jersey Legislature, and twice with a commission to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, and being dead yet speaketh.

Elder Abraham D. Budd, died the 31st of July, 1867. A man of cheerful disposition and very friendly to the ministers of Christ.

In 1849 this church dissolved its relations with the Hill congregation and called the who remained its pastor until 1853, when he removed to Illinois, where he now resides in the town of Quincy. During that period when the church was without a pastor from April, 1853, until December, 1854, the present edifice was erected. It was finished December 28th, 1853, and dedicated on the 29th of the same month. The dedication services were opened by the Rev. Williamson, who presided. The Rev. G. Vanarsdale, of German Valley, offered the dedicatory prayer, and the Rev. Dr. H. N. Wilson, of Hackettstown, preached the sermon from 1st Chronicles, 29th chapter and 16th verse.

REV. DAVID M. JAMES.

That Thursday, the 29th of December, 1853, was a bitter cold day. These hills and valleys were clothed in their winter robes and the fierce winds drifted the snow in every direction. On Sabbath, January 1, 1854, your fathers assembled in this house to hold the first service after its dedication, and I preached the first sermon. When I was ordained on Wednesday, October 4, 1854, Rev. Robert Street preached the sermon, Rev. J. H. Townley gave the charge to the pastor and Rev. W. H. Hornblower to the people.

On the 18th of February, 1852, a committee of Elizabethtown Presbytery met in Flanders and organized the Presbyterian Church of that place.

The Rev. J. N. Husted became the first pastor, 1853, was ordained on the 30th of June in the same year, and dismissed April 18th, 1855. After his removal supplied the pulpit until Jan., 1856, when the two churches, Mt Olive and Flanders, became united under one pastor. This relation continued for ten years and eight months, from January 1, 1856, until October 6, 1867. In reviewing the early part of our own labors in this united field, many things claim special attention, and not the least among them was the great revival of religion in the winter of 1858. It was indeed a pentecostal season. An account of it was published in the Philadelphia Presbyterian at the time, as follows:

REV. JONAS DENTON

REVIVAL AT BUDD'S LAKE AND FLANDERS.

About the close of December last, a seriousness concerning religion seemed to pervade the minds of many in these congregations, some of whom were not members of the church. This feeling was deepened, perhaps, by the providence of God, which had recently and suddenly removed from our midst several persons by death.

A series of religious services were commenced on the 1st of January. The Pastoral Letter prepared by the Convention which assembled at Pittsburg, and published in the Presbyterian, was read from the pulpit; a day of fasting and prayer was observed, and it was evident very soon that these means were blessed. The contents of the letter seemed to excite the minds of many christians to a sense of their duty. Religion became almost the only subject of concern. The churches were generally full, and the people appeared to attend to the preaching of the word as they had not attended before. Part of the time alternate services were held in the two churches, in which we were assisted by the Rev. Messrs. Barrett, of Newton, Prof. Crossett, of Ferrimonte Institute, and Stoutenburg, of Chester, whose labors were greatly blessed.

After the regular services in the evening, meetings for the anxious were held in the churches, at which about seventy persons attended, in almost every stage of life. In one or two instances a whole family remained. There were also nine husbands with their wives. I have never before witnessed such scenes as it has been my pleasure to behold here in the sanctuary of God.

As a result of this work of grace, sixty-two have united with the church—thirty-nine with Mount Olive, at Budd's Lake, and twenty-one with Flanders, and two with a sister church. Among those who united with us were six husbands with their wives; thirteen others were heads of families, making twenty-six heads of families. The remainder were mostly young.

The most of the number came from the Sabbath-school and Bible-class. In one of our schools four entire classes of scholars and three teachers, we trust, have been hopefully converted.

I continued the pastor of this church from October 4, 1854, until Tuesday, the 23d day of June, 1869.

Mr. James was followed by REV. ROBERT S. FEAGLES, who supplied the church for one year. The REV. WM. BELDEN supplied for a time, and the REV. J. S. EVANS was stated supply for one year.

REV. CHALMERS D. CHAPMAN

then became the pastor of the church, and was ordained and installed on the 3d of October, 1872. He remained until April, 1875. He was succeeded by the

who was stated supply for the period of six years from May, 1872-1881.

REV. JOHN H. SOOFIELD,

the present pastor, followed him in 1884.

The elders at present are as follows: Richard P. Stephens, Robert D. Caskey, Ira B. Stevens, A. Lynden Salmon.

During 1870 and 1871 the church was thoroughly repaired. The basement on right side was made serviceable for Sabbath school, and other improvements made at a cost of $1,500.

In 1870 a union chapel was built at Budd's Lake at a cost of $3,500, with a debt upon it of $1,000. It was at first a union building, and is such still, though the ownership of it has come into the hands of the Presbyterians.

THE MOUNT OLIVE BAPTIST CHURCH.

This church was constituted in 1753, with about twelve members. One of these was Samuel Heaton, who came from Wrentham, Mass., to engage in the iron business. The first house of worship was a union log church. The second, also union, was built in 1810. In 1854 a new house was built by the Baptists alone. It was dedicated February 27, 1856. It was repaired and improved in 1870 at a cost of $1,300. In 1874 a new parsonage was built. Until 1786 this church was a branch of the Morristown Baptist Church. It was organized as a separate congregation 18th November, 1786. The ministers present upon that occasion were REUNE RUNYON, ABNER SUTTON and DAVID JAYNE.

There are no records of the members or the ministers until June, 1832. The ministers of Morristown probably preached here. In May, 1790, REV. MR. VAUGHN was requested to continue preaching during the ensuing year, one Sabbath in four. In 1794 ELDER ISAAC PRICE was asked to preach every other Sabbath, and he continued to do so in 1797. From this time, until 1832, there was occasional preaching. Samuel Cosad expounded the word, although not ordained, and Elders Jaynes, Sydam, Ball and others preached occasionally and administered the ordinances. In June, 1832, ELDER MICHAEL QUINN was appointed missionary for this field by the New Jersey Baptist State Convention, and on June 30th it was recorded that the church had been reorganized and a covenant adopted by thirteen persons. ELDER QUINN was occupied in this field two years, and baptised twenty-two persons, one of whom, Joseph Perry, became the esteemed pastor of the Mariners' Church at Philadelphia, Pa.

In November, 1833, Elder John Teasdale, of Lafayette, N. J., and Elder Timothy Jackson, of Wantage, preached and held protracted meetings for several weeks, and a new impulse was given to the church.

In February, 1834, REV. JOHN TEASDALE took charge, preaching once in four weeks, and baptised thirty-two persons. Elias Frost, a licentiate, labored with him. January 1, 1835, REV. C. C. PARK labored here half his time for two years. JOHN M. CARPENTER, a licentiate from Mount Salem Church, took charge and was ordained September 2, 1837. He continued two years and baptised eight persons.

REV. T. C. TEASDALE, of Newton, preached once a month during 1839, and baptised ten people. REV. THOMAS RITCHEY took charge April 1, 1840, remained two years, and baptised four converts. During his pastorate SAMUEL COSAD died, and left by will two farms to the church, one of eighty acres with good buildings for a parsonage, and another, the income of which should be divided, so that one-third went to the American Bible Society and the remainder to the support of the church. In case the church should die then a missionary was to be maintained in this field until another Baptist church was organized.

In 1842 JOHN TEASDALE again became pastor, which he continued to be for nine years, baptising eighty-six persons, of whom the REV. ASAHIEL BRONSON, who became his successor, was one. The latter remained a year and a half.

In July, 1853, REV. T. F. CLANCY was chosen pastor and remained nine years. He baptised fifty-three persons.

Previous to 1854 the Baptist and Presbyterian congregations had used the same church building. This arrangement had been unsatisfactory to both parties, and finally in 1854, after twelve years of discussion, not altogether of a friendly character, it was agreed that the old house be sold and removed and the proceeds divided. The society erected a new stone building, which was dedicated February 27, 1856. Mr. Clancy resigned in March, 1863, and removed to Elk Lake, Pa.

REV. H. B. SHERMER in May 1, 1863, began to supply the church, and in the fall of the same year accepted the pastorate, in which he continued for six years, or until his death on March 22, 1869. He baptised twelve, and Rev. H. C. Putnam, who supplied the church a short time, gathered in fifteen more. During the last pastorate the parsonage farm was rented and another parsonage with a lot of two acres was purchased and used for ten years.

REV. GEORGE F. HENDRICKSON became the pastor in October, 1869, remained three years and six months and baptised 29 persons. He, like Mr. Clancy, lost his wife while pastor of this church. He resigned April 1st, 1873, and removed to Fairview, N. J.

REV. J. G. ENTREKEN was called October 1, 1873, remained one year, and added seventeen members to the church.

During 1874 a new parsonage was built. In the same year the church dismissed twenty-eight members to form a new church at Drakesville.

REV. SAMUEL SPOUL was called January 1, 1875, and remained until his death, on July 25th, 1880, at sixty-eight years of age. He was a man of ability and was much beloved. He added eleven to the church.

REV. M. M. FOGG was called April 1, 1881.

The REV. THOMAS C. YOUNGS followed Mr. Fogg and REV. SAMUEL COX came next. The pastor now serving the church is the REV. J. F. WATSON.

The church officers were: John B. Stephens, George L. Salmon, D. H. Wolfe, deacons: John B. Stephens, William Wolfe and Calvin B. Conklin, trustees. The membership was 110.

In 1894 the following are church officers: C. S. King, William R. McPeake, R. H. Stephens, A. S. Hulse.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

THE TRACT OF LAND upon which the village of Flanders is built was returned on October 27, 1714, to John Budd, who on June 22, 1739, conveyed the whole tract of 1,000 acres to William Allen, of Philadelphia, who on December 1, 1770, conveyed 562 acres of the original tract to Jabish Heaton, and by whose son, Joseph Heaton, Jr., and wife, was conveyed by deed bearing date October 3, 1789, to William McCulloch and William Crevelling, of Mansfield; Levi Howell and John Axford, of Oxford; Daniel Hunt, of Hardwick; Joseph Swayze, of Knowlton township, Sussex county; Jabish Heaton, of Roxbury township, Morris county; Nicholas Egbert, of Reading, Hunterdon county; and William Wallen, of Somerset county, all of the State of New Jersey, chosen and appointed to be trustees to act in behalf of the Society called "Methodist." Beginning at a stake and stones for a corner near said Jabish Heaton's mill race, and runs thence (1) north 52, west 2.25 along the road leading from said Heaton's saw mill to William Bell's grist mill. (2) south 38, west 2.25. (3) south 52, east 2.25 to a corner near said mill race. (4) north 38, east 2.25 to place of beginning, containing .5 and .625 of an acre. The above described land being the same lot of land as is now used as a burying ground by the Methodist congregation, and upon which their church edifice now stands. It will be noticed that at that early date there were two grist mills and one saw mill in the village, and that Heaton and Bell were early settlers, as were also the families of Ayers, Nicholas, William Monroe, Israel Rickey, John Reece, John Reading, Col. Stark and Lewis Cary, from 1770, the date of purchase by Heaton to 1790 the last of his sales.

Flanders is one of the very oldest fortresses of Methodism in the eastern part of the State. It was about the year 1783 that the Methodist itinerants began to sound the trump of the gospel here. The first Methodist that is known to have dwelt here was a lady. Her name was Mary Bell. She was born in the city of New York, October 25, 1753, and was awakened under the ministry of Joseph Pillmore, sought and obtained pardoning and renewing grace, and united with the Methodist society. In the commencement of the war of the Revolution she suffered many hardships, and was finally pillaged of her property by the soldiers, and to secure the safety of her person she was obliged to flee from the city, when she sought a refuge amid the tranquil, yet inspiring scenes of the quiet valley of Flanders.

One of the important characters in the early Methodism of Flanders was David Moore, the leader of its first class. He was born at Morristown, N. J., November 25, 1749. At an early age he was bereft of his father, but being placed in a pious family, he was early taught the fear of the Lord. When about nineteen years of age he experienced religion and joined the Presbyterian Church. He lived in the fellowship of that church, an acceptable member, about fifteen years. He resided in Flanders when the Methodist preachers first visited the place. He opened his doors for preachers and they continued to preach there once in two weeks for several years. A society was formed, with which he united, and he was appointed the leader. It is not known with certainty in what year the meeting house was built, but it was some years before the close of the last century, and was certainly not later than 1793, and, possibly as early as 1785. It was in all probability the first Methodist church erected in East Jersey. For many years it remained in an unfinished condition, without walls or doors, no backs to the seats, nor carpets on its floors, nor stoves by which the wild and cold winter winds could be tamed, and the atmosphere made less uncomfortable to the Lord's people.

But Methodism is nothing if not progressive. The history, therefore, of this church, as of all the Methodist churches in the early years of their history, was of continual growth in numbers and efficiency. Difficulties were overcome, criticism conciliated, enmity removed, until now all these once struggling organizations are strong and vigorous.

Among the records of 1845 of the church, we find the names of many persons who were known for their devotion to God, and their untiring zeal for His cause, and the influence of whose lives was felt. We find that Aaron D. Stark and Samuel Woodruff were not only the class leaders of the Society of Methodists at this time, but were also men who had a deep interest in all the affairs of the church. Those who constituted the membership at that time: Aaron D. Stark, class leader; Samuel Woodruff, assistant leader; Nancy Stark, Mary Woodruff, Jacob B. Miller, Samuel Douglas, Joseph K. Chipps, Elizabeth Chipps, Robert S. Woodruff, Abigail McDougal, Phoebe Douglas, William Monroe, Elizabeth Monroe, Richard Howell, Elizabeth Howell, Julia A. Woodruff, Mary Osborn, Ann Carey, Charity Hart, Ann Drake, Elizabeth Briggs, Jane Kinny, Nancy Force, William Trimmer, Samuel Huff, William Clouse, Melinda Clouse, Sarah Corwin, Mary Landing, David H. Osborn, Elizabeth Riger, Julia Ann Trimmer, Aaron Clark, Nathan Burnett, Clarissa Burnett, Henry Johnson, Sarah Johnson, Phoebe A. Arch, Adaline Arnet.

In 1854-55, REV. JOHN S. COIT was stationed at Flanders. During his pastorate he worked hard to direct and influence the people to build a new church, which was greatly needed, and he finally secured a subscription of $200, with a subsequent $600 which he raised, making a total of $800 toward building a new church. REV. J. B. HEWARD succeeded Rev. Mr. Coit in 1855. He soon discovered that the important deed of the hour was a new church and began pleading and working for the noble object as did his worthy predecessor, when through his skillful management and untiring labors, and the indefatigable efforts of Rev. Manning Force and his noble and devoted wife, the old church was substituted by a new and beautiful house of worship with a spire and bell, which is an ornament to the village and a credit to Flanders Methodists, at a cost of over three thousand dollars. REV. J. B.

REV. DANIEL FOX.

REV. G. H. PERRY DEVO.

Heward soon began a special revival service, which resulted in a most blessed work of grace. The meetings were continued for eleven weeks resulting in the conversion of seventy persons. During the present pastorate over one hundred persons have united with the church, the pastor's salary advanced over $200, the church beautifully carpeted, the parsonage refurnished and other improvements made. A Mission League Society and an Epworth League have been organized. Budd's Lake now constitutes a part of the charge, at which place there is a flourishing union Sunday school and a weekly prayer meeting, which has proved a blessing among the people. At Drakestown, where the pastor preaches every Sunday afternoon, we have a commodious church, a growing Sunday school, an interesting and large congregation. During the present year they have put new cushions into their church, which has added very much to the comfort of the people.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

In 1889 the church decided to celebrate the Centennial anniversary of its history. A week was devoted to the services of the celebration.

Thursday evening, October 3d, 1889, the first anniversary exercises began at 7:30, Rev. John F. Scofield, pastor Mt. Olive Presbyterian Church, announced the hymn, "Here in Thy name we are gathered," etc., Rev. D. E. Frambes lead in prayer, after which the pastor made a few remarks. The preacher of the evening was Rev. S. K. Doolittle, a former pastor, who took for his text, 22 Psalm, fourth verse, "Our fathers trusted in Thee, they trusted and Thou did'st deliver them," from which he delivered a well prepared and instructive sermon, to the great pleasure and edification of those present. Rev. J. B. Heward read the hymn. The Rev. Geo. H. Stephens, pastor of the Flanders Presbyterian Church, then offered an appropriate prayer.

October 4th, special prayer meeting preceded the regular service conducted by the pastor, after which Rev. S. K. Doolittle announced the hymn, Rev. Mr. Cox, of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church lead in prayer, after which a former pastor, Rev. J. B. Heward, of the New Jersey Conference was introduced, and said his relation to the people of Flanders was very pleasant, and among other things said that while the Methodist Church was in course of erection, the members of the Presbyterian Church very kindly invited him to preach in their pulpit until his church was finished. The speaker then announced for his text Matt. XVI, 18-19, "And I say also unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," etc., from which he preached a most excellent sermon.

The centennial Sabbath, October 6th, 1889, was a great day in the history of Methodism in Flanders. The committee on decorating the church had been actively engaged in collecting flowers, evergreens, fruits, etc., and arranging the same in an artistic manner. Rev. C. S. Coit, ex-Presiding Elder of this District, very kindly consented to conduct the Love-feast by asking Rev. J. B. Heward to offer prayer. The meeting was attended with great spiritual power. The people's hearts seemed to have caught the old-time fire. The regular morning service began by the pastor announcing the Centennial hymn written by Rev. John F. Dodd, Sec. tary of the Newark Conference. Rev. C. S. Coit offered the opening prayer, Rev. Dr. Crane, of Stanhope, N. J., read the Scripture. The preacher was Rev. C. R. Crooks, D. D. L. L. D., of Drew Theological Seminary, who preached a very scholarly discourse from the 5th Psalm 7th verse. At 3 P. M. the service was opened by singing, after which Rev. J. B. Heward lead in prayer, and Rev. C. S. Coit read the Scripture lesson. Rev. Dr. C. Larew was then introduced, and took for his text 2d Peter, 2-5 verses, from which he preached a sermon of great power and beauty. At 6:30 P. M. a Song and Praise service was conducted by students from the Hackettstown Seminary. The inclemency of the weather kept a number from attending the regular evening service, although there was a fair audience. Rev. C. S. Coit preached a practical sermon from "Christ feeding the multitude."

Monday evening, October 7th. A large congregation again assembled to hear addresses from former pastors, Rev. Geo. T. Jackson and Rev. W. C. Nelson were the speakers of the evening. Their addresses were listened to with marked attention, and were made profitable to their hearers.

Tuesday, October 8th, 1889, was another great day in the history of Flanders Methodism, and for the cause of Temperance. The weather was propitious and the audience large. Addresses were delivered by Rev. F. Bloom, of Dover, N. J., Rev. Mr. Cox, of Mt. Olive, N. J., and Rev. S. D. Decker, of High Bridge, N. J. In the afternoon at 2:30 after the devotional exercises, Mrs. Hammer, of Newark, N. J., was introduced and made a thrilling address on the cause of intemperance. Rev. Wm. E. Blakeslee, of Dover, N. J., was the next speaker. He was followed by Rev. B. C. Magie, D. D., Supt. of Morris County public schools, who in his happy and instructive manner spoke to the great delight of all present.

Tuesday evening, October 8th. At 7 P. M. a reunion service of former pastors was held. Rev. S. P. Hammond, Presiding Elder of the Paterson District, presided. The following named ministerial brethren delivered short addresses of a deeply interesting character, Revs. J. B. Heward, Wm. C. Nelson, D. E. Frambes, Geo. T. Jackson, William C. McCain.

had a residence in Flanders and was one of the widest known and most influential of all the Methodist preachers, who served this church. For more than fifty years he lived and labored in this part of New Jersey, helping to build churches, strengthening weak organizations and sowing the seed of the Word with untiring zeal and the skill of a workman that needeth not to be ashamed. He was born 1789 and began his ministry in 1811. From that time till 1815 he labored on the Dover circuit and in the city of Philadelphia. His appointments after that were in the region of Trenton, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Jersey City and other places of equal importance. He died in February, 1862.

WILLIAM STOUT

is the present pastor. He was born in Jutland, Hunterdon Co., N. J., Nov. 9, 1836; was educated at Charlottesville Seminary, N. Y.; received his theological education at the Alpha Chapter of the Boston University, from which he graduated in 1863. He joined the Main Conference in the same year; was transferred to the Newark Conference in 1870; his charges have been at Rockland Lake on the Hudson; at Palisades, Andersontown and Mt. Lebanon, Bloomingdale, Sparta, Hainesville and Flanders, in which last place he has been for nearly five years; married in Maine Lucretia F. Robinson, by whom four children, Frank R., George S. Edward W. and Mabel L.

FLANDERS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

was organized February 13, 1852, by the Presbytery of Elizabeth. Rev. Dr. Ogden, of Chatham preached in the M. E. Church and the organization was effected with twenty-seven members. The elders chosen were Samuel White, William Bartley D. A. Nicholas. The families composing this church were largely from the church of Chester, and the preaching during the first year was mainly by the minister of that church.

REV. JOHN N. HUSTED was installed pastor June 30, 1853. He was released April 18, 1855.

REV. DAVID M. JAMES was installed June 10, 1856, and remained until Oct. 2, 1867. Rev. Martin F. Hollister supplied the church during part of the year 1868, as did also Rev. Mr. Denton and Rev. Myron Barrett for a time.

REV. DANIEL W. FOX was installed June 15, 1870, and remained until June 9, 1884. The church, built in 1853, 30x50 feet, cost $3,000. It was repaired and improved at the cost of $800. The church was burned by a fire which started from a defective flue, on the 29th of March, 1880. It was immediately rebuilt at a cost of $5,000, and it was dedicated June 19, 1890. It is now one of the most convenient and spacious of church buildings in the county.

REV. THORNTON A. MILLS, the brother of Rev. B. Fay Mills, the well-known evangelist, and possessing a very considerable degree of his brother's practical efficiency and fervor, was installed June 3, 1885, and resigned June 20, 1887, to remove to Providence, R. I. From there he removed to Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he is now laboring.

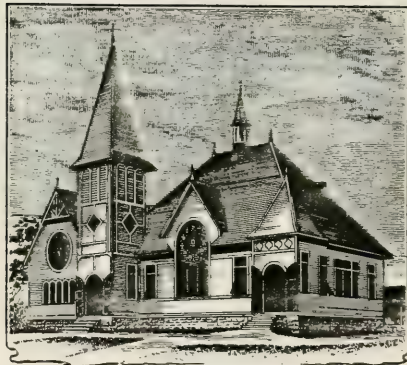

THE REV. GEORGE H. STEPHENS, the next pastor, was of a somewhat different type of character, but equally earnest and successful. He was installed Oct. 27, 1887, and resigned June 17, 1890, to accept the call to Berwick, Pa., where the Rev. Mr. Gibson had been laboring for six months.

THE REV. BAKER SMITH, of Sparta, N. J., was installed on the 11th of November, 1891, and is now maintaining, at a high degree of efficiency, the various forms of associated activity, in which this church has an honorable preeminence.

Flanders and Mount Olive were united into one parish during the ministry of the Rev. David James, from 1856-1867. The Elders now in office are DAVID NICHOLAS, HEZEKIAH R. HOPKINS and WILLIAM BARTLEY.

It should have been stated that the above account of the Mount Olive Presbyterian Church, is from the historical discourse of Rev. David M. James, delivered in 1784, and that of the Methodist Church of Flanders is partly from Rev. Mr. Bice's centennial pamphlet.

APPENDIX V.

THE "OLD STRAW"—SPRUCE RUN—CLARKSVILLE.

"Old Straw" Church is the more common name of St. James Lutheran Church, in Still Valley, near Philipsburg, N. J. It probably dates back to 1760, if not to 1733. It is spoken of in the Hallesche Nachrichten as the "Church in Greenwich."

The church near Easton, with which the Greenwich was for a long time united, was a preaching station as early as 1733, when several baptisms were performed. It may therefore be the case that Lutherans were to be found east of the river and near the Forks of the Delaware at an equally early date. In 1760 letters were sent from Lutherans in Greenwich township asking for preaching of the gospel. About this time, 1762, the congregation on the Old Philadelphia road south of Easton abandoned its place of worship and removed to Easton, where, in connection with that congregation, they bought a large house for £400 ($1,066), to serve both for a church and a parsonage, and they earnestly entreated the Ministerium to obtain a pastor for them. Thus the two congregations, on opposite sides of the river, were vacant at the same time.

REV. J. PETER G. MUHLENBERG is said to have preached for the Greenwich people from 1769-1773. This would be therefore while he was acting as assistant pastor to his father for the Raritan churches. During the same period the Easton church was served by the REV. CHRISTIAN STREIT, who began his ministry in Easton, 1769, and in Greenwich, 1773, ending it in Easton in 1779 and in Greenwich in 1777. The successive pastors after this date in the latter place were Mr. Brass, 1777-81; John Frederick Ernst, 1781-92; John C. Yeager, 1792; Christian Enders, or Endress, 1801-15; John P. Hecht, 1815-37; Daniel Miller, 1837-47; J. McCron, 1847-51; J. K. Plitt, 1851-65; M. H. Richards, 1865-68; S. Henry, 1868; the present (1894) being Rev. T. C. Pritchard.

In 1837 the Greenwich people separated from the Easton people and maintained their own preacher.

was constructed of logs, about 30x40, and was thatched with straw. Hence the name by which this church is still spoken of as the "Straw Church." This church was erected before 1762, as we may learn from the following record in John Rockwell's field book, now in the possession of Mr. E. Y. Taylor, of Philadelphia:

"May 27th, 1762, then I surveyed a lot in Philipsburg, whereon is a Lutheran church and burying ground * * * * Made a draught of the same, and present the same to Mr. Wm. Cox, that he may convey one acre for the use of the church to Matthias Sager, Frederick Dick, Martin Durshiner, Peter Morgan and Daniel Sharer."

The second edifice was erected in 1790, and was 40x50 feet in dimensions, and was built of stone. The third and present building was erected in 1834.

The following names were signed to the articles of faith and order in 1772. Those written in German are marked with an asterisk (*):

Christian Strecht, preacher; Johann Ludwig, schoolmaster*; Mathias Shipman, Andrew Malik, Valentine Beutelman, Godfried Klein, Christopher Enslee, Simon Hiebler, Godfried Klein, Jr., Jacob Langer, Georg Wilhelm Hauck, Jolen Hendershot, Michael Dieberich*, Philip Vashbinder, Georg* [undecipherable], Ludwig Klein, Andre Sheep, Adam Swigard, John Roseberger, Jacob Malick, Peter Foll, Thomas Fein, Friedrich* [undecipherable], Henry Melick, Jacob Shipman, Sr.; Bernard Andreas, Christopher* [undecipherable], Heinrich Schafer*, Andre Malick, Zacharis Hibler, Frederick Pirkala, Peter Fite, Balthaser Damer, Philip Fein, Jacob Hultzheiser, Johannes Klein*, Johann George Heinroth, Philip Klein, Jr.*, Christopher Hulshiser, Christian Klein, Jacob Shipman, Jr., Hanray Brakbely, Georg [undecipherable], Jacob Kline, Peter Schaults, John Moore, John Tomer, John Fight, John Summers, Jacob Crouse, Abraham Coursen, William Girton, Jacob Sharps, Georg Mutschler, Valentine Mutschler, John Fine, Mathias Shipman, Valenta Mutchler, Isac Shipman, Abraham Bidleman, Matthias Stein, Christopher Sharfstein, Balsar Tomer.

The earlier history of the

which may belong also to Philipsburg, begins (after the occasional service in 1733) when Easton was laid out as a city in 1737-38. In 1740 there were already two congregations, one, "The Lutheran Congregation at the Delaware River," the other "The Congregation of the Augsburg Confession in Saucon, at Philip Schlauch's, near the Large Lehigh and Forks of Delaware." Both these congregations were served by the REV. JOHN JUSTUS JACOB BRKENSTOCK, 1740-48; HENRY MELCHIOR MUHLENBURG and NICHOLAS KURTZ, 1749; LUDOLPH SCHRENCK, 1749-54; by occasional preachers or by Catechetes, 1755-62; REV. HANSILE, 1763-69.

"Philipsburg was an Indian village as early as 1654. The name Philipsburg is found on a map of the year 1749. A certain Martin had a ferry privilege from Tinicum Island, a mile below Easton, to Marble Mountain, a mile above Easton." [Hallesche Nachrichten, German edition, Allentown, Pa., 1886, p. 3.]

The "Old Straw" church may be called the mother of Stewartsville, Riegelsville and Grace Chapel in Philipsburg.

THE GERMAN REFORMED.

RINGOES—MT. PLEASANT—KNOWLTON—STILLWATER.

Completeness requires that we should give some account of the other German churches in this part of New Jersey. Unfortunately the early records of all these churches are lost, and we have only very incomplete information with respect to their earlier history. However, it seems most probable that the same preachers officiated in all these churches, at longer or shorter intervals between their periodic visits. The most prominent of these churches and which was one of the three that Michael Schlatter came to visit in 1747 to 1750 was the church of AMWELL.

This church was dedicated December 1st, 1749, exactly one year before the stone church at New Germantown. The following facts are compiled from a history of the United First Church of Amwell by Rev. Charles S. Converse, which was printed in 1881.

The old church stood on the north side of the graveyard and the deed to the land bears date the 21st of January, 1749. It was part of the land that belonged to Anthony Dierdorf, who had bought it from Nathan Allen. The deed was made to William Kase, Peter Hofman and William Bellowsfelt, trustees to and for the Calvinistical High Dutch congregation in the township of Amwell, and was witnessed by John Garrison, John Case, Daniel Laroe and Jacob Woolever. The congregation received help to the amount of £15, for the building of their church on May 22, 1749, from the old Dutch Church in New York. The services of dedication were conducted by Rev. George Michael Weiss, or Weitzius, and John Philip Leidich. The former was one of the first German ministers in America, having arrived in 1727; at this time he was preaching to three congregations near Philadelphia. The latter minister had been ordained in Holland and sent over the year before. He was a pastor and evangelist in Pennsylvania.

On the day after the dedication, a congregational meeting was held, and "Articles of Order and Discipline" adopted, and signed by the ministers present and twenty-three male members. No minister was to be allowed to preach in the church unless he belonged to Coetus (i. e. the Synod). No one was to be a member who was not devoted "with mouth and heart" to the doctrines of the Heidelberg Catechism. No child was to be baptised, except in cases of sickness, unless it be brought into the church, and only the parents could present it, and they only if they had been confirmed. The dead were to be buried with appropriate ceremonies. All the members were to contribute for the support of the church.

A more extended series of rules was adopted July 12, 1762, and these were again confirmed in a congregational meeting, November 16th, 1763.

Those who signed the articles in 1749 were Jacc^b Woolever, Pitter Hoffman, Wilhelm Kase, Johann Rockafellow, Pitter Young, Paul Kuhl, Adam Bollisfelt, Wilhelm Hoffman, Philip Young, Johannes Young, Wilhelm Young, Pitter Rockafellow, Jr., Wilhelm Bollisfelt, Pitter Rockafellow, Gervant [Herbart ?] Trimmer, Johann Adam Bollisfelt, Adam Dietz, Henrich Winter, Jacobus Pitter Snider, Philip Snider, Hieronymus Mingus, Pitter Woolever, Wilhelm Rockafellow. Some names are omitted because they were illegible.

The ministers who served this church were to some extent the same ones, who preached at Lebanon and German Valley. They were REV. JOHN CONRAD WIRTZ, an account of whom has already been given in this history of German Valley Reformed Church; REV. JOHANN CASPER LAPP, who preached here at least occasionally in 1755-6; REV. WILLIAM KALLS, 1757-9, who came from London in 1756, and labored in Philadelphia before coming here, and from here went to New York.

REV. JOHN GEORGE ALSENTZ is mentioned as preaching in Amwell in the summer of 1760, in connection with his church in Germantown, Penn. He came to America in 1757, and took the charge in Germantown, where he was greatly liked. He removed to Montgomery county, Penn., in 1762, and died in 1769, while still young. An English bible and German hymn book, very old, brought by him from Germany, are still preserved by the Boehm Church; also a curious clock, which plays seven tunes, likewise brought across the ocean by him. He is said to be buried in the graveyard of the Germantown Reformed Church.

The next pastor was the REV. CASPAR MICHAEL STAPEL (Stabel or Stappel), who resided here [1762-66], although he probably also preached at Rockaway and Fox Hill. He was succeeded (1763-1770) by (he REV. FREDERICK DALICKER, who served the same churches. The REV. JOHN WESLEY GILBERT NEVELLING labored here during the Revolutionary war or from 1770-1783. His history as well as that of the two previous ministers has already been given. It is very probable that the rendered at least occasional service to this church during the interval from 1783-1798. At the latter date his brother, the

became the last German pastor. He was also the first to preach in English. He preached also at Knowlton and Hardwick (Stillwater). The dates of his pastorate were, according to Mr. Converse, from 1798 to 1805 or 1809. He had studied with his brother, the Rev. Caspar Wack, at German Valley. He removed to the Mohawk country and took charge of the churches of Fort Plain and Stone Arabia. These churches, at first German Reformed, became united to the Dutch Reformed denomination. Mr. Wack acted as a chaplain to the American forces in the war of 1812-14. He lived at Stone Arabia until he died. He was a man of commanding personal appearance, rather above the ordinary stature. He was a ready and fluent speaker in German, and equally so in the English language. His force of character was shown by an incident in his experience as chaplain. The soldiers at one time refused to be brought into position for divine service. "Delegate your authority to me" he exclaimed to the baffled officer. "I am agreed," was the reply. Taking the sword from the officer's hand, the preacher harangued, in a few words, the soldiers or their dereliction of duty; gave the word of command; brought them into position and then prayed for them more fervently than ever. In 1809 this church united with the first church of Amwell and became

A PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

In April, 1810, these two churches now known as THE UNITED FIRST CHURCH OF AMWELL, called the REV. JACOB KIRKPATRICK, D. D., a licentiate of the Presbytery of New Brunswick. The field of labor of this well known divine extended from the Delaware River to Somerset county. Six Presbyterian churches are now found within the limits of his charge. Dr. Kirkpatrick was pastor of this church until his death in 1866 (May 2d). The REV. SAMUEL M. OSMUND acted as co-pastor from 1853-1857; and the REV. W. S. WRIGHT, who was called as such, in January, 1866, became the successor of Dr. Kirkpatrick a few weeks later. Mr. Wright whose wife, Mrs. Julia McNair Wright, is widely known as a gifted authoress, removed October 1st, 1867. He was succeeded by the REV. SAMUEL HARRISON, September 5th, 1868 to 1875; and he by the Rev. Charles S. Converse. The present pastor is the REV. WILLIAM P. WELLS.

THE OLD ALEXANDRIA CHURCH,

at Mt. Pleasant in Hunterdon Co., is supposed to date back to the year 1752. At any rate there was a Presbyterian congregation and a log church here at that date as they are referred to in the records of the New Brunswick Presbytery. On Oct. 11th, 1763, this church is spoken of as the "log meeting-house" congregation. This church was located in the village. It is probable that both a German Reformed and also an English Presbyterian congregation occupied the same building. In 1795 a new house was erected in the old part of the present cemetery. It was of frame and commonly known as the "New Frame Meeting-house in Alexandria." The land for the church and burying ground was purchased of Aaron Van Syckel and John Eckel, and conveyed by them to the "Trustees of the Dutch and English Presbyterian Church of Alexandria." This house was used until 1843, when the present edifice was erected. The frame of the old building was removed to Little York and re-enclosed, for use as an outstation of the congregation.

On May 18th, 1802, the German Reformed Synod at the request of the congregation, set over the said church to the care of the Presbytery of New Brunswick. The English part of the congregation were served by the following pastors: REV. THOMAS LEWIS, 1759-3, and perhaps longer; REV. JOHN HANNA, 1760-1801; REV. HOLLOWAY W. HUNT, the first, 1801-1842; REV. ROBERT W. LANDIS, 1842-4; REV. HENRY B. ELLIOT, 1844-46; REV. CORNELIUS S. CONKLING, 1846-71; REV. NATHAN S. ALLER came next. The present pastor is the REV. HORACE D. SASSAMAN.

If, as seems probable, there was service in German in the old log church, as early as there was service in English, then the pastor must have been Mr. Wirtz of I ebanon. The other German pastors, viz., Stapel and Neveling, probably preached here. The records begin in 1768 with the services of Frederick Dallicker, who is followed by Caspar Wack and his brother John Jacob Wack. The latter performed a marriage ceremony as early as 1795. Rev. Mr. Senn, who preached at Knowlton and Stillwater, 1798, no doubt also ministered here.

THE KNOWLTON CHURCH

dates back at least to the year 1766, when the records of baptism begin. The old record book is now lost, although it is said to have been in the possession of the heirs of Joseph R. Dilts in 1881. It contained a record of more than 600 baptisms, 125 of which were before the year 1776. The first building was a stone church near Delaware station along the banks of the river, and was used in common by the Germans, and the English Episcopalians and Presbyterians. In the year 1802, these three congregations built together a frame church on the site of the present one. This latter building was erected in the year 1844.

The same preachers, no doubt, labored in this field, who served the other German churches. The services in German were probably not continuous. It became when it applied to be taken under the care of the Presbytery of New Brunswick in 1775. The Presbyterian preachers were as follows: REV. FRANCIS PEPPARD, who came from New York in 1773 and labored for forty years in this section of New Jersey; REV. JOHN ROSEBOROUGH supplied this church for six Sabbaths in 1775 and eight in 1776; REV. PHILIP STOCKTON supplied this church, in connection with Oxford and Mansfield, from October 14, 1777, until October, 1780; at the latter date Presbytery released him at his request from service at Knowlton. From 1780 to 1791 various preachers rendered occasional service here. In 1805 REV. DAVID BARCLAY was installed over Lower Mount Bethel, Oxford and "Nolton." In 1815 Mr. Barclay after a four years' experience of trial for immorality was dismissed. REV. JEHIEL TALMAGE from 1817-39; REV. T. B. CONDIT, as supply, 1839-41; REV. DAVID LONGMORE from December, 1841-April 1843; REV. JOHN M. LOWRIE, 1843-45; REV. JOHN A. REILEY, 1845-54; REV. R. H. REEVES, 1854-67; REV. PETER H. BROOKS, 1868-71; REV. D. F. LOCKERBY for one year 1872; REV. DANIEL DERUELLE began his ministry in 1875. The present pastor is the REV. CHARLES E. VAN ALLEN.

THE STILLWATER CHURCH building was a union church in which the Lutherans and German Reformed both worshipped. There was probably at first a log church although we have no trace of it. At any rate a stone church was erected in the year 1769 or 1770 as we may learn from certain articles of agreement inscribed in the German language in the Reformed book. These were to bind both congregations in peace and harmony in the use of the same building.

REV. LUDWIG CHITARA began preaching at Knowlton and Hardwick about 1787, and remained four or five years. In the meantime he married a very tall woman, probably Christian Titman, the daughter of George Titman. Mr. Chitara came to this country in the year 1785, he had been an Augustinian monk, but desiring to enter the ministry of the Reformed Church, he was put under the instruction of Dr. Hendl, of Lancaster. After objecting to his ordination, the classis of Amsterdam in Holland, consented to his ordination, in a communication to this country dated April 13, 1791. His wife died, leaving him one son. About six or eight weeks after his wife's death, he also died.

The above named congregations were then served by CASPER WACK, his brother JOHN JACOB WACK, and his son GEORGE WACK, until about 1795, when the became their pastor and labored among them four or five years. Mr. Senn pursued his literary studies preparatory to the ministry, in the University of Pennsylvania. He was ordained September 23, 1795, with Thomas Pomp and George Wack, in the Indianfield Church. He was married, Sept. 19, 1798, to Elizabeth Markel. In 1800 he received and accepted a call from the Tohicken charge in Pennsylvania. He remained here until his death, January 28, 1818, at the age of forty-two years and eight months.

Articles of religious faith were signed January 10th, 1783, by the members of the Reformed congregation. Their names were: George Wintermute, Peter Dietz, Casper Shafer, John Schuester, Martin Schwartzwelder, Adam Kunkel, Philip Main, William Savercoal, John Kien, George Kien, Valentine Vogt, Jacob Dotterer, Frederick Schnauber, John Schnauber, Jacob Rist, B. Kuhn, Anthony Hafer, Adam Stoffle [Christopher], Jacob Savercoal, Henry Savercoal, John Kummel, Jr., Peter Bundel, John Savercoal, Conrad Haerr, Adam Kunkel, Jacob Kunkel, George Reihn, John Reihn, George Kunkel, John Shafer, Isaac Sinn, John Jung [Young], John Kunkel, Henry Nutten, David Hafer, Christian Muhlz, Jacob Bunkar [Snell's History of Sussex and Warren Counties, p. 386].

In the year 1816 the congregation applied to the classis of New Brunswick to be given leave to enter the Presbyterian denomination. This request was granted October 22, 1822. The church accordingly re-organized as a Presbyterian Church on the 13th of June, 1823, and elected as elders Henry B. Wintermute and Isaac Wintermute.

The pastors up to 1837 were Rev. B. I. Lowe and Rev. T. McDermott. In 1837 Rev. T. B. Condit began to preach and received a call to be the pastor two years later. The old stone church was abandoned in 1837, and in 1838 a new church was built at a cost of $2,000. The old stone building was torn down in 1847. Mr. Condit continued the pastor for fifty years. He was succeeded by the present pastor, Rev. John P. Clark.

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH

at Stillwater was eventually absorbed in the Reformed congregation. The records of their church that still exist begin with the year 1775. The last list of communing members is dated November 10, 1811. The last baptism recorded is in the year 1819. For a large part of the time they were served by the preachers of the Green-wich or "Old Straw Church" near Philipsburg.

In 1782 Rev. John Frederick Ernst, officiated at a confirmation service. The pastors of New Germantown also rendered occasional service. According to the record communion services were held only once a year from 1775 to 1811, with the exception of the years 1798 and 9, 1801, 1803-5 and 1806, when there were none. There were thirty who took communion in 1775, fifty in 1776, fifty-nine in 1779, forty-one in 1809, eleven in 1810 and fifteen in 1811.

In 1777 twenty-two were received into the church, in 1782 twenty-eight, in 1793 twenty-two, in 1805 twenty-four. In 1807 sixteen. Services were held at a later period in school houses and private dwellings by the Lutherans, but these were discontinued probably forty or fifty years ago.

SETTLERS ON THE SOCIETIES TRACT.

In the year 1735 Lewis Morris, Jr., was required to make out a list of those persons who had leased parts of the tract called the "West Jersey Society Lands," for a term of four years. This list contains the names of settlers in what is now Hunterdon county. The amount of land leased in each case ranges from 50 acres to 300. The whole tract comprised nearly all of what is Hunterdon county. Morris affirms that "there were no other families than these 98 except on the Coxe and Kirkbride tract of ten thousand acres." The whole amount leased was only 12,535 acres, but there is no doubt that large portions of the society's lands were unoccupied at that time, so that these families were nearly all the settlers in the PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

In 1763 an act was passed in the Assembly "to drain the marshes on each side of the Black River in Roxbury, Morris Co." We do not know that this act was ever carried out, but it is interesting to know that the inhabitants of old Roxbury township were of sufficient importance at that early date to secure such an unusual degree of attention.

HIGH BRIDGE BRANCH OF THE CENTRAL RAILROAD.

It has become quite common to speak of a railroad as a soulless corporation. With regard to the management of the above public institution this is manifestly not the case. As at present conducted it is entirely amenable to public opinion. In several notable cases the management has been marked by a most liberal and accommodating policy even beyond what could be legally exacted. By the high standard of character required in its numerous employees it is a positive aid to morality, especially in regard to temperance.

Of course we are speaking thus positively only with regard to that part of this extensiv corporation which comes under the writer's personal observation.

The High Bridge Branch was finished July 1, 1876, and the first train was run by Conductor Samuel A. Crook. Its income for the first month and the first year ran behind its running expenses. Afterwards it became one of the best paying branches of the Central Railroad. Latterly, however, competition in the transportation of ore has compelled a reduction in the freight charges upon that commodity, which largely diminishes the annual receipts. The road was at first built to Chester. It was afterwards extended to Kenvil and then a further extension to Dover and Rockaway was secured over leased lines.

The grade of the line from German Valley to Chester is three and a half feet in a hundred, which was at the time of its construction the steepest grade to be found anywhere in the country.

The Superintendent of the High Bridge Branch is Mr. G. L. Bryant whose responsible position should entitle him to no small share of the credit due for the excellent management which has conciliated public opinion so strongly in favor of the corporation which he serves.
